—Due to the lack of a quorum no session of the U. S. R. S. could be held at Alexandria Bay. The election of officers resulted in the choice of H. H. Elliott as first vice-president, Walter E. Goodwin, secretary, and H. S. Ackerman treasurer. An election for president and second vice-president will be held shortly.

—The boys of the Washington State Philatelic Society are doing their bit for Uncle Sam. Carl Reeves is now in training with the Engineering Corps somewhere in California. Two others have joined the Navy, and one of them, Sam Biggert, has just returned from Russia in the U. S. S. "Buffalo" with the Root Mission. Others have dug down into their jeans and invested what they have not spent for stamps for Liberty Bonds to say nothing about what we are all spending for War stamps.—C. UTERMARK.

—The importation of postage stamps cancelled or uncancelled is now prohibited. This information comes from the P. O. Department at Washington.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from E. J. Gregg.

—A card of greeting has been received from Harry E. Huber from San Juan, Porto Rico, where he is enjoying an outing.

—A. M. Dockery, Third Assistant Postmaster General, has issued a circular giving "Consolidated Instructions Applicable to Transmission of Mail to and from the U. S. Expeditionary Forces in Europe." It is rather a lengthy order and specimen copies can no doubt be secured by addressing Mr. Dockery at Washington.

—J. E. Guest advises us of the death of Ralph Spray of Mantua, Ohio, which occurred in Sydney, Australia, on August 25. Mr. Spray died suddenly from spinal meningitis and the news came through a cable from the American Consul. Mr. Spray was a member of the S. P. A. and while attending the Washington convention secured the material for his "Plate Number Check List" by which he will be best remembered in philately. Mr. Guest writes very feelingly of his intimate acquaintanceship with Mr. Spray and states that memorial services were held at the Mantua home on September 1.

THE CANADA WAR TAX STAMPS.

In our issue of August 18 was published a rather mystifying order from the office of the Postmaster General, dealing with the Canada 1c and 2c stamps surcharged "War Tax". The matter is cleared by a supplementary order from which we quote the following:

Pursuant to subsequent information received from the postal administration of Canada, the notice of this office dated the 6th instant, printed in the Daily Bulletin of the Department dated the 7th instant, is modified so as to read as follows:

The value of the two-cent Canadian postage stamps having the characters "1 T c" (one-cent tax) printed upon them is equal to the face value of said stamps plus the one-cent war tax. Consequently, articles prepaid in full by means of the above-mentioned two-cent stamps having the characters "1 T c" printed upon them should not be charged with postage due on delivery; but the values of the one-cent and two-cent Canadian postage stamps are not increased by having the words "War Tax" printed on them, and the last-named stamps are only good when used for postage, for their face value.

EDITORIAL.

Great—The Worthington auction sale in New York has been a fruitful subject for discussion and the success of the great sale argues that all is well with philately. Many conclusions may be drawn from the eventful sessions and an outstanding one is that stamps of the superior class are competed for with eagerness by buyers who are willing to pay well for establishing their preferences. It was somewhat inspiring to see how the rare pieces were sought for and how old records were smashed in the sweep of the demand of today. The financial strength of the market was proved beyond cavil. The priced catalogue of the Worthington sale is evidence of the esteem in which the better stamps of the world are held. The sale showed that the one replete with unusual lots invites the most attention; but this is a generality that long has had currency. A consideration that had its weight was the strong advertising that the Worthington collection had received while it was the property of the Cleveland philatelist who was always proud to pledge his faith in his chosen hobby. Marking the beginning of a season, the Worthington sale may be said to be a most auspicious augury of a lively trade time.

Arrangement—From Mr. Henry A. Meyer, Evansville, Indiana, we have received a word commendatory of the Reverend Meister's plan of a numerical rearrangement of the catalogue, as published in our issue of August 11th. Mr. Meyer says: "If the catalogue arrangement cannot be both logical and chronological, then let it be logical. Think what a hopeless confusion would result from a strictly chronological arrangement of the multitude of United States stamps issued since 1912, beginning in the catalogue with the Panama-Pacific issue. Worse, suppose that the various Mexican stamps from the Oaxaca set to the present time, including some eight combinations of surcharges, each on many different issues of stamps, should be strictly chronologically arranged. The cataloguers have taken a step in the right direction in arranging these logically. The reform could be extended to many countries other than British Colonies." We realize that there are different reasons to make a publisher of a standard catalogue reluctant to make a reform of the nature indicated, retroactive but it is within his province to regard seriously with an eye to adoption of the plan whose advantages in respect to the later issues are unassailable. We may add that Mr. Meyer had adopted the logical sequence in his own collection many years ago, to his utmost satisfaction.

Back—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who when he found that any person unknown to him in his city was a collector would call unannounced, stamp album under arm, with intent to trade? Is this o. f. c. discussing the division of Dakota Territory with the old-fashioned dealer who would not buy a catalogue because he knew better how to price his stamps than any other dealer, he said.

Speed—Our urbane chronicler of new issues certainly is spreading himself and is doing full justice to the wealth of material that is at his hand. In view of our somewhat belated recognition of the attractions of the war stamps, we feel that it is incumbent upon us every now and then to say a hearty good word for the novelties of the day. We assert that never before have the new issue packets enclosed so remarkable a range of stamps as at present. To obtain these fascinating stamps at first hand is a privilege that is being valued more and more. The ascendancy of the stamp as a national and economic factor is admitted by any outsider who is shown a collection of war issues.

Suggested—"Start a symposium on what stamp design made the most indelible impression on the individual," speaks up a friendly face. "The 'pelican feeding her young' found on one of the Louisiana state revenue stamps, first seen many years ago, made a profound hit with me." We may add that the bird and her fledgelings make an effective picture. Whenever we see the Liberia, 1903 registration stamps, we think of the description a writer gave of the personage depicted on the stamps. He said that the dignitary "looks like a poodle dog."

Reversed—It is not often that a new turn is given to an old stamp tradition. We have all smiled tolerantly over the man who haunted the dealers' shops with the alibi that he was not interested in collecting, himself, but that he was buying the stamps for his boy. Recently, a boy was observed buying stamps from a want-list of good proportions; and when the bill had got to a good size, the affable dealer intimated to the boy that he must have a good collection. "No," said the precocious youngster, emphatically, "it's my father's collection; he's ashamed to buy the stamps himself, I guess." The boy has now been found who buys stamps for his father.

Gay—"I think that the important looking man who comes to an auction sale to bid solely on one lot and then makes a mistake and buys the wrong lot adds to the gayety of the philatelic nation," says an observer of philatelic customs. The luckless wight could join hands with the near-sighted man who occasionally, through his handicap, hinges a stamp in his album upside down.

Ethics—A friend to the dealer happened to be in the shop when a collection was offered for sale. After conferring with the caller, the dealer handed the album to the friend standing near and asked him, out of earshot of the seller, what he would pay for the collection. After due examination of the collection the friend said: "Seventy-five dollars." "That is not enough," said the dealer. "I have offered him fifty dollars and he doesn't want to take it." Sometime later, the friend was looking in the dealer's front window at the stamp display, when the collecting chap with his album came along and casually entered into philatelic conversation. The friend recognized the collector as the one who had offered the album and thinking to do the dealer a good turn, he said that he would give forty dollars for the stamps. "I'll take it," snapped back the album owner. The friend thought that his offer would show that the dealer was magnanimous in offering fifty dollars. "How comes it that you will sell for forty when the dealer offered you fifty dollars," said the friend. "He didn't; $31 was all he'd give and I was on my way back to take him up," said the seller.

* * *

Opening—If the curtain does not ascend on the philatelic stage coincidentally with the opening of school throughout our broad land, at least the orchestra begins to play, whetting anticipation for the treat to come. Our prediction of a highly successful season is brief as we shall not have to labor to make our point that the subsequent activity of a stamp season is in direct ration to the interest shown in stamps during the summer months. In three words, stamps will hum, for many a month to come.

TAX PAIDS.

By Leslie Hart, Altoona, Pa.

I have become interested in what is to me the most interesting sideline of our U. S. stamps, namely, Tax-Paids. The odd fractional values, combined with their many varieties, never become tiresome. After one has collected a fairly representative collection of the regular varieties of Tax Paids, that is, the beer and liquor stamps, tobacco stamps, cigarettes and cigars, snuff stamps, etc., there are many by-ways into which he may wander. He may run across some wholesale liquor dealer's license cards, or an oleo license; he may find some custom house receipts or some distilled liquor case stamps; any of these will lead him into strange paths.

There are the same elements of interest as there are in other philatelic lines. The early beer stamps are circular in shape and undated. Many of the snuff stamps are impressed on tinfoil. Some of the tobacco and oleo stamps have coupons for the odd values. There are minor varieties of shades and perforations, varieties of paper, surcharges, as on the 1898, or 1914 emergency Tax Beer stamps or the 1890 tobacco stamps. Then there are odd values, such as ¾ oz., 1⅔, 3¾, 14 oz. tobacco, 2.4 gallons distilled spirits, 7 lbs. or 9 lbs. Manf. Tobacco, 13 cigars, 5, 8 or 15 cigarettes being good examples.

One of the most fascinating things about collecting these stamps is the chase after rare varieties. I searched long for a 13 cigar stamp, without avail, until one day three separate copies were offered me by different correspondents. A series that will repay a hunt is the 1914 Emergency Tax Beer Stamps, surcharged on the 1909 series. Of course, most of the Tax Paids issued before 1875 are scarce because many of them have been destroyed in the course of time. Then there are stamps of recent date, such as the smoking tobacco 1⅔, 3¾ or 10 oz. 1910, 1⅔ oz. 1902 on green paper, 100 cigarettes, 24 or 48 lbs. Manf. Tobacco and others that will take quite a search, unless one has luck in finding a correspondent with duplicates.

Tax Paid collecting is a comparatively virgin field. Check lists are scarce, and incomplete. Prices are low, and very unsettled in the different sections of the country. There is much to be learned along this line, before they can be catalogued with precision. For the collector, knowledge of the intricate revenue system of our government will be unconsciously obtained. The tax is quoted on most of the stamps. In 1898, and again in 1914, resource was had to surcharges to increase the tax rate on these stamps.

D. W. I. POSTAGE DUE STAMPS.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

(Supplementary to Chapter XVII.)

The stamps as described above are printed on a very white paper and they appear to be the only ones that have ever been minutely described in print. Mr. J. M. Bartels, who has made a close study of these stamps, so long ago as December, 1910, in the course of a short article in the Philatelic Gazette, pointed to the existence of an entirely different setting for all values. Through the courtesy of Mr. Bartels I have been able to examine his sheets and blocks and can now give a more detailed description of this little known setting.

Mr. Bartels is of the opinion that his sheets represent the first or earliest printings while the types previously described are from the latest printings issued prior to the change to bit currency. I think this is an entirely reasonable assumption as Mr. Bartels' stamps were obtained direct from St. Thomas at about the time these postage due stamps were first placed on sale. They are on paper showing a distinct yellowish tone—very different from the white paper of the other setting which was, by the way, the only one represented in the remainders sold at Copenhagen.

The types are all quite distinct, showing that entirely new transfer strips were made for the different printings. The types found in the sheets of the first printings are as follows:—

The 1 Cent.

Type I.—The second "I" of "INDIEN" is without the usual dot above it.

Type II.—There is a slight defect in the top frame line above the "S" of "DANSK", and a tiny dot is attached to the top of the small circle at the right between the two inscriptions on the circular band.

Type III.—A very tiny dot is attached to the base of the "C" of "CENT" and another is shown between the letters "TI" of "VESTINDIEN".

Type IV.—The top of the large numeral "1" at the left is quite flat instead of being pointed like the others.

Type V.—The small dot in the ornament in the upper right corner has a small white space in it.

The 4 Cents.

Type I.—A tiny dot is attached to the left foot of the final stroke of the "M" of "PORTOMAERKE".

Type II.—There is a colored dot above the "K" of "MAERKE".

Type III.—A tiny dot is attached to the left side of the second stroke of the "M" of "MAERKE" making it appear a little crooked.

Type IV.—The second "I" of "INDIEN" is without the usual dot above it.

Type V.—There is a tiny colored dot between the two circles above the space between the letters "SK" of "DANSK".

The 6 Cents.

Type I.—A tiny dot or line joins the extreme top of the ornament in the upper right corner to the adjoining frame line.

Type II.—There is a minute colored dot in the centre of the large numeral "6" at right.

Type III.—The "AN" of "DANSK" are lightly joined at foot.

Type IV.—The left serif on the foot of the "T" of "CENTS" is almost invisible.

Type V.—There is a small circle instead of a solid dot of color between the upper and lower inscriptions, at the left side.

The 10 Cents.

Type I.—A short colored line is attached to the circle below the "R" of "PORTO" and another line projects from the large "0" of "10" in the left lower corner.

Type II.—A colored line joins the tops of the letters "ST" of "VESTINDIEN".

Type III.—The lower part of the letter "P" of "PORTO" is badly misshapen.

Type IV.—There is a colored dot on the large central "R".

Type V.—There is a small circle instead of solid dot of color at the right, between the two inscriptions on the circle.

In addition to the above Mr. Bartels has shown me a strip of five types of of the 10c denomination which does not fit into either of the above described settings. It would appear, therefore, that there was a third printing of the 10c value at any rate. The paper of this strip is quite yellowish and it possibly represents the first printing for any of the values. The following distinguishing features of the five types cannot, of course, be guaranteed as strictly accurate until other strips are found for comparison and verification.

The 10 Cents.

Type I.—The inner right side of the large "0" at right is defective and the dot between the inscriptions on the same side is not solid.

Type II.—The right dot on this stamp also is not solid and the upper left corner is damaged.

Type III.—The left dot on this stamp is not solid and a line extends from it. About 1 mm. of the left frame line is missing from the top.

Type IV.—There are two small breaks or white spaces on the "M" of "PORTOMAERKE".

Type V.—The inner circle is broken below the "R" of "PORTO".

CHINESE RURAL ROUTES EXTENDING DESPITE DIFFICULTIES.

Excepting only the Maritime Customs Service, of which it is in reality an outgrowth, there is nothing in China which enjoys a record of more uniform growth and constantly increasing efficiency than the Chinese Post Office. It is a far cry from the four courier routes of 1878 to the 160,000 miles and more of postal communications at present in operation, which handle at their eight thousand offices nearly seven hundred millions of articles per year. And this progress, while steady always, is going on by leaps and bounds at the present time. In five years the number of post offices has practically doubled, which means in turn the reaching of the delivery routes ever further into the interior. How far the post is in advance of the railroads may be shown by the fact that out of the total 160,000 miles referred to above, more than 135,000 miles are courier routes. At the same time, it must not be supposed that the mail service is of a rural delivery character, interested only in the delivery of mail without particular haste or efficiency. The latest report naively laments the fact that special delivery letters are unpopular in the large ports, because "they cannot be delivered to any appreciable extent sooner than the regular mails."

The same report, however, cannot avoid letting slip a few glimpses of the true epic of the mails. Always between the lines can be read the struggle for the forwarding of the mails. "On the Altai run—on the Mongolian section no supplies whatever can be obtained for Chinese couriers and their horses, and as Mongolian horses can manage to subsist on the scanty supplies of fodder obtainable during the winter. Mongols have been employed as couriers instead of Chinese." In the province of Kansu it has been found that the rivers change their courses too frequently to permit of bridges or of wire cable suspension systems, and so "provision has been made for supplying couriers with light rafts of inflated hides," and the mails go over and on. There are tales of floods, and of private competition, but ever the post goes forward into the interior, carrying more than two articles of mail for each of China's populace.—The Americas, published by the National City Bank of New York.

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—We have an interesting letter from Mr. J. E. Ralph, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, which tells its own story. The letter is as follows:

"Your letter of the 20th instant was duly received, enclosing a block of twenty-five 2-cent stamps, which seem to have a watermark in the paper on which they are printed, but which you cannot decipher, and request me to advise you if this Bureau is again using watermarked paper for the stamps. In reply, I return the block of twenty-five 2-cent stamps and beg to state that there is some slight irregularity in the paper due to 'pick-up' of the dandy or wires of the paper machine that might be mistaken for watermarking, but it is entirely accidental. Postage stamp paper now used is not watermarked, and we will probably never again use watermarked paper for such stamps."

The stamps we submitted to Mr. Ralph show irregular thin spots in the form of thin lines, curled and twisted, throughout the paper, appearing on every stamp. It is curious, but Mr. Ralph's letter explains exactly what the lines mean, the pulp being picked up by the dandy, probably, and the dandy revolving with the small particles of pulp adhering to it impresses the paper with these small pieces of pulp, thus thinning the paper at these spots.

Mr. G. H. Grinnell shows us a double off-set of the current circular die 2-cent envelope stamp, i. e., normal impression and two additional light impressions. It is indeed a double off-setting, and was probably caused by a shifting, while the ink was still moist on the envelope, of the envelope on top of it, which transferred the impression a little lower than the original and again carried it a little higher. The stamp is die A on white entire.

Mr. C. M. Breder sends us a copy of the current 2-cent circular die newspaper wrapper albino, for which we tender our thanks.

ABYSSINIA.—Le Journal Philatelique de Berne states that a new series is in preparation for this country, and the designs will include pictures of Ethiopian fauna.

ALBANIA.—(1390)—Mr. Henry Pepper Norris advises us, and we thank him for the courtesy, that he has a set of stamps like those given under "1." in our list of Aug. 18th, except that the series consists of additional values and all are in different colors. They are all "used," cancelled in purple "Valona, Oct. 16, 1914" and some Turkish (?) characters. The values and colors are as follows: 5 para, orange; 10p green; 20p red; 1 piastre, blue and light blue; 2p purple and yellow-brown; 5p brick-red and gray; 10p brown and rose, and 25p gray and yellow, all on white paper and perforated 11½. Mr. Norris informs us that he purchased the stamps from the Economist Stamp Co. in 1915, so perhaps this firm will be kind enough to tell us what they know about the stamps.

ARGENTINE.—L'Echo de la Timbrologie receives word from one of its subscribers that a new watermark will be used for the stamps of this country, to consist of the Sun and the letters R A.

CAPE JUBY.—L'Echo de la Timbrologie quotes another contemporary for the information that a definite series is in preparation for this new Spanish Colony. In the meanwhile, stamps of Spain overprinted for Morocco are in use in Cape Juby.

We are glad to know where the Spanish Morocco stamps are used, after receiving mail from Morocco, franked with ordinary Spanish stamps.

FRENCH MOROCCO.—(1391)—We listed a new Red Cross stamp in our Chronicle of Aug. 25th. L'Echo de la Timbrologie states that the absence of the "Protectorat Francais" in the overprint, indicates that the stamp is for use in Tanger. Although the simple postage rate is 15c, the value of the stamp, 10c+5c, is the same, and our contemporary asks, therefore, how will it be used. Our contemporary also states that in the sheet of three hundred, no two of the stamps show the overprinting (surcharge) exactly alike. We can answer: they will be used for sale to collectors, and as every stamp is different, each French Colonial specialist will have to have an entire sheet of the stamps. Yo! Ho! For Charity.

GREAT BRITAIN.—(1385)—We reprint the following letter, which was addressed to the Editor of The Philatelic Magazine:

"Sir:—I have a copy of this error, which I believe is the only other copy in existence besides the one referred to in the British Philatelist. I am not in a position to confirm the particulars given by Messrs. C. Nissen and Co., Ltd., but the copy I have, Die M.2., is no doubt from the same lot. My information is that £60 worth of the halfpenny envelopes were ordered from the post office, and when delivered it was found out by the firm that the 1d Die had been used. The envelopes were returned to the post office, and were, I believe, subsequently destroyed with the exception of the two now known to exist. My copy was purchased on April 11th, 1917.

(Signed) D. A. BERRY."

The letter, of course, refers to the 1d green envelope mentioned in our Chronicle of July 14th. What a lost opportunity for the firm purchasing the £60 worth! Couldn't they have made a tidy sum by selling the errors to stamp collectors? They could.

According to Stamp Collecting, the "QNE" variety has turned up again in a new printing of the current 1d stamps. Is it from a new plate which has received a scratch in the identical position of the old, or has the old plate been brought into use again, the stamps being in the current shade of color.

This country is experiencing difficulties in regard to the inks for printing their stamps, similar to the trouble which arose in the American Bureau of Engraving & Printing some time ago. New printings of the 2sh 6d and 5sh stamps show the "pink back" variation which occurred with the United States 2c, 3c, 4c, 12c, and $1 last year. The following new shades are listed by Ewen's Weekly Stamp News:

Adhesives.
2sh 6d deep Vandyke-brown, pink back.
2sh 6d bright Vandyke-brown, pink back.
2sh 6d dull Vandyke-brown, pink back.
5sh carmine-red (aniline), deep pink back.

GREECE.—(1391)—The overprint on the War Tax stamps, which we listed on Aug. 25th, containing the letters "K.P." seems to have started something the world over, these letters proving to be rather a Chinese puzzle instead of a Greek one. A Greek correspondent writing to our Managing Editor stated that these letters stood for "Kinonikis Pronias"; Scott's Circular gives the words as "Koinonikes Pronoils," while the Madrid Filatelico says "Koinonikes Ponoils." Well, whatever it is, it means "Tax for Charity." Thus we have a tax stamp and a charity stamp all in one.

INDIA.—(Hyderabad.)—The Philatelic Journal of Great Britain has received the ½a and 1a Official stamps of Hyderabad in a new perforation, 13½ instead of 12½. Their correspondent states that other values of the Official series as well as the ordinary postage stamps exist with the new perforation, but that he has not seen them as yet.

Official Stamps.
Perforated 13½.
1a bright rose.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—Mr. M. P. Hynes submits a specimen of the 2c, Coronation type, head of King George, of such inferior printing that it appears to be surface-printed instead of line-engraved. It is either from a deteriorated plate, or produced by a new method of manufacture for these stamps, a question hard to decide until we have further information. The paper is white with a coarse weave, and the color of the stamp is lighter and brighter than the deep rich color of the original printing, while the perforation is the same.

PERU.—Scott's Circular chronicles the 1c official stamp of 1909, their No. 476, overprinted, for use as regular postage, with their type "d," shown under 1916. We believe, if the stamp was shown to us, that it would prove to be the 1c on bluish-white paper of 1914. If it is of the 1909 printing, coming along at this late date, and old stock used for overprinting, a very careful investigation should take place to prove its authenticity.

Provisional Adhesive.
1c on 1c red.

REUNION.—L'Echo de la Timbrologie states that the 4c stamp current type has been surcharged "0,01" in large type. The first printing consisted of 30,000 stamps, and the second 70,000. Inverted surcharges are known, and whether they were accidental or not, they were immediately placed in the hands of dealers and collectors.

Provisional Adhesives.

Advertising Chat

—We are gratified at the requests that are coming to us for information in connection with our advertising rates. To all prospective users of the WEEKLY we urge our three-in-one contract as the best ever. You take just what space you want and pay for what you really use.

—What are you doing to make your collection more valuable? Or are you letting the other fellow do it all? Every collector that you make adds to the great world family of philatelists and improves the value of your holdings. The least you can do is to use our little leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting" in every letter you write. It is a dignified presentation of the claims of our hobby and the price is reasonable, fifty for 25c. Write this office for a supply or at least a sample copy.

—Henry Trenka of West New York, N. J., has taken out a three-in-one contract. Mr. Trenka is an active member of the Passaic Stamp Club and comes to us well recommended.

—Another convert to the three-in-one contract is M. J. Fenster, who is doing business at 65 S. Allen St., Albany, N. Y. Mr. Fenster has used adlet space a great deal during the past year and will henceforth use displayed space.

—We want a few copies of the WEEKLY dated Feb. 7, 1914, in order to complete three files for that year. We offer some foreign exchanges for each copy mailed to Beverly, Mass., in the original folds.

—The firm of W. C. Phillips & Co., Glastonbury, Conn., has opened a store in Hartford. We have proof positive that there are many collectors in Hartford and this stroke of enterprise upon the part of the Phillips Co. should be successful. Hartford collectors will no doubt take a good deal of satisfaction in knowing that they have a stamp store in their midst.

—Have you had any trouble with John Weed, Centerville, Mich.? If so, write this office.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CALIFORNIA PENNY POST CO.—Another San Francisco local post, founded by J. P. Goodwin in 1855. The office of the Company was situated at 135 California Street, and a number of stamps and envelopes were issued. Some of these were for the payment levied for conveying letters to the Post Office, others for the conveyance of letters from the Post Office to the addressees, and others paid the charge for letters collected and delivered within the City.

CALIMNO.—One of the smaller islands in the Aegean Sea occupied by the Italians in 1913 and for which certain values of the then current stamps of Italy were overprinted "Calimno."

CALLAO.—The chief port of Peru situated seven miles southwest of the capital and having a population of about 50,000. The name of this town appears on the 5c stamps issued in April, 1871.

CALVERT, S.—An engraver and member of the firm of Calvert Bros. of Melbourne, Australia. He engraved the dies and his firm produced the 6d and 2s stamps of Victoria issued in 1854. He also engraved the "Too Late" and "Registered" stamps issued by the same Colony.

CAMB. AUST. SIGILLUM NOV.—(See Sigillum Nov. Camb. Aust.)

CAMEROONS.—A German colony in west Africa having an area of 191,074 square miles and a population of over 3,500,000. It extends some 200 miles along the Bight of Biafra, its boundaries touching the Benue, Lake Chad, and the Shari Valley. The natives are Bantus on the coast lands and Sudanese in the interior. It was made a German protectorate in 1884. Since 1901 the seat of Government has been at Buea, though the chief town is Duala. The first special stamps for use in the Cameroons were issued in 1897.

CAMEROUN.—The French rendering of Cameroons as shown upon the Gabon stamps surcharged for use in the territory under French occupation in 1915.

CAMPBELL & FERGUSSON.—A firm of printers of Melbourne, Australia, who printed some of the first 1d and 3d stamps of Victoria, produced the lithographed 2d stamp of 1854, and also engraved the die for and lithographed supplies of the 1s stamp for the same colony issued in July, 1854.

CAMPECHE.—The Spanish name for the State of Campeachey, Mexico. It has an area of 18,087 square miles and a population of about 85,000. During 1876 the local authorities issued special 5c, 25c and 50c stamps, all of which are now of considerable rarity. (See also "Admon Pral. de Correos en Campeche.")

CAMPOS, AUG. DE.—A Portuguese artist and engraver who engraved the die for the Dom Luiz stamps of Portugal, issued in 1870, and also the die for the 2 reis newspaper stamps issued in 1884.

CANADA.—The Dominion of Canada comprises the whole of British North America except Newfoundland and Labrador. The territory, nearly as large as Europe, stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific and is estimated to contain an area of 3,745,574 square miles and a population of about six millions. Canada was originally discovered by Cabot, who sighted part of the coast when he discovered Newfoundland in 1497, but its history only dates from 1534, when Jacques Cartier landed on the Gaspé coast and took possession of the country in the name of Francis I, King of France. Nothing was done in the way of permanent settlement and occupation until 1608, when Samuel de Champlain, who had visited the country in 1603 and 1604, founded the city of Quebec. Meanwhile French settlements were made in what are now known as the maritime provinces, but which were then called Acadia. As a result of these settlements an enormous tract of territory was claimed by France; but the claim was contested by Great Britain on the grounds of prior discovery. A long struggle was carried on between England and France, leading to the cession of Acadia to Britain under the Treaty of Utrecht in 1713. In 1759 the British forces, under the leadership of General Wolfe, captured Quebec, and in 1763 the whole of Canada was ceded to Britain by the terms of the Treaty of Paris. Of all its once large Canadian dependency France only retained the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, off the coast of Newfoundland. The political capital and seat of Government is at Ottawa. The first Canadian postage stamps were issued in 1851.

CANAL ZONE.—A strip of territory, ten miles wide, running across the Isthmus of Panama, which, by virtue of a treaty drawn up between the governments of the United States and Panama, in December, 1903, is granted to the United States in perpetuity for the construction, maintenance, operation, sanitation and direction of the Panama Canal, which will enormously shorten the sea voyage between the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans. For this concession the United States agreed to pay to the republic of Panama the sum of $10,000,000 in gold and an annual payment of $250,000 during the life of the convention beginning in 1912. This strip of territory is thus virtually a colony of the United States, and as such its postal system is separate from that of Panama. Since June 24th, 1904, all the stamps used here have been overprinted with the word "Canal Zone."

CANARIAS.—The Spanish name for the Canary Islands—a volcanic group in the Atlantic Ocean, off the northwest coast of Africa, which form a province of Spain. The group has a total area of 2,808 square miles and a population (mostly Spanish) of nearly 400,000. The islands were discovered in 1334 by a Frenchman, and in 1402 they were taken possession of by Jean de Bethercourt, a Norman, who afterwards surrendered his right to the King of Spain. After a struggle which extended over the greater part of the 15th Century, the Spaniards made themselves masters of the whole of the archipelago (1495). In 1868, after the revolution in Madrid and the proclamation of a Provisional Government, all the 50 mils. stamps used in the Canaries were overprinted "HPN" (Habilitado por la Nacion) by order of the local junta or revolutionary council.

CANCELLATION.—A mark applied to a stamp that has performed its duty, either postally or fiscally, to prevent its re-use. Postal cancellations are marks applied—usually by means of metal stamps—to stamps that have franked postal packages, while fiscal cancellations are marks applied to stamps used on documents of any sort. The latter are frequently cancelled by pen and ink. All pen-cancelled stamps are, however, not of necessity fiscally used specimens, for in many countries, when stamps were first introduced, proper provision was not made for obliterators, so the postal employees cancelled the stamps with pen and ink.

CANCELLED-TO-ORDER. — A term applied to stamps which are sold in a cancelled condition, and which have never performed any postal duty. Whole sheets of stamps, usually with the original gum still adhering, are cancelled thus, either "by favor", for the benefit of collectors who insist on having used stamps, or so that the labels can be sold below face value. The issues of the British North Borneo Company from 1887 are notorious examples of the latter class of cancelled-to-order stamps. Sometimes, too, remainders have been cancelled so that they could be sold for a mere fraction of their original facial value, as in the case of the remainders of the St. Helena stamps. Fortunately, in the majority of cases, the marks employed for obliterating stamps of this kind differ materially from the cancellations applied to stamps which have been legitimately used for postal purposes.

CANCELLED-V R I.—An overprint found upon certain Transvaal stamps which were issued in the small township of Wolmaranstad, Transvaal, on its occupation by British troops in June, 1900.

CANDAREEN.—The value denoted upon most of the early stamps of Shanghai. It is a local spelling for "Candarin" and has the same monetary value.

CANDARIN.—The value in which all the stamps of China issued prior to 1897 were expressed. A candarin was the hundredth part of a tael and had a value equal to about ½c in U. S. currency.

CANEA.—(See La Canea.)

CANTON.—The capital of the province of Kwang-tung, in the southeastern portion of China. It is known to the Chinese as Kwang-chan-fu or Shengcheng. It was the first Chinese port to be opened to European trade, and is now a flourishing town with nearly two million inhabitants. The town is of great antiquity, for it dates back to the 8th Century B. C., when it was known as Yang-cheng (city of rams). The East India Company, following in the wake of Portuguese, Spanish and Dutch traders, visited it in 1684 and soon afterwards established a "factory" there which lasted until 1804. In 1842, by the Treaty of Nanking, Canton was formally declared one of the five ports open to foreign trade. Canton was attacked by the British in 1841 and 1856. On the first occasion it was ransomed, and on the second the forts were taken and the walls breached. In consequence of non-compliance with the terms of a treaty, the city was attacked by Franco-British forces in 1857 and occupied until 1861. Several of the Powers maintain Consular offices at this port, at which postal business is transacted. Since 1901 the Office maintained by the French Government has been supplied with special stamps formed by overprinting the current stamps of Indo-China with "CANTON" and Chinese characters.

CANTONAL STAMPS.—Prior to the introduction of postage stamps for general use throughout Switzerland, the cantons of Zurich and Geneva and the town of Bâle (Basle) issued stamps for local, or cantonal, purposes under the authority of their respective Councils. These are usually known as "cantonal stamps," to distinguish them from the Federal issues which appeared in 1850.

CANTONAL TAXE.—An inscription appearing upon the 6 rappen stamp of Zurich, Switzerland, issued under the authority of the cantonal government. The word "taxe" (tax) is in this connection intended to infer the "postage to be paid."

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—An extensive British colony comprising the southern portion of the continent of Africa. It has an area of 276,995 square miles and a total population of about 2,500,000, of whom only 600,000 are whites. The native population may be divided into Bushmen (the earliest aboriginal race, now nearly extinct); the Hottentots, which inhabit the western provinces; and the great Bantu race, usually known as Kaffirs. The colony was first discovered in 1486 by Bartholomew Diaz, the commander of one of the many expeditions sent out by successive kings of Portugal to discover an ocean route to India. Diaz doubled the Cape and returned home. In 1497, another navigator, the famous Vasca da Gama, not only doubled the Cape, but landed in what is now known as Natal and successfully accomplished the journey to India. The Portuguese, however, did not make any attempt to form a permanent settlement at the Cape, although it was used by their vessels and subsequently by those of England and Holland as a place of call on the voyage to and from the East Indies. In 1652 the Dutch East India Company took possession of the shores of Table Bay and the adjacent territory in order to be always ready with supplies for their passing vessels. Until 1796 the Dutch were predominant, but in that year the Cape was captured by a British force. In 1803 it was restored to the Batavian government, only to be again occupied by a British force three years later. Finally, at the general peace of 1814, it was ceded in perpetuity to the British Crown, as an equivalent for the £6,000,000 advanced by the British government for the defense of the Low Countries in the Napoleonic wars. The Cape of Good Hope is now one of the States constituting the Union of South Africa. It issued its first postage stamps on September 1st, 1853.

CAPE VERDE ISLANDS.—A group of small islands belonging to Portugal, lying about 320 miles west of Cape Verde on the west coast of Africa. The group consists of St. Antonio, St. Nicolas, Fogo, Santiago, Boavista, Sal and several small islands, having a total area of 1,490 square miles and a population of about 150,000. The islands are of volcanic formation and are separated from one another by deep sea passages. They were discovered by Cadamosto in 1456 and colonised by Prince Ferdinand, to whom they were granted in 1562. The capital is named St. Vincent. The first postage stamps for the Cape Verde Islands were issued in 1877.

CAP OF LIBERTY.—A well-known republican symbol forming part of the design of numerous postage stamps of such countries as Hayti, Liberia, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Salvador, etc. It also forms the watermark in some of the "Seebeck" issues of Ecuador, Nicaragua and Salvador.

CARDBOARD.—A material (the ordinary Bristol board of commerce) on which proof impressions of stamps are frequently printed. Most of the plate proofs of United States stamps exist upon cardboard.

CARDIFF PENNY. — The name by which imperforate copies of the 1d red British stamps of the series of 1858-79, printed from Plate 116, are generally known. A sheet of these stamps was inadvertently issued without perforations at Cardiff on January 22nd, 1870, hence the name. The fact that this is the only one of the 1d plate numbers catalogued in an imperforate condition gives this particular stamp a standing out of all proportion to its value, for undoubtedly imperforate copies of other plate numbers are known which, though not catalogued, are of at least equal interest and rarity.

CARLIST STAMPS.—Stamps issued in Spain in 1873-4 by the orders of the leaders of the Carlist Insurrection. In 1872 Don Carlos caused himself to be proclaimed King of Spain in the northern provinces of the kingdom, and he assumed the title of Carlos VII. In 1873 active preparations to capture the whole of the country were commenced. From a circular dated December 15th, 1873, which was issued by the Royal Council of Regency of the Government of Navarre, it appears that a postal service was established for the conveyance of letters to Bayonne by certain lines through the Biscayan-Navarre country. However, it has been authoritatively proved that Carlist stamps had made their appearance some time before any definitely organised post was formed. The stamps were first issued on July 1st, 1873, and they were suppressed in 1876, when the Carlists were finally routed.

CARMICHAEL, JOHN.—An engraver of Sydney, New South Wales, who engraved the original plate for the 2d "Sydney View" stamps, the plates for the 1d and 2d values of the "laureated" type, and the special "Registered" stamps. Carmichael was a deaf mute, and was described by the Postmaster-General of the period as "the most competent engraver in Sydney."

CARNES' CITY LETTER EXPRESS. — A local post of San Francisco established in 1854 by George A. Carnes. Two stamps were issued in connection with this post.

CARITAS.—The inscription shown on the Charity stamps issued in connection with the Brussels Exhibition of 1910.

CAROLINE ISLANDS. — An archipelago of 680 islands and islets in the Pacific Ocean between 1° and 10° north latitude and 131° and 163° east longitude. It is divided into two groups, the Eastern and the Western, and the total area is 500 square miles. Most of the islands are only small atolls, but there are about fifty of other formation and size which are inhabited. The chief of these are Bablethonap, Ponape, Yap, Ruk and Kusaie. The total population of the group is about 50,000. The islands were discovered by the Portuguese navigator, Diego da Rocha, in 1527, and they were given their present name in 1688 in honor of Charles II of Spain. In 1710 and 1713 the Jesuits from Manila made unsuccessful attempts to Christianise the inhabitants. In 1899, by an agreement with Spain, the Caroline Islands became a German possession, and they are known to our Teutonic friends as Karolinen. The first stamps for use in this Colony were issued in 1899.

CAROL I, REGE AL ROMANIEI.—An inscription shown on the 1903 stamps of Roumania in the small medallion containing the King's portrait. It means "Charles I, King of Roumania."

CARRIERS' STAMPS. — The name given to certain United States stamps which, during a period extending from 1842 to about 1861, were used to defray the postage from a post office to the addressee residing in the district served by that post office. At this period the ordinary postage only defrayed the carriage of mail matter from post office to post office. In many of the larger towns private posts of a semi-official character undertook to deliver letters from the post offices to addressees for a fee of 1c or 2c, and most of these posts issued stamps for the collection of these fees. In 1851 the Government itself undertook to deliver letters and issued special 1c stamps for the collection of the extra charge for this service. The use of these was discontinued about 1850, when it was probably considered that the ordinary 1c stamp might very well be used for this purpose.

CARTAGENA. — The chief town in the state of Antlantico (part of the Department of Bolivar), Colombia, which has a population of over 20,000. During the civil war of 1899-1900 a large number of provisional stamps were issued in this town.

CARTER, LADY.—The wife of the Governor of Barbados, who designed the "Olive Blossom" stamps issued in that colony in 1906.

A. P. S. PRESIDENTIAL REPORT.

By C. A. HOWES, Retiring President.

For the thirty-second time since the foundation of our Society we are gathered in annual convention. Twice before have we met in this vicinity, at Clayton, N. Y., in 1895, and again in 1903, while this time we shift ten miles toward the rising sun to Alexandria Bay. As we are almost on the border line between the United States and Canada, it is to be hoped that our Canadian members will embrace the opportunity to join with us in greater numbers than usual.

The past year in the affairs of the Society has been without unusual incident. The various departments have been conducted smoothly and efficiently by the officers in charge of them and you will listen to the reports of their stewardship in due course. Our membership has grown, but not in the proportion that we would like to see it. In addressing you last year I spoke of the remarkable effort made in 1907-8, when about 400 members were added to the roll in a successful effort to bring the membership up to 1500. Then I added, "Can I not set a goal of at least 2000 for our next objective?" Our new Secretary took this up with characteristic vigor but misinterpreted the remark—but as the misinterpretation was in the right direction and he has put his best effort into it we are glad he did it! He put forth the slogan "2000 in 1917" and has worked hard to accomplish this result in the short space of one year. As a matter of fact we have now reached a membership of approximately 1600 and it is not at all Dr. Davis' fault that it is not a full 2000! I still present the same remark to this Convention—"Can we not set a goal of 2000 at least for our next objective?"—but as before I am putting no time limit on it, though I am as anxious as any one to see our rolls rise to this amount.

In this Convention the question of the status of our foreign membership comes to mind and our International Secretary has written me on the subject, suggesting that our foreign members be carried on our rolls without payment of dues until the end of the present war, which has upset everything so in this world of ours. Mr. Kjellstedt further suggests that the file of the "American Philatelist" due such members be set aside for them and delivered to them after the close of the conflict, upon payment of such dues as they are then in arrears. The suggestions seem wholly proper and are presented for your consideration with the reservation that a special case may be thought necessary for those members who belong in enemy countries. Would it not be a good idea to adopt the same plan in regard to our members who are in our own military or naval service, or that of our Allies? A man in the trenches can be excused, I think, for forgetting to pay his dues and yet he might not like to be dropped like a "slacker" while fighting for his country.

The President has received a number of letters in criticism of the working of the Sales Dept. not personal in regard to the Supt., but asking for an accounting of sales oftener than is done under the present system, and comparing us unfavorably with other societies in this respect. If such change in the bookkeeping methods of the Dept. can readily be made it would apparently be a popular move and would undoubtedly increase the appreciation of this Dept., which should be one of the mainstays of a stamp club.

The Editor of the American Philatelist now divorced from his former Secretarial duties, has put fruitful effort into our official journal the past year, and I am sure that the results have been highly appreciated by the membership. Some excellent original articles have appeared and more are to follow. A year's file of the magazine now makes a most respectable, volume in size and a valuable one for reference. There is no reason why both size and value cannot be increased particularly if the membership will take more interest in contributing their "bits" toward this end. Mr. Ault, capable editor though he is, cannot be expected to do it all.

I present a letter attached to this report, submitted by our Asst. Librarian concerning an offer of our fellow member, Rev. L. G. Dorpat, in connection with the disposal of his philatelic library. This may be to our advantage, and I suggest that it be acted upon.

The mammoth Philatelic Index has grown apace and has been carried pretty

H. F. COLMAN. SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

FORMATION OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA, 1ST JULY, 1867.

STATESMEN WHO INAUGURATED THE UNION OF THE BRITISH PROVINCES IN NORTH AMERICA.

well through the C's to date. Would it not be well to increase the amount published each month, considering the length of time it will probably take to complete it?

The Handbook Com., under Mr. Lindquist, has arranged a most excellent scheme for producing really valuable results in this line, and it is to be hoped that it can be fully carried out as outlined in their report.

Attention has been called to the slowness with which nominations for the annual ballot are made, which has resulted at times in awkward situations in regard to the withdrawal of names or the proper insertion of late nominations. It is suggested that the Secretary, by formal printed notice to the various Branch Societies from which the nominations usually come, call attention to this fact early in each calendar year so that the proper "slate" can be made up in due season for publication in the American Philatelist.

Philatelic matters during the year have not been lively. The output of "War Stamps" and "Red Cross" stamps still continues but other new stamps are relatively few. Three cent letter postage and more revenue stamps are impending in our own country as a result of our entrance into the war. Following the example of the Société Française de Timbrologie, the Springfield (Mass.) Branch has proposed that the A. P. S. likewise issue a Red Cross label, and thus "do its bit" in the humanitarian way. The proposition was submitted to the Directors who endorsed it unanimously. More details will doubtless be presented to the Convention by the Committee appointed to carry out the project, and it is hoped that the Convention will also record its approval.

In turning over my office to that Dean of American Philatelists and Dealers, John Walter Scott, who thus receives a fitting tribute from the Society for a half century's labors in behalf of philately, I wish to express the appreciation I have felt for the honor conferred upon me during the past two years in serving as your President, and to thank most heartily all those of the "Official Family" who have helped to make the affairs of the Society run smoothly during this time.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Charles E. Jenney, Colfax, Cal., would like to hear from any of our readers who have had trouble with letters mailed to the Trappist, Ky., post office.

—H. E. Harris of Baltimore, Md., reports that the Gray Stamp Co., Portsmouth, N. H., sent John Obert stamps in February last and since then no response of any kind can be secured. Interested parties will write Mr. Harris, 3838 Reisterstown Rd., Baltimore.

—Our office at Portland was favored last week with a call from W. F. Fratcher of Detroit. Mr. Fratcher had been on a trip through to Halifax and was returning home. Our readers will no doubt hear from Mr. Fratcher in the near future.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Mark L. Friedeberg and Jas. D. Havens.

—Dick Green of Salt Lake City, Utah, has entered the U. S. Marine Corps and his address is Co. E, Sec. 4, Marine Barracks, Mare Island, Vallejo, Cal.

—In connection with our recent article on mounting original covers we quote from a letter from H. H. Reeves:—"I take the ordinary ring binder but instead of using paper clips cut off the ends of the enclosed blank leaves so that the ends with the holes are about an inch wide. I then fasten each cover to a stub with four hinges, two near the holes on the front side and reinforced on the back with two more in the same position. Covers are placed with ends against the stubs and the advantage is that it allows more covers to the binder and the stubs can be used for data."

—John Ross Frampton would like to see in the WEEKLY a good article dealing with the double transfers that have appeared on all U. S. stamps, including not only postage but parcel post, official, dues, etc. Who of our readers is able to meet the need?

CHAPTER XXIX.

Roulettes, Issues 1875-83.

The 2c Documentary stamp and all the general proprietary stamps engraved by the National Bank Note Co., are found on watermarked paper, both perforated and rouletted, and a few of the private die proprietaries are also found rouletted on watermarked paper. With one exception—the G. G. Green medicine stamp—all the rouletted private die stamps are match stamps of the ordinary size, and all of these were stamps used in large quantities perforated. The roulettes are too scarce for a large quantity to have been issued and if the rouletting had extended over any considerable period of time it is quite obvious that many more of the private die stamps would have been rouletted. Therefore it is deduced that the rouletting was done all at one time and only during a quite limited period.

Referring to the match stamps which exist rouletted, we find the Alligator stamp was first issued in January, 1880, and the E. K. Smith stamp was last issued January 24, 1881, so it is apparent the rouletting was done sometime between these two dates, which is the period covered by the later printings of the American Co, and the earlier printings by the Bureau. It is certainly unlikely the Bank Note Co. would have any reason to change from perforating to rouletting, but at that time the Bureau was printing large quantities of tax paid stamps and delivering them rouletted and may have found it necessary or convenient to roulette some of the documentary and proprietary stamps for a short time rather than to perforate them.

The only rouletted stamps with imprints that have come to the writer's attention had the National imprint crossed out in the usual Bureau style, and this is considered to be satisfactory proof the roulettes were all made by the Bureau and were among the first of the Bureau printings. This being correct, the rouletted stamps must have been printed after October 16, 1880, and probably before February, 1881. Evidently the color of the 6c Proprietary was changed from blue to violet during this period, since both colors are found rouletted.

Genuine roulettes are so much scarcer than the perforated stamps that the inducement to fake them is strong, and copies "unofficially rouletted" are far from rare. The jack-knife roulettes, so called because they are often made with a pocket knife, are the commonest. The true roulettes gauge about 6, and as the gauge of the perforated stamps is always 12 it is a very simple matter to take a perforated stamp, cut off every other point between the perforations, and obtain a fake which gauges very close to the genuine. Most of these fakes are too crudely made to stand careful examination or comparison with genuine copies. They usually leave the stamp too small, and any roulette with smaller margins around the stamp design than perforated copies have is open to suspicion.

Theoretically the roulettes should measure as much from top to bottom and from side to side, exclusive of points, as the same stamps perforated measure including the points of the perforations. Size, however, is not an absolute certain test of genuineness. Probably the rouletting machines were not adjusted carefully enough at first for copies with the rouletting incorrectly spaced are found now and then. The writer has noted a rouletted 2c Liberty head spaced correctly from top to bottom but fully 2 mm. too wide, and another spaced correctly from side to side but 2 mm. too high. Of even greater interest is a pair of the 6c Proprietary with horizontal rouletting spaced correctly, but with the vertical rouletting so spaced that one stamp is 22 mm. wide and the other is 25 mm. wide!

On the perforated stamps the spacing between the rows of perforations is often very irregular, and occasionally a copy is both long enough and wide enough so a faked roulette with sufficient margins could be made from it, but usually the extra wide copies are not long enough and the extra long copies are not wide enough to permit this being done. Genuine copies of the 2c documentary and the 1c and 2c proprietary seldom measure less than 20½ x 25 mm., and the 3c, 4c, 5c and 6c proprietary usually measure at least 22 x 29 mm.

CHAPTER XXX.

Shades, Issues of 1875-83.

It is quite likely the many pronounced shades in this series represent the different printings but at the present time it does not seem possible to tell which is which of the perforated stamps on watermarked paper in more than a few instances. There are five sets; two printed by the National Bank Note Co., one by the American Bank Note Co., and two by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing. Each set includes the 2c Liberty Head Documentary, the 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c and 6c Proprietary, and possibly the 5c Proprietary. They appeared in the following order:—

(1)—Issued October-November, 1875, on silk paper, perforated. National print.

(2)—Issued January, 1878, on watermarked paper, perforated. National print.

(3)—Issued February, 1879, on watermarked paper, perforated. American print.

(4)—Issued October, 1880, on watermarked paper, rouletted. Bureau print.

(5)—Issued between October and December, 1880, on watermarked paper, perforated. Bureau print.

The dates given are the earliest on which any of the stamps of any of the sets could have been issued. As the stamps of the first set are all on silk paper and those of the fourth set are all rouletted they can readily be identified, but the second, third and fifth sets are all on watermarked paper and perforated and the shade is the only means of identification available, except on copies bearing imprints. Probably stamps on watermarked paper in the same shades as the same denominations on silk paper are National prints belonging to the second set, and those in the same shades as the same denominations rouletted are Bureau prints belonging to the fifth set. It may be possible to identify stamps of the third set by their gum when they have gum.

The 4c red brown is catalogued rouletted but is not so listed in the Boston Book and the present writer has not seen a satisfactory copy. Students of these stamps are inclined to believe the red 4c stamps were all printed by the Bureau. The 6c on silk paper is violet blue and this tint also comes watermarked. The so-called violet 6c, which is a reddish violet or purple, is a distinct color and was probably issued only by the Bureau. Presumably the 6c blue rouletted was the first 6c printed by the Bureau. It is darker in shade than the National print. Neither the so-called blue nor the violet stamps should be confused with the scarcest tint of all the perforated 6c, which is a bright bluish violet, suggesting ultramarine, neither so red as the purple stamps nor so blue as the violet blue 6c. It has not been seen rouletted and if cancellations found on it are correctly dated it was printed by the American Bank Note Co.

Of the 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c and 6c proprietary the quantities printed by the Bureau were 33% to 46% of the total numbers issued according to the Boston Book.

EDITORIAL.

Off—We were pleasantly surprised to receive recently a copy of "The Stamp", which has an illuminated cover showing a mail bag chockful of letters and incidentally, the globe. The label on the bag, "U. S. Mail," completed the clever conception and whetted our anticipations of the treat to be found within the covers. We thought that some brave soul had embarked on the troubled sea of philatelic journalism without preliminary announcement of sailing. Alas, for the vanity of human wishes. The inwards were not even a skeleton of philately as "The Stamp" is merely a house organ of a printing concern that for all we know, thinks that philately is a fungoid growth. We imagine that we hear a chorus of sepulchral groans from the graves of the proud army of "The Stamps" that have gone before upon learning of the desecration of a name dedicated heretofore only to philately. Let us pray for an injunction.

Idea—Here is a suggestion that business enterprise may use as the basis of a plan or two worth putting in operation. Frame a neat sheet of foreign stamps of twenty-five varieties, each one labeled with the name of country and date of issue. Offer the frames, "Stamps of Foreign Countries," to alert shopmen for window display. By the selection of stamps of striking appearance, the frame makes a decided impression. If the right sort of merchants are approached, a sale will be effected here and there. If only a small profit is made, you will have the additional compensation of knowing that you are doing philately a good turn. Inasmuch as stamp collecting is now being made the subject of so much publicity in the newspapers, it is well to help on the campaign by personal service whenever an opportunity offers. The beginning of the season is the most opportune time for effort to be put forth.

Stalled—Here is a bit of scrambled information that we cull from a clipping touching upon philately that was published in a big newspaper. The following reference to the operation of the approval system is a bit involved to say the least but then, the writer rushed right in on his subject and caught it unawares: "Stamp collectors find themselves frequently the victims of misplaced confidence. There is a system of sending out sheets containing a large number of stamps with their prices on approval. The collector is supposed to select the ones he wants and return the others to the sender together with the money for the ones selected. But sometimes persons send their $5 bills to collectors as an evidence of good faith, get the sheet of stamps on approval and keep the whole thing." There is more in this strain but we forbear to repeat it; and our idea in quoting the fragment that we have is to inquire if any dealer has a good story to tell how he was hoodwinked by an applicant for approval selections who had put up a cash deposit.

Landed—A daily paper gives about 150 words to the experience of a New York letter-carrier who was drafted and claimed exemption which was denied him. He appealed from the decision but before judgment was rendered he changed his mind and went out with the first contingent of New York's new national army at Camp Upton, Long Island. There he was refused admittance; and then came the finale: "The camp officers discovered Reichsbach knew all about mail and postmarks and stamps and everything like that. So he is going to stay right there, red tape or no red tape." This is as it should be; a letter-carrier is the chap to know about stamps and things but his knowledge is superficial compared to that of the philatelist. Indeed, in the finesse of the postal service, the average philatelist is far and away above the unimaginative paid postman. With the benefit of practical training he would make the ideal postal manager.

Dull—Sometimes, we marvel at the dense ignorance of the post office clerk, here and there, about the stamps with which he comes into contact every day. He is on an uncharted sea when any phase out of the ordinary is brought to notice. Perforation sizes are a terra incognita to him and he blinks unresponsively when any stamps of other than the current issue are under consideration. Any unusual postal phase puzzles him mightily and he would be a babe in comparison with a collector in deciding upon the finer points of postal procedure. These remarks clear the way for our suggestion that every post office clerk should be conversant with the stamp issues of his country that are valid for postage today and examinations under civil service should include queries under this head.

Gone—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who wrote "rare", "very rare" and "extremely rare" in the blank spaces of certain missing stamps in his album? Is this o. f. c. discussing the first performance of "Pinafore" in the U. S. with the old-fashioned dealer who called the country, "Cashimere"?

Medal—Writes a man: "My idea of a real heroine is a wife who is the stamp collector in a household where she pursues the pursuit solitarily, notwithstanding the jibes of her husband and his male companions."

Story—We notice the following bit of sentiment in Arthur Train's story which was begun recently in the Saturday Evening Post and is called, "The World and Thomas Kelly." The father of a brand new son is ruminating: "He dusted the marbles off on his trousers' leg and placed them carefully in his righthand pocket. 'They'll do for a starter,' he thought. Even then his vision flew to rocking horses, tin soldiers, stamp books, hoops, bicycles—all the things that he had never had himself." We are pleased to find that the stamp collection is considered to be among the standard attractions for the young people by the experienced writers of the day.

Back—"I should like to see the man who says that 'they never come back'," said the dealer, as a gray-haired man said that he used to buy stamps from him in 1879, the year that as a boy the customer discarded his first collection, to resume it thirty-eight years afterwards.

NOT UNITED STATES BUT RUSSIA.

A News Gleaning published last week was unintentionally disconcerting. The importation of postage stamps cancelled or uncancelled is now prohibited from Russia, but unfortunately the name of the country was omitted from the item. We now rectify the mistake.

POSTMARKING.

Office of First Asst. P. M. Gen.,
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31, 1917.

The Department receives many complaints concerning illegible postmarks, and in a recent report attention was directed to the fact that special care should be exercised in the postmarking of special-delivery mail for the reason that the postmark is usually placed upon the special delivery stamp and is not legible unless very carefully made and with a sufficient amount of ink.

Postmasters are hereby instructed to issue specific instructions in regard to postmarking all classes of mail.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CARTER'S PAID DESPATCH.—A local post of New York established in 1859 and in connection with which two stamps were issued, neither of which bore any indication of the fee charged for the delivery of letters.

CARTILLA POSTAL DE ESPANA.—The inscription appearing upon a private postage stamp issued in Spain in 1870 for the special use of Senor Diego Castell for franking a work entitled 'Cartilla postal de Espana"—literally "Postal primer for Spain." This was a small pamphlet of eighteen pages, containing instructions for addressing letters in the manner desired by the post office, and it was considered so useful that, in 1868, it was sent to 25,000 primary schools in Spain. In consideration of its general utility, its author was given the privilege of sending it free by post for a period of six months from January 1st to June 30th, 1870; Senor Castell prepared a special stamp, inscribed as stated with the name of the pamphlet, which franked all the copies of the work posted within the prescribed period.

CARTRIDGE PAPER.—Although this name was originally intended to designate the special paper used in making cartridges, it is nowadays used to describe a variety of drawing papers—generally those with a rough surface and of some degree of stoutness. Some of the lithographed 1d stamps issued in Trinidad in 1853 were printed on bluish cartridge paper.

CARUPANO.—The chief commercial district in the eastern portion of Venezuela, between the Araya and Paria peninsulas. It has a population of over 12,000 and during the revolution of 1902 it issued a number of provisional stamps, all being set up from ordinary printers' type.

CASH.—The value in which many of the stamps of Shanghai were expressed. Sixteen cash were equal to a candarin, which, as stated previously, was only worth about ½c in United States currency.

CASHMERE.—(See Kashmir.)

CASO.—One of the smaller islands in the Aegean Sea which was occupied by the Italians in 1913 and for which certain of the then current stamps of Italy were overprinted "Caso".

CASSE, E.—A French artist who designed the first stamps of Tunis.

CASTELL, SENOR DIEGO.—A Spanish author who wrote a pamphlet which was considered of such general utility that he was accorded the privilege of sending it free by post for a period of six months in 1870. He designed a special stamp for the purpose of franking his pamphlet during this period. (See also "Cartilla postal de Espana.")

CASTAIGN, VICTOR.—The Belgian Controller of Posts at Meshed, Persia, who designed a series of stamps which were used in that town in March and April, 1902. His initials, "V. C.," are shown in the center of the stamps.

CATALONIA.—An old principality and province in the extreme northeast of Spain. The district has, since 1833, consisted of the provinces of Gerona, Barcelona, Levida and Tarragona.—the capital, Barcelona, being the second town in Spain. The total area of the district is 12,483 square miles, and it has a population of about two millions. Catalonia was the Hispania Tarraconensis of the Roman conquerors. In the fifth century it was overrun by the Goths and Alani, and in the eighth century it was under Musselman rule. In 1137 it was joined to Araga, and in 1479 the two were united to Castile. The Catalans, however, did not readily submit to their loss of independence, and they repeatedly revolted. After its conquest by Philip V in 1874 Catalonia lost its separate Constitution. The Catalan dialect, more akin to the Provencal of France than the Castilian of Spain, is still spoken and written. During the Carlist insurrection of 1873-6 the Catalans threw in their lot with Don Carlos, and with the advance of his troops into this territory a special stamp was issued (April 15th, 1874) by the orders of the Commissary-General.

CATALUNA.—The Spanish form of "Catalonia" as shown upon the special Carlist stamps referred to in the preceding paragraph.

CATALDI, PABLO.—The designer of the famous "ship" stamps of Buenos Aires, which first appeared in April, 1858.

CATALOGUE.—To philatelists a catalogue is a volume in which all or any portion of the world's postage stamps are listed, properly classified, priced and (as a rule) illustrated.

CATHARINE WHEEL.—An overprint found upon many of the stamps of Salvador issued in 1899 and 1900. The object of the overprint is stated to have been "to distinguish the stamps actually used from the unissued remainders in the hands of the contractors."

CAUCA.—A Department of Colombia having an area of 257,460 square miles and a population of about 700,000. Provisional stamps were issued here in 1879-83 and again in 1903.

CAVALLA.—A seaport in Turkey-in-Europe on the Aegean Sea, more correctly known as Kavala. It has a population of more than 17,000 and is famous as having been the birthplace of Mehemet Ali. For many years the French have maintained a Consular office at this port, at which postal business is transacted. In 1893 the contemporary stamps of France were overprinted "Cavalle" for use in this office and since 1902 it has been supplied with stamps from the key plates of the "Blanc", "Mouchon", and "Olivier Merson" types.

CAVALLE.—The French version of Cavalla as shown upon all the stamps issued for use at that Consular office.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—A group of three small islands (Grand Cayman, Little Cayman and Cayman Brac) in the Caribbean Sea under the government of Jamaica, from which they are about 200 miles distant. They have a total area of 225 square miles and a population of about 6,000. The islands were discovered by Columbus in 1494 and named "Las Tortugas" by him on account of the numbers of turtles found there. Turtle fishing is still the staple industry of the islanders. Prior to 1900 this small group managed without its own postage stamps, but in that year special ½d and 1d values were issued, and these were followed by a more extensive set in the year 1901.

C. CH.—An overprint found upon certain French stamps of the "Commerce" type which were used in Cochin, China, in 1886.

C. D.—An overprint found on various South Australian stamps used during the period 1868-74 upon the official correspondence of the "Convict Department." They were superseded in 1874 by the general official series with "O S" overprint.

C. BEN. B.—A control overprint found upon the 1899-1901 stamps of Ecuador used in the province of Guayas in 1902. In July of that year a fire destroyed the greater part of the town of Guayaquil, and a large quantity of stamps in the Government stores were burnt or stolen. As the authorities were uncertain as to what had become of them, instructions were given to the governors of the various provinces to mark their stocks in hand with some distinctive device or other and to refuse to recognise unsurcharged stamps as valid for postage. A handstamp showing the letters "C. Ben. B" (an abbreviated form of his signature, "Carlos Benjamin Rosales") was the device chosen for use by the governor of the province of Guayas.

C. E. F.—I. An overprint meaning "China Expeditionary Force" shown upon many of the stamps of India in use since 1900. These stamps were originally issued for the use of the British forces employed in China in 1900 during the Boxer troubles. Some of the post offices then established are still in operation at a few Chinese towns and the use of the overprinted stamps has therefore continued to the present day.

II. An overprint meaning "Cameroons Expeditionary Force" which was appled to the German Colonial stamps by the British force occupying this territory in 1915.

CEMENT.—(See gum.)

CENT.—The hundredth part of a dollar and the value in which the stamps of many countries are expressed. In British Guiana, British Honduras, Canada, and Newfoundland the cent has the same value as in the United States. In Borneo, Labuan, Sarawak, the Straits Settlements, and the Federated Malay States the cent also has a fixed value, this being equal to a little more than ½c U. S. In Hong Kong the value of the cent fluctuates according to the price of silver, its average being ½c U. S. In Ceylon, Mauritius, Seychelles, Zanzibar and East Africa and Uganda a cent is the hundredth part of a rupee and has a value of about ⅓c U. S. In Holland and the Dutch Colonies a cent is the hundredth part of a florin or gulden and is equal to a trifle less than ½c U. S.

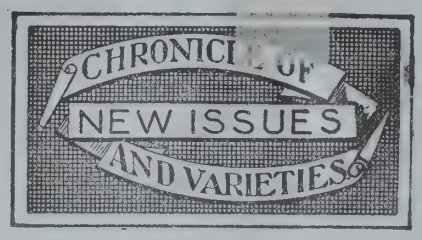
CENTAVO.—The value in which the stamps of most of the South and Central American countries are expressed. Its value varies considerably from the equivalent of 1c in American currency to as low as the hundredth part of a cent, but its average value may be taken as ½c.



CENT DE ESCUDO.—The denomination in which some of the stamps of Spain and the Spanish Colonies were expressed. A cent de escudo was worth about a half cent in U. S. currency.

CENT DE PESETA.—Many of the stamps of Spain and her Colonies were expressed in this value, which was worth about the fifth of a cent in American money.

JOHN WEED, CENTERVILLE, MICH.

In response to the notice published last week we have had four complaints entered against Mr. Weed. In the meantime we have heard from Mr. Bryant Weed, the father of John Weed, saying that the latter has gone to the front and he will settle any claims that need adjusting. We advise all who have complaints to write Mr. Bryant Weed and inform us as to the results.

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—Some current 1c stamps which we recently handled were so finely printed with a glossy ink that we thought they must have been produced by the rotary process on dry paper. We mean the stamps in sheets, of course. This led us to write to Mr. J. E. Ralph of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and putting the question to him, we have now received his reply, in which he states: "I beg to state that this Bureau is not printing the ordinary sheet stamps on rotary presses."

(1388)—Mr. William Hansler submits for our inspection copies of the 2c circular die B envelopes, one of which has the final "S" in "STATES" minus the upper half of the letter and the other with the same letter minus the lower half. These are interesting varieties and have not, we believe, been recorded before.

(1388)—Mr. George W. Bye submits to us what appears to be another new die of the circular type 2c envelope. Dies A, B, C, D, E, F and G have been recorded and these are illustrated in the August edition of The Philatelic Gazette. The copy submitted by Mr. Bye is vastly similar to the ordinary die A, but seems to be a re-cutting of this die or a deterioration of it; the lettering appears thinner, the head smaller and the numerals slightly different. We have submitted the copy to Mr. Bartels and will await his decision in the matter.

(1391)—Mr. Buell W. Hudson shows us one of the Y. M. C. A. "With the Colors" envelopes, which are being used by the soldiers in military camps. Y. M. C. A. branches have been established at these camps, where facilities are placed at the disposal of the soldier boys for writing home. The envelope shown us has the United States flag in the upper left corner of the obverse and "From" with four dotted lines at the top center of the reverse also at the bottom of this side "National War Work Council Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association 'With the Colors'" in five lines. Branch post offices have been established at these Y. M. C. A. branches to facilitate the handling of the soldiers' mail, and the cover before us bears machine and handstamp cancellations, "Burlington, Vt. Military Branch."

We will not list all the branches in this Chronicle, as these items should be listed in independent articles, but in this instance we necessarily made mention of the first one to come under our notice.

The 30c, perf. 10, on unwatermarked paper, has appeared, and unused blocks have been shown to us by Mr. Wm. S. F. Pierce. Without question, this will be one of the scarcest recent U. S. stamps, and it is an illustration of the almost worn out saying: "The unexpected always happens."

As we go to press we have word from Mr. J. M. Bartels that the new 1c envelope has appeared. It is similar in design to the current 2c but contains the profile of Franklin to left.

Mr. Bartels, to whom we extend our thanks, also furnishes the following list of new envelopes:

Issue 1916.

Denom.	Die.	Size.	Paper.	Wmk.	Knife
5c	B	5	Amber	20	87
Issue 1916-17. Circular Dies.
1c		8	White	19	97
2c	A	3	Blue	19	92
2c	B	5	Amber	19	99
2c	G	5	White	20	81

ALBANIA.—(1386-1388)—There seems to be some doubt as to the authenticity of so-called Republican issues for this country, and we will have something further to say about the matter in next week's Chronicle.

BARBADOS.—The Postage Stamp has word from a correspondent in this Colony, that a war stamp is expected to be issued.

CANAL ZONE.—(1389)—Mr. Frank E. Greene, in The Stamp Trade, states that the new Officially Sealed labels will not be made on the Isthmus, but that an order for 100,000 has been sent to the United States, to be blue in color and of the design mentioned in our Chronicle of August 11th. We believe they are to be made at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, at Washington. The seals will be gummed and perforated.

(1364)—It is a strange thing that it has not been noted before this, and we take the credit, therefore, to ourselves, that the three new stamps issued last January, 12c, 15c and 24c, have the overprint "CANAL ZONE" in three different shades of blue; violet-blue, light blue and dark blue on the three values in their respective order. Whether this is intentional or just a happen-so we do not know, and we would like to hear from some of our Canal Zone specialists whether these three colors of overprints come interchanged from the order given?

CUBA.—We are in receipt of word from Colonel C. D. de Battemberg to the effect that the Cuban stamps of the "Map" type will be demonetized on September 1. The decree of the Postmaster General is substantially as follows:

1. After the First of September only the stamps of the new issue, 1917, will be admitted for payment of postage.

2. The stamps of 1914—Map—will not have value for postage after this date.

3. The postmasters will exchange all their stocks of the 1914 stamps for the new 1917 stamps before the First of September.

4. The public have to (may ?) exchange the 1914 stamps within thirty days after the date of this instrument in the General Post Office at Havana.

The decree as partially translated above was given under date of August 20, 1917, and over the signature of Charles Hernandez, Director General of Posts.

Mr. J. M. Bartels also sends us this information.

EAST AFRICA & UGANDA.—The Philatelic Gazette chronicles on the authority of the U. P. U. distribution, a 31c envelope for registering purposes. As we do not know the color, we cannot formally chronicle it.

Ewen's Weekly formally lists new shades of the current 3c and 1r, the latter formerly being in gray-black is now in intense-black, on green.

Adhesives.

3c yellow-green.
1r intense-black on green.

GERMAN EAST AFRICA.—(British-Nyasaland Occupation.)—The U. P. U. distribution of June 9th included, according to The Philatelic Gazette, Nyassaland (sic) stamps of the values of ½d, 1d, 3d, 4d and 1sh overprinted "N. F." for the use of the military forces of Nyassaland (sic) in the occupied territory of German East Africa.

Occupation Stamps.

3d violet on yellow.
4d scarlet and black on yellow.
1sh black on green.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Alfred Smith & Son's Monthly Circular states that the thin ½d card now has the stamp modified to show the King's profile as on the adhesive stamps.

Postal Card.

½d green on buff.

(Offices in Morocco)—(1389)—Ewen's Weekly chronicles a new shade for the 20c on 2d George head, of a deep orange shade in contrast to the brown-orange and red-orange printings previously recorded.

Adhesive.

20c on 2d deep orange.

HAYTI.—(1385)—Another provisional has appeared in this country. It is Scott's No. 132, 10c de p, overprinted with a handstamp "1 ct. GOURDE" in two lines within a rectangular frame, like the 2c provisional chronicled in the July 14th edition. We are in receipt of two varieties, thanks to Mr. Robert A. Wilson, who explains that 30,000 copies were overprinted a wishy-washy grayish-blue color and 200,000 were overprinted a deeper blue, which they distinguish as a difference in Hayti.

Provisional Adhesives.

1c de g on 10c de p dark orange, deep blue overprint.
1c de g on 10c de p dark orange, gray-blue overprint.

Of the large "1" in frame, in blue, on 20c orange (No. 106), as given in our list in the Chronicle of July 21st, at least 200 or 300 were issued, we are informed by Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson also informs us that he has copies of Scott's Nos. 53, 65 and 129 with "GL O. Z. 7 FEV. 1914" in frame overprint. These, Mr. Wilson states, are not catalogued and have probably never been chronicled.

Advertising Chat

—Last week's paper was a dandy!

—Our next book will be Poole's "D. W. I." The book Ward has written on "Gt. Britain" will follow and then West's "Revenue Stamps of the U. S." These three books will be valuable additions to our list.

—Ray J. Nentwig who was with us last season takes a 3 in 1 contract. Wm. Lloyd of New Orleans, a summer time advertiser, also joins us with a 3 in 1 contract. Still another is H. L. Smith of Canandaigua, N. Y. We have room for a few more.

—Our bills for advg. must be paid on presentation. You pay your office rent each month—or something happens. You pay for your telephone—or "disconnected." You pay for your light—or the juice fails you. It is just as important to us that the advertising bill be paid as any of these other bills, moreover it is easier to pay one month than two.

—What has happened to John Obert, Deleware Water Gap, Pa.? Write H. E. Harris, 3838 Reisterstown Rd., Balto., Md., if there be a mutual bond of sympathy.

—Somebody down in Dixie thinks we were hard on Hiordan. Yes, it is too bad to injure one's good name but we have no regrets at the campaign we waged. No more Hiordan advertising for us.

—W. E. Dowser, El Paso, Tex., would like the address of R. H. Whitt who is "somewhere in California." Who knows Mr. Whitt?

—We have only ten of our Aeroplane Leaflets left. If you want one get it now or you lose a good chronicle.

—Going from Port Kent, N. Y., down to Montcalm Landing I met a man who was looking for Loon Lake. He had left New York four days earlier ticketed to Albany and naturally he queried the conductor about his destination:—"My friend this car is bound for Loon Lake. Stay right here and you will be all right." He stayed until he reached Loon Lake way up in the northern part of the state near Saranac and I run against him as he was speeding back to Albany for the small sheet of water bearing the same name. Three days lost and $18 thrown to the winds in a round about trip to Loon Lake.

—The direct way to the collector is through the columns of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. No house organ can take its place and the reason is simple. The three owners of this paper are on a continual hustle for an increased mailing list—the house organ reaches the same audience each month! We make collectors—the house organ should cater to them! We are not saying anything against the house organ, either.

—Whenever you write a letter enclose one of our leaflets "The Charm of Stamp Collecting." It will give our hobby a favorable introduction to the most cynical person. A pretty stamp may be attached to page 1 and your name added if desired to the presentation tablet. Fifty for 25c. What are you doing for our hobby?

—We need two or three copies of the WEEKLY dated Feb. 7, 1914, and one dated Feb. 28, 1914. Mail in the original folds to Beverly, Mass., and we will send a fine equivalent in foreign exchanges.

—Mr. Sledd again uses large space this week with an adv. that is bound to attract attention. We make special prices on large advs. A half page costs $30, a quarter page $17.50 and an eighth page $10. Six inches for $10 is a bargain in stamp advertising.

NOTE: (1) Bids under 20% will not be accepted, except for the lots A, B, C and 161. I am anxious to give the buyer all possible consideration; but the seller also has a right to reasonable protection. These are really choice items, and in the present market bring good prices. They are broken up into these small lots and offered in this way for the collector's benefit. If you like the arrangement, will you not show your approval by your bids.

(2) I will give a present in stamps cataloging not less than 10% of their takings to the two bidders who secure the largest total lots.

amendments made necessary to include the juniors will be sent out with the October notice.

Don't forget that Mr. Sawyer has offered a medal for the best collection of "War Stamps" to be competed for at the October meeting. This does not include "Red Cross" stamps.

At the November meeting there will be a competition for medals offered by Mr. Oscar Hill. The medals will be given for the best collection of stamps of a Scandinavian country. This competition should bring out a large number of entries.

INDIA.—(Travancore.)—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly chronicles the 4-cash pink stamp of 1908 overprinted "On S S" in two lines in black.

Official Stamp.

ITALY.—The Postage Stamp reports on the authority of Miss B. B. Douglas, the 15c overprinted "20" (Scott's No. 110) with the top two bars omitted.

As this stamp has three bars in each upper corner, we wonder which corner has the bars omitted, or, if both corners have two bars omitted, is it a misplaced surcharge leaving only one bar in either corner on the stamp?

JAMAICA.—(1390)—Stamp Collecting states in its Chronicle that the ½d value as well as the 1½d small overprint War Stamp exists with the "R" afterward inserted by a hand-stamp, and that Major Lockhart has two or three copies of each value, which show the "R" in differing positions, all out of alignment with the rest of the overprint.

MADAGASCAR.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles a new value for this Colony. It is printed in the 1908 design, Scott's type A9, on unsurfaced white paper, perforated 13½x14. Issued in July.

MOZAMBIQUE COMPANY.—(1382)—The Philatelic Jour. of Gr. Britain is our authority for giving the quantities of the new Red Cross stamps to be issued by this protectorate, which we mentioned in our Chronicle of June 23rd. This special issue will consist of stamps of the 1911 issue overprinted "REPUBLICA", and further overprinted in red with a Red Cross in the upper left corner and the date "31.7.17" in the lower right. The date is the anniversary of the opening of hostilities. The quantities to be prepared are as follows: 2½r, 6,020; 10r, 3,024; 20r, 3,024; 50r, 4,508; 75r, 1,820; 100r, 1,820; 700r, 1,288.

PANAMA.—(1385)—Mr. Frank E. Greene reports a double overprint of the "RETARDO" provisional, added to the list of other varieties given in our Chronicle of July 14th, and inverted surcharges of both the first and second "R" provisionals. The foregoing information is from The Stamp Trade, and the same writer in the same publication states that a number of issued as well as unissued varieties of the regular postage stamps are to be overprinted (and probably surcharged) for use as Telegraph stamps.

ST. LUCIA.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles shades of the current George head stamps, the ½d from plate 3 in a new deep green color distinctly different than the blue green and bright green previously recorded, and the 4d, second provisional printing on surface tinted paper, in red and gray-black on a pale tone of yellow surface-tinted paper with yellowish gum, differing from the first printing in carmine and black, on yellow surface-tinted paper with thin white gum.

Adhesives.

4d red and gray-black on yellow, white back.

ST. PIERRE & MIQUELON.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles a new value for this Colony. It is Scott's type A19, printed on unsurfaced white paper, perforated 14x13½. Issued in July.

Adhesive.

15c dull purple and rosine.

SALVADOR.—The destructive earthquake in Salvador last June made necessary some provisional postage stamps. The 1915 Official stamps were overprinted "CORRIENTE" in red at the bottom and with a red bar obliterating the word "Oficial". Double bar varieties exist, as well as an inverted "CORRIENTE" on the 1c, according to Dr. Berthold in The Philatelic Gazette, which publication also gives the quantities of the provisionals that were overprinted, and which we place after each item in the following list. The provisionals were issued on June 7th, 1917.

Mr. Forrest P. Hand also gives us information regarding the above mentioned provisionals as well as showing us a new Official stamp for this country. The latter is the recently issued new postage stamp with large building in the center overprinted horizontally "OFICIAL" in Roman capitals in black.

Provisional Adhesives.

1c gray-green, 42,000.
a. "CORRIENTE" inverted.
2c red, 6,160.
5c ultramarine, 4,000.
6c pale blue, 38,280.
a. Double bar.
10c yellow, 37,120.
a. Double bar.
12c brown, 28,780.
a. Double bar.
50c violet, 46,980.
a. Double bar.

Official Stamp.

It would be interesting to know whether the provisional postage stamps listed above of the values of 6c and 12c were Scott's Nos. 966 and 967, overprinted, or whether they are of the type with "Oficial" in the design, overprinted. What we are trying to get at is, were 6c pale blue and 12c brown stamps of Scott's type O3 ever printed, used regularly, or later used provisionally overprinted? Perhaps some of our readers can enlighten us, or submit specimens.

SWEDEN.—Two provisional postage stamps have just been issued, according to Mr. Th. Allard in Stamp Collecting, to be used when sending packets from Sweden to Russia. The values are 1.98kr and 2.12kr, obtained by surcharging the 5kr King Gustav V type with those figures.

Provisional Adhesives.

1.98kr on 5kr claret on yellow.
2.12kr on 5kr claret on yellow.

TOGO.—(1360)—The 15c stamp recently issued for Dahomey, (See Dahomey Chronicle for August 25th, in No. 1391), has been overprinted "Togo Occupation franco-anglaise" in four lines, for use in this occupied ex-German Colony.

Adhesive.

15c dark red and violet.

TURKEY.—One hundred and thirty-three varieties of obsolete Turkish stamps and four varieties of obsolete Eastern Roumelian stamps have been overprinted with a device in red, black or blue, consisting of a five pointed star with the date 1332 in a scroll beneath it and a further shield like ornament containing the Turkish characters "P. T. T." towards the bottom of the stamps. The list is too long to give it here, but as it will probably be in the Scott Supplemental Catalogue, soon to be issued we can await seeing it there.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

By BILL BLOSS.

The Issue of 1869.

This issue is one of the most popular with United States collectors, owing to its pictorial value.

The contract for the printing was awarded to the National Bank Note Company of New York. Ten values were included in series, a 6c denomination being issued for the first time, to take the place of the 5c no longer needed because of changes in rates.

The stamps of this series are smaller than in any of the previous issues, and are square. Entirely different colors were adopted.

Various designs were prepared, and essays made, before the final work was approved. Many of these essays are not scarce, as a large number were apparently made in various colors. An essay of a 5c value was prepared in the design of the approved 6c, but stamps were never made in that value.

The one cent bore a portrait of Benjamin Franklin, facing to the left, in a circle, with inscriptions at top and bottom. It was printed in buff.

The two cent, which is more or less familiar to collectors, bore a picture of a post-rider. The color ranges from brown to yellow brown.

The three cent pictures a locomotive of the type then prevalent. This value being most generally used, has until recently been obtainable in rather large quantities, and has offered a generous field for the study of varieties. The color ranges from light blue to dark blue and ultramarine.

The six cent depicts George Washington. The color is blue. This is one of the scarcer low values.

The ten cent features a shield inscribed "United States Postage" and large numeral "10," while an eagle with wings outspread rests on the shield. The color ranges from yellow to orange and golden yellow.

The twelve cent, printed in green, pictures an ocean steamer.

The fifteen cent value was the first bi-colored postage stamp issued by the United States, and pictures the Landing of Columbus from the painting by Vanderlyn. The frame is printed in brown, while the center, bearing the picture, is printed in blue.

Three types of the fifteen cent stamp exist, though only two were made as part of the 1869 issue, the third being included in the re-issue of 1875. Type I is generally known as the "picture unframed," while Type II is known as the "picture framed." The difference lies in three parallel lines surrounding the picture, which broaden out at the top center, and include a white diamond shaped ornament. In Type I these lines and the diamond are omitted. In Type I a band of lines extends straight across the top of the picture. Type III (the reissue) bears only a single line, but is otherwise like Type I.

The "picture framed" stamp also embraces one of the greatest rarities in United States stamps, for a very limited number of these stamps were printed with the center picture inverted. This error was due to defective printing, and a few of the sheets thus printed were allowed to get into circulation before the error was detected.

The twenty-four cents value was also printed in two colors, the frame being printed in green, while the center picture of the "Signing of the Declaration of Independence" was printed in violet. The picture is taken from the painting by Trumbull.

This value is also known with inverted picture, and is a rarity in that condition. The circumstances of the issue of the error are similar to the 15c.

The thirty cents stamp is not unlike the ten cents in design, excepting that American flags have been added to the shield on either side. This stamp is also printed in two colors, the shield and eagle being in carmine, while the flags and other parts are in blue.

Like the 15c and 24c, a few copies with the flags inverted were printed and put in circulation. This is the scarcest of the errors, by far.

Needless to say, considerable excitement was caused among collectors of that period over these inverts, but their true value was scarcely appreciated at

SEND ME YOUR WANT LIST

I am breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, U. S. Revenue stamps, Proofs, Essays and Foreign stamps, which I recently purchased.

I bought this collection from a collector who was in this game for 40 years, and there is some very desirable material in same.

You will have a chance to fill some vacant spaces now at reasonable prices.

H. F. COLMAN. SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

the time. Great efforts were made to secure these rarities.

The ninety cent value, concluding the series, portrays Abraham Lincoln. The center, bearing the portrait, is printed in black, while the frame is in carmine.

This stamp was never issued, as far as known, with inverted center.

While cancelled copies are scarce, in any condition, the stamp on original cover is almost unknown.

This concludes one of the most picturesque and interesting issues of our stamps. While the issue was only in use for a little over a year, and accordingly but few varieties were created, it offers collectors an opportunity to make a handsome and interesting collection.

The grill used on this issue is square, and measures approximately 9½ x 9½ mm. Varieties of grill are to be had, as in the previous issue.

Cancellation varieties of this period, and of the previous years, are exceedingly interesting, though the 1861 series has more to offer in this line. Collectors caring for these will derive much pleasure from studying the curious figure obliterations, such as the bluebird (generally found on the 3c 1869) and others equally odd. Paid cancellations are scarce, on the 1869 series. Colored inks were used to some extent, blue being the one most frequently found. Red and green cancellations are scarce, though the red foreign may be had on the higher values used on letters sent abroad.

The collector who wishes to hunt should try to complete the 1869 series with town cancellation. He will require a long life and much patience. The town cancellations are scarce on all values, but extremely rare on the higher denominations. Target or concentric rings are not uncommon on the lower values. Steamship obliterations are quite numerous on the 10c and 30c and exist on the other values as well. Pen cancellations on the higher items, particularly the 90c, which was used on packages, are not as uncommon.

Taken as a whole, the study of cancellations is a valuable and instructive adjunct to a collection of this period.

Issues of 1870-79.

The series of 1869 was not a success with the people or the government. The stamps were too small for convenience, the gum was poor, and the designs were subject to severe criticism in some instances. It was very hard to cancel the stamps thoroughly!

Under the terms of the contract, the government had the right to require the manufacturer to change the designs, and accordingly, as soon as the new postmaster general came into office, he ordered an entirely new set prepared, the stamps to be larger and plainer in design.

These stamps were issued under the previous contract awarded to the National Bank Note Company. The actual date on which the stamps were placed on sale, is unknown, but is believed to be about April 15th, 1870.

This series included the same denominations as the previous issue, with the exception that a seven cent value was added to the set in 1871. The stamps are oblong in shape, and were printed in panes of one hundred stamps, ten rows by ten. The portraits are all in profile, facing to the left. The words "U. S. Postage" appear at the top of the stamps, and the value in words and numerals appears at the bottom. On the 24c the numerals are in the upper corners, this being the only exception.

1c Franklin, ultramarine.
2c Jackson, red brown.
3c Washington, green.
6c Lincoln, carmine rose.
7c Stanton, scarlet vermilion.
10c Jefferson, brown.
12c Clay, dull violet.
15c Webster, bright orange.
24c Scott, dull purple.
30c Hamilton, full black.
90c O. H. Perry, carmine lake.

The need of the seven cent stamp was created by a treaty with the North German Confederation, fixing the single letter rate of seven cents on letters sent by direct steamer. This treaty was signed in April, 1870, but owing to the Franco-Prussian War, which necessitated the discontinuance of direct steamers to Germany, the stamps were not needed until the following year. The seven cent stamp was little used, for the rate was soon reduced to six cents. The majority of covers bearing seven cent stamps are addressed to Germany, Denmark or Italy.

The stamps of this issue were both with and without grill, and both appear to have been issued concurrently. The use of the grill was soon discontinued, for it had not proved successful.

Dangerous counterfeits of the grill on the stamps of this issue are not uncommon. These are generally found on the 12c and 24c, the two rarest of the grilled stamps, though they occur on other values as well. These faked grills are very hard to distinguish from the genuine, owing to the poor work done in grilling the stamps, and collectors should insist on having the stamps passed on by reputable experts.

The original grill rollers were destroyed, after they had been used for other purposes.

The stamps printed by the National Bank Note Co. were on a hard white wove paper. These stamps are distinguishable from the later issues by the absence of the "secret marks" later added to the dies, and do not cause collectors much difficulty in placing them.

Luff lists the 6c and 24c on double paper, but both are very rare.

The three cent value is known in imperforate condition. Collectors should purchase this variety only in pairs, owing to the possibility of trimming poorly perforated copies. Pairs of the imperforate stamps are extremely rare, however.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS CHANGE.

The old-established firm of B. L. Drew & Co., located at 7 Water St., Boston, Mass., has changed hands. The new owner is Daniel F. Kelleher, whose advertising has appeared regularly in the WEEKLY during the past year. The firm of B. L. Drew & Co. has figured largely in the philatelic world in the years gone by, and we expect that Mr. Kelleher will not be content unless the record of the past is more than sustained in the future. We are sorry to part with Mr. Drew, but glad to know that his mantle has fallen on such capable shoulders.

THE PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

ADDENDA.

A.—The letter "A" is found in conjunction with the marginal plate number on some of the sheets of United States stamps issued during the latter part of 1911 and the early months of 1912. On some of these plates only the number preceded by "A" is shown while others also bear the imprint "Bureau of Engraving and Printing." The significance of the letter relates to the spacing between the stamps. Prior to January, 1909, all plates from which postage stamps were printed were made with uniform spaces between the stamps. After the above date the vertical spaces were graduated from narrow ones in the middle to wide ones at each side. On November, 1910, another gauge was used which gives uniform spaces but wider ones than those used prior to 1909 and this is known as the "A" gauge. The change was made to allow for the expansion and contraction of the paper with the idea of obtaining better results in perforation, and the "A" was added to the plates so that officials could identify sheets printed from those plates at a glance. When it was finally proved that the wider spacing effected the desired purpose better than the graduated spaces there was of course no further necessity for marking new plates in any special manner and the letter "A" was, therefore, dropped from use.

ANTWERPEN.—The Flemish rendering of Antwerp as shown upon the special stamps issued in Belgium in 1894 to mark the Antwerp Exhibition.

ACID-REACTIONS.—(See "Chemical changelings".)

A. P. S.—An abbreviation for American Philatelic Society—the "national" stamp association of the United States—in general use in this country.

A. S. D. A.—These initials, which have now become quite well known in this country, are those of the American Stamp Dealers' Association.

APPROVAL BOOKS AND SHEETS.—These are books (of various sizes) and sheets upon which stamps are mounted for the purpose of submitting selections on approval to prospective purchasers.

AUCTION SALES.—Everyone knows what an auction sale is and when these words appear in a philatelic sense they refer to sales of stamps by mail or public auction. Such sales are held at frequent intervals by firms specialising on this class of philatelic business in the United States and Great Britain and, less frequently, in France and Germany.

AERO MAIL.—Mail carried by means of aeroplanes. It can, of course, only be identified from ordinary mail when special postage stamps or special cancellations are used in connection therewith. Up to the present the carrying of mail by aeroplane has only taken place between certain localities on special occasions and all such mail has been marked with distinctive cancellations. Quite recently the Italian government has inaugurated more or less permanent services by aeroplane and hydroplane and has issued special postage stamps for franking matter sent by these services.

ACCESSORIES.—To the philatelist this term covers such generally used helps to collecting as hinges, tongs, perforation gauges, pocket books, and watermark detectors.

AUTOMATIC STAMP VENDING MACHINES.—These, as the name indicates, are machines on the "nickel-in-the-slot" principle for the vending of stamps in small amounts.

AUTOMATIC STAMPING MACHINES.—These are machines which automatically apply stamps to any desired mail matter. The stamps are inserted on coils containing either 500 or 1000 and some of the machines are so ingenious that they are guaranteed to seal, stamp, and count upwards of 4,000 envelopes per hour.

AUTOMATIC MACHINE PERFORATIONS.—(See "Coil stamps").

A RECEBER.—An inscription found upon the postage due stamps of Portugal and many of the Portuguese colonies. It may be translated literally as "to be received," referring, of course, to the amount to be received by the post office in payment of the deficient postage.

ASCENSION ISLAND.—A British island in the south Atlantic ocean situated about 760 miles northwest of St. Helena, and so-called on account of the fact that it was discovered by the Portuguese navigator, Juan de Nova, on Ascension Day, 1501. The island, which has an area of only 38 square miles and a population of less than 500 is used as a coaling and victualling station for the African squadron of the British Navy. Great Britain took possession of it in 1815 and the island is officially rated at the Admiralty as a man of war. No special postage stamps have been issued for use there and the little mail, collected very infrequently, is franked with ordinary British stamps. These can, of course, only be distinguished by the cancellation.

ASSISTENCIA NACIONAL AOS TUBERCULOSIS.—(National assistance for the Tuberculous.) The inscription shown on the private stamps issued in Portugal in 1904 for the use of the National Society for aiding consumptives.

ARMADA EM OPERACOES CONTRA O PARAGUAY.—(Fleet in operation against Paraguay.)—The inscription on a crude type-set label used by Brazilian sailors in 1865-70 during the war with Paraguay. These stamps were printed by a stationer in Rio de Janeiro and supplied free to the sailors, and the Government allowed them to frank letters to all parts of Brazil.

ALABAMA STATE REVENUES.—These were special revenue stamps of the facial value of $1 and $2 issued by the state of Alabama in 1867-8 for payment of a tax on seals.

ANCHEL.—Appears on the stamps of the Native Indian State of Travancore and is the equivalent of our word "postage."

A. M.—An overprint found on several of the provisional stamps of Greece issued in 1900. These letters are an abbreviation for "Axia Metalliki" meaning "value in gold". The same letters form part of the design of the Greek stamps of 1902 and stamps so marked were sold on the basis of gold only and not for paper money.

BOCAS DEL TORO.—A port of the republic of Panama on an island of the same name, and on one of the entrances to that magnificent harbor—the Bay of Chiriqui. It is philatelically famous from the fact that during the transition period of 1903-4, just after Panama had indicated its independence, two special types of overprint were applied to the stamps sold at the local post office.

BOLLO STRAORDINARO PER LE POSTE.—the inscription shown on the so-called newspaper stamp of Tuscany issued in 1854. Its literal meaning is "Stamp extraordinary for the post". The stamp was not a postage stamp in the strict meaning of the term but represented a fiscal tax collected on newspapers coming from foreign countries.

BALKAN STATES.—The Balkan States, or the Balkans, comprise the countries geographically forming the Balkan Peninsula, viz.:—Greece, Turkey, Bulgaria, Servia, Montenegro, Roumania and Bosnia and Herzegovina.

BOOKLET-LEAVES.—(See "Stamp Booklets".)

BLOCKS OF FOUR.—This is self-explanatory and, of course, simply means four unsevered stamps in two rows of two each.

BOURSE.—(See "Stamp Bourse".)

EDITORIAL.

Military—There is a widening field for collectors of military postalic impressions of the American Expeditionary Force. The latest marking that we have received is in postmark form and reads: "Army Postal Service, No. 3." The usual censor marks are on the envelope and the two cent due stamp has its place. We have one of the printed form postal cards from the front which is labeled at the top, "American Expeditionary Force."

Original—We have seen something new and we hail Mr. C. A. Burner, Normal, Illinois, as a progressive of the right sort. Mr. Burner has submitted to us his improved plan, which is copyrighted, of compiling auction prices, which, alone as a labor-saving device, merits high praise. Mr. Burner has started the Philatelic Index which is a semi-monthly devoted to the interests "of collectors who buy in auctions and desire to know prices." Mr. Burner, we may say in passing, is a printer and newspaperman whose experience will not come amiss in his bout with philatelic journalism. However, Mr. Burner's venture is founded upon an idea that impressed us with its points of advantage. He gives the prices obtained at an auction sale, in accordance with the following scheme. First, he covers the first ten numbers by the abbreviated entry, "1-10," followed by ten prices ranged one after the other. For instance, lot 4 would be priced as the fourth figure in the row. The next line, "11-20," follows the same plan and this numerical sequence is followed to the end. We have before us the list of the first six sessions of the Worthington sale, totaling 3160 lots, so compactly presented that we call it a benefaction to auction buyers. Under the old plan, the auction catalogue, priced by hand or on rare occasions, with printed prices was an expensive and laborious compilation. Now the selling-price of any lot may be found easily by reference to the Burner index and the expense of what to all intents and purposes is a priced catalogue is so reduced as to become almost negligible. Of course one must keep the auction catalogue received before the sale in order to apply the prices which are given by the Philatelic Index to it. It is not often that we come in contact with an original idea and so we are refreshed by a contemplation of this means of increasing the efficiency of the working of an important philatelic detail.

Missed—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who made it an absolute rule never to take money but only "exchange" for any stamp duplicate that he disposed of? Is this o. f. c. arguing over Henry Ward Beecher somewhere with the old-fashioned dealer who used to come down to his shop an hour earlier on Saturday mornings than usual, to accommodate the kid trade?

Fiery—"My idea of the pinnacle of piffle is to hear an old Croesus tell a group of boy collectors to whom his collection in part has been shown that they should not despair of getting a collection as good as his, when he knows very well that only a millionaire could spend the money that he does for stamps," a reader writes, beratingly. Yes, but why the heat, Evadne, there are worse things in philately. For our part we think that it is rather decent of the old party to take the time to show his collection to the boys and to throw in a bit of "jolly" for good measure.

Again—Once more we descend upon the Saturday Evening Post and take liberties with its columns. We commandeer the following extract from the story, "Boldero," by Henry Milner Rideout, to whose story-telling powers we make a profound obeisance, in the name of philately. Lord Belsire, (Jimmy) is philosophizing to Jack Boldero, the hero, who, truly, is one: "They pretend I own two or three more landscapes, fair and smiling as this, in other parts of the county. What then? Can they make a man happy? No; nor unhappy, either. Did you ever see the remarkable stamp issued by a great dominion that proclaimed, 'We hold a vaster empire than has been'? Like Corsica Boswell's hatband; or like wearing a sandwich-board. I'm the richest damned scoundrel on earth!" Again we repeat that we are pleased to see that philately is being relied upon increasingly to furnish saw and instance to the big writers of the outside world.

Loss—We cannot allow the death of Henry E. Legler to pass unnoticed. Mr. Legler was librarian of the Chicago Public Library and in his profession few were as eminent as he. We who knew of Mr. Legler in the old amateur journalistic days felt close to him for his understanding of stamp collecting. Mr. Legler, like Willard O. Wylie, was once president of the National Amateur Press Association. Mr. Legler entered largely into the civic life of Chicago and his death in practically the prime of life is a great loss to the forces of good.

Find—We have come into the possession of a most interesting postal marking, whose existence is well worth recording. It is on an envelope that bears the advertising card of D. B. Cooke & Co., Booksellers, Chicago, in the upper left-hand corner and in the right upper corner is the circular post office stamped impression in dark red, "One-Paid-Cent." The recipient of the envelope had endorsed it as having been received in September, 1854. Over the impression described is the word, circular, in black letters. The device is an artistic arrangement and while in postmark form is very effective. In 1854, the use of postage stamps practically was obligatory although it was not until 1855, we believe, from memory, that the rule was absolutely enforced. The example before us is novel to our eyes and certainly is one of the last illustrations of postage paid in cash. The additional circular mark may have been applied at the post office or even at the office of the senders in Chicago. We are gratified to make this contribution to the history of "postalic impressions."

Response—Several weeks ago, we suggested that readers who were in the mood to do so should tell us what stamp made the most indelible impression on them; and we started off with a few samples. It is somewhat singular how many wrote us but those who volunteered ran true to form. The dollar Omaha; the one cent Nova Scotia; the Falkland Islands, queen's, two shillings and six pence; the Canada beaver and other standards were named but what we wanted to say was that some brave soul maintained that the four cent proprietary, red brown, of the 1875-81 issue is the most striking stamp to him. Yes, it is an effective design but there must be some underlying reason for the choice and the reasons are what we are after. No doubt, the Brazil stamp that H. E. Deats found on the local post office floor and which was the stamp that started him on his philatelic career is the most fascinating stamp to him yet.

DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

CHAPTER XXXI.

The 5c Proprietary, 1875-83.

The Bureau printed 1,581,000 of the 5c stamps and the total issue recorded is 2,061,165. On a proportionate basis this figures 77% Bureau prints and 23% National and American prints combined, and if all the Bureau prints were issued only 480,165 five cent stamps are left for the five years previous to the Bureau issue. Apparently 5c stamps were used much less extensively from 1875 to 1880 than before 1875 and after 1880 and there is no way of telling from the records available whether or not any of this denomination issued on water-marked paper were printed by the National Co., or the American Co., or both of them. Without knowing the number of the 5c printed on silk paper we can only guess the answer to the riddle. The 5c black and green was used at the rate of over 190,000 per year and the National Co. may have anticipated a similar demand for their 5c stamp and printed such a large supply on silk paper that there was no need for further printings until the Bureau took over the contract.

The chances, however, favor the supposition that there were 150,000 or more 5c stamps printed by the American Bank Note Co., as the total quantity ordered from this company from June 30, 1879 to October, 1880, comes to 150,610 stamps, and the writer believes these orders were filled by printing a new supply because the report of June 30, 1879, quoted previously indicates that after October, 1876, the stock of stamps from which the collectors of internal revenue were supplied was kept at the Treasury Department in Washington, and that the stamps were sent there from the Bank Note Companies as printed—the latter keeping no supply on hand. If there had been a large supply of the 5c on silk paper on hand at the Treasury Department in 1879 or 1880 there would have been no need of ordering 150,000 more five cent stamps.

The quantities ordered from the printers by the Internal Revenue office for the year ending June 30, were:

1880—95,350 from the American Co.
1881—55,260 from the American Co.
1881—120,500 from the Bureau.
1882—592,590 from the Bureau.
1883—719,946 from the Bureau.

Before 1880 the records give only the combined totals of private dies and general issues of each denomination ordered during the fiscal year.

The principal use for the 5c stamp at the time was on playing cards. The larger playing card manufacturers however had private die stamps, but bought none of their own stamps after March, 1883, and no doubt used many of the 5c Proprietary during the last few months of the tax. There were 878,550 less 5c private die stamps printed and delivered by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing during the year ending June 30, 1883 than in the previous fiscal year. This seems to be the reason why 65% to 70% of all the 5c black proprietary were used in 1882 and 1883. The Bureau printings of the 5c stamp for the year ending June 30, were: 1881—170,000; 1882—901,000; 1883—510,000.

These figures show that the quantity of rouletted 5c stamps did not exceed 170,000 and was probably only a small fraction of that amount. From the scarcity of genuine copies it is rather doubtful if as many as 20,000 of the 5c were issued rouletted.

CHAPTER XXXII.

The 10c Proprietary, 1875-83.

The 10c Proprietary, first issued in October, 1881, was engraved and printed only by the Bureau and therefore belongs to the fifth set. There were two printings. The first was 200 sheets—34,000 stamps—before June 30, 1882, and the second was 300 sheets—51,000 stamps—after June 30, 1882. Two shades are found, dull blue and deep blue, which probably correspond to the two printings. As this stamp was not issued, nor even engraved, until at least eight months after the 6c appeared in violet the color of the 6c could not have been changed to avoid confusion with the 10c.

The Boston Book states the die for this stamp was approved August 31, 1881, that the stamp was first issued October 21, 1881, and last issued March 6, 1883. On June 30, 1881, there were about 62,000 of the 10c black and green still on hand. During July, August and September over 21,000 more were ordered, leaving a balance of about 41,000 on September 30, 1881. Whether or not these old 10c were carried in stock until after March 6, 1883, or were issued contemporaneously with the 10c blue is not known, but some assume a large proportion of them were kept on hand and that the 12,000 or so 10c stamps ordered after March 6, 1883, were supplied from this stock. The writer admits the possibility of this assumption being true but considers it more probable that the black and green stamps were all used up and that the orders received after March 6, 1883, were filled with blue stamps. The scarcity of the blue stamps favors the belief that the number issued was much less than 85,000.

Adding the 62,000 black and green 10c stamps on hand June 30, 1881, to the 85,000 blue 10c known to have been printed after that date gives 147,000 from which to fill the orders for 117,000 received in the two years ending June 30, 1883, and leaves a balance of 30,000 on hand at the latter date. Obviously, if this balance was blue stamps the number of 10c blue issued was 55,000, while if the 30,000 remainders were green and black 10c then the whole 85,000 blue stamps must have been issued. The actual number issued may

NEW CANADA COMMEMORATIVE.

We have received from A. Norton Buell a copy of the new confederation commemorative which has been promised for some months. It is oblong rectangular in shape like the other commemorative issues of Canada, and is printed in brown. A detailed description of the stamp with acknowledgment of further courtesies will doubtless appear next week in the more formal Chronicle by the editor of our new issues department. The design shows the confederation scene pictured in last week's paper.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

War Covers.

Mr. Buell W. Hudson shows us a mixed lot of war covers, with interesting marks thereon. These include a cover from Russia with the provisional "KOP.10 KOP." on 7k stamp, with marks of a script "B" in a lozenge and a fancy "46" in a square besides a censor label in Russian with the censor mark in the same language, all the marks in purple. One from Finland with a Finnish censor label in three languages, Swedish, Finnish and Russian. (This is one of the earliest censor labels). A cover from South Africa with an official frank mark of some kind covered with a 2½d stamp and then cancelled "PRETORIA", the usual censor mark in dark blue also on the cover. A Straits Settlements cover with the usual "PASSED BY CENSOR" No. 11, censor mark in violet. An Italian cover duly sealed up with a grayish label, these, by-the-way, come in white and green as well as 5c on the back.
gray, with a Milano red cross stamp of

So many combinations, and from so many different countries do these things come, we refrain from listing them in our Chronicle, as they would crowd out stamps. However, once in awhile, it does no harm to mention them, as there are many collectors who are interested. However, to list all of them, one would have to have a thorough knowledge of all the languages of the world, and time that would not have to be devoted to anything else.

UNITED STATES.—(1351)—In our Chronicle of June 16th we drew attention to two distinct shades of the Special Delivery stamps perforated 10. Thanks to Mr. H. M. Kaisinger, we can formally list three distinct shades of the same stamp perforated 11.

Special Delivery Stamps.
Unwmkd. Perf. 11.
10c deep ultramarine.
10c dull blue.

These shades are distinct and do not require any stretch of the imagination to separate them one from the other.

(1393)—Mr. Don J. Grout submits a cover with a postmark similar to the one described in our issue of Sept. 8th: "U. S. ARMY POSTAL SERVICE" around the top, but "No. 3" at the bottom, and impressed in ink-pad-black. The censor mark on this cover is the same as that described in the Aug. 25th Chronicle, but impressed in light blue—the number the same: "A. 15".

Mr. Grout writes, in part: "Soon after our troops arrived in France, Mr. E. E. Campbell of our town received three letters from his son, Harold, who is a Lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps. The first was written before the troops left this country, the second enroute and the third after they had reached France. They were all cancelled with the regular ship cancellation, but as it may not be wise I will not give its name. Across letter number one was written "Censored", while two and three were simply marked "Passed by Censor". In one, the second, Lt. Campbell wrote as follows: 'I am now doing the censoring for our bunch and my room looks like a post office'. I do not know as 'bunch' refers to his company or to the entire ship. I am now enclosing the cover from a still further letter received. You will note that it bears the censor mark as described by you and also the 'OK Lt. Campbell' and what is still more interesting it bears no stamp." It does bear, however, the notation "Officers Mail" in mss. We understand that stamps do not have to be used by the Expeditionary Force, as their mail is carried free.

ABYSSINIA.—(1391)—Champion's Bulletin chronicles the 1g with three line commemorative overprint.

1g green and orange.

AITUTAKI.—(1381)—The 6d with King George head must be in use, as Booleman's Circular offers it for sale.

Adhesive.
6d carmine-rose.

ALBANIA.—(1394)—We reprint the following from Stamp Collecting: "When we chronicled the new Albanian labels, we could not help but think of the possibilities of philatelic brigandage in that troubled land. A certain newspaper having stated that, on December last, the capital of a free and independent Albanian Republic was set up at Koritza, having postage stamps of its own, a soldier friend, interned in Switzerland, seeking further particulars, wrote to a fellow officer at Salonica. The latter sends a significant reply:—

I am sorry to say that the Koritza stamps, about which you sent a newspaper cutting, are not to be obtained for love or money, and, in fact, I am not quite satisfied that they were never issued. I am not an expert in the stamp business myself, but those who hold themselves forth as expert collectors are sharply divided as to the existence of these Koritza labels. Possibly the issue was another act upon the part of the stamp exploiters who are certainly at work here.

The reference to the 'free and independent Albanian Republic, the embyro State with all the machinery of modern Government' is pure 'tosh' and a flight of imagination on the part of a press representative. The town is in reality a filthy, tumbled-down, isolated village, which was seized by a band of cutthroats, who terrorized the countryside until the French got on their track.

"Our correspondent was writing, of course, before the proclamation of an Italian Protectorate over Albania, and the recently chronicled postal perpetrations from that country would certainly appear to be under a cloud."

We are afraid that Stamp Collecting took too much of its correspondent's letter for granted, when it commented so strongly on the issues of Republican Albania. We would draw the attention of our readers to our Chronicle of July 21st, wherein we state: "The copy (one of the stamps in question) shown us by Dr. Perry is on a cover addressed to Worcester, Mass., and it is cancelled 'Korytsa, Albanie, 18 Mar 1917'," etc. This proves that the stamps did international postal service, without a questioning doubt.

AUSTRIA.—Feldpost.—Booleman's Circular offers for sale a new series of the "K. u. K. FELDPOST" stamps with portrait of Emperor Charles I. The series consists of 3, 5, 6, 10, 12, 15, 20, 25, 30, 40, 50, 60, 80 and 90 heller, 2, 3, 4 and 10 krones, but the colors are not announced. The stamps were issued on July 30, 1917.

BOSNIA.—On June 28th, 1917, the anniversary of the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand and his wife at Sarajevo, three stamps were issued to memorialize that sad event, and they were, we understand, only on sale that day. The 10h and 40h are of oblong design, the former picturing a view of Sarajevo and the latter containing portraits of the Archducal couple; the 15h is of upright rectangular design and contains a portrait of the Archduke. All three contain the inscription "K. u. K. MILITARPOST" at top and the date "28 JUNI 1914" at the bottom between the figures of value which are in the lower corners Our information is from Booleman's Circular, but no information as to the colors of the stamps is there given The stamps were sold at their face value plus 2h each.

Advertising Chat

—Something has happened in Boston.

—B. L. Drew, who for years has conducted a stamp business under the name of B. L. Drew & Co., has sold his stock and good-will to Daniel F. Kelleher. The announcement in our columns elsewhere will be read with interest. The firm of B. L. Drew & Co. has been one of the Hub's strong bulwarks of philately and while Mr. Drew has sold out his interest, we are glad that the firm name will not be lost to the trade. Mr. Drew advises us of the change and tells us that he is "out but not down." Our experience teaches us that he is a hard man to down.

—Daniel F. Kelleher, who has bought the Drew business leaps with a single bound into the limelight. During the past year he has advertised modestly in the WEEKLY, but his offerings have been of a quality that attracted attention. Under his administration of the affairs of the firm, B. L. Drew & Co. should be very much in evidence with our readers. Congratulations, Mr. Kelleher.

—J. R. Nichols, a user of Adlet space during the past year, branches out with displayed advertising under a three-in-one contract. H. W. Protzmann of Milwaukee, Wis., who used displayed space all last season signs a three-in-one contract and will commence Sept. 29. His advertising will be featured with the caption "More nice stamps cheap." We have never had a single complaint filed against either Nichols or Protzmann.

—We have featured this party before, but are compelled to give him another piece of publicity. His name and address is Rayford Goode, Salem, Ore. He sends A. C. Roessler a check for $5 and it is returned "No account."

—Last week the advertising of the Colonial Stamp Co. of Chicago reappeared. The manager of this company, Mr. Enelow, writes that he expects to continue his advertising for the coming season.

—The advertisement of Alfred Lechner in Adlets offers mixed precancels. The adv. copy submitted reminded us of the trouble experienced last spring on similar advertising. We have seen a sample of Mr. Lechner's offerings and it looks like a money-worth proposition. When it comes to advertising mixtures we must be shown.

—Irvin B. Robinson has resumed his Adlet advertising and intends to make a special hustle for business this season. There is a reason. A clipping just at hand makes the date Sept. 5, 1917—a daughter.

—The Maxwell Stamp Co., advertising under contract with the WEEKLY and formerly at 205 St. James Place, Brooklyn, has removed to 1098 Fulton St., where the firm has taken a ground floor store to make room for its growing trade. Congratulations.

—A review copy of Bright & Son's priced catalog of war stamps has been received. It is dated August, 1917. It is a comprehensive priced list of these stamps and is sold for the low price of 9c. This is the third edition.

—Herbert W. Mason of Hackettstown, N. J., reports R. Loughren, 689 Case St., St. Paul, Minn. The correspondence in the case has been submitted for our inspection. No attention is paid to letters written him.

—There will be noted this week the return to our columns of Paul W. Riedell of Schenectady, N. Y. Mr. Riedell is an old user of WEEKLY space and we welcome him on his return.

—We need two copies of the WEEKLY dated Feb. 7, 1914. Mail in the original folds to Beverly, Mass., and we shall send a fine equivalent in foreign exchanges.

—Have you seen our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting"? You need it to use in your correspondence. It introduces our hobby in an easy, conversational way and should prove of use as a missionary medium. Fifty for 25c. Are you doing anything for the hobby?

—If you have stamps for sale write us concerning our "3 in 1" contract.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

CANADA.—(1391)—Mr. J. Arthur Wainwright informs us of the receipt of the "Broadview Boys Fall Fair Sept. 20-22 Toronto Y. M. C. A." cancellation for 1917, used from Toronto on Sept. 7th.

CAPE JUBI.—(1360)—Champion's Bulletin chronicles the six stamps which we listed in our Chronicle of January 20th, with surcharge inverted.

FRANCE.—(1365)—The long heralded series of charity stamps for the benefit of War Orphans has begun to appear. Thanks to Mr. J. Saulnier we have the first one before us. The size is the same as the regular French postage stamps but the design is oblong instead of upright and consists of a picture of a woman ploughing, two horses drawing the plough and the woman guiding, the corners of the design rounded forming a frame. Across the top is "RE-

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles the receipt of a new or fourth local issue of War Tax stamps, consisting of the ½d with "WAR TAX" in two lines, spaced about 3 mm. apart, overprinted thereon. It comes on thick paper with white gum and wmk. opaque as well as on thin paper with yellow gum and wmk. transparent. The overprint is in thick block type capitals. They were issued on July 21st. 240,000 is the quantity of the issue.

MEXICO.—Mr. Wm. E. Our correspondent calls this a "new issue in Mex." We are sorry, but we cannot look upon this variation as a new issue, and we believe that the solid color about the numerals is missing on account of being printed on paper which was too dry to take the ink from the recesses on the plate, or there was not enough ink put in the recesses to be taken up by the paper when the printing took place.

BRUXELLES.—The Flemish rendering of Brussels as shown upon the special Belgium stamps issued in 1896 in honor of the exposition held in that city.

BRUSSEL.—The French form for Brussels which appears upon the special 5c and 10c stamps issued in Belgium in 1897 upon the occasion of the exhibition held in the city of Brussels.

BARKER'S CITY POST.—A label bearing this inscription and "Paid 5" was foisted on philatelists some years ago as another United States local. It is a spurious variety, for in connection with the Barker post, operated for a short time in Boston, only a handstamp was used.

BALLOON POST.—During the Franco-German war of 1870 Paris was for a time entirely surrounded by the enemy and the French resorted to an ingenious expedient for communicating with the outside world. A balloon corps was organised and during the siege no less than 65 balloons were sent up carrying mail for outside points. A great deal of this mail reached its destination, as many of the aeronauts were able to land in places friendly to the French. No special stamps were issued in connection with this service though an enhanced rate of postage was charged and the letters were generally marked "Par ballon monté".

BICYCLE POSTS.—Two stamp-issuing posts of local origin have existed at different times and as they came into being under somewhat interesting circumstances we give their history. During the stoppage of the regular U. S. postal service, occasioned by the American Railway Union strike of 1894, Mr. Arthur C. Banter, manager of the Victor Cyclery, of Fresno, California, inaugurated a service for conveying letters between that city and San Francisco—a distance of 210 miles—by means of bicycle messengers, who accomplished the journey in 18 hours. The service lasted for only twelve days—July 6th to the 18th—and during that time 380 letters were conveyed. These were franked either by special adhesive stamps of the value of 25c printed in green, or by the officially stamped envelopes, bearing in addition an impression of this special stamp. The stamps are large and lozenge shaped, the design showing a speeding cyclist in the centre. Around this is an oval band inscribed "Fresno and San Francisco Bicycle Mail Route, 1894" and in the four angles are "A. R. U" at the top, "Strike" at the bottom, "25" at the left, and "Cts" at the right.

The other local post was commenced by Mr. James A. Healy in Western Australia in 1893. This gentleman started the Coolgardie Cycle Express Company for conveying mail matter between Coolgardie and Southern Cross. Later he extended his service and in 1894 issued stamps of the value of 1s and 2s 6d, respectively, for the prepayment of packages sent by his post. These stamps show a bicycle on a plain ground with the value surrounded by the inscription "Coolgardie Cycle Express Company—Cycle Messages". Somewhat later, when the matter carried between certain points became too heavy for cycle riders, camels were employed for carrying the mails. Mr. Healy then changed the designs of the stamps and in June, 1896, issued a set of large, oblong, rectangular labels on which a camel and rider were shown crossing the desert. Around this was an oval band inscribed "Coolgardie Cycle Express Company" and in addition to the value the words "Western Australia" were shown at the sides. Three values were issued—6d, 2s, and 5s, respectively. By degrees the Government took over the mail routes established by Mr. Healy, and the operations of his local post entirely ceased in December, 1896.

CALIFORNIA STATE REVENUES.—These were special revenue stamps issued in the State of California during the period 1856-63 for use on Bills of Lading, Exchange, etc. There were a very large number of these altogether and of various face values ranging from 8c to $400. These taxes were in addition to the regular tax of the United States government.

be anywhere between these two amounts. The blue 10c appears to have come and gone unheralded and almost unnoticed. Apparently it was not cataloged or known to philatelists until a long time after it was issued.

In connection with revenue stamp statistics there is a pertinent circumstance that should be reckoned with, especially in the last year of the tax. The term "issued" often does not mean the quantity of stamps sold to the public but refers to stamps supplied to collectors of internal revenue, or other government agents for sale to the public. No figures are available as to the stocks in the hands of the government agents which were returned to the department after June 30, 1883, nor is detailed data on record regarding the stamps returned by the public for redemption.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Designs, Issues of 1875-83.

These stamps are all beautifully engraved and are worthy of much more attention and study than they have usually received. Had they been printed on white paper of course they would have been admired more and neglected less. In size they correspond to the rest of the Civil War series; the 1c and 2c values being slightly smaller than the higher denominations. Like the first issue, except the $200, each stamp is printed in one color only, but they differ from all the previous series in showing a profile of Washington instead of a three-quarter portrait. The Bank Check stamp has a female portrait—"Liberty"—and is the only U. S. documentary or general proprietary revenue stamp of the Civil War series that does not bear the likeness of the Father of His Country. On all the stamps the profile faces left.

Each stamp is different in design but the proprietaries are all somewhat similar in type and on both the bank check stamp and the proprietaries, (except the 10c), the same style of acanthus ornamentation was used. The inscriptions are all colorless. The Liberty head is on an oval with plain background, "U. S. INTER. REV." following the curve of the oval above, and "TWO 2 CENTS" in a double curve across the bottom of the stamp.

The proprietaries have the Washington profile on an oval with a very fine lathe-work background and there is a numeral of value in each upper corner. On the 1c, 2c and 5c there are curved bands following the oval on either side; that on the left reads "U. S. INTER. REV.", on the right "PROPRIETARY". The 3c, 6c and 10c have the curved band surrounding the portrait oval with "U. S. INTER. REV." above and "PROPRIETARY" below. On the 4c stamp "U. S. INTER. REV." is in a single curve above the oval and "PROPRIETARY" is in a double curve below. The 10c stamp has floral ornamentation and the numerals are shaded. On all the set the label of value is at the bottom, curved on the odd values, straight on the even values.

The 3c bears a colorless star for each of the thirteen original United States. Five are in the band on each side of the portrait oval, and three smaller ones are above it.

A study of the intricate lathe-work background in the portrait ovals will show that the dies from which the transfer rolls for these stamps were made were not the dies upon which the lathe-work was originally engraved. The lathe tool would cut the fine lines in the steel of a die block and thereby produce the pattern, but it could not cut away the spaces between the lines and leave the lines, and if an impression was taken from a die as engraved in the lathe, or from a plate made in the usual manner from a die so engraved, the fine lines of the pattern would be in color and the spaces between them would be colorless. But on the stamps it is the fine lines that are colorless while the spaces are in color, and this shows that the lathe-work pattern must have been engraved on a preliminary die and transferred directly to the die from which each plate was made. Lines cut in the preliminary die would not be depressed on the plate, would not retain the ink when in the press and would be colorless on the stamps. This holds true also with many of the early U. S. postage stamps and with paper currency, bank notes, etc. It is only reasonable to suppose the dies from which the transfer rolls were made were built up much as in the first issue.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Issues of 1875-83,—How Used.

There were no changes in the tax schedules during the life of this issue. The only documentary tax was that requiring 2c on bank checks, etc., and the proprietary tax on medicines, perfumery, etc., remained 1c for each 25c retail value or fraction up to $1 and 2c additional for each 50c of retail value over $1. The playing card tax was 5c per pack of 52 cards or less. Packs containing over 52 cards—if there were any such—were probably taxed 10c. Matches required 1c per package of 100 or fraction thereof.

The quantity of private die stamps used during this period was enormous, yet many firms used the general stamps. From October 4, 1877, to June 10, 1882, the Internal Revenue office issued 149,114,884 documentary and general proprietary stamps and 661,662,052 private die proprietaries. This is a total of 810,776,936 stamps, having a face value exceeding ten million dollars. By far the great majority were 1c stamps, as the average value per stamp was only one and three-tenths cents.

Printed and hand-stamped cancellations on the proprietaries are common and some of these cancellations are very neat and attractive. One of the quaintest and most interesting is a playing card spade in black found on the 5c proprietary. The spade bears a colorless monogram consisting of a large "M" enclosing a small "V" and "E", and below it is the date. The initials stand for Victor E. Mauger, a playing card distributor, who also used a private die stamp and the over-print is somewhat similar to the monogram in the center of his (and also the Goodall) playing card stamp. Copies of this over-print seen were on watermarked paper with cancellation dated 1878. If actually cancelled in that year these 5c stamps would be National prints of the second set.

The 2c Bank Check exists imperforate and part perforate. The latter are always perforated vertically and imperforate horizontally. The genuine varieties are rare—only a very few pairs and blocks being known—but single copies with presentable margins are frequently seen, especially on watermarked paper. All the pairs and blocks are on silk paper and there is little chance that the watermarked singles are anything but perforated copies trimmed. Probably most of the singles on silk paper belong in the same category.

ROCK ISLAND
—probably the most famous of the match stamps, as well as being one of the rarest of the Civil War revenues—44,000 were issued 51 years ago this fall and 43,994 or so of them have gone the long journey. As rare as Post Office Mauritius but sells for only $100.
This, several others of the great match & medicine rarities, a number of varieties not cataloged at all, and a beautiful lot of pairs, strips, blocks and shades are on hand.
As I have remarked once or twice before, sometimes the last man gets the leavings and sometimes he just gets left.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The many friends of H. L. Wiley, formerly of Portland, Oregon, will be interested in knowing that he has gone abroad and is in the U. S. Expeditionary Force. We have a letter from him from Liverpool.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. Rausch, Benj. Cadbury and Brig. Gen. Chas. A. Coolidge.

—The stamp papers offered by Chas. L. Widney were given to the library of the S. P. A. Unsuccessful applicants will please note this disposition.

—Maj. Warren L. Babcock, M. D., superintendent of Grace Hospital, Detroit, has arrived in Europe. He sailed August 14.

—A. E. Tuttle would like to know the name of the party in Rock Island, Ill., who sent him a want list and failed to sign his name to the same.

—According to the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly, that old and stable philatelic journal, The London Philatelist, is in danger of suspension. As the official representative of the Royal Philatelic Society it has had a remarkable existence and for some twenty-five years has been the principle exponent of British philately. Mr. Bishop suggests the creation of an endowment fund that would assure the continuance of this publication.

—M. Ohlman would like to hear from C. J. Nissen, 2510 Aubert Av., Chicago, Ill. He can get no reply to letters sent. Are any others interested?

THE POSTAGE ALONE

on 8,000 circulars or cards would be $80.00, but for only $17.50 you can run a quarter page advt. in 8,000 copies of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS. This story will go to possible customers who will not only read the paper carefully, but many of whom will pass the paper on to some collecting friend or else save the separate issues for permanent binding. Thus you have the name of your firm before 8,000 or more live stamp collectors. How many persons receiving circulars or house organs keep them for any length of time? The great majority throw them away without reading them carefully and it is folly for any stamp dealer to use circulars without advertising in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. If you have any stamps to sell, advertise them in this publication, and quick results will be evident.

CENT DE PESO.—A value expressed upon many of the stamps of the Spanish Colonies and which was equal to the fifth part of an American cent.

CENTENARIO DA ABERTURA DOS PORTOS.—An inscription shown in minute letters around the date in the lower right corner of the special 100 reis stamp issued in Brazil in 1908 to mark the centenary of the opening of Brazilian ports to foreign commerce.

CENTENARIO DE JUAN PABLO DUARTE.—An inscription shown under the portrait of the stamps issued in the Dominican Republic in April, 1914, to commemorate the centenary of the birth of Juan Pablo Duarte.

CENTENARIO DE LA REVOLUCION DE JULIO.—The inscription shown on the four special stamps issued in Bolivia in July, 1909, to mark the hundredth anniversary of the revolution of July, 1809.

CENTENARIO DE LAS INSTRUCCIONES.—A surcharge applied to three low value stamps of Uruguay in April, 1913, to mark the centenary of the Instructions given to General Artigas to declare the Independence of Uruguay.

CENTENARIOS DE LA GUERRA DE INDEPENDENCIA.—This inscription appears on all the stamps issued in Bolivia in 1909 and 1910. These stamps were intended to commemorate the war of independence which lasted from 1809 until 1825.

CENTENARIO DE S. ANTONIO.—An overprint found upon certain Mozambique stamps used in the Portuguese colony of Inhambane in 1895. It signifies "Centenary of Saint Antonio."

CENTAVOS FUENTES.—The value of the Corrientes stamp issued in February, 1860. Three centavos fuentes were equal to 15 centimos or about 3c in United States currency.

CENTES.—A contraction for "centesimi," the value in which the stamps of Austrian Italy were expressed from 1850 until 1858. A hundred centesimi were equal to a lira, worth about 20c in American money.

CENTESIMO.—The value in which most of the stamps of Italy and Uruguay are expressed. In Italy 100 centesimi are equal to a lira (20c U. S.), while in Uruguay 100 centesimos are equal to a peso worth about $1.08 in American money.

CENTIME.—The stamps of France and its colonies, Belgium, Hayti, etc., are nearly all expressed in centimes. In the European countries where this value is used 100 centimes are equal to a franc with a nominal value of 20c in U. S. money. In Hayti there are centimes de gourde (paper money; the gourde though nominally equal to a dollar having an actual value of about 20c) and centimes de piastre. The piastre is fixed on a gold basis and is equal in value to the American dollar.

CENTIMO.—The value in which the stamps of Spain, Costa Rica, the Dominican Republic and Venezuela are expressed. It ranges in value from about 1c to the fifth part of a cent in American currency.

CENTRAL AMERICAN STEAMSHIP COMPANY.—A steamship company long ago merged in another concern, with steamers plying between the United States and Mexico. The company issued a series of stamps which, in May and June, 1886, were used for the prepayment of postage on letters and newspapers carried by its vessels.

CERES TYPE.—The design of the 1849-50 and 1870-5 stamps of France shows a head of Ceres, emblematic of Liberty. Ceres or Demeter was one of the greatest of the Greek goddesses.

CERRACHI, GIUSEPPE.—An Italian sculptor, born in 1760, who visited Philadelphia in 1791 where he made busts of Washington, Franklin, Hamilton, Jefferson and other celebrities.

I am breaking up a very fine collection of U. S. stamps, U. S. Revenue stamps, Proofs, Essays and Foreign stamps, which I recently purchased.

I bought this collection from a collector who was in this game for 40 years, and there is some very desirable material in same.

You will have a chance to fill some vacant spaces now at reasonable prices.

H. F. COLMAN. SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

His bust of Alexander Hamilton was reproduced on the 30c U. S. stamp of 1870-71, that of Benjamin Franklin on the 1c stamps of 1869 and 1887, and that of Thomas Jefferson on the 30c of 1890 and the 50c of 1894. Cerrachi returned to Europe in 1796 and in 1800 was implicated in a plot which led to his being guillotined in the following year.

CERTIFICADO.—(Registered). The inscription shown upon the Registration stamps of Salvador and the 8c value of the Aguinaldo stamps of the Philippines.

CEYLON.—An island and British Crown Colony at the southern extremity of India, with which country it is closely connected by a chain of sandbanks and reefs,—Adam's Bridge, so-called from the legend, still believed by Mohammedans, that Ceylon was the place provided for Adam and Eve on their expulsion from Paradise. It has an area of 25,332 square miles, and a population of nearly four millions. The majority of the inhabitants are Singhalese (Cingalese) in the south and Tamils in the north. Ceylon was well known in ancient times and has by some been supposed to be the Ophir of the Scriptures. The Romans called the island Tagrobane. The Singhalese, who had their own kings from 543 to 1815, attained an unusual degree of civilisation at a very early date, as may be evidenced from the sculpture, etc., in many ancient cities that are still in a remarkable state of preservation. In Anuradhapura is the sacred bo tree, which is the object of veneration to thousands of Buddhist pilgrims who believe it is a branch of the tree under which Gautawa, their great teacher, sat on the day he became a Buddha. The Portuguese appeared in Ceylon in 1506 and remained there until 1656, when they were expelled by the Dutch. In 1802 the island was made a Crown Colony of Great Britain in exchange for Java, which was conceded to the Dutch. The interior of the island, however, was still ruled by a descendant of the Kandyan kings, but in 1815 the whole island became a part of the British Empire by the desire of the Kandyans themselves. The island is administered by a Governor, assisted by an Executive Council of five members and a Legislative Council of eighteen members, in which the Governor and Executive Council are included. The first postage stamps for Ceylon were issued in 1855.

CHAD. — (See "Oubangui-Chari-Tchad".)

CHAHI.—The value in which most of the Persian stamps issued since 1885 are expressed. Prior to that date the coin was spelled "shahi". A chahi is the twentieth part of a kran and is worth about ½c in American money.

CHAIX, A., & Co.—A firm of printers in Paris who printed the stamps issued in Guatemala in January, 1878.

CHAKR.—A watermark found in the Siam stamps of the 1887 issue. It is a representation of a weapon which, with the kri, forms the royal crest. Its literal meaning is "a wheel" and it is a circular weapon which, like the boomerang, was supposed to return to the thrower after being hurled into the air.

CHALA.—An overprint found upon certain 5c and 10c stamps of Peru which, until recently, were considered to have been used provisionally in the small port of Chala, Arequipa, in 1885. Specialists are now inclined to think that the overprint is bogus or, at best, a cancellation.

CHALK-SURFACED PAPER.—Paper coated with a layer of glutinous material and a white dust which, when dry and polished, has a highly glazed surface of some delicacy. The surface of the paper is so sensitive that this coating forms an excellent safeguard against the fraudulent cleaning of stamps, any attempt at moving the cancellation resulting in the removal of the design as well. For this reason this paper was extensively used for some years in the production of British and British Colonial stamps. The name "chalk-surfaced" arose from the very general impression that chalk was the base used in obtaining the glazed surface. It has now been proved that artificial barium sulphate is more often used and paper treated with this salt will show a black mark if rubbed with a silver coin. True chalky paper will not show a mark if rubbed with silver but the term, though technically incorrect, has become so well established by custom that it is hardly likely to be changed now.

CHALON, ALBERT EDWARD.—An artist born at Geneva on February 15th, 1781. He painted the coronation portrait of Queen Victoria in her robes of State in 1837 and this portrait was reproduced on the early stamps of New Zealand. Chalon died in London on October 3rd, 1860.

CHAMBA.—A native State in the Punjab district of India having an area of 3,200 square miles and a population of about 140,000. Since 1886 the contemporary stamps of India, overprinted "CHAMBA STATE" have been used in this territory.

CHARI-TCHAD.—(See "Oubangui-Chari-Tchad".)

CHARITY STAMPS.—A class of special stamps that have been issued from time to time by various governments with the laudable object of obtaining funds for certain deserving charities. The two large stamps issued in Victoria will serve as a case in point. These, though bearing the facial values of 1d and 2½d, were sold by the Post office at 1s and 2s 6d respectively, and the difference between the nominal and actual postal value was given to a charitable institution.

CHARKARI.—A native State in Bundelkund, Central India, having an area of 787 square miles and a population of about 12,000. Special postage stamps were first issued in 1894—a year after the opening of the State Post Office.

CHARKHARI.—The local rendering of Charkari as shown upon the stamps of that State.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Civil War Series—Arrangement on the Plates.

From the beginning of the Civil War general issue revenue stamps in 1862 until they went out of use in 1883 the size of nearly all the plates used for printing the stamps and the arrangement of the stamps of the same size and (or) denomination on the plates was, in general, the same. The private proprietaries of what may be termed the standard size were also similarly arranged. Most of the plates measured 12½ by 16 inches and the stamps were laid out with the long dimension of the plate either vertical or horizontal according to the size, shape and number of the stamps to go on the plate. The standard arrangement for nearly all the documentary stamps and the proprietaries from 1c to 10c was as follows:—

Long dimension of the plates horizontal.

3c to 20c, 17 across, 10 down	170
25c to 40c, 17 across, 6 down	102
50c to 70c, 17 across, 5 down	85
$1 to $1.90, 15 across, 6 down	90
$2 to $3.50, 12 across, 6 down	72
$5 Proprietary, 6 across, 3 down	18

Long dimension of the plates vertical.

1c and 2c, 14 across, 15 down	210
$5 and $10, 12 across, 6 down	72
$15 to $50, 9 across, 6 down	54
50c Proprietary, 7 across, 5 down	35
$1 Proprietary, 7 across, 5 down	35

The size and shape of the 1871 $200 and $500 documentary plates is not known but the sheets contained eight stamps and presumably were arranged four across by two down. The $200 first issue also came in sheets of eight but was arranged in two vertical rows of four.

On page 25 of the Boston Book the arrangement of the 1c and 2c first issue is given as 21 rows of ten, but this layout cannot have been used on any plates measuring 12½ by 16 inches. All 1c and 2c sheets seen by the present writer were laid out 14 by 15. The Boston Book also states that some of the early plates contained only 180 or 195 stamps and that these were for the 1c and 2c Proprietary and the 2c Bank Check. If so, the arrangement was probably 15 down and 12 or 13 across, with the long dimension of the plate vertical.

The plates for the first issue were not numbered serially and in the usual sense of the term have no plate numbers. Instead, the plates bear an index letter and a value number which always corresponds to the denomination of the stamps on the plate. Each title had a letter assigned to it; that for Proprietary being "A", Charter Party "D", Conveyance "M", etc. Control index "100 M" is therefore the "plate number" for the $1.00 Conveyance. "4A" is the 4c Proprietary, "500D" is the $5.00 Charter Party, etc., and if there had been a $5 Proprietary in the first issue its control index would have been "500A".

This system is puzzling to collectors who do not understand its principle, as it is possible to have several—even as many as eleven—different stamps that bear what seems to be the same plate number. On the plates where the denomination number comes below one stamp (X) and the index letter happens to come below the adjoining stamp (Y), if these two stamps are separate the stamp X will show what one would naturally suppose to be a complete plate number. If pairs of each of the 50c titles bearing plate number controls were so separated the result in the case of the X stamps would be ten different stamps all with the same plate number—50! This peculiarity has occasionally misled collectors into thinking that the same plate had been used to print different stamps. A few of the early plates do not bear the letters which were assigned to their titles after the system was fully developed and there is evidence that after April 30, 1864, the system was not continued on all new plates.

The plates of the 1871-75 series were numbered serially except the $200 and $500 documentary and the 50c, $1 and $5 Proprietary, which bore no plate numbers.

The National Bank Note Co. plates of the 1875 series were also numbered serially in the usual manner. The Boston Book gives plates No. 2 and No. 14 for the 2c documentary and the writer has also seen this stamp on silk paper with plate No. 15. Assuming 50,000 impressions as the life of each plate there would have been required from 1875 to 1883 some 25 plates for the 1c Proprietary, 7 plates for the 2c, 3 plates for the 3c, and 5 plates for the 4c, but only one plate each for the 5c, 6c and 10c.

Plates made by the Bureau for both general issues and private die stamps had horizontal and vertical guide lines and so far as the writer knows these lines were not placed on any plates by either the National or the American Bank Note Companies. Stamps showing guide lines therefore are believed to have been printed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and these have been found on the 2c documentary, perforated and rouletted, the 1c proprietary, perforated and rouletted, and the 2c, 3c, 4c and 10c proprietary, perforated. It is possible that guide lines were added by the Bureau to plates used by it which had been engraved by the Bank Note Companies, so it is not absolutely certain that all stamps with guide lines were printed from plates engraved by the Bureau. It seems quite probable that some plates for the 2c documentary and the 1c and 2c proprietary were made by the American Bank Note Co.

The quantities of stamps issued indicate the number of plates made by the Bureau did not exceed 8 for the 2c documentary, 10 for the 1c proprietary, 3 for the 2c proprietary, 1 for the 3c proprietary and 2 for the 4c stamp.

EDITORIAL.

Expected—It will not be long, we are informed, before there will be developments, particularly in the field of revenue stamps, to record. In the meantime, reports of different kinds emanate from Washington, which may become fact at any moment, so rapidly may events culminate in these bustling days. In due course, we shall chronicle the certainties—when they are known to be such.

Book—From Mr. Israel Prager, Springfield, Mass., we have received the following edifying comment: "Of great interest to philatelists is a chapter entitled 'War Postage Stamps,' in 'Chats on Military Curios,' by Stanley C. Johnson (F. A. Stokes Company, New York). The author describes the origin of war postage stamps in the sixteenth century, 'their originator being a certain Johann von Taxis, who obtained permission to carry letters from civilians in Germany to members of a German expeditionary force then fighting in Italy. The frank marks applied to the correspondence entrusted to him constitute the first war postage stamps of which we have any record.' The book contains interesting photographs of censored entires, relics of former wars of Great Britain, including both cards and envelopes. One envelope lacks a stamp, in place of which is the inscription by the sender: 'Stamps not procurable; On Active Service.' Concerning this Mr. Johnson writes: 'The bulk of the letters reached England with no adhesive stamp, the words, On Active Service, etc., proving a sufficient passport in cases where supplies were genuinely unprocurable.' The article contains illustrations of the more important cancellations of war stamps and closes the chapter with some valuable advice to collectors on purchasing stamps of which forgeries are known to exist."

Special—Speaking of war stamps reminds us that our attention has been directed to a statement in Ambassador Gerard's account in the Philadelphia Public Ledger of his experiences in Germany. In the chapter on prison camps, conditions at Ruhleben are described and reference made to the "adaptabilities" there. After detailing some of the educational advantages offered, Mr. Gerard mentions a postal service with special stamps that enabled a prisoner to write to a comrade in another barracks and rely upon the delivery of the letter by the camp overseers. We can imagine that a means of postal communication of this kind dignified by the use of special stamps is a comfort and a convenience.

Off—Just as we begin to think that we are inculcating a proper regard for stamp collecting in the minds of the unphilatelic populace, some recalcitrant uprises and uses fair Philatelia as the target of verbal slings and arrows. Several correspondents have informed us of the sacrilegious conduct of the Japanese gentleman, quoted in the Literary Digest for September 15th, in the course of the review, "The Foolish Cult of the Japanese Print." Particularly, Mabel Macferran, Philadelphia, addresses us in fetching phrase: "Doubtless some other subscribers have noticed the highly seasoned reference to our hobby. This terrible blow seems to be dealt by a man who has some knowledge (though no appreciation) of philately, as further along in his tirade the gentleman refers to the price of a first issue British Guiana, albeit frowningly. I send you this note as positive proof that there is yet much missionary work to be done in the philatelic line." Here is the indictment of the gentle pursuit: "He therefore sees print-collecting 'degenerated to the level of stamp collecting—that strange manifestation of the acquisitive instinct in man that ranks him only a little higher than the jackdaws! * * * Such a price as 75 sovereigns seems to me almost as preposterous as paying the same amount for a stamp of—let us say—the first issue of British Guiana." Malcolm H. Ganser of Norristown, Pa., surmises that the Japanese gentleman may not know more about prints than he does stamps. This "jackdaw" classification is "too crewel," indeed, and we shall let others regulate the conduct of the world hereafter, as we are a-weary of the job of cosmic custodian.

Paged—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who pasted newspaper clippings about stamp collecting all over the inside covers of his album? Is this o. f. c. lamenting the disappearance of paper collars with the old-fashioned dealer who said that he did not want his customers to join stamp societies because they would learn how to buy stamps at prices lower than those charged by him?

Noted—It is unusual for our post office department to notice officially the stamp issues of any other country, and the following departmental order issued from Washington under date of September 18th, 1917, is the graceful exception, "The postal administration of Canada has advised this Department that said administration issued on the 15th instant a special three-cent postage stamp to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of confederation and that said stamp is permanently valid for the prepayment of postage. Postmasters and other postal officials will please take due notice of the foregoing. Otto Praeger, Second Ass't P. M. Gen." It is becoming increasingly necessary for the postal employee to have a knowledge of stamps and it is not an extravagant prophecy to say that the time will come when he will consider a collection of "foreign and domestic stamps" one of the tools of his trade.

Barter—Our old friend, Edward F. Carter, advertises that he has "just traded two hogs for ten sheets of doubles," meaning the errors. In these days of hog supremacy, it is gratifying to know that staple as hogs are, stamps have the call. Hogs are twenty cents a pound or better, and even though hogs that enjoyed the hospitality of the Carter domains must have weighed more than three hundred pounds each on the hoof, yet the astute Mr. Carter knew what he was doing. We trust that our hero will find his speculation a profitable one, even though his hogs were the fattest "in Epicurus' sty."

Contributed—A reader says: "Your invitation to name the stamp that stands forth most prominently in mind throughout the vista of the years is a good idea. I retain in memory, never to be effaced, the picture of the two grana, 1858, Two Sicilies, with its picture of the wonderful coat-of-arms, which cost me in the seventies, one cent. O, the mystery and fascination of the three legs in action and even now my jaded emotions are quickened a bit when I remember how, solitarily, I studied and gloated over the wonderful creation. Yes, I have been a surgeon for many years and perhaps predestination was indicated by the charm that the anatomical vagary held for me." Another correspondent writes "My boyish fancy was most enthralled by the one real red, first issue of Salvador, which was given me by a boy whose mother got a letter from San Salvador, on which there are a number of the stamps in question. I can always see that stamp in my mind's eye."

OUR BOOK TRIUMPHS.

We have a right to feel pleased with our book products and that they are appreciated by our readers is shown by the daily orders that reach our office.

This week we place on the market a booklet by Poole and Bartels devoted to the United States Virgin Islands stamps. This erstwhile Danish dependency has issued some interesting stamps, and now taken over by the U. S., its philatelic history will become a closed book. Poole and Bartels have written that history and you need it. Price 10c. Now ready.

Our books are all the same size but different in make-up. They can be cared for easily and consulted readily. When you send in your order make out an additional list from our advertised offerings.

A SALONICA PROVISIONAL.

Cleanthis Zonaras sends us an interesting cover, consisting of the ordinary 10 lepta Greece with the inscription of "Prosorini Kivernisis" (Provisional Government) issued by the Greek provisional government of Salonica and overprinted "Kartosemon Dikastikon Lepton 10" in three lines. The surcharge is printed in black vertically, running upwards.

The surcharge means "Stamp Judicial of 10 Lepta." The word "lepton" is written with omega (the long "o"), this being the genitive plural form instead of the usual nominative plural "lepta." The singular form is written with the short "o" as in English.

While the Greek Revolution has come to a successful end and King Constantine has been dethroned, and while the provisional government of Salonica is out of existence and the several parts of Greece are united, the post office at Salonica not only continues the use of stamps of the provisional government type, but also uses the stamps of that period which were overprinted for judicial affairs.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Chas. F. Beadle, O. Kendall, Malcolm H. Ganser, Jas. D. Havens, H. C. Barr, and Herman W. Boers.

—It is reported that the Collectors' Club will move shortly to 120 West 49th St., where new quarters, including several rooms, are to be remodeled at once.

ATTENTION
The permanent location of Camp Sherman in our city, sheltering 42,375 soldiers, has increased my duties to such extent that it is absolutely impossible for me to attend to my postal card business any longer for which reason I hereby offer it for sale. It is by far the largest and most varied stock of Postal Cards and Letter Cards of any dealer in the World. My successor would have practically no opposition in the United States, for I know of no dealer in the Western Hemisphere who carries rarities in stock to the extent that I do.
If the prospective purchaser can satisfy my lawyer as to the security, ready cash will not be essential. [97

Items Totalling $187,000 Involved in Mrs. Halladay's Quest.

(This clipping is taken from the Buffalo, N. Y., Courier. As we have previously printed news matter dealing with the case under consideration so we print this item showing some further developments in connection with the disposition of the famous million dollar Worthington collection.—Ed.)

George H. Worthington's million-dollar stamp collection is still in the legal limelight.

After being apparently settled in supreme court action brought some time ago by Mrs. Alice F. Halladay of No. 469 Delaware avenue to have determined her equity in the collection, another action appears to be pending, inasmuch as an order has recently been granted to serve summons and complaint by publication in an action in which Mrs. Halladay makes Harrison B. McGraw of Cleveland and Warren H. Colson defendants.

Mr. McGraw, who was a defendant in the former action, is sued as assignee for the benefit of creditors of Mr. Worthington.

Interest of the parties in these three separate items is to be determined by the new action:

First—an item of $101,310.41 deposited in the Bankers' Trust Co. of Buffalo to the credit of Judge Daniel J. Kenefick and Wallace Thayer as trustees;

Second—Certain stamps in the possession of Mr. Colson valued at $55,000.

Third—An item of $31,868.41 received by Mr. Colson, according to Mrs. Halladay's claim, from the sale of a portion of the stamp collection.

Although when the action was contemplated, the proceedings were supposed to be friendly, some friction appears to have developed, for Mrs. Halladay's lawyer, it is said, had difficulty in getting Mr. McGraw's attorney to accept service of notice and had to resort to special term order of publication, which will be supplemented by mailing copy of the summons and complaint to Mr. McGraw in Cleveland.

Mrs. Halladay's original interest in the Worthington stamp collections developed when she loaned Mr. Worthington some valuable securities, which he deposited as collateral to meet financial obligations. His affairs, however, did not improve, and eventually there was an assignment for the benefit of creditors. In the meantime, Mrs. Halladay had taken as security for her loan a lien on the collection, and had actual possession of many of the famous stamps.

Her claim to these stamps was disputed by the assignee and others, and she brought her original action, which resulted in a judgment in her favor.

The new action is brought to determine the interest of herself and others in the proceeds realized from the sale of some of the stamps and to another portion remaining unsold. The case will be tried here some time this winter.

TAX PAIDS—ONCE MORE.

By E. D. Swartout.

The interesting article in Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News (Sept. 8, 1917), by Mr. Hart, brings up many pleasant hours spent in the interesting sideline of Tax Paids. I, also, am very much interested in the tax paids, and one line on which the article did not touch, was the U. S. Customs. The customs on Imported Cigars, where the serial numbers and names of different transports and ocean going boats are printed, makes an interesting study.

Then there are the common 10 and 20 cigarette stamps (collected by districts and factory numbers, and one for every month, which law the factory must comply with), make a fine little sideline. The large white and black stamps (U. S. Customs) from Tampa, Fla., are of interest.

Take the Cuban, Porto Rico and Philippine tax paids, while plain, have a field by themselves. The barrel of 100 gal. spirits contains 3 different stamps, one for the 100 gals., 1 for the customs, and 1 for the warehouse, which goes to show what a large field there is to be covered.

More attention should be paid this interesting sideline. Tax paids deserve a place in the catalogue as well as the other revenues, and the Match and Medicines. Can we not have more interest worked up in them and give them their place in the light?

PHILADELPHIA SEASON OPENER.

September 18, the Philadelphia Stamp Club held a most successful meeting. In the absence of the president, E. L. Green, R. B. Smith of Norristown presided. Invitations had been sent to each club member, also other prominent collectors, announcing an informal auction sale, refreshments, and a contest. The subject of the contest was not announced. Nearly 100 were present.

The auction sale of one hundred lots with James Whiteside as auctioneer consumed only 56 minutes. The refreshments, which were ample, were appreciated, and during this informal part of the meeting good fellowship prevailed. There were stories and jokes, and George Roberts of Sharon Hill was a past master at the art.

The contest consisted of the naming of twelve coats of arms of South and Central American countries. The room was darkened and the arms of each country flashed on the screen for two minutes, when the lights were put on for one minute to enable each person to write down the name of the country. There were ten prizes for the best average of answers:—A 5c error by Mr. Mann; blank albums; pocket stock books; other stamps, and a sealed "pig in the poke" prize by Mr. Wolsieffer.

There was only one perfect list, by Mr. Leupold, who selected the 5c error. The other nine prize winners fought shy of the Wolsieffer prize until Mr. Pierce of Camden offered to take a chance on "P. M.'s" contribution. Instead of finding a cheap stamp, he was rewarded with a very fine copy of No. 2a Colombian Republic 1859 issue, catalogued $4.

Mr. Wolsieffer guaranteed on the envelope that the prize would catalog at least 2c, and he made good. It is unusual for a stamp club to have so well attended and enthusiastic a meeting thus early in the season, and it shows what can be done if the members get out, hustle, and make it an object to attend. The auction sales and contests have always been a feature of P. S. C. meetings. The Club meets the first Friday and third Tuesday in each month. The City Press Assn. had reporters present, and notices appeared in the daily press the next morning.

My thirteen increasingly successful auctions show that it is possible to get a crowd of buyers together in San Francisco and to obtain prices fully equal or better than realized at eastern sales. Over fifty people attended my last sale on Aug. 28th and there were 120 mail bidders and some splendid prices were obtained. Other and bigger sales are in preparation. 30c ON WATERMARKED PAPER.

By H. F. Colman.

I notice in your chronicle of new issues that the 30c has appeared on unwatermarked paper. I took this matter up with the Post Office Department and they informed me that their stock of 30c stamps printed on watermarked paper perf. 10 was so large that it lasted over the period in which stamps were printed perf. 10 on unwatermarked paper, so that the records show that none of these stamps have been issued thus. I am under the impression that the stamp does not exist perf. 10 on unwatermarked paper. If there were no 30c stamps printed until after all the wheels had been changed from 10 to 11, it would be an impossibility to find them perf. 10 on unwatermarked paper. The chances are somebody has gotten hold of some sheets where the watermark is very indistinct. It is almost impossible to tell the last printings on watermarked paper, whether they are watermarked or unwatermarked. I have had plenty of sheets myself where I could tear out a block of eight, even with a margin, and it would be impossible to see any trace of watermark.

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

United States.—We are thankful to Mr. Joseph Demers for the privilege of inspecting a vertical pair of 12c perf. 10 unwatermarked stamps, in a deep maroon color, imperforate (with the exception of one hole at the right) between. This, of course, is an error of perforation, and this particular pair may prove to be unique. One of the horizontal rows of perforations failed to perforate for exactly ten holes, the "break" extending one hole to the adjoining vertical pair of stamps to the left.

Mr. Demers also shows us another vertical pair imperforate between, except for three holes at the right. In this instance, also, the "break" covers ten holes, and the adjoining vertical pair of stamps at the left have three holes missing at the right.

Is it possible that some one else has found the perforation break on these stamps, or on some other denominations? It may have occurred with the ten holes missing exactly between two stamps.

Antigua.—(1391)—(See "Dominica," in this issue.)—Although ½d stamps overprinted "WAR STAMP" in red were shipped to this Colony from England on May 25th, for some reason the sale of the new printing has been postponed, states Ewen's Weekly. Does not the official notice, as mentioned under "Dominica" this week, cover the matter? If the rule enforcing the use of these stamps lapsed on March 31st, why issue the stamps?

Canada.—(1387)—Thanks to Mr. O. Kendall, we are in receipt of the 3c Commemorative stamp (issued in Winnipeg on Sept. 14). The stamp is issued to commemorate the semi-centennial of the formation of the Canadian Confederation, and it bears, as the chief part of its design, a miniature engraving of Harris E. Plinting's painting, "Fathers of Confederation." An illustration of this painting was shown in the Weekly for September 15th.

The new stamp is handsome in design and construction, and the only fault to be found with it is that there is nothing on it to indicate what the picture in the center is. At the top the words "Canada Postage" and "Three Cents" appear in two slightly curved lines, ends downward, with "1867" in the upper left and "1917" in the upper right corners; numerals "3" appear at either side with a torch above and maple leaves below, and the word "Confederation" is at the bottom.

The new stamps are printed in sheets of two hundred and are divided into four post office panes of fifty each—with fourteen straight edge stamps to each pane of fifty—five by ten.

(1391)—The plate number on the new stamps that we have seen is "Ottawa—No. A3."

Copies of the new stamp have also been shown us by Messrs. B. H. Drake, Eugene Klein, Gladstone Perry, Harold M. Drown, J. B. Oullet, Herman W. Boers and E. H. Paterson.

Commemorative Adhesive.
3c deep brown.

The following reprint of a clipping kindly supplied by Messrs. O. Kendall and G. A. Hall will interest many of our readers who collect the sidelines of philately:

"Ottawa, Sept. 15.—The minister of finance announces that an issue of war savings stamps is in course of preparation. These stamps will be used in connection with a plan to interest those who are able to save only in small amounts in the purchase of war savings certificates.

"Special war savings cards will be issued with squares, upon which the stamps purchased from time to time may be placed. When all the squares are filled the card may be taken to the post office and exchanged for a war savings certificate. The stamps will be in the denomination of 25 cents and the cards will contain spaces for 34 of them and one 10-cent postage stamp, making altogether $8.60, and when filled will be exchanged for a certificate entitling the holder to $10 at the end of three years."

Chile.—The Revista Filatelica de Chile chronicles the 15c produced by lithography. This adds a value to the series produced by the Dujardin printing machine in use at the Santiago stamp factory. Although the basis of the production is by lithography, the original design being engraved on stone, that is, for the frames of these stamps, we believe a new name for the productions should be created, so that the statement that a stamp is produced by lithography will mean, as it has always meant, that it was printed direct from the stone. We suggest the words "offsetography," "rotography" (but this should mean exclusively recess-printing from rotary plates, and should be applied to the present coil stamps issued by the United States, although we believe the centers of the current Chilian stamps are produced by this method), or "dujardinography." The first word, "offsetography," seems to fill the bill.

The 1c and 2c produced by the new method are listed in Scott's Catalogue for 1917. The 10c was listed in their September 1916 Circular, the 4c, 5c and 20c in their November issue and the 8c, 30c and 50c in the February, 1917, issue. We also chronicled some of these denominations, if not all. A list to date, therefore, is as follows:

Adhesives.
1915-1917. Perf. 13½x14½.
Typographed.
1c dull green. 4c brown.
2c red. 8c slate.
Engraved.
5c blue.
Typographed and Engraved.
10c blue & blk. 30c brown & blk.
15c violet & blk. 50c green & blk.
20c orange & blk.

There are many shades of most all values. The portrait on the new 15c is that of Don Jose Joaquin Prieto.

Cuba.—(1394)—There is a reason for most things, and we wondered what the reason was for the Cuban Government to demonetize the stamps of the Map design of 1914; the contents of the decree thus demonetizing these stamps having been published in our Chronicle of September 15th. Our wondering has ceased, thanks to our kind correspondent, Mr. John S. Otero, who enlightens us in regard to the matter.

A stamp tax went into effect on September 1st and the denizens of the Cuban republic have to pay a tax on drafts, orders, invoices, bills, receipts and any contracts, private or public.

The plates of the Map stamp design are being used for the printing of revenue stamps, which are produced in sheets of 400, each stamp overprinted "TIMBRE OFICIAL" in two lines. These stamps are rouletted, instead of perforated, as were the postage stamps produced from these plates. We do not know the denominations of the revenue stamps thus produced, and it is not part of this department to chronicle foreign revenue stamps, although we give the information for reference because the old postage plates were afterward used for revenue stamp purposes.

Dominica.—(1391)—According to an official notice, reprinted in Ewen's Weekly, we note that the rule charging a tax of ½d on letters from Antigua, St. Kitts-Nevis, and Dominica, went into effect on September 1st, 1916, and was in force until March 31st, 1917, only. The tax was only on letters within the British Empire.

Great Britain.—(1393)—Stamp Collecting states that the "QNE" variety recently announced, chronicled by us on Sept. 8th, differs from the same variety which appeared two years ago. The scratch on the plate being practically vertical from the bottom of "O" in "ONE" to the line below. It comes from the fourth row from the top, right hand corner of the sheet, but our contemporary does not give the plate number. The same publication mentions another variety: A malformed numeral "1" in the lower left corner, which has quite a broad serif on the left side of its base, so that it appears almost as a reversed "L." The variety exists only in Booklet No. 59, in which it is the first stamp of the second row.

(1385)—Ewen's Weekly lists another new shade of the 1½d, also two new shades of the 2d.

(1393)—Watermark varieties of the new printings of the 5sh have appeared, according to our contemporary quoted above.

Adhesives.
1½d yellow-brown.
2d intense yellow-orange.
2d deep red-orange.
5sh carmine-red (aniline), no wmk.
5sh carmine-red (aniline), wmk. inverted.

Stamp Collecting states that new varieties now appearing show that a new die has been cut for the ½d value of the current series. The following is a description of a means to distinguish the new die: 1. White squares at sides of Crown, above the words "Postage" and "Revenue." 2. The forehead and nose are white. 3. A considerable portion of —Our book on the Danish West Indies by Poole and Bartels is now completed. It is issued at the very low price of 10c and is a gem. In ordering this book look through our list and see what others you need. No stamp collector can really do business without having a philatelic library. All our booklets are reasonable in price and are authoritative. Make up a list from our book advertisement.

Advertising Chat

—We call attention to the advertisement of "Stamp Collecting" elsewhere in this issue. The publishers of the WEEKLY will accept subscriptions in return for a similar courtesy that is being extended us by the pubilshers of "Stamp Collecting." Outside of a house organ this is the only weekly stamp paper in England. It is bright and newsy.

—British dealers who want to advertise in the Ward book soon to be issued should mail their copy direct to Mr. Vallancey, the publisher of "Stamp Collecting." It is only by immediate action that there will be any possibility of reaching us prior to the date of publication.

—Our edition of the Ward book on British stamps will no doubt run to 1500 copies and advertising will be accepted at the usual rate. Five pages of advertising have already been received and the low price at which the book will be issued will cause a ready sale. It will be printed in an artistic manner and have some interesting features.

—We regret to say that the Gray Stamp Co. pays no attention to letters sent them. We have left only one recourse in connection with this firm's obligation to our publication, and deem it necessary to acquaint our patrons with the situation.

—We carried last season considerable advertising by Leonard Brand of London. In reply to a letter sent him soliciting advertising for the WEEKLY he replied that he could do no business with us due to the slowness of American dealers in meeting their obligations. While this charge is true of certain dealers, (the facts having been submitted for our consideration), we are glad to say that it does not apply to the rank and file.

—We have received a three-in-one contract signed by P. L. Taylor of Westfield, N. J. We looked up Mr. Taylor's references and his advertising commences elsewhere in this issue. Anyone who has an idea of dealing in stamps will do well to take up with us this special contract.

—If you think so highly of the WEEKLY as you profess to, why not help increase its circulation? Every subscriber we secure is an asset for philately. Use our little leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting," and the cynic may be won over to the hobby. Fifty for 25c postfree. Send for a supply.

—Our new D. W. I. book is now on sale. It's a handsome book and you need it.

—On Saturday, October 27, we shall celebrate the issuance of No. 1400. This is some anniversary surely. It will be a season-opener and an excellent number for the advertiser.

HAYTI.—(1394)—Varieties of the 1c provisional stamp, which was chronicled in our issue of Sept. 15th, have come to our notice as follows: A doubling of the deep blue overprint caused by a "jump" of the handstamp by which it was applied; three bars instead of two under "ct." on a copy with the gray-blue overprint.

PARAGUAY.—A new series of postage stamps have been or are about to be issued for this South American Republic. Each value will have a different portrait, as follows, according to the Revista Filatelica de Chile:

1c, Dr. Emilio Aceval; 2c, Dr. Eusebio Ayala; 3c, Dr. Benigno Ferreyra; 5c, Dr. Fabio Queirolo; 8c, Dr. Juan A. Escurra; 10c, Dr. Cecilio Baez; 20c, Don Juan B. Gaona; 40c, Don Albino Jara; 60c, Dr. Adolfo Riquelme; 80c, Dr. Manuel Gondra; 1p, Dr. J. Zubizarreta, and 3p, Dr. L. Rojas.

RUSSIA.—(1391)—A correspondent writing to Stamp Collecting states that there are two varieties of the postal card with overprint of crossed swords and liberty cap, one of which we listed in our Chronicle of August 25th. A postal card without stamp has been also overprinted with the same device, as well as the postal card issued for prisoners of war. This correspondent emits surprise that the postage stamps were also overprinted, and he states, "All these overprints were made at the request of some 'extremists', they are not official, and can only be regarded as a line of topical stationery or souvenirs." We prefer to think that the various items with this overprint were sold for the benefit of charity, as previously announced.

By the way, we have forgotten to state that the overprint is placed in the center of a block of four stamps, and not on each stamp separately.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—See "Antigua" and "Dominica" in this issue.

SALVADOR.—(1391)—The Revista Filatelica de Chile chronicles other values of the new series, which we chronicled on August 25th.

(1394)—The same publication states that the entire series has been overprinted "OFICIAL" for the use of the government. We chronicled the 17c on Sept. 15th.

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO.—(1384)—On July 7th we listed two new war stamps for these Colonies, and these will be known as the 3rd local issue, and not to be confused with the 4th local issue chronicled last week. This introduces what we wish to chronicle. The 3rd local issue was overprinted on two shades of the ½d and one shade of the 1d. One of the ½d and the 1d were on medium paper with white gum and watermark opaque, while the other ½d was on thin paper with yellow gum and transparent watermark. We therefore beg to list:

War Tax Stamps.

3rd local issue.

½d deep green, medium paper.
1d scarlet, medium paper.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—Stamp Collecting for Sept. 1st, mentions the receipt from a correspondent of the current 3d purple on yellow, on a new colored paper, and with single-line instead of comb perforation.

Is it possible that all the engraved stamps of the British Colonies, supplied by the Colonial Office, are to have new perforations? We have not seen the new Turks & Caicos Islands 3d as mentioned above, but there is a possibility, we surmise, that it is perforated 14½ instead of the old 14. For this surmise we direct our readers to the announcement of the new Bahamas special delivery stamp chronicled on July 21, which was perforated 14½ instead of the 14 of the earlier stamps of the same type. We will have further investigations to report on in the near future.

ZANZIBAR.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles new shades for the 3c and 6c.

Adhesives.

3c bright green.
6c carmelian-red.

G. BIXBY, 570 Rutherford Ave., Charlestown, Mass., Supt. of Sales and Bourse.

Sept. 18th, 1917.

The 388th (regular) meeting of the Society was held this evening. After the usual business Mr. John N. Morse exhibited some of his "War Post Cards." These were very interesting, and Mr. Morse was given a vote of thanks for his kindness in coming to entertain the members at very short notice, there not being time between the time of asking him to come and the meeting for him to arrange them to his own satisfaction. There were 26 members and one visitor present. Ransom W. Stiles was elected to junior membership. The application of Mr. Geo. R. Kimball for non-resident membership and of Richard J. Harrison for junior membership were posted.

Mr. Russell, the Treasurer, stated that the number of members who had not yet paid their dues was unusually large, and urged all those who had not yet paid to do so immediately. Prompt payment on the part of those in arrears will enable him to meet current expenses without drawing on "interest-bearing money."

Don't forget the "War Stamp" competition at the October meeting. Come to the informal meeting on the first Tuesday of October.

FREDERIC W. STILES, Sec.

PHILADELPHIA.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

ADDENDA.

ALLEN'S CITY DISPATCH. — A local post established in Chicago in 1882 by Edward Allen, who had at one time been connected with an old local post in New York. His offices were established at 125 South Clark Street and he claimed he could deliver letters, circulars, etc., in better time than the regular city mail carriers. That there were good grounds for his claims seems proved from the success of his business, which was ultimately suppressed by the Post Office authorities in February, 1883. Allen issued his own stamps, these being all of one design, without indication of value, and in different colors.

ADAMS & COMPANY EXPRESS.— This company, while affiliated with the express business of Adams & Company of the Atlantic Coast, was operated solely and entirely on the Pacific Coast. It was entirely separate and distinct as to management and capital and was originally founded in 1849. In 1854 stamps of the value of 25c were issued and these were used not only in payment of the charges on letters, but also as currency. They were redeemable at any of the Company's offices in California and Oregon at 25c each, and it was expressly impressed on employes that they were to try and persuade purchasers wishing to buy checks for small sums to use the stamps instead. There were several different varieties and also a special stamp, without indication of value, for use on newspapers. The company ceased to operate in 1855, when a financial panic in San Francisco forced it to close its doors.

ADAMS CITY EXPRESS POST.— A local post operating in New York about 1850, regarding which no authentic information is known. It was probably connected with the well known express firm of Adams and Company, and some of the stamps issued in connection with it are said to have been used from Boston and Philadelphia, as well as New York.

AMERICAN LETTER MAIL COMPANY. — A local post established in 1844 by Lysander Spooner, and operating between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other points. Two types of stamps were issued in connection with this post, one being without value and the other being inscribed "20 for a dollar."

BAKER'S CITY EXPRESS POST.— A local post presumed to have operated from Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1849, in connection with which a special 2c stamp was issued. No definite information is known concerning this post.

BARNARD'S CARIBOO EXPRESS. —A local post of British Columbia, in connection with which stamps of several types without indication of value were issued. This post is included among the local posts of the United States from the fact that the company maintained an office in San Francisco.

BARNARD'S CITY LETTER EXPRESS.—A local post established at Boston, Mass., in 1845 by Morris H. Barnard. Its headquarters were at 47 Cambridge Street, and the two stamps issued in connection therewith are great rarities.

BARR'S PENNY DISPATCH. — A local post established by Elias Barr at Lancaster, Pa., in 1855, in connection with which stamps were issued.

BLIZZARD MAIL.—On March 12th, 1888, a severe snowstorm and blizzard tied up traffic in New York and vicinity pretty completely, and for the four days following little mail left Bayonne, N. J. In this emergency Dr. W. H. Mitchell and Mr. A. W. Seward of the latter city established a temporary service for the dispatch of important mail to New York. Each morning from March 12th to 16th they sent a special messenger on the steamer Chancellor of the Jersey Central Railroad from Bergen Point, Bayonne, to New York with mail. About 500 letters were carried by this service at a special charge of 5c each in addition to the regular government 2c stamp. A stamp was prepared for the prepayment of this special charge, this showing, in the center, the arms of the State of New Jersey, with the inscription, "Blizzard Mail to" above, "N. Y. P. O." below, "FIVE" at left, and "CENTS" at right.

BOUTON'S CITY DISPATCH POST. —A local post organised in New York City in 1847 by John Bouton, in connection with which special two cent stamps were issued. Other stamps inscribed "Bouton's Manhattan Express," and "Franklin City Despatch Post," respectively, were issued by the same post, these evidently referring to branches covering different sections of the city. The business and assets of the Post were sold to Swarts late in 1850 or early in 1851.

BOUTON'S MANHATTAN EXPRESS.—(See "Bouton's City Dispatch Post.")

BOYCE'S CITY EXPRESS POST.— A local post operating from New York City, in connection with which a special 2c stamp was issued. Little reliable information seems to be known about this Post.

Aangebragt per Land-Mail. Te betalen port . . . duiten. BATAVIA.— An inscription shown on a plain label said to have been used as a postage due stamp in the Dutch Indies in 1845-6. Another, and slightly larger label of the same period, has the word "duiten" replaced by "koper." A free translation of the first quoted inscription is "Delivered by land post. Postage payable . . . duiten." A duit (plural "duiten") was a Dutch coin in use at that time, having a value of about one-fourth an American cent. "Koper" means "copper" or "copper coin" and was a term commonly used instead of duit, as this small coin was made of copper.

Although these labels are listed in Scott's Catalogue as stamps, it seems very doubtful that they can be considered postage due stamps in the sense we now understand the term. There were no regular postage stamps for the Dutch Indies until some twenty years after the issue of these labels. At that early period, even in the case of countries using adhesive postage stamps, prepayment of postage was usually not obligatory and, in some instances, was not even usual. Consequently, when postage was paid in cash, letters were marked "paid," while if postage was to be collected on delivery some mark to show this and also the amount to be collected was applied. As a rule, hand stamps were applied, and it is quite conceivable that these Dutch Indies labels were used as a more ready means of distinctly marking "collect" letters, and also, perhaps, as a simple way of keeping the post office accounts relating to unpaid letters.

STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Continental Printings.

A new contract for the printing of United States stamps was placed for four years with the Continental Bank Note Co. of New York, commencing May 1, 1873.

By order of the Post Office Department, the designs as used for the 1870 series were retained in use. Considerable criticism of the poor quality of the National Bank Note Company's work was current at the time, and rather than risk the possibility of being held responsible for work performed by the previous printers, the Continental Company decided to add certain secret marks to the stamps, so that they could identify their work.

These secret marks were so cleverly added that they did not detract from the designs in any way, and, in fact, were not discovered by philatelists until 1895, when the difference in the 12c stamp came to light. Close examination soon revealed the marks on all of the other values excepting the 24c, 30c and 90c. It is believed that no new plates for these values were made by the Continental Company, though evidence exists that the dies were retouched.

Since some of the secret marks bother the amateur, we will describe them in detail.

On the 1c a small curved line has been added to the pearl at the left of the numeral "1".

The 2c, which is the hardest of the series to distinguish, bears a small diagonal line under the scroll at the left of "U. S. Postage." This variety may best be found under a magnifying glass.

The 3c can readily be distinguished, for heavy shading has been added to the lower part of the tail of the left ribbon, under the word "three."

The first four vertical lines of shading in the tail of the left ribbon under the word "six" have been strengthened on the 6c.

On the 7c a very small semi-circle has been added around each end of the lines surrounding the ball at the lower right corner.

A small semi-circle has been added in the scroll at the right end of the upper label bearing the inscription "U. S. Postage" on the 10c value.

The balls of the figure "2" are crescent shape instead of round on the 12c denomination.

Two lines have been strengthened in the lower part of the triangle in the upper left corner of the 15c stamp, forming a "V."

The Continental printings of the 24c, 30c and 90c stamps can only be distinguished from the National printings by the shades and also by the paper, though this latter difference requires considerable study.

The 24c stamp was printed in bluish purple and deep bluish purple.

The 30c stamp was printed in grayish black and greenish black.

The 90c stamp was printed in pale and bright rose carmine.

These three values are hard for the amateur collector to determine, but comparison readily discloses the differences.

The entry of the United States into the treaty with the foreign nations, forming the Universal Postal Union, in 1875, made the use of the 7c, 12c and 24c values almost unnecessary, and they were discontinued soon after that date. The remainders on hand were destroyed in 1885.

Postage on letters to the countries in the Universal Postal Union was reduced to 5c, which necessitated the issuance of a stamp of that denomination. The new stamp was issued sometime between the 15th and 30th of June, 1875, and bore a full face portrait of General Zachary Taylor, set in a tablet not unlike the 10c value. The color was blue, ranging in shade from dark blue to deep greenish blue.

In order to lessen the danger of mistaking two cent stamps for the ten cent, the color of the two cent was changed to orange vermilion, since the seven cent stamp was no longer in use. This stamp was put on sale in June, 1875.

While the grill had been discontinued with the previous printing, the Continental Company secured equipment for making this variety, and a few thousand stamps were grilled and placed in circulation with the ordinary stamps. This grill differs from the other grills used in that the points appear as small rectangles rather than as pyramids. All values to the 24c inclusive are listed with grill by Scott. They are extremely rare.

Many devices to prevent the fraudulent re-use of stamps were tried out during this period. Among them was the Fletcher patent, better known as the cog-wheel die. This device consisted of a die bearing eight small punches shaped like the letter U placed in a circle with the opening toward the center, somewhat like a cog-wheel in appearance. While this die cut into the paper, nothing was removed. It was the intention that when the stamp was affixed to the envelope, any attempt to remove it would result in tearing the center out of it. The experiment did not prove practical, though ten thousand stamps were thus treated and put in circulation. Only the 1c and 3c values were made.

Experiments were also made in chemical papers, both brown and violet, the purpose being to prevent cleaning. Any attempt to clean the stamps resulted in changing the color of the paper, making the fraud at once visible. While certain values were printed on these papers, none was believed to have been issued through the regular course of business. Cancelled copies are known, but these may be called essays which passed through the mail without detection.

A further experiment, made under the patent of Charles F. Steel, resulted in the printing of the 1c, 2c, 3c, 6c, 10c, 30c, 2c vermilion, and 5c values on double paper. This paper consisted of a thin sheet of soft, porous paper, on which the stamps were printed, affixed to a slightly thicker sheet. Any attempt to remove the stamp by soaking or otherwise, resulted in the separation of the sheets. Some 20,000,000 stamps were claimed to have been printed on this paper. These stamps can be told by the shades when one is familiar with them. The two sections should separate easily under a sharp knife. Attempt to separate the soft paper stamps of later printings are sometimes made, but these do not result in clean separations.

A patent for a starched paper, using the double paper principle, was granted to Mr. Steel, and a few stamps were made under it. While cancelled copies are occasionally met with, practically all are pen-cancelled, and are thought to be essays.

The paper used by the Continental Bank Note Company varies considerably but for the most part a stiff, hard wove paper varying from thin to moderately thick was used. Later printings, a short time prior to the consolidation of the company with the American Bank Note Co., were made on a soft, porous paper, but these had best be classed as American printings by the amateur. Although not a true ribbed paper, a hard paper with vertical or horizontal ribbing was also used to some extent on both the regular and Departmental issues. This paper can be detected on the reverse by holding the stamp between the eye and a strong light.

American Bank Note Co. Printings.

The Continental Bank Note Co. was merged with the American Bank Note Co. in February, 1879, and the name of the latter company retained. All contracts and obligations of the former company were assumed, and the work of furnishing stamps to the government continued.

The new company continued to use the plates and dies of the Continental Company, and in addition used the National plates for the 30c and 90c values. It is believed that the National plates for some of the other values may have been used as well, particularly in the case of the 10c.

The American Bank Note series is determined by the paper, a soft, porous wove paper in varying thicknesses and texture being used, usually a thick, heavy stock.

This paper may be best distinguished from the hard papers of the previous issues by holding the stamps to the light and examining the pores in the paper. These appear to be large in the soft paper, and very small in the hard. The hard paper stamps are crisp and springy when snapped with the finger, while the soft paper stamps are more pliable and do not snap as readily. Care should be used in making this test not to damage the stamp. Also, do not hold the stamp too near the end. About half of the stamp should be allowed to bend under the test.

The same general color scheme was continued in use, but the shades differ considerably in all cases.

PURCHASE OF PUBLICATION.

The news reaches us just as we go to press that the Edgewood Stamp Co. has purchased the Stamp Trade. This publication, originally under the guidance of Messrs. Stark and Parmelee of Omaha, recently passed into the hands of Mr. Dvorak of Philatelic Gossip. The Stamp Trade should be a success in its particular field. It will, however, require special energy devoted to that specific purpose, and the Edgewood Co. advises us that the services of just such a man have been engaged. We bespeak for the publication under the new management a splendid patronage. The publishers of Stamp Trade are enlarging their business to such an extent that a printing plant has become an absolute necessity for the firm.

IDEAS OF EDDY FYNE.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

There were two things in particular which impressed me about Willy Grow, —his perfect breeding and his choice of words, which displayed the man of culture. Both Jimmy O'. and Johnny Williams, when it pleasured, could slough their careless speech. Eddy, however, was to the manner born, and he did not depart from his characteristic mode of utterance.

"Willy is some chap," declared Eddy one afternoon, when we were alone, Jimmy O'. and Frevor Moore having gone out to look at some steers. "He's what you might call ed-u-cated. Yep; that's the word. And say! Come t' think, I bet he knows a lot o' people you do—he used to live back there."

Eddy waved his hand toward the East. It was his firm and abiding opinion that his friends east of Chicago must all have known one another at some time.

"Anyways, he'd orter. Willy Grow aint his reel name. I got it here."

Eddy proceeded to fish out a bit of pasteboard, which he passed over to me. On it was engraved:

WILLEM BION DEGROWE.

"That's him," continued Eddy, "that same Will-em Bi-on de—now w'at's th' 'de' fer? — Gro-we. Gee! That there Gro-we. Fer why do they spell it that-a-way? Whyn't they jest put it G-r-o? Mebbe they c'd leave off that 'e'—yes. G-r-o-w."

Eddy scowled fiercely. Then he looked across at me, and resumed:

"Yes, sir; an' he's got a sure 'nough c'lection, too. I seen it. 'Twan't one o' them spe-cial-ized fellers — jest plain c'lection. Ye see, I caint go in fer specializin'—not much. 'Course, I got a few on covers—mostly U. S., an'—

Eddy sat upright, the light of a new thought in his eyes.

"I got it! Yes, sir! Plum' good idee, too! You was born August 17, 1866, in Ann Arbor, Michigan, eh? What? Yes, sir! I seen it in that book. Now what we'll proceed to do is to get entires, postmarked jest that-a-way — time an' place. Gee! Frien' o' ourn, that sure is a fine idee. I must-a had it handed on —nev' could-a thought it out myse'f.

"Well, now, if ev'ry c'lector would do that — say em-bel-lish—hah!—his album wit' a entire givin' day an' place o' his birth—some class t' that there! Yes, sir! An' he could get 'em wit' th' hour, too. Yourn was nigh onto 'leven P. M. —yes? Sure—that there gen-e-o-log-i-cal record says so. Yes, sir. Well, you jest write this here down an sen' it in t' th' WEEKLY—mebbe they'll print it—and—"

Here a new light broke upon Eddy's face, illuminating it with a halo of more than freindly interest.

"Yes, sir! An' mebbe some c'lecter with that there i-den-ti-cal entire will write an' tell you all about it. Hope they do—hope they do!"

Eddy's idea appealed to me. Why not collect entires of this particular sort? Further, one could include one's family in a collection,—day and hour making a geneological record worth the saving. Eddy's halo of hair hid many a good idea, I knew, along other lines. If his talents would develop philatelically, it would be to our rich reward.

"That's one c'lection I'd like a lot t' see," resumed Eddy, after a long pause, devoted to looking over my latest purchase of three beautiful blank albums, two of which had been ravished of their stamps, the third never having been put to use.

"I sure would of liked t' see it. You c'n learn a lot f'om a old album, 'specially if it's been writ up, er ef th' prices is marked in it."

Eddy laid the volumes aside.

"Now that ole Oppen o' yours—th' one you got f'om that ole book-shop in Lunnon—w'y, they's a whole hist'ry o' stamps there!"

Here he picked up that treasured old stray.

"Now take this here page o' Russia—cat'log numbers an' prices marked in shillin's an' pence by th' chap w'at sol' 'em. You c'n jest see them stamps there, an' ye know 'em, too. An' these here blank albums you bought at that there auction—made in Hong Kong, you say? An' on Dickinson han'-made paper, too? Gee! Le's see."

Eddy took them up carefully, and opening a volume turned the leaves until he came to Hong Kong. The pages had been beautifully hand-lettered in India ink, and evidently the previous owner had specialized, in a way, in the stamps of that British possession.

"Yes, sir. It sure makes me feel kind-a saddish like—these here empty albums. I think o' the chap that owned 'em, an' feel maybe he was up agin it hard—maybe a temp'ry loan 'ud a holped 'im some. Yes, sir—might-a saved 'im 'is c'lection. I tell yuh, friend o' mine, w'at we sure need is a hones' 'uncle' w'ere yuh c'n put 'em up—c'lectoins—till yuh c'n git yer bearin's."

Eddy laid the albums reverently away, heaved a deep sigh, and continued:

"Out here, most of 'em's lung-shy. I hate t' mention it, but sure thing if yuh takes away a c'lection yuh jest nacherly kills a chanst. Now what we need is t' cul-ti-vate a earnes' desire fer c'lectin'. Give us that, an' we fergits our failin's an' begins t' git strong. Lungs is all right in their place—pervidin' yuh got 'em. If yuh aint, w'y, give us stamps. Anyways, we c'n git along somehow wit' one er t'other—but they're a great pair—jest like a cow-punch an' 'is horse."

With which pronunciamento, Eddy ambled forth, leaving me to ponder his wisdom at my leisure.

Bonds—Under date of September 26th, 1917, the postmaster general advised postmasters: "On every letter received for delivery to patrons at second, third and fourth class offices, from October 1 to 27, 1917, inclusive, postmasters should use the rubber impression stamp bearing the following legend, which will be furnished such offices within the next few days: Back the Boys in the Trenches—Buy a Liberty Loan Bond—Inquire at Any Bank or Post Office. Postmasters at first-class offices who are furnished with special dies for use in canceling machines bearing the above legend should use them, beginning October 1st, for the same period."

Pictures—Thanks again are proffered to Briggs, the cartoonist of brilliant parts for bringing stamp collecting to the fore in one of his "Days of Real Sport" pictures. Mr. Briggs certainly must have been a collector at one time and we suspect that he has a lurking regard for the pursuit to this day. Webster, another cartoonist, who taps rich human veins, in a recent syndicate picture in his "Our Boyhood Ambitions" series gives stamps a whirl. Sinclair Lewis wanted to have such a complete collection of tobacco tags and stamps that "Sauk Center, Minn., his home town, would become the Mecca of Museum Curators and Private Collectors." We may as well leave the picture to the imagination.

Harriott—From Mr. Ragatz, we have received an envelope that has an attraction for the one who attends to local handstamps. In the upper left-hand corner of the envelope is the inscription, in four lines in an oval: "Harriott's—Broadway Post Office—Cor. Canal St.—New York." The impression is in brown red and in the upper right corner is "Paid," in the same color of ink. As we wrote our correspondent, the name Harriott is vaguely reminiscent of some postal phase but a search of the printed records that are at hand reveals no trace of this "post office," the character of whose operations, in consequence, is unknown to us. This cover is one of some significance in the borderland of philately and any particulars of the enterprise of Harriott which existed in the early fifties, it is assumed, would be of interest today.

Locals—A debt of gratitude is owed to Mr. Henry C. Needham, who in the admirable Philatelic Gazette for many months past has been presenting a history of the local posts and their stamps that is truly remarkable in its scope and interest. The fascinations of local stamps are felt deeply by a little band of enthusiasts to whom Mr. Needham's intelligent and exhaustive treatment of the subject indeed is a revelation of the research and patience of one in love with his work. Coster, whose book on our locals embodied the first systematic survey of the stamps will yield the place of honor to Mr. Needham, who is proving himself to be a historian extraordinary.

Soaked—A reader sends us a specimen of the seal issue of Sonora that shows the result of salt water immersion but even so, it must be admitted that the colors of the stamp are very well fixed. We shall let Felix Cohen, Egypt, from whom our friend received the stamps, tell in his own words of the circumstance, merely adding that Mr. Cohen, who was an advertiser in the WEEKLY before the war, is now an interned prisoner in a military camp near Alexandria: "Before writing you, I decided to wait the arrival of covers with Sonora stamps, but a fatal accident happened. Two days ago, I received ten covers from Mexico without stamps, address invisible and still wet. These covers had this misfortune on board the French Atlantic steamer, the 'Touraine,' which had a great fire on board and could hardly be saved in the Atlantic. Seven pieces of 10c stamps have been founded when turning the postal bag here and the local postal director was so kind to give them to me as no proof to justify that these stamps belong to me really. I am sending you these stamps back as a seldom souvenier from a disaster."

Philadelphia—A friend sends us a cover postmarked "Phi—31—De" and with Paid impression that was sent from Philadelphia to Lancaster, Pa., in 1804; and takes occasion to say that he does not remember having seen the circular postmark as having been in use in the United States, earlier. We think that the round postmark was employed some time before 1804, but we have no copy of it at hand for verification. Too, we acknowledge the receipt of a memento from Philadelphia, which is a paper fifty cent piece, "Loan of May 11, 1837," and reads on its face: "This is to certify that there is due to the Bearer, from the Mayor, Alderman and Citizens of Philadelphia, the sum of Fifty Cents, bearing interest at the rate of one per cent per annum, payable May 12, 1838, and being part of a Loan of 130,000 Dollars, authorized by an ordinance passed May 11, 1837. Philadelphia, May 12, 1837," with the pen and ink signature of Wm. Stevenson, "Ass't City Treas'r."

Change—For many a year, we have been writing to readers and others who sent descriptions and examples of postal impressions, such as, Paid 10, etc., that were used in the stampless days or during the early years of stamps before their use was made compulsory. Invariably, we disappointed our correspondents by informing them that covers of the kind had no philatelic value or interest. Perfunctorily, we said that while a curious interest attached to relics of this order, it was only the antiquarian to whom they appealed. In writing this opinion we reflected the practically total indifference of collectors for the unstamped but not unmarked letters. However, usually there was a saving clause in the letter or printed paragraph to the effect that the covers were worth placing aside as the time might come when they would be regarded with some favor as a sort of commentary to the stamps. Of course, any noticeable demand for the covers from philatelists would give them elements of value. We must now restrict the sweep of our earlier statements and admit that there has come to be a small demand for the stampless covers with postalic impressions. Here and there, there is unmistakable indication that the covers are gaining followers and that in consequence, the time is soon to come when they will no longer be flatly unsalable.

Variety—A half-dozen collectors in this country, perhaps, have made collections for some time past of the covers mentioned in the foregoing paragraph. Instead of following the procession and ignoring the covers, these philatelists no doubt having a predilection for such things, picked up the covers which could be had almost for nothing, until they had arranged several hundred varieties. The largest collection of examples of the kind that we know of just falls short of five hundred copies but there may be larger ones. We wish to interpose a word of warning that it must not be expected by those who have bundles of stampless covers lying around that they can market their goods at a fair or in fact any price but they should know that based on the slight demand that is now manifest, there are possibilities that in the future the covers may be admitted into "regular trading."

Cautious—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who enclosed return postage when he wrote to the dealer for his price-list? Is this o. f. c. talking about Kate Claxton in the "Two Orphans," with the old-fashioned dealer, who boasted that he never gave out any stamps "on approval"?

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—A Mr. Bowen of New York writes Paul W. Riedell and gives no street address. Will Mr. Bowen please supply the same?

—The J. M. Bartels Co., N. Y. City, submits a letter from the Bureau of Engraving & Printing in which the director, J. E. Ralph, writes as follows:—"The current 30c stamp has not been issued on unwatermarked paper perforated 10.". Doubtless Mr. Mann, our chronicle editor, will refer to this matter further in next week's paper.

—C. V. Webb, former Secretary of the S. P. A., has been succeeded in office by Albert E. Gorham of Washington, D. C., who last year was chairman of the recruiting committee and board of appeals. Our acquaintanceship with Mr. Gorham would lead us to believe that he will make a very efficient officer.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from G. A. Doyle, C. T. Carpenter, Aug. Marschall, Edw. A. Bangs, Albert E. Gorham, A. E. Wellman and D. D. Berolzheimer.

—A. M.:—No recent edition of Endle's Directory has been published. The edition last advertised in the WEEKLY is the latest issued.

—W. E. Gardiner, 9 Pemberton St., Providence, R. I., is unable to secure replies from R. N. Dineen, 163 W. Washington St., Chicago, Ill., or F. Lee Dayton, Newport News, Va. If interested write Mr. Gardiner.

—Don R. Bennett, 203 C. of C. Bdg., Detroit, Mich., has an accumulation of stamp papers collected during the past eleven or twelve years. It may be secured on application and paying transportation charges. A stamp society would be given right of way.

—Luther B. Tuthill, South Creek, N. C., would like to hear from persons who are unable to secure replies to letters addressed the Golden State Stamp & Coin Co., El Centro, Cal. Similarly, T. P. Bradley, 1112½ E. Second St., Duluth, Minn., in connection with Charles J. Nissen, 2510 Aubert Ave., Chicago, Ill. We are shown two cards by different dealers from one Pablo H. Barbieri, Guadalajara, Mexico, in which he demands the filling of an order that he claims was sent two months ago. Dealers will do well to be shown that they actually owe this party anything before orders are filled. John M. Stone, 817 Montrose Ave., Richmond, Va., would like to hear from all who have claims against Fred M. Smith, 4548 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, Ill. This note will doubtless develop business, but don't write us, write the dealer.

—"A number of stampists should write Clare Briggs, care of the Tribune, New York City, and say that they would like to see some cartoons bearing directly upon the 'sport of c'llecting'. Briggs must have tried stamp collecting at some time, and perhaps the germ stuck to him as it does almost invariably to others."—JAMES D. HAVENS.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHARLEROI.—An important manufacturing town in Belgium having a population of about 25,000. In the 17th and 18th centuries it was frequently besieged, especially in 1794, and passed alternately into the hands of the Spaniards, the French and the Austrians. In 1911, on the occasion of an Exhibition held in that town, a number of the Belgium charity stamps of 1910 were overprinted "Charleroi 1911" for use there.

CHARLESTON.—A city in the State of South Carolina, having a population of more than 60,000. It was first settled in 1680 by the English, who were afterwards joined by a large colony of French Huguenots. In 1861, the first shot in the Civil War was fired here and Fort Sumter was surrendered to the Confederates. Special 5c stamps were issued by the Postmaster in the same year for provisional use until the regular Confederate stamps were ready.

Among American towns Charleston is of particular interest to philatelists as having had a larger number of semi-official posts for the delivery of local letters than any other. The first of these was established on July 14th, 1849, and the last of them was not suppressed until after 1860. There were five of these posts in all.

CHARLTON, C. H.—The postmaster of Knoxville, Tennessee, in 1861, who issued special 5c and 10c stamps for use until the general issue for the Confederate States was ready.

CHASSEPOT, MM.—A firm of printers in Paris who printed the 1900-4 stamps for French Congo.

CHAUVET, ADOLPHE.—A French artist who designed the stamps issued for use in the colony of Reunion in 1907.

CHECK LETTERS.—(See Account Letters.)

CHECK STAMP.—(See Cheque Stamp.)

CHEEVER & TOWLE.—A firm of Boston, Mass., who organised a local post in that city in 1850 and issued a special 2c stamp for the collection of the fee charged for the service.

CHEFOO.—A port in Shanghai, China, at the entrance of the Gulf of Pe-chili, with a population of about 33,000. The place is much frequented by foreigners as a health resort in summer. The port played a considerable part in the Russo-Japanese war; before the fall of Port Arthur many steamers ran the blockade between Chefoo and the Russian garrison. A local post was established here in 1893 in connection with which several stamps were issued.

CHEMICAL PAPER.—(See Francis Chemical Paper.)

CHEMINS DE FER.—An inscription shown upon the parcels post stamps of Belgium. It is the French equivalent for "Railways"—all parcels in Belgium being carried and delivered by the railways under the supervision of the postal department.

CHEMINS DE FER-SPOORWEGEN.—The French and Flemish equivalents for "Railways" shown upon all the parcels post stamps of Belgium issued since 1895.

CHEQUE STAMP.—The name by which a curious provisional 1d stamp of British Central Africa is known to philatelists. The stamp was issued in 1898 and was produced locally, at Zomba, by printing a number of oblongs on narrow strips of paper and applying an impression from the die used for stamping cheques in each of these.

CHESTNUT STREET LINE.—A local post of the United States in connection with which a stamp was issued but at what date does not appear to be known.

CHEUN.—The value in which some of the stamps of Corea are expressed. A cheun was equal to 5 poon and had a value of about ½c in American money.

CHIAPAS.—A state on the Pacific side of the republic of Mexico having an area of 27,222 square miles and a population of about 400,000. During the revolutionary period of 1867-8 a series of five special stamps was issued for use in this State.

CHICAGO PENNY POST.—A local post operating in Chicago (date uncertain) in connection with which special 1c stamps were issued.

CHICLAYO.—A town in the department of Lambayeque, Peru, situated about 10 miles from the coast and having a population of about 14,000. During April, 1884, a special overprint, consisting of the word "Franca", was applied to all the 5c stamps used here.

CHIFFRE TAXE.—An inscription appearing on the postage due stamps of France and various French colonies meaning literally "Amount to pay".

CHILE.—The local rendering of the name "Chili" as shown upon all the postage stamps of that republic.

CHILI.—A South American Republic of Spanish origin occupying the strip of land between the Andes and the Pacific from the southern boundary of Peru to the extreme southern extremity of the continent. In 1880, Chili annexed Atacama, (till then a province of Bolivia,) and the Peruvian province of Tarapaca. Its total area is now about 290,741 square miles and it has a population closely approaching three and a half millions. Most of its inhabitants are of Spanish extraction. The government is a republic, ruled by a President, who is elected for a term of five years. Chili issued its first postage stamps on July 1st, 1853.

CHIMARA.—A town in Epirus at which a provisional issue of stamps was made in 1914 by surcharging some of the then current stamps of Greece "EMHNIKH—1914—XEIMAPPA".

CHIMBORAZO.—A province of the republic of Ecuador having an area of about 5,000 square miles and a population of nearly 130,000. During the latter part of 1902 all the stamps used in this province were overprinted "ChimbOrAzo—Riobamba", in two lines, by means of a handstamp before being placed on sale. This was done in consequence of a fire in Guayaquil in July, 1902, during which a large quantity of stamps from the Government stores were destroyed or stolen. In the case of the latter eventually being correct, the authorities took this precautionary measure to render the stolen stamps valueless.

CHIMBORAZO RIOBAMBA.—An overprint found upon certain Ecuador stamps issued in the province of Chimborazo in 1902.

CHINA.—China proper, a vast republic in eastern Asia, consists of 18 provinces covering an area of 1,500,000 square miles. Its population according to the latest Chinese estimates exceeds 400,000,000. On the north are the extensive regions of Mongolia and Manchuria, and on the west are Thibet and Turkestan, all of which are integral parts of the Chinese Republic. The area of these dependencies is over 2,500,000 square miles, with a scattered population of about nineteen millions. The civil government of the 18 provinces is entrusted to viceroys and governors, and under them each province is subdivided into circuits superintended by taitois or intendents, and again into prefectures and districts. All the territorial officers are appointed by the Government, and the provincial viceroys and governors, though free to act independently in many matters of local import, are responsible to the Central Government at Pekin. The administration of Mongolia and Turkestan is entrusted to Military Lieutenant Governors who, with the Chinese officials in Thibet, are under the direction of the "Mongolian Superintendency" or Colonial Office in Pekin. It is not possible to state exactly when the Chinese came to China, but it is certain they were a considerable nation and had attained a high degree of civilisation as early as 2,200 B. C. The history of China and its people is one of the most entrancing interest, but space forbids mention of even the most important events. It must suffice to note only those facts bearing on China's relations with foreign powers.

Foreign relations with China have existed for several centuries. In the 13th century the Venetian merchant adventurer, Marco Polo, resided in Cambulac (the present Pekin), and was employed by the Mongol Emperor, Kubloi Khan, as adviser. In the 17th century Jesuit missionaries had attained considerable influence in the country and had made many converts to Christianity; but their power had aroused so much jealousy that they were expelled. The Dutch and Portuguese traders maintained commercial dealings with the port of Canton for centuries, but towards the end of the 18th century they were largely displaced by the British East India Company. The Company's monopoly was withdrawn in 1833, and this was one of the causes that led to the first British war against China in 1840. A treaty was signed at Nanking as a result of these operations and Hong Kong was ceded to Great Britain. Since then the exclusiveness and conservatism of the Chinese has led to frequent wars, after which the Celestials have had to concede various privileges to other nations, and at the present time practically all the ports are open to foreign trade. The Imperial Post Office was at first managed by the Customs and its operations have been much developed of late years. Already letters can be sent all over the 18 provinces at a uniform rate of 2 cents (less than 1c U. S.) per half ounce. The first postage stamps for China were issued in August, 1878, though Shanghai had used stamps since 1865.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—(1395)—The new editor of the new issue department of our monthly contemporary, The Philatelic Gazette, auspiciously starts with a list of colors and shades "so far known" (to quote) of the current United States postage stamps, unwatermarked, perf. 11.

For comparison, we will give our contemporary's list, in italics, and append thereto, in ordinary type, the colors and shades which we know of by personal observation:—

1c deep yellow green, milori green, deep gray green, green, dark green, light green.
2c rose, carmine, rose, light rose, deep rose, dull light rose.
3c violet, purple, red-violet, lilac, light lilac, deep lilac, lavender.
4c orange brown, brown, yellow-brown, light yellow-brown, deep yellow-brown.
8c yellowish olive, light yellow-olive.
9c salmon.
11c myrtle green.
12c claret lake, rose-crimson, crimson-lake, deep claret.
15c deep gray.
30c orange vermilion.
$1 purple brown.
Special Delivery, 10c ultramarine, deep ultramarine, deep ultramarine, deep dark ultramarine, dull blue, deep blue.
Postage Due, 1c deep carmine, 2c deep carmine.

We have seen the 2c and 4c postage stamps with strong offsets on the reverse. In these instances we only consider the offsets which are under the gum.

(1380)—The Philatelic Gazette states that "there is a complete sheet of 400, unperforated," of the printing of 2c stamps with three 5c in the plate, the errors, "in the possession of a prominent New York collector."

Type of 1908. Unwmkd. Imperf.

ALBANIA.—(1386)—The London Philatelist publishes the following: Referring to our chronicle on page 148, and to the discovery by MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS that the inscription on the right, 'VETQEVERITARE' is printed with a broken 'B' instead of 'R' for the last letter but one, in the 5c and 25c values, we find that all the values in both of our sets, unused or used, have this peculiarity."

BAHAMAS.—(1385)—Ewen's Weekly states that 120,000 was the quantity of the 1d Red Cross stamps printed.

BARBADOS.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles a new shade of the current 1d in bright scarlet, distinct from the rose-red and deep carmine previously listed. They were first issued on June 23rd, 1917.

Adhesive.
1d bright scarlet.

BELGIUM.—Through the kindness of M. Breugelmans, a citizen of Antwerp, who is with the Belgian Army on the Flandres Front, we are in receipt of a new printing of the 10c of the 1915 series. There are several little points of difference in the design, but the quickest test is the ribbon over King Albert's right shoulder. In the original printing this ribbon was composed of diagonal lines; the new printing shows the diagonal lines broken at the edge toward the coat collar. The color of the new printing is much brighter than formerly.

Adhesive.
10c rose-carmine.

CANAL ZONE.—(1394)—Being interested in our chronicle of the colors of the overprints on the 12c, 15c and 24c Canal Zone stamps, mentioned in our issue of Sept. 15th, Mr. Hermann Focke very kindly submits the three values which have the different colors of the overprints transposed. The following is our list of these combinations, so far noted to date:

15c light blue overprint.
15c violet-blue overprint.
24c light blue overprint.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—(1391)—We are indebted to Mr. A. C. Roessler for a sight of the new War Stamp, mentioned in the Chronicle for August 25th. According to the Colonial Journal, quoted in our previous chronicle, no 1½d duty plate is in existence, so the new War Stamp was made by using stamps printed from the 2½d plate and overprinting them "WAR STAMP" in sans-serif capital letters, 2½ mm. tall, just over the value tablet, the two words measuring 13½ mm. in length, with heavy numerals "1½d" surcharged directly on the value tablet. Stamps already printed but not despatched to the Islands were utilized for the purpose. The paper is watermarked multiple Crown and CA semi-transparent, the gum being white. Perforated 14.

CHINA.—(Offices in Turkestan)—See "Sinkiang" in this chronicle.

COSTA RICA.—The current Costa Rican envelopes are the production of the American Bank Note Co., New York, and they differ as to die from those printed by Messrs. Waterlow Bros. & Layton, London, known as the 1907-08 issue. Those of the earlier issue are the same as the 1903 issue, differing only in colors, having a cameo head of Columbus in the center, while the production of the Am. Bank Note Co. show the head of Columbus leaning backward and much narrower from the forehead to the back of the head. The Waterlow die has a colorless central oval around the head, while the American die does not have this oval. There are also other differences between the two dies, but enough has been stated by which the two can be identified.

We know of the following, the Waterlow productions having their embossed card on the left back flap, and the American printings having their embossed imprint thereon. So far as we know the size is the same for all, but the gummed flap of the American production is shorter than the Waterlow.

We thank Mr. Henry Pepper Norris for kindly drawing our attention to the two productions.

EAST AFRICA & UGANDA.—(1394)—The color of the 31c envelope for registering purposes is dark blue.

HAYTI.—Mr. J. E. Flick advises us that he has No. 20, 5c green, issue of 1886, on watermarked paper. He writes: "This watermark appears to be the name or trademark of the paper maker." Mr. Flick states that the watermark appears to be of Old English letters, but does not advise what the letters are. We would appreciate it very much, if any of our readers can tell us what the watermark is.

HEDJAZ.—(1391)—The Survey of Egypt, Giza (Mudiria), Egypt, has presented the Royal Philatelic Society, London, for its collection, a sheet of 50 stamps of a new value, 1p 40t, color dull purple and rouletted, states The London Philatelist.

HONDURAS.—Mr. J. E. Flick writes: "Have recently discovered a copy of Honduras, No. 127, 1c dull green, printed on both sides. . . . . This is no 'offset'."

INDIA.—(Hyderabad)—(1393)—The London Philatelist chronicles further stamps perf. 13½, giving the Philatelic Journal of India as their authority. The ¼a is Scott's type A5, and the Official stamps are Scott's type A6 with the small Sirkari overprint like the 1911-13 issue.

We find we have chronicled the latter two stamps, in our issue of Sept. 8th, but we then failed to state that they were of the type with "Post & Receipt" in the design.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—The Rev. L. Meister advises us that the ½d and 6d stamps are now printed from plate No. 5.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—(1393)—We have some further information regarding the new printing of the 2c Coronation type of 1911, as mentioned in the Chronicle of Sept. 8th. Mr. M. P. Hynes writes: "I have enquired from the Postmaster General and Chief Stamp Clerk here (St. Johns) but could get no definite information as to how the stamps are printed. It appears in 1915 the supply of 2c ran out and a rush order was sent to the makers, Whitehead, Morris & Co., London, for a further supply. In due time they arrived and that is all the officials at the P. O. know about it. There is no correspondence whatever to help one. When the stamps were placed on sale at first many of us here noticed the difference in color, but owing to the general scarcity of dyes at the time we did not give it much attention, but recently it struck me that the stamps were not engraved."

We can only state, after examining a large block sent by Mr. Hynes, that the stamps have the appearance of being surface-printed or lithographed, the color being bright red instead of the deep carmine of the earlier engraved stamps. There is a possibility that the stamps are still produced from recess plates, but if so the plates have deteriorated very much indeed, the original printings having been very sharp and clear in every line, while the new printing shows most every line broken or mashed, with the fine cut diagonal lines of shading at the sides of the central oval entirely missing and the two base lines under the tablet containing "King George V" joined together forming one line instead of being two lines with diagonal lines between as were the NORTH WEST PACIFIC ISLANDS.—(1389)—Ewen's Weekly chronicles another new shade of the ½d Australian overprinted "N. W. PACIFIC ISLANDS". The new printing is bright green instead of yellow-green or blue-green as previously noted. All three varieties of the arrangement of the "SS" occur. In addition to these three types, the following varieties occur: No. 6, type I, large period after "W"; No. 12, type I, minute period after "ISLANDS"; No. 16, type II, large period after "W".

PHILIPPINES.—The 4c has at last been issued perforated 10 in sheet form and we are so advised by Mr. John H. Vale, who writes to us under date of August 10, submitting a copy for chronicle. The color is entirely new and distinct from the perf. 12 stamps, while the watermark is the same, single line P I P S, though not so clear as formerly.

RUSSIA.—Among other interesting items the London Philatelist's correspondent, Mr. A. Scheindling, states in that publication:

"I have got a sheet of 40 copies of the 1 rouble stamp" Scott's No. 87 "where the groundwork is printed inverted."

"I have got a similar sheet with regular network where the last two vertical rows are imperforate between, because the place between the fourth and fifth vertical rows has escaped the perforation; the margin after the fifth row is also imperforate."

"I have been told that a few copies of the 7r stamp laid vertically" Scott's No. 68 "have been found with inverted eagle."

"The postage for ordinary, as well as for registered letters, wrappers, etc., having been advanced, this will no doubt cause the appearance of a new lot of surcharged stamps."

"Four of our most prominent engravers have been invited to send in designs for a new set of stamps showing the emblems of the Republic."

(1396)—"The patriotic stamps are now exhausted, and a new set is now in preparation."

SALVADOR.—(1394)—Mr. Wm. v. d. Wettern, Jr., writes a most interesting letter as follows: "In your issue of Sept. 15th, I notice Salvador provisional issue of June 7th, 1917. There are several errors for each value purposely made to order. I warn the public not to buy them, as the entire issue is purely speculative and in the hands of Manuel De J. Tablos, probably secretary to the present Postmaster General, as mail received is official. They were never issued to the public for general use."

(1386)—Continuing his letter, Mr. v. d. Wettern states: "Same case with the 'S' stamps. They were placed on mail by a few interested to show they did postal duty; after that they were immediately withdrawn. Of the stamps overprinted with the letter 'S', they have down there 3500 sets imperforate. Same party is now trying to unload them in this country at a high figure. The earthquake had nothing to do with the making of these stamps, they are purely speculative and in the hands of one party as stated above."

SIERRA LEONE.—In our chronicle of August 25th, under "Cayman Islands", we published, quoting the Colonial Journal, the fact that "there is no 1½d duty plate in existence." If this is so, then new printings of the 1912 1½d orange of Sierra Leone will probably be from a new duty plate.

SINKIANG.—(See China in No. 1389)—Mr. Theodore Siddall writes that the $2 China of 1914, Peking print, has been surcharged for Sinkiang, and that two collectors in Shanghai have them. Mr. Siddall calls our attention to the fact that Sinkiang is the Chinese name of the province that the Scott Catalog calls "Chinese Turkestan."

SPAIN.—Mr. Wm. P. Knode, a young collector, submits two copies of Scott's No. 277 in two very distinct shades. In fact, the two blues are just as much entitled to catalogue rank as the two violets, Nos. 285 and 285a—or three if we include No. 284. Mr. Knode has also found by close examination of his stamps that those of this issue come on toned as well as white paper. We are very well pleased with the interest shown by young collectors, as well as the older ones, in the varieties given in this Chronicle. If we teach collectors to study their stamps, we are accomplishing a great work for the benefit of philatelic science.

The two shades of blue submitted by Mr. Knode, are "blue" and "Prussian blue", and they are quite different. There are other shades of this stamp, and, in fact, the entire issue, if well studied, will develop many interesting variations. The Scott catalogue lists all perforated 14, while, in fact, there are several different perforation varieties, and one can also make a distinction between the several colors of the control numbers on the backs of the stamps.

It should not be necessary to chronicle these varieties, as the individual collector should attempt to classify them in his own interest, and then write up his discoveries into an independent article which, we are quite sure, our publisher would be very glad to publish elsewhere than in the confines of a chronicle.

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO.—(1395)—The Rev. L. Meister advises us, and we thank him for the information, that the 1d stamp has also been overprinted "WAR TAX" in two lines of thick block capitals, like the ½d chronicled in our issue of Sept. 22nd.

ATTENTION

The permanent location of Camp Sherman in our city, sheltering 42,375 soldiers, has increased my duties to such extent that it is absolutely impossible for me to attend to my postal card business any longer for which reason I hereby offer it for sale. It is by far the largest and most varied stock of Postal Cards and Letter Cards of any dealer in the World. My successor would have practically no opposition in the United States, for I know of no dealer in the Western Hemisphere who carries rarities in stock to the extent that I do.

If the prospective purchaser can satisfy my lawyer as to the security, ready cash will not be essential. [97

BRIDGER & KAY,
71 Fleet Street, London, E. C., England.

TURKEY.—Mr. Henry Pepper Norris shows us four varieties of Turkish charity stamps which have not been mentioned in any of the lists we have seen published. Scott's type A18, Nos. 120 and 129, overprinted a five pointed star and the date 1331 between the points of a crescent containing the Turkish inscription "For the Orphans of War" and surcharged, also in Turkish, "10 para 10" at the bottom. Scott's type A11, Nos. 101 and 435 overprinted and surcharged the same.

Charity Postage.

10p on 20p violet-brown.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—(1381)—The Rev. L. Meister advises us that the latest issue of the 1d "WAR TAX" stamps has the overprint quite at the top of the stamps, touching the perforation in some instances.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Playing Card Stamps, 1894 Series.

During the eleven years from June 30, 1883, to the summer of 1894, there were no documentary or proprietary taxes, and the only adhesive internal revenue stamps in use were those employed for paying the taxes on alcoholic liquors, tobacco, etc., which are known as Tax Paid stamps. Following the panic of 1893 there were several years of hard times throughout the country. The Democratic party came into power with President Cleveland in the fall of '92, and after his inauguration in March, 1893, began work on a new tariff bill, the schedules of which were generally lower than those in the previous McKinley "protective" tariff. The Wilson-Gorman tariff bill — usually known as the Wilson bill—was received by President Cleveland August 15, 1894, but he had denounced many of its provisions, even using the terms "perfidy and dishonor," because it differed so widely from the platform upon which he and his party had been elected, and he refused to sign it. However, as he did not return it to the house of Congress in which it originated within the time prescribed by the Constitution of the United States, it became law without his signature.

In order partly to replace the loss of revenue expected to result from the lower import duties of the Wilson bill, an internal revenue tax of 2c per pack was placed upon playing cards—60% less than the tax of 5c per pack which had been in effect most of the time during the Civil War series. Two stamps were issued and they are the only U. S. documentary or proprietary revenues that have any particular political significance. Instead of being a result of foreign or domestic war, they are chiefly reminiscent of one of the most violent political struggles and periods of business depression through which the nation has ever passed. Somehow they have escaped being nick-named "Perfidy and Dishonor." The fortunes of politics have changed several times since 1894, but the tax is still in effect, and whatever else may be said about the Wilson bill, the playing card tax seems to be satisfactory, both to the public and to the politicians. The stamps themselves make up in historical interest what they lack in beauty and in value.

The following sections of the law contain the parts most interesting to philatelists and explain why the lake stamp reads "On Hand Aug. 1894" and those printed in ultramarine or blue read "Act of Aug. 1894." Both varieties come in sheets of 200—two panes of 100 stamps each—and all were printed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington:—

Sec. 38.—That on and after the first day of August, 1894, there shall be levied, collected and paid, by adhesive stamps, a tax of 2c for and upon every pack of playing cards containing not more than 54 cards, manufactured and sold or removed, and also upon every pack in the stock of any dealer on and after that date; and the commissioner of internal revenue, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, shall make regulations as to dies and adhesive stamps.

Sec 39.—That in all cases where an adhesive stamp is used for denoting the tax imposed by this act upon playing cards, except as hereinafter provided, the person using or affixing the same shall write thereon the initials of his name and the date on which such stamp is attached and used, so that it may not again be used. And every person who fraudulently makes use of an adhesive stamp to denote any tax imposed by this act without so effectually cancelling and obliterating such stamp shall forfeit the sum of $50. The commissioner of internal revenue is authorized to prescribe such method for the cancellation of stamps as substitute for, or in addition to the method prescribed in this section as he may deem expedient and effectual. And he is authorized, in his discretion, to make application of such method imperative upon the manufacturers of playing cards.

Sec. 40.—That every manufacturer of playing cards shall register with the collector of the district his name or style, place of residence, trade or business, and the place where such business is to be carried on, and a failure to register

THE DOUBLE FIVE CENT ERRORS we have sent out in sheets this week are fine in every respect. We did not go into the air on this "error", and predict all kinds of fabulous prices, but waited until the thing settled down. We believe the price is as low today for finely centered sheets, which are the only kind fit for collection, as it will be, and the time to buy is now.

The Supplement to Scott's Catalog will soon be out. The price is ten cents, or if your name is on our mailing list you are threatened with a free copy. If it is not WE BOTH LOSE.

H. F. COLMAN. SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

as herein provided and required shall subject such person to a penalty of $50.

Sec. 41.—That the commissioner of Internal Revenue shall cause to be prepared, for payment of the tax upon playing cards, suitable stamps denoting the tax thereon. Such stamps shall be furnished to collectors requiring them, and collectors shall, if there be any manufacturers of playing cards within their respective districts, keep on hand at all times a supply equal in amount to two month's sales thereof, and shall sell the same only to such manufacturers as have registered as required by law and to importers of playing cards, who are required to affix the same to imported playing cards, and to persons who are required by law to affix the same to stocks of playing cards on hand when the tax thereon imposed first takes effect. Every collector shall keep an account of the number and denominate values of the stamps sold by him to each manufacturer and to other persons above described.

Sec. 42.—(penalties for counterfeiting etc.)

Sec. 43. . . . . provided that playing cards may be removed from the place of manufacture for export to a foreign country, without payment of tax, or affixing stamps thereto, under such regulations and the filing of such bonds as the commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe.

Sec. 46.—That the tax on playing cards shall be paid by the manufacturer thereof. Every person who offers or exposes for sale playing cards, whether the articles so offered or exposed are of foreign manufacture and imported, or are of domestic manufacture, shall be deemed the manufacturer thereof. . .

The lake stamp does not vary much in shade, and as would be expected, when used is generally pen-cancelled. The writer has seen no printed cancellations on it. Unused remainders are common and whole panes and even sheets are not rare. Probably it was sold to anyone who applied for it. According to the Boston Book it was first issued August 23, 1894, last issued prior to July 1, 1895, and the total issue was 13,400,000. It is believed to have been printed only on unwatermarked paper and all known copies are rouletted.

The Boston Book gives the date of issue of the ultramarine stamp as August 30, 1894, and states, "the color was changed to cobalt blue in 1898, and at the same time the stamp appeared on watermarked paper." The date of first issue is probably correct, but the other date should be not later than 1896, as blue copies cancelled 1896, and copies on watermarked paper also cancelled that year, are known.

The blue and violet stamps offer a fine field for any philatelist who cares for inexpensive specialism. There are plenty of shades and cancellations and also varieties of paper and rouletting to be found. The unwatermarked stamp is listed in both ultramarine and blue in the standard catalog, and both rouletted, perforated (12), and imperforate. Uncancelled imperforate blocks exist, but the writer has never found the unwatermarked stamp perforated. Single copies not rouletted at top and bottom and with a fine roulette measuring about 12½ at sides are ocasionally seen. All of these noted, bear the United States Playing Card Co. cancellation in black. One ultramarine copy dated 11-6-95, is on the ordinary paper, another ultramarine dated 10-1-95, is on much thicker paper, while all blue copies seen were dated 1-3-96 and were on the thick paper. Perhaps these were all imperforate stamps, unofficially part rouletted.

A paler ultramarine than the shade in use in 1894, appeared for a while about 1899. This occurs both with the regular "old" roulette and with the "new" or hyphen hole roulette which came into use for the Spanish War documentaries and proprietaries in 1899-1900 and has been used continuously on the playing card stamp to date. The color has been blue ever since 1901, but there are shades and shades.

The writer recalls the discovery of the perforated stamps about 1901, and it was stated at the time that these were used by the New York Consolidated Card Co. There appears no record as to whether they were issued imperforate and were perforated privately, or were perforated and so issued by the Bureau. There must have been more than one small lot, for the stamp is not a great rarity today. Copies usually bear red cancellations. Those noted are dated 1899 and 1902-3, and bear the cancellations of the New York Consolidated Card Co., the American Playing Card Co., and the United States Playing Card Co. The latter cancellation was black. No perforated copy cancelled with the big red A. D. (Andrew Dougherty), and date, so often seen on the rouletted stamps, was found.

Occasionally uncancelled copies of the blue and ultramarine stamps are found, though it is evident that they were not intended to be sold to the general public. Genuine used blocks or strips probably do not exist, but pairs are used to a limited extent, chiefly on double pinochle packs containing 64 cards. All pairs seen were horizontal. That the stamp is so used seems to be known to very few collectors, and if one is to judge of the rarity of this pair by the number, size and value of revenue stamp collections that do not have it, no other common stamp is so difficult to obtain in a pair. The writer has never seen a pair, strip or block of the perforated variety.

The blue stamp may possibly exist watermarked U. S. P. S., as it is supposed the 6c and 8c postage stamps of the 1895 series watermarked "I" or "R" were printed on paper intended for the playing card stamps, and some students have thought perhaps the error was caused by two lots of paper, one postage, the other revenue, becoming transposed. So far as the writer knows the playing card stamp has not been found on postage paper. Of course it could be distinguished only by the letter "P".

The smallest yearly issue of the blue stamp was 11,100,000 in the fiscal year 1898. In 1913 there were 34,100,000 issued, and nearly as many in 1914 and in 1915. This little, inoffensive sticker which 99 people out of every hundred notice only to destroy, brings in to Uuncle Sam the tidy sum of $700,000 or so every year—a most just, sensible and efficient luxury tax, paid unconsciously, and only by those who can well afford it.

STAMPED ENVELOPE DIES OF 2c, 1916

By Joseph B. Leavy.

Various articles have appeared concerning the dies of the current 2c stamped envelope, the best being that in the August number of this magazine all however, have made a gross error in the order of cataloguing the dies in that the rejected die is called Die C., whereas it is Die A, and must be so listed, for reasons which I will point out later in this article.

In the manufacture of stamped envelopes a master die is first cut; this corresponds to the die for a postage stamp, and from this master die "hubs" are made. These correspond to the transfer rolls for postage stamps, and from the "hubs", printing or working dies are made, which correspond to the plates for postage stamps.

In the printing and manufacture of the current stamped envelopes seven different types of machines are used; these are known as: Schmidt No. 5, Schmidt No. 7, Schmidt No. 8, Kenny No. 5, Kenny No. 13, Huchins and Hartford; with the exception of the latter all the machines use curved dies, the Hartford uses a flat die. The curvature is different on each of the machines mentioned, and a separate master die is made for each. So far five master dies have been made of the current 2c, and for the following machines: Schmidt No. 5, Schmidt No. 7, Kenny No. 5, Kenny No. 13, and Huchins.

The first master die made was that listed as Die C. It was rejected after a number of size 5 envelopes of white paper had been manufactured from printing dies made from it. It was rejected because the numerals and lettering were considered too thin. The envelopes of this die that had been printed before its rejection were however delivered, and sold in the usual manner, after printings had been made and delivered from the first accepted die, which has so far been listed as Die A.

The rejected die was not destroyed, nor yet laid on the shelf, but was recut, the letters, numerals and inner circle being cut thicker and deeper, and the die re-appeared as the second accepted master die, which has so far been listed as Die B. This can readily be verified by a close examination of the head, which is identical in both the rejected die and the die so far known as Die B, and entirely different from the head appearing on any of the other dies.

It can now readily be seen that these first three dies must be rearranged in the following order:

Die A. Rejected die, heretofore known as Die C.
Die B. First accepted die, heretofore known as Die A.
Die C. Rejected die recut, heretofore known as Die B.
Die D. Correct as heretofore listed.
Die E. Correct as heretofore listed.
Die F. Correct as heretofore listed.

There are only five master dies extant at the present time; these are accounted for and the problem of six different dies from five master dies satisfactorily explained. But what of the recently discovered and listed Die G, and its varieties? It surely is different from any of the other dies. It cannot be a worn printing die because the lettering is thinner than on any die except the rejected die, and the lettering becomes thicker, not thinner, as a printing die begins to wear.

The idea was conceived that as the Hartford machine required a flat die electrotypes might be satisfactorily used upon it, and much time and expense thereby saved in the manufacture. Accordingly a "hub" from one of the least curved dies was flattened and twenty-five electrotypes taken from it and used on the Hartford machine. The printings from these electrotypes are Die G, and its varieties, the uneven character of the numerals and letters and the broken inner circle are sufficient evidence of electrotype printing. The electrotypes were made from a flattened "hub" from Die E.

The electrotype experiment was not exactly an innovation with the current type 2c, as a short time previously thirty-eight electrotypes had been made from some "hubs" of the preceding type, which accounts for dies F, G, and H, of that type, which recently appeared concurrently with the present type.

Although I have not yet seen the 1c corresponding to the current 2c stamped envelope, four master dies have so far been made; they are for the following machines: Schmidt No. 5, Schmidt No. 8, Kenny No. 5, and Huchins. Fourteen electrotypes have also been made for the Hartford machine.

Six electrotypes were made of the old design 1c for the Hartford machine and I believe printed from about the same time as the 2c of similar design.—Philatelic Gazette.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Henry E. Harris informs us that he now has a total of eight complaints against John Obert, Delaware Water Gap, Pa., (formerly of Andover, N. J.). Interested parties may communicate with Mr. Harris at 3838 Reisterstown Rd., Baltimore, Md.

—The 267th meeting of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society will be held at the Narragansett Hotel, Providence, Tuesday evening, October 16. Ex-president A. B. Slater will give a history of the Providence plate and stamps, with an exhibit of the original plate and a specialized collection of stamps from it.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Eugene Tilleux, Jr., Wm. L. Hamilton and Herman W. Boers.

—Will Leslie Hart and E. D. Swartout (both of whom had short articles in recent numbers dealing with tax paids) communicate with E. L. Green, 1415 Vine St., Phila., Pa., and A. S. Davenport, Box 266, Yonkers, N. Y.? Our mailing list is not arranged alphabetically and it is impossible for us to supply the addresses of collectors as they appear in the Weekly from time to time.

—Three cent postage is now an accomplished fact and after November 2, 1917, the rate will prevail. Elsewhere, we hope to make room for the official by the postmaster-general.

—The death of Harry Nusbaum, age 36 years, of Chicago, at Baltimore, where he had been taken to his parents during the course of his illness, was a shock to his friends in Chicago. Mr. Nusbaum established the Chicago Stamp & Coin Company and was well regarded; and it was only a question of time before Mr. Nusbaum would have been a foremost dealer, so aptly did he take to the stamp business. Mr. Nusbaum was formerly the partner of Mr. Josephson who continues the Chicago Stamp & Coin Company, as usual.

—There is much activity in philatelic society circles. The Indiana Collectors' Club held its second annual dinner on September 3, 1917, and preceding the feast, an exhibit of collections was shown at the Marion Club. The evening of this philatelic day wound up with a successful auction sale. The Chicago Philatelic Society has taken a new lease of life and is about to secure a permanent headquarters in order that it may strike its old stride. The Cincinnati philatelic society has invited Indianapolis collectors to spend a Saturday with them in November; and the Milwaukee Philatelic Society has issued an attractive program of the season's activities.

EDITORIAL.

Resigns—In the Chicago Tribune, we find a despatch from Washington to the effect that Joseph E. Ralph, director of engraving and printing, has resigned his important position to accept the presidency of the United States Intaglio Company, a new "bank note corporation." It is probable that the present assistant director will succeed Mr. Ralph, who will remain in charge until the appointment is made. We do not need to say that the department which Mr. Ralph so capably administered, the source of our stamp and paper currency supply, enters largely into the consideration of philatelists and that its head is one in whom they are singularly interested. Any trite expression of formal regard would not fittingly express the feeling of philatelists on this occasion; and it may truthfully be said that the retirement of the director is attended with genuine sorrow for us. Director Ralph, be it said in all sincerity, established a cordial bond of feeling between his bureau and the philatelist, who, not unnaturally, deemed the bureau as the source of all possible and impossible information as to the details of United States stamps. None will gainsay that Mr. Ralph met all expectations more fully, intelligently and cheerfully than any of his predecessors and he presided over the court of philatelic inquiry in a painstaking and kindly manner. We know that some of the questions propounded by the inveterate philatelist were practically unsolvable, but no matter how extreme they were, Mr. Ralph gave them attention and essayed to give what information was available, even at the expense of time and inconvenience. Mr. Ralph should have the satisfaction of knowing that the heartiest wishes for unbounded success in his new connection from collectors all over the land accompany him on his departure from the portals of the bureau of engraving and printing.

Recalled—A year ago last August at the national convention of the Southern Philatelic Association, Director Ralph made the address of welcome to the delegates, and the editor of the WEEKLY responded for the visitors. At the time, it was represented to Mr. Ralph that he was not aware of the degree of intimate regard felt for him and his bureau by the thousands of serious collectors throughout the country and that probably he would think that he was recompensed for the demands made upon his time and patience by them, if he could understand the feeling, akin to affection, that we had for him. It was not the fact that Director Ralph and an uncle of the speaker had long been friends in Joliet, Illinois, Mr. Ralph's home town, that led Mr Ralph to tell of his appreciation of this circumstance, but because he was assured that his endeavors to establish proper relations between the bureau and philatelists had succeeded. The delegates will not forget the ringing words of Director Ralph, whose address was one of the features of the convention. Mr. Frank E. Ferguson, assistant director, accompanied Mr. Ralph at the time and gave an interesting talk, and we are sure that the good work started by Mr. Ralph will be continued under the jurisdiction of Mr. Ferguson, who is so likely to succeed the chief.

French—We heartily welcome the 22nd edition of the Yvert & Tellier-Champion catalogue, the first of the "standards" for 1918 to reach our hands. It is significant and even touching that our French friends can issue their great work in the shadow of the stressful events over there and we say that the present edition of Yvert & Tellier-Champion has its human appeal as well as its philatelic claims. In fact, the cover of the catalogue is an emergency issue, with the year, 1915, which was originally printed on it, blotted out and surcharged 1918. The old covers which were on hand were utilized on the score of economy and advice of the authorities, who are conserving all resources. As, for the catalogue itself, all commendation may be bestowed on it philatelically and mechanically. It is on a parity with previous editions, to put it mildly, and the nine hundred pages of the book are about as interesting a philatelic history of the world as could be imagined; and the practical value of the book is found in the seeming equitable pricing. The illustrations of small differences and type varieties with many notes in the text add to the reference value of the book. We are exceedingly glad to see the edition of the French catalogue before us and we recommend it to our readers with all confidence.

Beer—We have received a request for information, suitable for a beginner, about U. S. beer stamps. Beer stamps, with tobacco, cigar, cigarette, snuff, distilled spirits, and other special tax stamps, come under the category of tax paid stamps. The presence of the stamp of this kind on the bottle, barrel, package or what not, denotes that the tax has been paid on the article or commodity, and the rule is that the stamp must be destroyed upon opening the package or container. Beer stamps first were issued under the act of July 13, 1866, when seven stamps were issued, ranging in denomination from 12½ cents to two dollars, inclusive, to pay the tax at the rate of one dollar a barrel. The central design of these large stamps was the size (of barrel) in words and figures. Several issues intervened between 1866 and 1871 when the vignette of some celebrity replaced the old design in the center of the stamp. In the next issue, that of 1875, the 25c exists with inverted center; the vignette was in black with colored frame in this and in the other values of these sets. In 1898, the tax on beer was advanced to two dollars a barrel and surcharged provisionals resulted. The regular issue of 1898 ranged from 25 cents to $4, inclusive. The series of 1901 marked the reduction of the tax to $1.60 a barrel and some odd denominations were the consequence; for instance, 26⅔ cents for a third of of a barrel. In 1902, another provisional indicated the reduction of the tax to one dollar again. In 1909, the design of the stamps was changed to words and figures in center and they were printed in one color on blue paper.

Looking—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who wanted Wurtemberg as complete as possible so that when counting his stamps, that country (then the last country in the album) would give him a big jump in the count? Is he palavering somewhere about how he once worked in the printing office with Bill Nye, with the old-fashioned dealer who put his business card in every new stamp paper just to help the poor publisher along?

* * *

Sure—A reader sends the "double extra": "All right for the father buying stamps for his boy, but I met the genus today who said he was buying stamps for his 'little grandson'."

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

In the editorial column, the new edition of the Catalogue de Timbres-Poste, published by Yvert & Tellier-Champion is reviewed. The price of the book, which is in French, is six francs, and it may be obtained from Theodore Champion, 13 Rue Drouot, Paris, France.

We have received "Notes on the Chinese Postal Service," by Paul King, which is handbook No. 6 in the "Stamp Collecting" series. The price of the little monograph is six pence and while it is not presented as a "great work," it is the concentrated essence of the outstanding facts of the postal system of China. The treatise is an informing one and is well worth having at hand.

Handbook No. 7 in the same series is somewhat more pretentious in appearance, but the price, six pence, is the same. "Postage Stamps of the Italian States," by Derek Ingram, is honored by a foreword by that eminent Italian philatelic master, Dr. Emilio Diena, of Rome. The text is generously illustrated and we are sure that it is to be read with profit by collectors of all divisions. While the treatment is not an extended one but on the contrary singularly compact, it is very well proportioned. This booklet may be warmly recommended. Published at the office of Stamp Collecting, 89 Farringdon St., London, E. C.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

CHINA EXPEDITIONARY FORCE.—(See "C. E. F.").

CHINE.—The French rendering of "China" as shown upon all the stamps issued for the use of the French Consular Offices established in China.

CHINESE BUREAU OF ENGRAVING & PRINTING.—Shortly after the establishment of the republican form of government in China a Bureau of Engraving and Printing was formed patterned after the similar institution in the United States. The first stamps produced by this Official printing office were those issued in 1912 to commemorate the revolution and the formation of the republic.

CHINESE TURKESTAN.—The Eastern portion of that vast region of Central Asia known as Turkestan belongs to China and since 1915 the Chinese stamps used here have been specially overprinted on account of its depreciated currency. The country first became a province of China in 1758. A rising of the Mohammedan inhabitants took place in 1864, and under Yakoob Beg the country was independent till 1877, when the Chinese again took possession.

CHINKIANG.—A Chinese port on the Yang-tsze-kiang having a population of about 235,000. It was first opened to foreign trade in 1861. A local post was established in this port in 1894 and in connection with this numerous stamps have appeared.

CHIOS.—One of the most beautiful and fertile of the Aegean Islands at which a specially overprinted stamp was issued in 1912 during a shortage of ordinary stamps for use in this territory then recently occupied by Greece. The overprint is "E*Λ".

CHORRILLOS.—A town in the department of Lima, Peru, in great favor as a health resort. The name of the town appears on the 5c stamps issued in April, 1871.

CHUCKRAM.—The value in which all the stamps of the Indian native state of Travancore are expressed. A chuckram is equal to 1c in American money.

CHUNKING.—The commercial capital of western China, having a population rapidly approaching a million. It is a treaty port and is situated on the banks of the Yang-tsze-kiang about 1500 miles from its mouth. A local post was established here in 1894 and in connection with this a number of stamps have been issued.

CIA SUD AMERICANA DE B. DE B.—The imprint of the South American Bank Note Company, of Buenos Aires, which appears at the base of the 1901 issue of Official stamps for the Argentine Republic.

CICI FRERES,—A firm of paper manufacturers of S. Marcello de Pistojese, Italy, who manufactured the watermarked paper used in the production of the 1851 issue of stamps for Tuscany.

CINCINNATI CITY DELIVERY.—A local post of Cincinnati, with offices at 64 West Third Street, established in 1883. Special labels were issued in connection with this post, these bearing no indication of their value.

CITY DISPATCH.—One of the semi-official carrier services operating in New York in connection with which a 2c stamp was issued. Little is known of this post or its stamps except that one of the stamps is known to have been used in March, 1846, and the post is known to have been the successor of the United States City Despatch Post.

CITY DISPATCH DELIVERY.—A local post of New York in connection with which special 1c stamps were issued.

CITY DESPATCH POST.—A successful local post established in New York on January 1st, 1842. Mr. John N. Luff, in his monumental work on United States postage stamps, tells us "The founder, sole proprietor, manager and director, was Henry Thomas Windsor, a London merchant, then on a visit to the United States, and residing temporarily in the suburb of Hoboken. In travelling through the country Mr. Windsor, who was familiar with the English postal system, was struck with the inefficiency of our postal arrangements and the excessive charges. He decided, as a business venture, to establish a private post in New York City. He associated with him his friend, Alexander M. Grieg, in whose name the post was established, with the idea that it would be more successful under the name of a well-known resident than under that of a stranger and alien". The chief office of this post was located at 46 William Street and postage stamps bearing the facial value of 3c were issued for the easy collection of the fee charged for the services of the post. The success of this post soon attracted the attention of the Post Office Department and a Government service was started under the name of the "United States City despatch Post." This service was commenced in August, 1842, and Mr. Grieg was appointed as letter carrier. Whether the original City Despatch Post was abandoned or not is uncertain but at any rate it was in business under the same name in 1848 and continued until 1859.

CITY EXPRESS POST.—I. A local post of the United States in connection with which special 2c stamps were issued. At what town and at what date this post was in operation I have been unable to ascertain.

II. The words "City Express Post" form the only inscription on one of the stamps issued by Adams' City Express Post.

CITY LETTER EXPRESS.—The inscription shown upon the 5c stamp issued in connection with the private post of W. E. Loomis & Co. (See also Loomis.)

CITY LETTER EXPRESS MAIL.—A local post of the United States which issued 1c stamps for the prepayment of the fee charged for the delivery of letters. When and where this post was in operation I cannot say.

CITY MAIL CO.—Another local post, in business in 1845, which issued stamps, but at what city this was established I have again been unable to discover.

CITY POST.—Another United States local post which issued 2c stamps which are now of considerable rarity. Regarding this post also I can find no information.

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—Dr. Eric Twachtman advises us that he has an unused envelope with the 1c die printed on top of, but a little to the right of, the 2c die. The combination of the red 2c with the green 1c must be an odd one, and we congratulate the possessor thereof.

(1394)—Mr. H. M. Drown is the first to show us a copy of the 1c circular die envelope stamp, formally chronicled in our issue of Sept. 15. We notice that the right numeral "1" tilts towards Franklin's bust.

(1391)—Mr. George B. Warren, Jr., shows us the "BUY NOW U. S. GOVERNMENT BONDS 2nd LIBERTY LOAN" cancellation, used at Boston October 1.

(1394)—In our Chronicle for Sept. 15th, we stated that Mr. Pierce had shown us unused blocks of the 30c unwatermarked perf. 10. This was an error. We should have stated that we had seen an entire sheet of this stamp. All statements coming from the P. O. Department containing the information that the stock of 30c "was so large that it lasted over the period in which stamps were printed perf. 10 on unwatermarked paper, so that the records show that none of these stamps have been issued" convey a wrong impression, as the statements are wrong. The 30c stamps were first printed on unwatermarked paper on March 13th, 1917, and the last perf. 10 machine to be changed to perf. 11 did not occur until May 10th, 1917, and this information is from the printers and perforators. It will thus be seen that there was plenty of time to perf. 10 some of the 30c stamps on unwatermarked paper.

With regard to the 30c 1916 unwatermarked, perf. 10, we have received the following from Mr. F. A. de Camp: " . . . I have received the following information from Washington: 'The stock of the 30c at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing was so large that it lasted over the period in which stamps were perforated 10 on unwatermarked paper, so that the records show that none were printed perf. 10 on unwatermarked paper.' As I was interested in getting a copy of this stamp I made inquiry with above result. Would add that I have a block of six 2c stamps perf. 10, single line wmk., with paper margin attached and such a small portion of the letters fall on the paper, it is not at all visible on the engraved stamp; the paper being thinner than usual, the letters have not made such a deep impression on the paper."

The word our correspondent has from Washington must be in error. We have had and have examined one entire sheet of the 30c unwatermarked, perf. 10, and our deductions are absolutely correct, the sheet has absolutely no signs of a watermark and the stamps are in fact printed on paper of the same texture and thickness as others of the same series without watermark, and the paper is not thin at all. Our readers will recall our statements in the WEEKLY, Sept. 8, 1917, that some 2c stamps submitted to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, which stamps showed to us a watermark of some undecipherable design, were returned to us with the statement that they were unwatermarked, and that the supposed watermark was probably due to "pick up" on the dandy. We believe Mr. de Camp will find his own 2c stamps on the thinner paper are of the printing just described, unless the watermark is more in evidence.

We do not know from what source Mr. de Camp had his information from Washington, but the statement that "the stock of the 30c . . . was so large that it lasted over the period in which stamps were perforated 10 on unwatermarked paper" is absolutely false.

Mr. J. E. Ralph informs one of our correspondents, Mr. P. H. Ward, Jr., that the first printings of the 30c on unwatermarked paper took place on March 13, 1917, and that the last machine to be changed over from 10 to 11 perforation was so changed on May 10, 1917. So it was during this period of almost two months, that some of the 30c on unwatermarked paper were perforated 10.

One of the arguments put forward, without examination of the stamps, is that the paper on which they are printed is from a worn dandy. This is absolutely wrong, as a worn dandy broadens the bits and makes the watermark thicker, but does not fail to watermark, as the pressure of the dandy is so great that the slightest defect of the bits is shown. Our readers are referred to an examination of recent British Colonial stamps, the thin paper shows the watermark the strongest, while the thicker paper shows the watermark opaque, but the watermark is there just the same and shows up quite well under carbona —or benzine.

There is another test to prove the unwatermarked series of U. S. stamps, but we hope we may be pardoned for keeping this secret. It may not stand good for future printings, but in the present instance it is conclusive.

ABYSSINIA.—(1391)—Scott's Circular chronicles varieties of the stamps we listed in our issue of August 25th, as follows: 2g blue with inverted surcharge and 2g blue with double surcharge; ¼ on 8g with inverted surcharge, also ¼ on 8g in pair, one without surcharge; ½ on 8g with double surcharge; 1 on 16g with inverted surcharge; 2 on 16g with inverted surcharge and 2 on 16g with double surcharge.

BAHAMAS.—See "British Colonies" in this Chronicle.

BRITISH COLONIES.—(See Bahamas, 1386 and 1392, and Turks & Caicos Islands, 1396.)—In several chronicles of British Colonial stamps we have referred to a new perforation as being 14½ instead of 14. We now wish to correct these statements, as the measurements were made with a defective, or rather inaccurate, millimeter scale. In our Turks & Caicos Islands chronicle of Sept. 29th we stated that we would have further investigations to report on in the near future. We made these investigations and discovered our error and wish to state now that the mistake occurred for the reason stated above. We advise all students to see that their millimeter scales are accurate.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—(1389)—Referring to the Chronicle of August 11th, where we mentioned the provisional of 1882 without the hyphen between the words "One-penny", we now see the following in Scott's Circular: "We know a collector who has a copy of the C. A. stamp with a colon, placed sideways, instead of the hyphen, and he tells us he has seen other varieties, but has mislaid his notes. This issue would seem to be worth a little attention from those who like minor varieties."

CHILE.—Can any of our readers inform us how many copies of the 1900 provisional 5c on 30c, Scott's No. 45, were issued? One of our readers asks for this information.

FRANCE.—(1389)—Our English contemporaries chronicle on the authority of Mr. Wilson, the 45c on "G.C." paper. We doubt if the 4c will be issued on this paper, as the value was discontinued some years ago, and a good stock of the printings on the old paper still exist in the hands of the authorities. Likewise, the 25c is still unknown on the "G.C." paper, although, of course, this value has never been discontinued. This peculiar paper, a provisional production, is, we believe, no longer being used.

GUATEMALA.—(1390)—Scott's Circular publishes the following: "We have recently received a quantity of a supposed provisional stamp upon which we look with considerable suspicion. The stamp is the 1 centavo of the 1902 issue with the surcharge 'DOS CENTAVOS' in two lines. The type appears to be the same or very similar to that used for the 1916 surcharges. Our suspicions are based on the following facts; We are informed that 1c and 2c stamps are no longer in use in Guatemala. We are not supplied with unused copies in sheets or blocks but with cancelled copies, tied up in packages, and including nearly as many inverted surcharges as normal. Finally, the centres of the 1c stamps are printed in various shades, some of which we think have been obsolete for years. Guatemala has an evil record in the matter of surcharged stamps and we fear these alleged new provisionals emanate from the same sources that have done so much discredit to other issues."

We are quite in accord with our contemporary's remarks, and our chronicle of this stamp had a little suspicion cast upon it in our Chronicle of August 18, as we then knew that the 1c and 2c had been discontinued in use. The 2c stamp, unsurcharged, of this type has been in use for so many years (since 1902), that it is one of the commonest stamps in existence, therefore it is an easy matter to print a pseudo surcharge on used copies and create a demand for them, thus making the stamps marketable. We advise our readers to beware of them.

RUSSIA.—Mail from Petrograd dated June 27, 1917, has been shown to us by Mr. George B. Warren, Jr. The envelopes are franked with Empire stamps, which show that no special stamps are yet being used by the Republic.

Scott's Circular chronicles Russian stamps with a surcharge of a script capital "A" in a lozenge or diamond shaped frame. The "surcharge" is applied by handstamp with violet ink. We have seen several of these capital letters in lozenge frames on envelopes from Russia, and not applied to the stamps (see Chronicle of September 22nd, under "War Covers"), and we believe they are control markings of postal or censor officials of the Republic, and if applied to the stamp they were done so

Advertising Chat

—Saturday, October 27, will be celebrated with a special number of the WEEKLY. It is not only our season-opener, but No. 1400 as well, and we are warranted in celebrating the occasion. We shall have issued 1400 numbers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, an achievement which places the paper in the front rank of philatelic endeavor.

—Advertisers will find this issue a good number to use and copy should be in not later than Saturday, October 20. Earlier in that week would be better still, and allow the Managing Editor a little leeway in making up the advertising dummy. If you are a user of occasional space let this be one of the numbers with which to secure business.

—Our three-in-one contract is proving very popular. Raymond F. Brainard, Rockville Center, N. Y., has recently signed one and the latest signed contract is from J. C. Matthews, Olympia, Wash. Two adlet contracts have been signed by Charles Wilson, Hutchinson, Kan., and M. R. Houdlette of Melrose Highlands, Mass.

—If you have stamps to sell we can sell them and we have several kinds of contracts you can use. Take the matter up with me at once.

—Our rates are low for the service we render but there is one rule that must be complied with to the letter. Bills for advertising must be paid on presentation. We find that it is easier to pay a bill for one month's advertising than it is for two, and there is no reason why advertising should not be paid for as promptly as rent of office or other ground expense.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—(1397; also see British Colonies in this Chronicle.)—Mr. Eugene Klein has shown us the printing of the War Tax stamps referred to last week. These have the overprint at the very top of the stamp. The stamps used are of the thick paper with transparent watermark and brownish gum, perforated 14 by a comb machine, the same as used for the earlier printings. Mr. Klein is of the opinion that this is a misplaced overprint, but as the stamps are coming from several sources, the overprint at the top appears to be a deliberate position.

(1396)—Mr. Ashley C. LeDuc shows us the new printing of the 3d War Tax stamps on lemon yellow paper with single line perf. 14, which is also shown us by Mr. Eugene Klein. Mr. LeDuc states he received this before he received the 3d on dull yellow paper with brownish gum, comb perf. The latter is, however, the same as already chronicled.

COMMUNICATIONS.

(We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by our readers. Our columns are always open for communications of general interest.—Ed.)

TO THE EDITOR:

Along about the years 1892-3 and 4, I saved a lot of about 11,000 of the then current U. S. 2c stamps for a purpose entirely foreign to philately. Since that time I have become a "Collector." In going through this lot of stamps recently, looking for "caps" on the 2's, I found a few of the 2c lake, Scott's No. 219D, one of which has the left 2 capped and one has both 2's capped. I am reporting this because Scott makes no mention of "caps" on 219D and I thought it would be of interest to other collectors who may have overlooked the existence of these varieties of 219D. I would like to know if this fact has been previously reported.

I am also in receipt of a copy of the 1c green, envelope embossed, Round Die, only a single copy has come in my mail and it appears to be the only one that has come to any of the Atlanta collectors so far as I am aware.

Yours very truly,
W. J. MILLS.

ATLANTA, GA., Sept. 10, 1917.

TO THE EDITOR:

On January 4th, 1891, I received a note from Paris, France. The stamp on envelope, containing same, is a 2c U. S. postage stamp 1890-93 issue. Postmarked Paris, France, Dec. 24th, 1890. Nothing to collect. I have the cover entire. What do you know about that? Ever hear of any others?

Very truly yours,
J. F. GARLOCK.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 23, 1917.

DIRECTOR RALPH RESIGNS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Joseph E. Ralph, director of the bureau of engraving and printing, whose administration of the bureau has been under investigation for months, has tendered his resignation.

Charges of exceeding his authority in administering the affairs of the big bureau, where the government's entire volume of paper currency is made, have been under investigation by a special committee of the Treasury Department, but no report as to its findings has been made public.

Mr. Ralph, it is understood, will accept the presidency of the United States Intaglio Security Company, a new corporation designed to be the largest bank note company in the world. He will receive a salary practically double what the government paid him.

Mr. Ralph asserted that his resignation "had nothing whatever to do" with the committee's investigations of charges against him.

"When my resignation has been accepted," Mr. Ralph said, "I expect that Secretary McAdoo will give out a statement relating to it. For the present I have nothing further to say."

Investigation began last June when Congressman Jeanette Rankin of Montana filed with Secretary McAdoo charges in which it was alleged that Mr. Ralph was overworking women employes at the plant. A committee named to investigate broadened its inquiry to include the manner in which Mr. Ralph had conducted the affairs of the bureau.

Not only were the hours of work investigated, but contracts alleged to have been made without authority for supplies and other administrative features of the bureau's affairs were touched upon.

C. L.—I. An overprint found on certain early South Australian stamps signifying "Crown Lands". The stamps were used during the period 1868-74 and in the latter year they were superseded by the general issue for all government departments overprinted "O. S."

II. The initials of M. C. L'Epplattenier, the designer, which appear on the 20c to 3fr values of the 1908 stamps of Switzerland.

CLARKE, J. A.—The postmaster of Goliad, Texas, in 1861, who issued special 5c and 10c stamps for local use until the regular issue for the Confederate States was ready.

CLARKE'S CIRCULAR EXPRESS.—A local post established in New York in 1863 which issued labels for the collection of its charges.

CLARKE & CO.—A local post of the United States in business in 1857 but at what town I have been unable to ascertain. One cent stamps were issued by this post.

CLARIOR E TENEBRIS.—A motto shown upon the Grenada stamps of the "Ship" type first issued in 1905. Literally translated it means "Lighter from Darkness" but what that is intended to signify I cannot say.

CLAUDIUS, M.—An engraver, of Altona, who engraved the dies for the stamps of the 1850 issue for Schleswig-Holstein.

CLAYTON, ROBERT.—An engraver and printer at one time in business in Dublin, Ireland, who went from there to Sydney, New South Wales. He claimed to be able to produce stamp dies similar to those used in England and was at last commissioned to engrave a copper plate for printing 1d stamps. This was the original plate for the 1d "Sydney Views" and for this work he was paid ten pounds.

CLEAN-CUT PERFORATION.—A philatelic term applied to many of the older stamps of certain British Colonies to distinguish them from stamps of similar design, color, and watermark, having what is known as "rough perforation". In "clean-cut" perforation the holes are sharp and clear as opposed to the ragged appearance of the "rough perforation."

CLEANED STAMPS.—Stamps from which the cancellations have been fraudulently removed so that they appear unused to the uninitiated.

CLEMENCET, E.—An officer of the French Postal Department who went to Corea in 1903 to organise the postal system of that country. He designed the stamps of Corea issued in 1903.

CLEVENGER, SHOBAL VAIL.—An American sculptor, born in 1812, whose bust of Daniel Webster inspired the portrait on the 15c stamp of the United States issued in 1870. Clevenger died at sea in September, 1843.

CLICHE.—A single stereotype or electrotype of a stamp design. In many cases the plates from which stamps are printed have been formed from a number of separate clichés clamped together.

CLIPPERTON ISLAND.—A series of bogus labels bearing the name of this island appeared in 1895, but so general was the suspicion with which they were regarded that probably very few collectors were victimised by them. The island is a small one situated near the coast of California and belonging to the United States. At the time these labels were issued the Guano deposits, for which the island was valuable, were being worked by the Oceanic Phosphate Company and the "Stamps" were a private enterprise on the part of a Mr. W. Frese, one of the members of the Company.

COAMO.—A small town in the island of Porto Rico at which provisional 5c stamps, set up from ordinary printer's type, were issued in 1898 shortly after the island came under the dominion of the United States.

COARD, C. W.—An engraver, of Hobart, who engraved the plates for the first 1d and 4d stamps of Tasmania issued in 1853.

COARSE IMPRESSIONS.—A term applied to stamps printed from roughly engraved plates or, more generally, to those printed from very worn plates.

COATED PAPER.—(See Chalk Surfaced Paper.)

COCHIN.—A feudatory State of India, lying between Travancore and Malabar, on the west shore of the Madras Presidency, with an area of 1,361 square miles and a population rapidly approaching a million. In 1662 it was seized by the Dutch, and in 1799, on the fall of Seringapatam, it fell into British hands. Postage stamps for the use of this State were first issued in 1892.

COCHIN ANCHAL.—The inscription shown on all the stamps of Cochin issued since 1898.

COCHIN CHINA.—The extreme south-eastern portion of the French dependency of Indo-China. It has a total area of 22,000 square miles and a population of about three millions, of whom only 8,000 are Europeans. It is under the rule of a lieutenant-governor, assisted by a privy council composed of Europeans and natives. Special postage stamps for Cochin China were issued in 1886 but three years later they were superseded by the general issue for Indo-China.

COELHO, J. J. G.—A Portuguese artist who designed the 50 reis stamp of the Vasco da Gama commemorative issue.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

By BILL BLOSS.

Issues of 1881-1888.

Early in 1881, it was decided to deepen certain of the lines of the 1c, 3c, 6c and 10c values, to facilitate in the printing of the stamps, so retouches were made to the dies of the 1c and 3c and re-engraving done on the dies of the 6c and 10c.

On the 1c value, the vertical lines in the upper portion of the stamp have been deepened until the background appears to be almost solid. Lines of shading have been added to the inside of the upper arabesques.

On the 3c stamp the vertical lines in the shield have been deepened until the shading outside the medallion appears only half as wide as on the previous stamps. The horizontal lines at the bottom portion of the stamp have been deepened, and a short horizontal dash about 1 mm. long has been cut below the "ts" of "cents."

On the 6c only three vertical lines may be counted from the edge of the panel to the outside of the stamp. On the previous issues there were four lines. The horizontal lines of the panel have also been re-engraved.

On the 10c the horizontal lines of the background have been strengthened, giving the stamp an appearance of having a solid background. There are only four vertical lines between the left side of the oval and the edge of the shield on the re-engraved stamps, while there are five on the original design.

The re-engraved stamps may be readily distinguished by the shades and the general heavy appearance in comparison with the earlier printings.

In 1882, an experiment known as the Douglas patent was tried on the one and three cent values. This variety consisted of a double paper, the stamps being printed on a very thin sheet backed by a heavy porous sheet. A die cutting eight small holes in a circle was impressed into the thin sheet before it was attached to the thick backing. One complete circle of eight holes fell on each stamp. The idea was to print the stamps so that the portion which fell over the holes would be printed on the backing paper, and any attempt to erase the cancellation would tear the surface paper, while any attempt to soak the stamp would result in separating the sheets. 10,000 stamps were thus prepared, and placed on sale, at Washington, but they did not prove practical.

The five cent stamp bearing the portrait of Garfield was issued soon after his assassination. The stamp picturing Gen. Taylor had never given satisfaction, for it had been hurriedly designed, and was not in the least artistic. It was originally intended to issue the Garfield stamp in black, as in the case of the fifteen cent Lincoln stamp of 1866, but a dark brown was finally decided upon. The stamp was accordingly issued on March 1, 1882.

The color ranges in shade from yellow brown to grey brown.

On October 1, 1883, two cent letter postage went into effect in the United States, i. e., two cents for each half ounce or fraction thereof, instead of three cents, as formerly. This is one of the memorable acts of the United States Post Office Department, for it has made possible much correspondence which would not otherwise be carried on.

There being little use for the 3c stamp, it was decided to issue a new 2c stamp bearing the portrait of Washington. An entirely new design, the forerunner of the 1890 series, and a very simple type, was adopted. The stamp bore a profile bust of Washington, in oval, with inscriptions, "United States Postage," and value, "Two Cents," as well as numeral "2". The stamp was printed in red brown, but the quantity used soon resulted in many shades, ranging into the orange brown and even yellow browns. The stamp was placed on sale on October 1, 1883.

For the amateur collector who desires to do some microscopic research, this stamp offers possibilities. The writer satisfied his cravings in this directon by examining over 50,000 copies under the glass, and found a number of minor plate differences and slight shifts, though none important enough to note. Much can be done in the cancellation line on this stamp, as well as on the commoner varieties of the preceding issues.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Town and year date cancellations are not uncommon, and offer many items of interest to the specialist. Railway cancellations may be had. Colored cancellations are not as common on the 2c as on some of the previous 3c stamps.

While taking up the subject of cancellations, let us consider the period from 1870 to 1883. This is the field most generally covered by the specialist, for the reason that the stamps are obtainable in large quantities at a small cost. In the earlier issues of the '70's, much ground may be covered in the line of "Paid," "Free" and similar word cancellations. These become scarcer on the later issues, and are quite rare on the '80's. However, "Paid" is sometimes seen on the 2c. Numeral, target, and letter obliterations exist in countless varieties. Figure cancellations, such as skull and cross-bones, kicking mule, pumpkin heads, shields, flags, masonic, and the fancy cork figures, are even more plentiful than on the issues of the '60's. An endless collection of cork varieties may be made for the searching. Many of these are very scarce and interesting.

Colored cancellations are quite abundant on the early '70's and less so on the later issues. Red, green, brown and pink are the scarcest colors. Blue, purple and magenta are more often found. Colored cancellations on the late '70's and '80's are mostly confined to blue and purple.

The new postal rate made a new value, the four cent, necessary for the first time in our history. This stamp was placed on sale on the same date as the 2c.

The portrait of Andrew Jackson, which was formerly on the 2c stamp, was used on the new 4c. The design was very much like the new 2c. The color, blue-green, does not vary in shade to any extent.

On June 15th, 1887, a one cent stamp was issued in new design. This value is not unlike the 2c and 4c described above. The stamp, as usual, bears a portrait of Franklin, in profile. The color differs somewhat on the various printings, ranging from light to deep ultramarine.

Early in September, 1887, an official circular announced that the color of the 2c stamp would be changed from "metallic red" to green, and that the color of the 3c stamp, which was still in use in some of the larger offices, would be changed from green to vermilion. These changes were duly made, and in the following year the 4c stamp was changed to carmine, the 5c to indigo, the 30c to orange brown, and the 90c to purple.

Only one variety in the above issue is worthy of note. One sheet, and possibly more of the 5c indigo, was printed on pink paper. This variety was evidently due to an accident, as the stamp does not appear to be a changeling. It is exceedingly rare.

The Issue of 1890.

The issue of 1890 marks the passing of the large stamps, as all future issues, with the exception of the commemoratives, were in the small size of today.

After considerable time was lost, the contract for the printing of the stamps was finally awarded the American Bank Note Company for a period of four years. Under a special order, two sets of essays in trial colors were made, but as these were not issued for use, they need not be considered here.

The series, with the exception of the four cent and five cent, was placed on sale at the larger offices on February 22nd, 1890, while the four and five cents values were issued in June of that year. The eight cent stamp was not included in the series at the time, and did not appear until March, 1893.

In design, the stamps were not unlike the three stamps issued in 1883 and 1887, but were smaller in size, measuring 19 x 22 mm.

The designs and colors are as follows:

1c Franklin, dull blue.
2c Washington, carmine.
3c Jackson, purple.
4c Lincoln, dark brown.
5c Grant, chocolate.
6c Garfield, brown red.
8c Sherman, lilac.
10c Webster, green.
15c Clay, indigo.
30c Jefferson, black.
90c Perry, orange.

The color of the two cent ranges from lake to pink, due to experiments in inks used during the different printings.

The paper, gum and perforation are practically the same as in the previous issue by the American Bank Note Co.

The eight cent stamp was issued because of the reduction in the rate of registration from ten cents to eight cents, which occurred January 1, 1893.

There is little to be said of this issue. Three plate varieties on the two cent stamps are of more or less interest to collectors. These are known as the "capped numeral" varieties, for the figure two shows a cap at the top, caused by the chipping of the transfer roll. This variety occurs on each numeral, and on both, in various instances. The right cap is decidedly scarce, while the others are not uncommon.

Bisected and imperforate copies of this issue are known, but these must be considered questionable, as they were not authorized.

The Columbian Issue of 1893.

It was decided to issue a series of stamps in connection with the World's Columbian Exposition, held at Chicago, in 1893, in commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America.

This issue was decided upon because of the scope of the enterprise, and because the government conceived the idea of making a profit on the sets sold to collectors and souvenir gatherers. This is one of the earliest recognitions of philately by the government, though not the earliest.

The stamps were printed under a contract with the American Bank Note Company, and were placed on sale on January 1, 1893, with the exception of the eight cent stamp, which did not appear until March.

The set consisted of sixteen values, in pictorial designs displaying the various events in the life of Columbus, and is one of the handsomest series ever issued by any government.

While after the collector's money, the government decided to do the job thoroughly, and accordingly added five high values, two of which were seem-

$4 carmine lake, Portrait of Columbus and Isabella, from paintings.

$5 black, Profile of Columbus, from cast used on Columbian half dollar.

The paper, perforation and gum are like the preceding issues.

Many shades of nearly all of the lower values exist. The four cent stamp was printed in deep blue, the color of the one cent, in error, and at least one sheet of this variety was placed in circulation, at Cleveland, Ohio, in September, 1893.

Recent studies by various collectors have disclosed small plate varieties in the lower values, both from wear and from double transfers. The 2c stamp exists with double impression. Most of these plate varieties occur at the border lines of the stamps. Collectors wishing further information should refer to files of the Collector's Journal, also to the Philadelphia Stamp News, and MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

Cancellation varieties on the Columbian and 1890 issues offer very little of interest, owing to the standardization of the cancelling devices. Town, cork, and registry cancellations are the usual means of obliteration. The writer knows of one copy of the 2c, 1890, cancelled "Paid", this being the latest use of the "Paid" cancellation coming to his attention.

As a speculation, the Columbian series proved dubious for the Government and the collectors. Sufficient sets were purchased by collectors who intended to realize large profits to make the set quite common, and even to-day, unused high values may not bring much over face value.

Cancelled copies, in fine condition, are worth in many cases more than uncancelled, though of course, they do not bring as much because of the face value involved. The three and four dollar values are particularly scarce in fine used condition.

All remainders on hand were destroyed by the Post Office in 1899 and 1900. These did not amount to many sets however.

ORDER OF THE POSTMASTER GENERAL

Increase in Rate of Postage on First-Class Mail, Including Postal and Post Cards.

Office of the Postmaster General,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3, 1917.

Order No. 755.

Section 399, Postal Laws and Regulations is amended to read as follows, effective November 2, 1917:

399. Upon all matters of the first class * * * postage shall be charged * * * at the rate of three cents for each ounce or fraction thereof; and drop letters shall be mailed at the rate of two cents per ounce or fraction thereof, including delivery at letter-carrier offices. (Acts of March 3, 1885, and Oct. 3, 1917.)

Note—A drop letter is one addressed for delivery from the office at which it is posted. There is no drop rate on any matter except letters. See Sec. 408, as to rates of postage on ship and steamboat letters.

Section 400, Postal Laws and Regulations, is amended to read as follows, effective November 2, 1917:

400. Postal cards shall be transmitted through the mails at a postage charge of two cents each, including the cost of manufacture. (Acts of March 3, 1879, and October 3, 1917.)

See Secs. 127 and 128, as to postal cards.

Section 402, Postal Laws and Regulations, is amended to read as follows, effective November 2, 1917:

402. It shall be lawful to transmit by mail, at the postage rate of two cents apiece, payable by stamps to be affixed by the sender, and under such regulations as the Postmaster General may prescribe, written messages on private mailing cards, such cards to be sent openly in the mails, to be no larger than the size fixed by the Convention of the Universal Postal Union, and to be approximately of the same form, quality and weight as the stamped postal card now in general use in the United States. (Acts of May 19, 1898, and October 3, 1917.)

A. S. BURLESON,
Postmaster General.

Office of 3rd Asst. P. M. General,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3, 1917.

Pursuant to the foregoing amended regulations postmasters shall, on and after November 2, 1917, see that postage is paid at the rate of three cents an ounce or fraction thereof on letters and other first-class matter except drop letters. All drop letters, that is, letters mailed for delivery from the office at which posted, including those for delivery by city, rural, or other carrier of such office, are required to have postage paid on them at the rate of two cents an ounce or fraction thereof. Postal cards are required to be prepaid two cents, and, therefore, the one-cent postal cards must have a one cent postage stamp affixed to them in addition to the one cent stamp impressed on such cards. Post cards (private mailing cards) bearing written messages must have two cents postage prepaid on them. Postmasters at offices of address shall be careful to rate up with the proper amount of postage due all mail reaching their offices with the postage insufficiently prepaid.

The failure of any postmaster to observe the foregoing shall be reported to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Classification.

Tax—The date of October 3, 1917, is a vital one in our economic history as on that day, Congress enacted a war revenue tax that is the most drastic and expansive that has ever affected the American public. The extensive provisions of the law require no little study to be understood in all their detail but we are concerned only with the stamp tax. The war tax on beverages is raised and likewise that on tobacco, cigars, playing cards, etc., and many new objects of taxation are named but after all, the tax will be paid in stamps in comparatively few instances. Toilet articles, proprietary medicines and chewing gum, for instance, on which the tax under previous enactments was levied by stamps are now paid monthly in cash, we find. As for the war stamp taxes, which are effective December 1, 1917, they apply to bonds of different kinds, capital stock, conveyances, custom house entries, promissory notes, proxies and power of attorney, produce sold on exchange, steamship tickets and stock sales or transfers. We read: "Failure to affix proper stamps, with intent to evade the law, subjects the offender to a fine not exceeding $1000, or imprisonment not more than six months, or both." Here is an odd tax on parcel post packages: "On every parcel or package transported by parcel post between points in United States on which the postage amounts to 25 cents or more, one cent for each 25 cents or fractional part thereof charged, tax to be paid by sender." We expect to have particulars as to the new stamps themselves at an early date.

Latest—We feel that we have been remiss in not having mentioned the appearance of our latest handbook, "United States Virgin Islands, formerly the Danish West Indies," by Bertram W. H. Poole and J. Murray Bartels. This is our twenty-first booklet and is sold for ten cents. The book has twenty-eight pages and cover and contains an excellent map of our latest acquisitions; and a frontispiece shows Secretary Lansing presenting the draft for $25,000,000 in payment for the islands. The illustrations are plentiful and with the text, make a monograph whose value is not to be measured by the cost of the booklet. The writers are authorities and in truth their compilation may be called the final word on the stamps of United States Virgin Islands.

Advance—The increased cost of postage, beginning November 2, 1917, was announced by the department in the following order which provides for three cent stamps and stamped envelopes and two cent postal cards. Some time ago, we were informed that the Bureau had printed a large supply of three cent stamps, in anticipation of a levy of a war tax of one cent on each letter.

Office of Third Asst. P. M. Gen.,
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4, 1917.

1. Under the Act of Congress approved October 3, 1917, changing the rates of postage, the Department will begin issuing 2-cent postal cards and 3-cent postage stamps and stamped envelopes as soon as a supply can be manufactured. It will not be possible, however, to provide them in sufficient quantities to exchange stocks of 1-cent postal cards, 2-cent stamps, or 2-cent envelopes held by the public or by postmasters. It will therefore be necessary, beginning November 2, 1917, when the new postage rates become effective for postmasters to continue the sale of 1-cent cards and 2-cent envelopes while their stocks last, and for the public to fix adhesive stamps to cards and envelopes to the amount of the increase of postage.

2. Postmasters may draw requisition for 2-cent single postal cards, known as No. 9; for 2-cent reply postal cards, known as No. 10; for 3-cent adhesive stamps, and for 3-cent plain stamped envelopes, high-back, low-back and extra quality, in all listed sizes and colors except manila, in time to prevent their stocks of 1-cent postal cards, 2-cent adhesive stamps, and 2-cent plain envelopes from becoming exhausted. These requisitions will be filled as soon as possible in the order of their receipt at the Department, but cannot be expedited. The Department will substitute high-back for low-back envelopes when stocks of the latter are insufficient to fill requisitions. District postmasters should draw all requisitions for stamped paper on their central-accounting postmasters.

3. Requisitions may now also be drawn in response to orders from purchasers for 3-cent printed special-request stamped envelopes, high-back, low-back, extra quality and window, in all listed sizes and colors except manila.

4. The prices of 3-cent stamped envelopes will be the same as for 2-cent, plus one cent each. Printed price-lists will be issued to postmasters as soon as received from the printer.

A. M. DOCKERY,
Third Asst. P. M. Gen.

History—We notice the advertisements of "The United States Post Office," by Daniel C. Roper, recently first assistant postmaster general and we have no doubt but that the work lives up to the glowing description of it by the publishers, who say that it is a "thrilling and amazing story of the growth and magnitude of the post office. . . . It is a pioneer work and the only book of its kind." We are not disposed to cavil at these claims, but we remember that Thomas L. James, postmaster general in 1881, wrote a brief history of the post office and that postal officers of minor rank tried their hands on the subject. It is almost certain that we shall find Mr. Roper's book of interest and perhaps of philatelic value, but in works of the kind, we are apt to be disappointed because more information on stamps in a specific sense is not included in them.

Unexpected.—In the Sioux City Sunday Journal of September 30th, 1917, we find a feature article taking up the best part of a page and headed: "Collecting Stamps for Pleasure and for Profit." The collection of our friend, Mr. G. L. Baldwin, furnishes much of the material for the article; and likewise, does that of Mr. E. B. Jones. Written in a popular style the article has its place in the spread of collecting. However, what strikes us is a fac-simile reproduction of the first page of the first number of the American Stamp Mercury, Boston, Oct. 25, 1867, published by F. Trifet. Mr. Trifet helped make early philatelic commercial history and his paper was one of the earlier philatelic monthlies in this country. The owner of the first number of this paper has a memento that is interesting and somewhat scarce.

Placed—In our issue of October 6th, 1917, we mentioned a handstamped impression of Harriott's Broadway Post Office and said that while we had a recollection of having seen the name of Harriott in connection with stamps, we could not certify as to particulars. Mr. Henry C. Needham, whose series on United States locals in the Philatelic Gazette is the most valuable contribution of recent years has the kindness to write: "Your remarks about Harriott may be answered by referring to my memoranda of the Broadway Post Office in the Gazette of last spring or early summer. James C. Harriott established the Broadway Post Office on the north side of Canal Street, the first door east of Broadway, in 1848. In 1849, he moved to 416 Broadway, the corner of Canal Street, and in 1851 to 422½ Broadway. The handstamp referred to served all purposes for the first year or two after the doors were open, and again later, when the Broadway stamp was suppressed." While Mr. Harriott had the post, which under different proprietors existed until 1862, he issued the familiar Broadway Post Office stamps, the black variety being somewhat common. Mr. Needham takes occasion to say that he is surprised and gratified to find that our local stamps are having a decided flare of favor. It is becoming the custom of big collectors who specialize in U. S. to take up the issues of the local posts to complete the country.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—At the meeting of the Junior Philatelic Society of London, held Sept. 15, Pres. Melville reported in alluding to the roll of honor that eighteen members had been killed in the war. He also reported that there are upwards of 250 members of the Society in active service.

—Mr. C. V. Webb, who has recently resigned his official connection with the S. P. A. and A. S. D. A., wishes us to acquaint the philatelic public with the names and addresses of the officials who are taking up with his former duties. We are pleased to give them as requested, as follows:—Albert E. Gorham, Sec. S. P. A., 1240 8th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.; J. E. Guest, Sec. A. S. D. A., 320 McKnight Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.; B. W. H. Poole, Treas. A. S. D. A., 1015 Real Estate Trust Bldg., Philadelphia, Pa.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Henry B. Phillips, Ziegler Sargent, Frank C. Brown, and F. G. Scale.

—Maitland Milliken in submitting several clippings encloses the call issued for the October 11 meeting of the Mountain State Philatelic Society. A special effort is being made to interest the collectors of Denver in the local society, and there is every reason to believe that the movement will be a success. No fewer than 175 collectors are within the reach of this organization.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

COLLEGE STAMPS.—These were special stamps issued between the years 1871 and 1885 by several of the colleges of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, England, for the purpose of franking the local or intercollegiate correspondence of their own members. It appears that almost from time immemorial the Universities had special rights and privileges in the way of carrying letters and, as a matter of convenience special stamps were issued during the period referred to above. The postal authorities deemed the issue of stamps an infringement of the rights of the Postmaster-General and ultimately pressure was brought to bear on the college authorities and the stamps were suppressed.

COLMAN & LAW.—A firm of booksellers and druggists of Gonzales, Texas, who issued 5c and 10c stamps in that town in 1861, these labels being used for local postage until they were replaced by the general issue for the Confederate States.

COLMET-DAAGE.—(See Daage.)

COLOMBIA.—A republic in the north-west portion of South America, having an area of 473,000 square miles and a population of more than four millions. It has a coast line of 1,100 on the Atlantic Ocean and one of 1,040 on the Pacific. At the present time the republic is divided into the Capital district of Bogota and fifteen Departments. Colombia was formerly known as New Granada and was then a federation of States which now form the various Departments. By a Constitution signed on August 5th, 1886, all the departments were federated under a central government consisting of a Congress with two Chambers, and a President elected for a term of ten years. In 1903 the department of Panama seceded and proclaimed itself an independent republic.

In 1537 the Chibehas—one of the civilised nations of South America—were defeated by the Spaniards, under General Quesada, who took their capital, Bacata (Bogota), and named the territory Nueva Granda. Begota revolted from Spanish dominion in 1810 and in 1819 Bolivar gained the decisive battle of Boyaca. New Granada, with Ecuador and Venezuela, then joined forces and became the republic of Colombia. In 1829 Venezuela withdrew and formed the independent republic of that name, and in the following year Ecuador and New Granada decided to annul their agreement. In 1863 New Granada assumed the title of the United States of Colombia and in 1886 it became the republic of Colombia It has been frequently disturbed by party warfare and revolts, to the great hindrance of its commercial development. The various changes in the constitution of the country's government are clearly marked on its postage stamps. The first of these were issued in 1859 when the "Granada Confederation" was in force; in 1861 a set for the "United States of New Granada" was issued; in 1862 stamps for the "United States of Colombia" appeared; and in 1886 the first set for the "Republic of Colombia" was issued.

COLON.—I. A word found upon all the postage stamps of Chili issued prior to 1901. It is the Spanish form for Columbus, whose portrait adorns nearly all the postage stamps of this republic.

II. Since 1901 the peso of Costa Rica has been officially known as a colon. A colon is divided into 100 centavos and has a nominal value of about 50c in American money.

COLONES.—The plural of "Colon" as inscribed on the highest denominations of the stamps of Costa Rica.

COLONIA DE RIO DE ORO.—The inscription shown on the stamps of Rio de Oro meaning, of course, "Colony of Rio de Oro."

COLONIA ERITREA.—An overprint found on many of the stamps of Italy issued for use in the colony of Eritrea.

COLONIAL PRINTINGS.—A term frequently used for distinguishing stamps printed locally in various British Colonies from impressions made in London from the same plates by the manufacturers of the plates.

COLONIES DE L'EMPIRE FRANCAIS.—The inscription shown on the first series of stamps issued for general use throughout the whole of the French colonies. Its English equivalent is "Colonies of the French Empire."

COLOR.—This has been defined by scientists as "a sensation associated with a definite stimulus of the optic nerve" but, philatelically, it refers to the specific tint in which any particular stamp is printed.

COLORED PAPER.—A term that is really self explanatory. In producing paper of this sort pigment of the required tint is added to the pulp with the result that the paper is colored right through.

COLOR TRIALS.—A term applied by stamp collectors to impressions of a stamp design printed in a different color or on colored paper distinct from that finally adopted for actual use. When the design has been chosen and the die engraved and the plate is ready for use it often happens that impressions from the die, or plate, or both, are taken in all sorts of colors to help the authorities responsible to choose the one most suitable. These are of considerable philatelic interest as color proofs or trials having distinct bearing on the history of a stamp.

Impressions of some of the more recent British stamps are sometimes met with on colored paper, which are erroneously termed color trials. These are merely impressions taken by the printers to judge whether the plates are laid on the bed of the printing machines accurately or not, and colored paper is used owing to the fact that the contractors are not allowed to have any white paper on the premises other than the watermarked paper supplied by the Inland Revenue authorities, each sheet of which has to be strictly accounted for. These stamps are, therefore, not color trials but simply printers' waste and their philatelic interest is but small.

COLUMBIA.—A city of South Carolina having a present population well in excess of 21,000. During the Civil War it was much injured by fire. It is philatelically interesting from the fact that in 1861 the then postmaster issued numerous 5c envelopes which were used for local postage until they were replaced by the general issue of stamps for the Confederate States.

COLUMBIAN BANK NOTE CO.—A firm of printers and engravers of Washington, D. C., who produced the

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. Benjamin Cadbury shows us the 2c coil stamps unwatermarked with Schermack perforation. These are printed on flat plates and made up from imperforate sheets.

(1383)—The new 3c letter postage rate goes into effect on November 2nd. The rate is 3c per ounce or fraction thereof and 3c each additional ounce or fraction thereof. This affects all postage on first class mail matter in the United States and possessions and wherever the domestic rates of postage apply, such as Canada, Mexico, Cuba, etc., with the exception of drop letters, where the rate is 2c per ounce or fraction thereof. Postal cards will be 2c each. A drop letter means one posted at a post office for delivery from the same post office; that means a letter mailed, for instance, in Philadelphia, addressed to a P. O. Box or the General Delivery of the Philadelphia Post office, would be handled for 2c per ounce.

The 3c stamps in booklets are, we believe, already prepared for issue and will be issued immediately, if not already out. Likewise a 3c envelope stamp will be one of the results of the new rate, and, perhaps, we will see a 6c envelope, taking the place of the 4c one. The vertically coiled 3c stamps printed by the Rotary press will also, probably, be issued, as well as the 3c in imperforate form, from flat plates, for making into coils with the Schermack and Mailometer perforations. It is probable that the 6c stamps will be issued in coil form to take the place of the 4c, while we may also expect a 13c stamp for registered letters. But, like other suppositions, we have no definite information and can only await, anticipatingly, the new issues that may transpire.

(1398)—Mr. Benjamin Cadbury shows us several of the Liberty Loan advertising cancellations, for use during the 2nd Loan campaign. Washington is using the same cancellation as used during the 1st campaign: "Do your bit," etc., together with a new one: "Buy Now U. S. Government Bonds 2nd Liberty Loan". Easton, Pa., is using the same cancellation as used for the first campaign: "Your patriotic duty," etc. Penna. Terminal, New York, N. Y., No. 4, and the Wall Street Sta., New York, N. Y., No. 2, are the same as the new Washington, D. C.: "Buy now," etc.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—The Phil. Jour. of Gr. Brit. publishes the following: "We have a copy of the 10c of the 1911 type with a watermark which looks like four arrow-heads, one in each corner. Careful examination, however, shows that it is the sun watermark very much off centre, three rays showing in each angle and giving the appearance of arrow-heads. Thus is cleared up the mystery of this watermark, which we chronicled in April, 1915, on the authority of an exchange, as '10c wmk. arrowheads.'"

We note that the Scott Catalogue lists under 1915, 10c and 24c stamps with watermark Arrow Heads, and prices them for sale. We would be pleased to publish further information on the subject, if details are submitted by our readers.

BELGIUM.—The Philatelic Jour. of Gr. Brit. publishes the following: "We hear that all values of the current issue are to be specially printed on rose paper, overprinted with a red cross! Of the lowest values there is to be an issue of 400,000 stamps, and the numbers will be graduated in diminishing quantities until we reach 15,000 for each of the franc values."

COSTA RICA.—(1397)—Continuing our remarks on the Costa Rican envelope stamps, set forth in the Chronicle of October 6th, we are now enabled to state that the 20c envelope was first issued in 1913 and is listed in Bright's Catalog under that year. Never having seen a copy of the 20c with the Waterlow imprint at the back, we are inclined to believe that it does not exist with it, and, therefore, it would seem to be logical to state that the 20c was issued simultaneously with the 5c and 10c bearing the imprint of the American Bank Note Co., and that all three were issued in 1913.

FRENCH MOROCCO.—The American Philatelist has word from Mr. Vincent Gurdji that the new series of stamps has at last been issued. They are a handsome series, showing the principal historic monuments of Morocco. The form is the same for all values, large rectangular, about the same size as the French Colonial picture stamps. Each stamp shows the word "MAROC" (French) and its equivalent in Arabic below. The 1c, 2c and 3c have a picture of the Tower of Hassan at Rabat; the 5c, 10c and 15c have a picture of the Dekaken Door at Fez; the 20c, 25c and 30c picture the Chella Door near Rabat; the 35c, 40c and 45c have the picture of the Koutaubia (tower) at Marrakech (Morocco); the 50c and 1f picture the Mansour-El-Euldj of Maknes, and the 2f, 5f and 10f show the Ruins of Volubilis. We are of the opinion that the perforation is 13½x14.

Adhesives.

1c gray.	35c orange.
2c bright violet.	40c turquoise-blue.
3c brick (red?).	45c bronze-green.
5c green.	50c sepia.
10c carmine.	1f blue-black.
15c slate-gray.	2f ochre.
20c claret.	5f dark green.
25c dark blue.	10f black.
30c dark violet.

GREAT BRITAIN.—(1396)—Stamp Collecting has the 1½d in a new shade from Mr. W. Ward. The latter states that the color runs like oil, and our contemporary calls it fugitive ink. The color is red-brown, and we surmise that it has some aniline-red in it, as the anilines run more or less when immersed in water.

This color may be entirely new or it may be the same as that listed in our edition of September 29th.

Adhesive.

1½d red-brown (aniline?).

(Offices in China)—(1384)—Stamp Collecting publishes the following: "A variety is to be found on the 2c, 4c, 6c, 10c and 50c, and probably on all the other values of the Hong Kong series overprinted 'China', the letter 'C' of the overprint being shorter than the normal." Mr. W. Ward has submitted an example of the 10c with this variety.

GUATEMALA.—(1398)—We have seen unused copies of the "Dos Centavos" on 1c green and claret, chronicled in our issue of August 18th, and mentioned last week, on the authority of a contemporary, as probably being a fake.

The judgment of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., publishers of Scott's Circular (the contemporary referred to), may be absolutely correct, and we are inclined to believe it is, regarding the lot of these stamps with inverts as plentiful as the normal surcharge, still we must await official or semi-official information or a lack of both before we should go on record as condemning the stamps like we did last week. It is probable that such a provisional was actually issued and used and that fakes of it (the surcharge being an easy one for the faker) both normal and inverted have been made. The small number of unused copies may be accounted for by the fact that "letters and newspapers must be brought to P. O. to have stamp attached by clerk, that this procedure is to prevent dealers from buying the whole stock," to quote from our original chronicle of the provisional. If the issue were a small one, it would have been an easy matter to have purchased the whole lot, the Guatemalan centavo being less than one-fifth of a cent, we believe.

HEDJAZ.—(1397)—Our English contemporaries believe The London Philatelist has made a mistake in the chronicling of a 1p 40t stamp for this country, which we chronicled in our edition of October 6th, on the same authority. It seems the value is 1 para= one fortieth of a piastre, and it is so listed by the Philatelic Journal of Gr. Brit. This publication also states that the stamp has a zigzag roulette, different from the roulette of the earlier issues, and that the 20pa (½pi) red has also appeared with this zigzag roulette, as well as the postage dues chronicled by us on August 25th. To re-adjust our chronicle of these stamps, changing the ¼ and ½ piastres to their equivalents in paras, we give the following list:

Adhesives.

10pa green, perforated.
20pa red, perforated.
1pi blue, perforated.
a. pale blue.
b. deep metallic blue.
5pa orange, rouletted.
10pa green, rouletted.
20pa red, rouletted.
1pi blue, rouletted.
1pa dull purple, zigzag roulette.
20pa red, zigzag roulette.
2pi pale magenta, zigzag roulette.

Postage Dues.

20pa red, zigzag roulette.
1pi blue, zigzag roulette.
2pi pale magenta, zigzag roulette.

The 5 and 10pa and 1pi adhesives will probably come with the newer zigzag roulette.

INDIA.—(Bundi)—According to Stamp Collecting, which quotes from the Philatelic Journal of India, this Indian State has issued a new series of stamps consisting of sixteen denominations. These are: ¼, ½, 1, 2, 2½, 3, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 annas, 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 rupees. The colors are not stated.

(Travancore.)—Stamp Collecting publishes the following: "Mr. J. Godinho writes that he is just in receipt of information that this Native State of Southern India, which for the last twenty-nine years has clung to one uniform design in her postage labels, is now on the eve of introducing a radical

—If you contemplate doing any stamp business this fall the time is at hand for you to get a move on. Other dealers are hustling and you should join the number. In the Ionia, Mich. "Sentinel" there recently appeared this business card:—

NOTICE.

On account of the funeral of Mrs. Hulda Silver, wife of Nathan Silver, our store will be closed all day Friday, but will open again Saturday with splendid bargains throughout the entire store.

Silver's Department Store.

Mr. Silver evidently intends that his business shall remain on earth a while longer.

—We have a contract that will be within your means. Just write us and we shall be pleased to show you. All that we require is a good recommendation and payment of bills when presented. When bill is not paid on or before the last Saturday in the month—there will be no advt. the following Saturday. Our plan is simple, it's a pay-as-you-go plan and one we live up to in our dealings with printer, paper maker and landlord.

—This week J. Edw. Stroyer and W. R. Hargette signed up on 3 in 1 contracts. Both are new to the readers of the WEEKLY. Give them a trial.

—Next week we shall issue No. 1400. That's going some, surely. I ought to get Mr. Michael to write up the event. Even now the swirl of that St. Lawrence description is ringing in my ears. He would give Mr. Severn a good tussle.

—Our next book will be Ward's Great Britain. It will be a gem and proud are we of it. Look our list of books thru. If you don't see what you want, write F. Hugh Vallancey, 89 Farringdon St., London, England, and he will supply it. Send him $1.60 for "Stamp Collecting," or send it to me.

—We are about to bind volumes of 1913-14-15-16 WEEKLIES, but only a limited number. If you want a volume indexed and nicely bound remit $2.

—No more 10 weeks subscriptions.

ST. VINCENT.—Unless we see the stamps we are going to call a halt on the listing of shades of the 1d with London overprint (one line) "War Stamp". The Rev. L. Meister advises us of the receipt of a new printing, just issued, brighter than the two previous shades, and he places this in order with the others as follows: 1) red; 2) red-brown; 3) scarlet. Ewen's Weekly chronicles a new shade as dull-red, differing from the "2nd and 3rd London overprinted issues on special printings of the 1d in deep scarlet and bright scarlet respectively." Mr. Huber's article of July 14th, gave the 1st and 2nd London issues as deep red and scarlet, respectively. We listed the London issue as carmine on June 23rd, and a darker shade on August 25th. (Where, oh, where, is that universal color chart)

We do not wish to go on record as saying it is impossible to distinguish all shades, because we are very keen for shades, but it is impossible to list shades and variations named by many differing authorities. This work is not for the chronicler; the best he can do is to note what the other student states, and let the makers of check-lists and writers of handbooks do the rest.

SALVADOR.—(1382-1383-1386-1391-1397) —This list of numbers refers to the editions of the WEEKLY in which chronicles of certain stamps of Salvador overprinted with an "S" have been listed. We draw attention to them at this time because we have been advised by Mr. Eugene Klein that the "S" means "Sin valor" (without value) and therefore the issues thus exploited to the detriment of the pocketbooks of purchasers are simply remainders which have been overprinted with the "S" to make them valueless and, therefore, unavailable for postage. It is probable that any cancelled copies were thus postmarked through favor and never did postal duty.

SPANISH GUINEA.—The remaining stock of the 1912 issue, Scott's type A5, has been overprinted "1917," according to the Madrid Filatelico. The reason for this overprint, according to our Spanish contemporary, is on account of the current issue getting so low in stock there was not enough time left in which to produce a new issue before some of the current values would be sold out, therefore the 1912 stock remaining in the Royal Mint at Madrid was ordered overprinted "1917" and dispatched to the colonies. We must admit that this is a more admirable way to provide stamps than to let some values run out of stock and then issue a lot of provisionals by surcharging new values on those denominations still in stock.

four Guatemalan stamps issued in May, 1875.

COLUMBUS ISSUE.—The name applied to the set of stamps issued in the United States in 1893 to commemorate the discovery of America by Columbus and, incidentally, to honor the Columbian Exposition held at Chicago in that year.

COLUMBUS.—A city of Georgia having a present population in excess of 18,000. It was captured by the Federals in 1865. During the Civil War the postmaster of this city issued special 5c envelopes which served for local postage until the arrival of the regular Confederate States stamps.

COMAYAGUA.—A town in the Republic of Honduras, Central America, which was until 1880 the capital of the country. It stands on a plain at about equal distances from the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The town was destroyed by Guatemala in 1827, but was rebuilt and now has a population of over 8,000. In 1877, some of the 2 reales stamps of Honduras were surcharged "medio real", "un real", and "dos reales" respectively, for use in this town.

COMB MACHINE.—A perforation machine having the pins so arranged that three sides of a stamp are perforated at once. To a long line of pins the necessary number of short rows are fixed at right angles so that at every stroke the stamps in either a vertical or horizontal row, as the case may be, are perforated on three sides. The following stroke adds the perforations to the remaining side and, of course, at the same time perforates three sides of the next row of stamps, the process being continued until the whole sheet of stamps is perforated.

COMMEMORATIVE ISSUES.—Special stamps issued to commemorate some event of local, national, or historical importance. As a rule stamps of this class are in use for only a limited period and frequently they are in concurrent use with the ordinary series.

COMMERCE TYPE.—The name by which the design of the general French Colonial series of May, 1881, is known. It shows an allegorical figure intended to typify commerce.

COMMEMORATIVE SERIES.—The United States stamps issued in addition to the normal series for the purpose of commemorating some event or other have since 1901 been inscribed with the words "Commemorative Series."

COMMEMORATIVE DEL SIGLO XX.—This inscription is shown upon the three stamps issued in Peru on the 1st January, 1901, to mark the beginning of the Twentieth Century.

COMMISSION FUR RETOURBRIEFE.—An inscription shown upon the so-called return letter "stamps" of Bavaria and Wurtemberg meaning "Returned Letter Department." These labels have no philatelic significance whatsoever though they were listed in many of the old catalogues and at one time spaces were provided for them in many printed albums. On some of the labels of Bavaria the last word of the inscription is "Ruckbriefe."

COMORO ISLANDS.—A group of islands belonging to France situated to the north of the Mozambique channel, between the north-west coast of Madagascar and the east coast of Africa. The islands are all of volcanic origin with a mountainous surface, Coratola in Great Comoro reaching a height of 8,500 feet. The group consists of Great Comoro, Anjouan, Moheli (commercially the most important of the group), Mayotte and a number of smaller islands, the combined area being 620 square miles. The population numbers about 48,000 the majority of the inhabitants being natives of Arab and Malagasy or negro origin. The climate is unhealthy for Europeans. The government headquarters are at Dzandai, a small island near Mayotte. The French took possession of Mayotte in 1843 and in 1886 established a protectorate over the other islands of the group. In 1897 the islands were placed under the administration of the Governor of Reunion though each of the four chief islands issued its own distinctive stamps.

COMPA. DE MOCAMBIQUE.—An overprint applied to some of the stamps of Mozambique intended for use in the territory of the Mozambique Company. The first word is a contraction for "Companhia".

COMPANHIA DE MOCAMBIQUE.—An inscription shown upon the postage stamps issued by the Mozambique Company.

COMPAGNIE FRANCAISE DES PAPIERS-MONNAIES.—A Parisian firm of engravers and printers who produced the 2c and 5c stamps of the 1898 issue of Hayti—the only stamps of this Republic printed upon watermarked paper.

COMPANHIA DO NYASSA.—The inscription shown upon a series of labels prepared by the Nyassa Company for use in its territory but which were not issued owing to objections raised by the Portuguese Government on the ground that the stamps should have been manufactured by the Lisbon Mint and not in London as was actually the case.

COMPANHIA NACIONAL EDITORA.—(National Publishing Company.) A Lisbon firm of printers who lithographed all the stamps of the St. Anthony of Padua commemorative series of Portugal with the exception of the 2½ reis value.

COMPLEMENTARIO.—An inscription shown on the Postage Due stamps of Mexico meaning literally "to complete."

COMPOUND PERFORATIONS.—Stamps perforated horizontally by a machine of one gauge and vertically by a machine of different gauge are said to have compound perforation. Sometimes, however, compound perforation may be the work of a comb-machine when the gauge of the short lines of pins differs from that of the long row. The general rule in recording these perforations is to give the gauge at top and bottom of the stamp first and then that of the sides. Thus a stamp listed as "Perf. 10x12" would be understood to have a perforation measuring 10 at the top and bottom and 12 at the sides.

COMUNICACIONES.—An inscription shown on several of the stamps of Spain which means "Communications."

CONCH SHELL.—A watermark shown in all the stamps of the Indian Native State of Travancore.

CONCURRENT PERFORATIONS.—These are perforations of different gauges found in connection with stamps of the same issue in use at the same time. The perforations of the large pictorial stamps of Bosnia issued in 1906 will serve as an example. Here we have three different perforations used singly and in combination, but all current at the same time. Their philatelic interest is slight, for they have no bearing on the history of the stamps and simply show that machines of different gauges were in use in the printing office at the date the stamps appeared.

CONDOMINIUM.—A surcharge applied to some of the stamps of New Caledonia which had been previously overprinted "Nouvelles-Hebrides" to mark the joint government established by the French and English over these islands.

CONFEDERATE STATES.—The name adopted by the eleven states which seceded from the American Union in 1860-1 and maintained a separate existence, recognised as a separate government by most of the European Powers, until the close of the Civil War in 1865. The question of slavery and the problem of "slave's rights" was in dispute, the North denying the right to secede from the Union, which the South, or slave-holding States, insisted upon. The result of the war determined the position of the slaves and also the future political constitution of the United States which has become more and more a centralised form of federal government. The Confederate States were North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama, Florida, Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, Georgia and Louisiana and during their independent existence special stamps were used.

CONFED. GRANADINA.—The inscription shown on the stamps of the Granada Confederation, which formed the first issue of Colombia.

CONFE on ARGENTINA.—The inscription shown on the stamps of the Argentine Confederation, which were in use prior to the constitution of the Republic in 1862.

CONGO FRANCAIS.—The French rendering of French Congo as shown upon the stamps of that Colony.

CONGO BELGE.—An overprint or inscription shown on the stamps of the Congo State used since 1908. It means "Belgian Congo."

WHERE HE SCORED.

He felt his position keenly. Restlessly he moved off one leg on to the other, and looked up with the simple faith of a little child unto her who sold the stamps in the post-office, knowing full well that he would be attended to when the fair maiden ended the conversation with the other assistant.

At last the long-looked-for word fell from her lips!

"Well?"

"A penny stamp, please," said the meek and mild stranger.

"We don't sell stamps here; this is the inquiry counter," replied the maid, indignant at an interruption without a sale.

"If this is the inquiry counter, may I ask you where I may purchase a stamp?" persisted the meek looking man.

"Counter directly opposite," she hissed.

When the purchase had been completed, the meek and mild stranger bent his steps back again even unto the inquiry counter.

"If this is the inquiry counter, may I be allowed to ask a question?"

"Well?"

"If I post this letter tonight, will it arrive in Glasgow first post tomorrow?"

"Yes."

"Well, my dear lady, you are wrong, for the letter is addressed to Edinburgh;" and he went on his way.—Tid Bits.

AN OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK.

VIEWS OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN PHILATELIC SOCIETY ON TRADE CONDITIONS.

J. W. Scott, President American Phialtelic Society.

I think prevailing conditions warrant the most optimistic outlook. We are at war and probably a million of our young men will go "over there" but a very small proportion of these are stamp collectors. We have already appropriated twenty-one billions of dollars of which at least seventy-five percent. will be spent in this country. Wages are at the highest point ever known and the great majority of our people spend all they make. What better use can they put their spare cash to than making a fine collection of stamps? Perhaps we may lose many of our gallant sons, which would debar us from many forms of amusement, but stamp collecting is entirely unobjectionable under any conditions.

No one can guarantee a large profit on every stamp purchased but we can always secure a reasonable price for our collections when circumstances dictate the wisdom of selling—a larger percentage than can be expected from the sale of any other commodity not strictly commercial. Moreover, it must be remembered that we collect for pleasure and the true collector is born not made.

In my experience of fifty-five years I have met all classes rich and poor. I recollect one, a broom pedler, who slept in a truck (with his collection) and he would prefer to starve to death rather than part with his cherished album. A large number of collectors are more or less speculators and these can be trusted to take care of themselves and do usually make a fair profit when selling. The remainder of the Worthington collection was sold for nearly half a million dollars—bought as a speculation—this would be a large sale to make of a recognized staple but there was no difficulty in disposing of this amount of stamps. It is now being sold at auction by J. C. Morgenthau Co., the first five hundred lots realized seventy-five thousand dollars. The collection will probably make twenty thousand lots.

The entire stock of the J. W. Scott Co. was bought by the first person to whom it was offered. These two items conclusively prove that there is nothing better than stamps as an investment and that the war has not had a depressing influence on the trade. The indications for the coming year are exceptionally encouraging. The season of 1917-1918 will be a banner year in the annals of Philately. The war will soon be brought to an end by the unconditional surrender of the entire German armies. The Kaiser may be willing to sacrifice the manhood of the German nation but the people are too intelligent to allow themselves to be killed for the sole benefit of the Hohenzollern dynasty. Before the end of 1918 the million American soldiers will be back on their native soil, probably without having fought a single battle.

There is but one danger before us and that is a Peace Conference before the enemy is utterly defeated. Germany must thankfully accept whatever terms the Allied Nations dictate and be left in such a condition that she will not be able to make war on Belgium for the next century.

CALLED TO ORDER.

It seems of late that several articles have been inserted in the WEEKLY and aimed at the Post Office Stamp Clerks. In particular that in the issue of Sept. 15, in the editorials under the heading "Dull," has struck me as being inspired ( ) by some one that has no idea whatever of what the stamp clerks or any other clerk in the P. O., has to contend with, and still "put on a pleasant look!" Before inserting such articles if you would inquire as to what is required of the clerks, such an article would be, in the greater part at least, materially changed, and perhaps not inserted at all. It would be rather, complimenting the Stamp-clerk for knowing as much as he does about stamps rather than a condemnation calling him "dull." Yes—he is dull as the following will prove him to be; for instance, taking conditions in our own office for an example:—

Our stamp and parcel post windows are combined, and the stamp clerk must know all about the Parcel Post Regulations, Restrictions, etc., in addition to rates on same, and prohibitions of certain articles in foreign parcel post, and with what countries it is suspended.

In addition he must run the Gen. Del. window for two and a half hours a day while that clerk is off for dinner. But—this is not all—only half of it! He must "throw" a case examination on two states once a year,—this necessitating the memorizing of 1500 Colorado offices and 750 New Mexico offices, where they are and how dispatched. Then there is the yearly—and in some offices—semi-yearly—examination on Postal Laws & Regulations and City Distribution. If you don't know what "throwing" a case examination is, ask any mailing clerk at any office, he can tell you, and when he is through you will probably change your mind as to the stamp-clerk being "dull" and that civil service exams should contain questions relating to stamps.

Let me tell you, Mr. Severn, by the "end of a Perfect (?) Day" a stamp-clerk is glad to get a little rest—and this rest is put in in the study of the aforementioned requirements! Instead of being "dull" as you are pleased to call it, it is a wonder that he knows as much about stamps as he does—for he seldom has time—or shall I call it "ambition"—to look and see if a stamp has 10, 13 or 23 Perfs.—even if he is a stamp collector and takes an interest in such things, as is my case!

There are no doubt many postal clerks among the readers of the WEEKLY—two right here in the Trinidad office—and instead of being complimented, how do you think they feel when all they see in the paper ever so often is in the way of a "knock." Can't you "lay off" of us some time? I enjoy the WEEKLY—so does my fellow-clerk but would rather not have it if it continues in such a way.

With best of fraternal feelings and trusting you will change your mind in regards to Postal Clerks, I remain,

Yours fraternally,
CARL O. SWANEY,
Trinidad, Colorado.

[NOTE.—Mr. Swaney makes his points tell and while no offense was intended the postal clerks, Mr. Swaney has the last (and best) word.]

HURRICANE WRECKS GRAND CAYMAN.

We are indebted to Herman Focke for a newspaper clipping giving the account of a hurricane that visited Grand Cayman Island, September 24. We quote from Mr. Focke's letter as follows:—

"I have no doubt in that stamp collectors will be interested in this bit of news from the Cayman Islands, and those who were so lucky as to get the now famous provisionals of 1908 'over the counter' will wish that no harm has befallen 'dear Gwendolyn Parsons', the then Postmistress, and her kin.

As it happens the boat which carried the bad news from Georgetown, also brought me a consignment of the new War Stamp 1½d on 2½d blue, recently chronicled, so we may rejoice in knowing that at least one important branch of the Cayman trade has not suffered in the hurricane."

GEORGETOWN, GRAND CAYMAN, BRITISH WEST INDIES, Sept. 29 (Associated Press Correspondence).—The Island of Grand Cayman was visited by the most violent hurricane in its history on September 24. Wind of great velocity, a heavy rain and giant breakers from the Caribbean sea combined in damaging shipping and property.

The property loss, exclusive of shipping, is estimated at $300,000. Two lives were lost—a watchman on a vessel in the harbor, who was swept into the sea, and an old woman who was crushed to death in the ruins of her home.

The damage to crops of all kinds, as well as that to property, was greater than in the hurricane of 1876 and the cyclone of 1903.

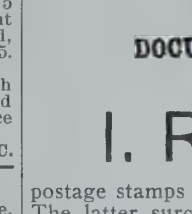
DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.



CHAPTER XXXVII.

Spanish War Series 1898, Historical.

The events leading up to the Spanish War and the war itself are so fresh in the minds of many philatelists that only the briefest reference to it is necessary here. In the night of February 15, 1898, the United States Battleship "Maine," on a peaceful mission in the harbor of Havana, Cuba, was destroyed by an explosion which most Americans then attributed and still attribute to the Spanish authorities. On April 25, President McKinley declared that a state of war with Spain had existed since April 21 and on June 13 he approved the Act of Congress which is known as the War Revenue Law of 1898.

The act became effective July 1, only seventeen days later. Two sets of stamps, one for the documentary tax and one for the proprietary tax, were prepared and issued, but there was so little time in which to prepare the dies, rolls and plates, and print the stamps that it was impossible to supply the whole country by July 1st, and for the first time in the history of United States revenue or postage stamps recourse was had to surcharging.

The $5 periodical stamp then in use was overprinted, "INT. REV.—$5—DOCUMENTARY", and the 1c and 2c postage stamps were overprinted "I. R." The latter surcharge stands, of course, for "Internal Revenue", but the popular war cry on everyone's lips was, "Remember the Maine", and it is not at all surprising that when writing their initials to cancel the stamps by which the war tax was paid more than a few philatelists and others, on noting the letters "I. R." would say, "yes, I Remember"!

I. R. I. R.

The law closely followed the Civil War acts and the documentary taxes (Schedule A), were almost identical with those of 1862-72. The proprietary taxes (Schedule B) were at a lower rate than in the Civil War period. Then they had been about 1c on each 25c of retail value, or 4%; in the Spanish War period they were about 1c on each 40c of retail value, or 2½%. Sections 9, 24, 25 and 26 of the law contain the parts of most interest to philatelists, and attention is particularly directed to Section 24—it is so similar to the corresponding portion of the playing card act of 1894. The last sentence of Section 24 quoted evidently refers to the playing card stamps, and during 1898-1902 these were continued in use and playing cards were subject only to the same 2c internal revenue tax as before July 1, 1898. These sections are worthy of note:—

Sec. 9.—That in any and all cases where an adhesive stamp shall be used for denoting any tax imposed by this Act, except as hereinafter provided, the person using or affixing the same shall write or stamp thereupon the initials of his name and the date upon which the same shall be attached or used, so that the same may not again be used. * * *

Sec. 24.—That the stamp taxes prescribed in this Act on the articles provided for in Schedule B shall attach to all such articles and things sold or removed for sale on and after the said first day of July, 1898. Every person, except as otherwise provided in this Act, who offers or exposes for sale any article or thing provided for in said Schedule B, whether the article so offered or exposed is of foreign manufacture and imported or of domestic manufacture shall be deemed the manufacturer thereof, and shall be subject to all the taxes, liabilities and penalties imposed by law for the sale of articles without the use of the proper stamp denoting the tax paid thereon and all such articles of foreign manufacture shall, in addition to the import duty imposed on the same, be subject to the stamp tax prescribed in this Act. Provided further—That internal revenue stamps required by existing law on imported merchandise shall be affixed thereto and canceled at the expense of the owner or importer before the withdrawal of such merchandise for consumption. . . .

Sec. 25.—That the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall cause to be prepared for the payment of the taxes prescribed in this Act suitable stamps denoting the tax on the document, article, or thing to which the same may be affixed, and he is authorized to prescribe such method for the cancellation of said stamps, as substitute for, or in addition to the method provided in this Act, as he may deem expedient. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is authorized to procure any of the stamps provided for in this Act by contract whenever such stamps cannot be speedily prepared by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, but this authority shall expire on the first day of July, 1899. That the adhesive stamps used in payment of the tax levied in Schedules A and B of this Act shall be furnished for sale by the several collectors of internal revenue, who shall sell and deliver them at their face value to all persons applying for the same, except officers or employees of the internal revenue service; Provided that such collectors may sell and deliver such stamps in quantities of not less than $100 of face value with a discount of 1%, except as otherwise provided in this Act. And he may, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, make all needful rules and regulations for the proper enforcement of this Act.

Schedule A—The following documentary taxes differed somewhat from those in force during the Civil War period; the others were pretty much, or identically, the same as then:—

Foreign Exchange—Bills drawn singly, for each $100 of face, 4c.

Bills drawn in sets of two or more, for each $100 of face, 2c per bill.

Telegrams and express or freight receipts, 1c each.

Life Insurance—for each $100 face of policy, 8c.

Industrial policies—40% of first weekly premium.

Marine, fire and other insurance—for each $1 of premium, ½c.

Schedule B—These taxes were placed on medicinal articles and preparations, also perfumery, cosmetics, etc., (matches were not taxed):—

Retail value up to 5c,	1/8c
Retail value over 5c to 10c,	2/8c
Retail value over 10c to 15c,	3/8c
Retail value over 15c to 25c,	5/8c
For each additional 25c or fraction of retail value,	5/8c

Chewing Gum or substitutes—

Retail value up to $1,	4c
For each additional $1 or fraction,	4c

Sparkling or other wines bottled for sale—

Upon each bottle containing 1 pint or less,	1c
Upon each bottle containing more than one pint,	2c

A tax of 1c was levied on each parlor, palace or sleeping car ticket and was paid by a 1c documentary stamp to be affixed by the company owning or operating these railroad cars. This tax was not included in either Schedule A or Schedule B.

Sec. 26.—There shall be an allowance of drawback on articles mentioned in Schedule B of this Act on which any internal revenue tax shall have been paid, equal in amount to the stamp tax paid thereon, and no more, when exported. . . Provided, that no allowance of drawback shall be made for any such articles exported prior to July 1, 1898.

OUR LEAFLET PRAISED.

(In the light of this splendid endorsement you should put a bunch of these leaflets wherever opportunity offers. Insert one in every letter you write at least. We quote these words from Stamp Collecting.—Ed.)

"The Charm of Stamp Collecting."—Edited by Willard O. Wylie. Published by Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co., Boston, Mass., for free presentation.

This little leaflet is one of the most efficacious media yet devised for the dissemination of an appreciation of the manifold delights of the pleasant pastime of Philately. It contains three storyettes, by Edwin B. Hill, M. Williams and Roscoe T. Foust, who respectively tell something of the irresistible appeal of the hobby, its subtle charm and its value as a strong educational factor.

It is pleasant to find the first-named writer remarking that a dissertation on the charm of stamp collecting would be incomplete were one to neglect the pleasure of passing on some of one's accumulations to those who appreciate, "to the more humble collector who perhaps loves his stamps even more than you and I—loves them and feasts his eyes on them and feeds his soul! Let us not forget this, our brother, nor be ungenerous with our gifts."

"There is also the charm of stamp collecting wholly indefinable. It dwells in the soul-sense—the spiritual part of one's nature—that Inner Shrine of which no man speaks but of which each man feels and knows and from which he draws sustenance equal to his daily needs.

"Here dwells the better part of us—the charm, the 'sweetness and light' of life, the dream, and the reality. This comprises to the full the charm of stamp collecting."

The publishers of these little pamphlets are to be congratulated on their enterprise in having a huge quantity printed for distribution (for propaganda purposes) at a nominal charge of 25c per fifty copies, and we foresee much good fruit. Truly, America is sowing a glorious harvest.

THE SEASON'S PROSPECTS.

THE OUTLOOK CONSIDERED GOOD BY THOSE IN CLOSE TOUCH WITH BUSINESS.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

I have every reason to believe that the optimistic tone of the following views on the trade situation will be justified as the season progresses. Even as many lines of busines will be hard hit as the war activities take on shape so the stamp trade must expect to feel the effect of the stress of the times.

However, war means new stamps and new issues closely related to the events now in the making will make recruits for stamp collecting. The appearance of the 5c red error is an illustration of the interest now taken in stamps by scores of collectors whose enthusiasm had waned. I am situated where I can sense the lively interest displayed.

Our dealers make much of the Worthington sale. They may well do so. Never before in this country has so remarkable a collection been so eagerly snapped up. The virility of the stamp business has been demonstrated in the success attending the disposition of this great property. Here are the views of some handlers of stamps who in their respective cities know the trade:—

UNITED STAMP CO., Chicago.

Taking into consideration the fact that we are in a great war and having been placed in a position where we have to fight to attain our object for humanity and democracy, the outlook for any luxuries is not so promising. Yet stamps will be the last thing to suffer any radical depression, as our experience has shown us a collector of stamps would far rather give up every other pleasure and luxury than give up his hobby of stamp collecting. This is substantiated by the fact of the unprecedented success of the Auction Sale of the Worthington Collection in New York in the month of August. It has been reported that this sale was attended by representative stamp collectors from all parts of the United States. The greatest interest was displayed in the sale of the United States stamps due to the many extreme rarities and unique pieces contained in the collection. Exceptionally high prices have been obtained for the medium grade U. S. stamps in fine condition. The whole country is becoming increasingly interested in the collecting of United States stamps due to the general use of the Marquette Sectional U. S. and Colonies Album.

The market will improve as nothing has happened to impair the integrity of investments. But conditions today are very different from what they were, notwithstanding the war hazard and the extraordinary complications growing out of the European conflict. Underlying conditions are sound, the country's resources are at record level and the margin of safety in American business is greater than at any time for many years. This country is still providing a huge department store for the rest of the world, besides acting in the capacity of the most powerful banker. It is an extraordinary interesting situation and notwithstanding the uncertainties of a war market the outlook is full of possibilities justifying an abiding optimism.

JOHN A. KLEMANN, (Nassau Stamp Co.), N. Y.

The volume of business and prices have never been so high in my recollection of twenty-four years' continuous business experience. The outlook is better than ever before. There is a great scarcity of fine material with an unlimited demand. Stamps are an untaxable investment.

P. M. WOLSIEFFER, Philadelphia.

Have you noticed that the daily press is almost unanimously and continuously preaching economy and urging the public to conserve finances and make no purchases whatever of luxuries?

It must be admitted that the press advice is followed out by many of its readers and that this preachment against luxuries must have a considerable effect on the general stamp business.

Yet with this huge handicap the stamp trade is more than holding its own, and I think that the lesson taught by the phenomenal success of the Worthington sale held in August, which is supposed to be the dullest month of the year, is proof positive that the stamp business is on entirely too firm a foundation to be very seriously influenced by existing conditions. As a matter of fact the demand for really fine stamps and rarities is greater than the supply and we have want lists on file that it seems almost impossible to fill. This feature of the business brings up the suggestion that we must cater more to the medium collector and beginner and the wise dealer will trim his sales to arrange his stock and endeavor to influence this very necessary class of the stamp trade.

Every stamp dealer should make it a point to try to influence some new collector or beginner and should be willing to make a few sacrifices. It should be part of the business of all dealers to do some missionary work. All dealers in the course of business accumulate more or less odd lots of very cheap stamps, or possibly stamps slightly off as to condition. These should be made up into small packets and when opportunity offers given to young collectors and occasionally a second hand album which is generally thrown away, might be given to some deserving youngster with a small lot of these stamps.

I know of several dealers who have made up small packets of stamps and had them distributed in schools in their respective localities enclosing a small leaflet about stamp collecting and the results were satisfactory. While many beginners do not always continue and make lasting stamp collectors, yet, if one out of every ten stick, it is a decided gain. It was not so very long ago when a leading magazine gave away packets of stamps to its boy readers and I am informed from good authority that many staple collectors resulted from this campaign. That experience would indicate to all dealers that if business in their locality is dull, let them do a little missionary work and put out a few hundred cheap packets in their immediate neighborhood.

The indications this early in the season point to a strong revival of stamp collecting. The demand for catalogs, albums and supplies of all kinds, as well as filling in of odd stamps here and there, illustrates the renewed interest that is being taken and I feel that we are on the eve of a very successful season. The requests for auction catalogs from our Philadelphia Stamp Co. advertising in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY has been much greater than ever before, and the advance bids being received for our next sale show unusual strength.

EUGENE KLEIN, Philadelphia.

Owing, no doubt, to abnormal business conditions, more rich men collect and buy stamps than ever before. This fact has created an unusual business situation in which the rich collector became the real competitor for rarities. This was shown to a great extent at the sale of the first part of the Worthington collection, where over $120,000 worth of stamps were absorbed in three days.

There never has been so good a market for rarities as there is now, but even low priced stamps have been selling unusually well and no doubt will continue to do so. It is noteworthy, that stamps, such as the U. S. 1847, 5c and 10c and 1851, 5c have almost entirely disappeared from the market and were absorbed in collections. Judging from present auction prices for these three stamps, a considerable advance is to be expected. No one need be surprised to see the 5c listed at $5 in the near future.

M. Ohlman, N. Y. City.

From the experiences of the Auction Season thus far, the indications point to a splendid season ahead. The Worthington Sale shows now, as in the past, that excellent United States in fine condition and blocks bring way over catalog and the catalog price is not even a guide; but this is an old story with U. S.

My last Sale October 3rd and 4th, in which one night and a half were taken up with 20th Century alone, brought excellent prices and I am pleased to say that I never before had such an excellent 20th Century Sale. Lot after lot went at nearly catalog and a great many over catalog. Most of the better grade of "hard to get stamps" brought a high percentage of catalog value, and practically all the German Colonies brought catalog or over. British Colonies and French Colonies brought a high percentage of catalog value. Many single items brought interesting prices, one of which I will mention: "The $5 1917 perf. 10 superb, used brought $4.60. To others interested in prices I would refer them to Mr. Burner's Philatelic Index.

From the "Auction standpoint" especially early U. S., Foreign and 20th Century stamps in fine condition will bring higher prices than ever this season and from the many new requests for catalogs we are receiving this season there will be a greater interest than ever in this line of philately.

Percy McG. Mann, Philadelphia.

I am most confident that a very active season is upon the philatelic world. The interest in stamps is larger than it has ever before been. This is shown by local conditions, as well as general. The local stamp club is receiving considerable attention, the meetings recently held have had larger attendances than ever before, and the enthusiasm evinced by the old timers as well as the novices is almost at a fever heat. There seems to be more money in circulation, and every one seems to realize that the money expended in stamps will go into the treasuries of the Allies and thus "do its bit" towards winning the War. The purchase of United States stamps have been large, stocks have been built up in dealers' hands, and the Government reaps the benefit as well as the dealer. The many changes in United States stamps have caused the philatelic public to hustle to keep up with them, and the varieties have been so interesting, especially the errors, that the attention of collectors has naturally been attracted to them.

There is considerable activity in the old reliables, the line engraved early issues of British Colonials, Chile, Brazil, etc., and other standard early issues which are being accumulated for plating purposes.

The sale of the Worthington collection has also stimulated the growing interest and faith in philatelic science. Seeing the heavy prices paid for desirable items, the buying public is perfectly willing to invest in fine grade goods.

A magnificent season is predicted and the buyers will be many for the standard United States and the old timers, while new issues, being "the something new which the collector must have," will come in for their share.

Former collectors are returning to the fold, while new collectors are springing up everywhere.

Fred Michael, Chicago.

We are confronted here in the United States with conditions that we have never before experienced. We are dealing in a luxury while about us the market men are saying that the public cannot buy necessities on account of high prices.

NEW BOOK TELLING ALL ABOUT HAWAII'S STAMPS

C. F. RICHARDS

Charter Member American Philatelic Society

Box 77, Grand Central P. O., NEW YORK

How can they then buy our stamps? In Europe places of amusement are crowded. Luxuries are selling even at their greatly enhanced prices, and stamp dealers are still doing business.

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. Play hours and pleasure we must have and their enjoyment whether it takes the form of automobile riding, cards, baseball, stamp collecting or some kindred hobby is as necessary for our welfare as eating or sleeping.

The young man who has been working at his desk all day turns to outdoors for his recreation but there are many who want the quietude of their homes in the evening, with something that will cause them to forget the day's work. From them does our hobby attract its devotees. There are many such and during the winter, thousands will bend over their albums, and in their interest for stamps forget their troubles, and forget their anxieties over relatives and friends far away, facing our enemies, in the trenches of France.

Edgewood Stamp Co., Milford, Conn.

The outlook for a season's business has never been brighter than for the coming 1917-18 season. While, no doubt, prevailing conditions have curtailed the buying of a good number of collectors to some extent, the very same conditions have awakened unparalleled interest in stamp collecting.

The opinion has been voiced that the advent of the 3c postage rate will put a damper on all postal activities. Quite the contrary! Never, within the writer's observation, has business been better in Canada where the 3c postal rate has been in force sometime. The lay press has been giving the hobby more and more attention! Unique and rare items coming on the market recently have stimulated interest! The five cent error has been given wide spread attention! Now, if we can only have a Liberty Stamp to go with the Liberty Loan, our cup will be running over.

EDITORIAL.

Chronicle—The controversy affecting the thirty-cent unwatermarked, perforated 10, has been followed with particular interest by specialists in our issues and we have refrained from comment merely for the purpose of not complicating the question, as an explanation that will be a full vindication of the course of Mr. Mann will duly be made by him. We had every confidence in the wisdom of the stand taken by our chronicler of new issues and it will be found that our conviction was amply justified. We can assert unqualifiedly that the thirty-cent exists perforated 10 in unwatermarked condition.

Booklets—The third assistant postmaster general has announced books of the three cent stamps are being prepared for early issue. He says that as the new three cent rate of letter postage will curtail the sale of the one and two cent booklets, postmasters should order but one month's supply of them. A full package of stamp books numbers 540, it may be added. While on the subject of stamp booklets, it may be said that Mr. George H. Beans, Glenside, Pa., has prepared a check list of booklet varieties, which he is willing to send to those of our readers who ask for it.

Antedated—In the course of an interesting letter from Dr. Carroll Chase, Médecin Aide Major, Hôpital Militaire No. 49, Orléans, Loiret, France, he says: "By the way, in the WEEKLY of August 25th, you say that the three cent, 1851, was the first stamp precanceled. I have some of these Wells Fargo & Co. precancellations myself and think that they are beyond suspicion but I think that there is a fair amount of proof that even earlier examples exist. If you will look up the 1847 article in the Philatelic Gazette, you will find a description of what is probably a little batch of 1847 'precancels' from Wheeling, Va., (now West Virginia). I do not suppose that the proof is absolute but personally, I am well convinced." We quote further, "Wish you could have had a ride with me in a French tank last week. Think that you would have enjoyed it—all but the noise." We give Dr. Chase's full address; verb. sap.

Peeve—We know what Mr. H. H. Reeves' pet peeve is and so banal is it that mere prose cannot frame it. He sings: "Is He All There?

What is the fitting answer, pray,
For him who has the nerve to say
While gazing at your stamp array,
'Now tell me, please, what good are they?'

It may be cruel to think of him
As lacking some of mental vim,
But surely man's good sense is dim
When he thinks stamps a foolish whim."

Stop—The Argentine Republic postal administration has complained to Washington of an epidemic of short paid letters that reach that country from the United States. Every now and then business men here go off at a tangent. The domestic rate applies only to Great Britain and Ireland, the Bahamas, Barbados, British Guiana, British Honduras, Dominican Republic, Dutch West Indies, Leeward Islands, Newfoundland and New Zealand.

Seebecks—The following letter is one that we shall speak of here as it is typical of a dozen letters of the kind that we receive during the year. "I have been for some time an ardent reader of the WEEKLY and take the liberty to ask a question or two about the Seebecks and other similar stamps. Why are these and others priced many times their actual value in the catalog which is supposed to reflect the actual market conditions? In some cases a stamp which can be had for one cent is priced at a dollar or two. They are omitted from the Junior album as being rare stamps. I would appreciate any information on this subject which you can give." We can understand readily enough the confusion that our correspondent feels; and none may say that his questions are not justified by circumstances. It was a good many years ago fifteen or more, when it was discovered that there were reprints of some of the Seebecks extant and tests were given whereby the reprints could be told. The catalogue tells briefly what the characteristics of the reprints are but it is admitted that it is not the easiest task to discriminate between the originals and reprints in some instances. It was found that the originals of some of the Seebeck issues had become scarce and as the catalogue, according to its rule, does not list and price reprints of foreign countries, known originals were priced rather high in some instances, although it is not to be said unjustifiably so. It is certain that dozens of the originals of the Seebecks are very scarce and it is not to be denied that they are almost ineligible for inclusion in a junior album.

Revenues—We are struck by the truth of an observation made by Mr. Edwin B. Hill, in a recent letter in which he admitted a penchant for Canadian revenues: "It seems strange to me that a nation whose stamps perhaps are ordinary as a rule, nevertheless will expend the genius of its designers upon the revenue stamps. Here in the United States, in Canada and in Mexico, we find the prevalent scheme is beautiful revenues." It is understood that the fear of counterfeiting is in the minds of the designers of revenue stamps and elaborate configuration is a preventive measure. The partizan of foreign revenue stamps may say with genuine enthusiasm that "the stamps are beautiful."

Where—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who was not allowed by his mother to bring his boy friends to his home on Sunday to see his collection? Is this o. f. c. telling about Maud S. to the old-fashioned dealer whose wife did not let the neighbors know what kind of business her husband was engaged in down-town?

Latest—What is your idea of philatelic camouflage? Is it the grimaces of the weak-eyed expert trying to find the secret mark on the two cent brown, U. S., 1873? Or would you say with Rollo that the editorial announcement in the first number of the stamp paper, "We are here to stay," hits the bull's-eye? Yet, there are those who would say that the dealer who describes a splotch cancellation as a "characterful marking" should enlist.

Hear—It is music to our ears to read a real home-made newspaper editorial on stamps and Mr. Ziegler Sargent has favored us with a composition from the New Haven Evening Register, headed, "Who now 'collects stamps'?" Taking the discovery of the error as his theme, the editor penetrates the golden haze of his youthful collecting days. He knows his business even if the effects of a Homeric nod are detected in his sonorous periods. Forsooth, he demands: "Who now can distinguish 'U. S. locals' or tell an original 'Blood's Penny Express' from the copy smudged by contact with other papers in the pocket? In fine, does anyone collect stamps in the good, old-fashioned way, which required only a dollar-and-a-quarter album, the gift of camouflageous language for 'traders' and plenty of time to find the proper places for the stamps in the book." Good old enthusiast in the past, how we wish that once again you would feel the exquisite thrill that once you felt when contemplating your stamps almost twenty years ago. Collecting customs change with the times and the old-timer is rarely so reactionary as not to admit in his heart when he espouses present-day collecting that philately now is a good many laps ahead of stamp collecting of the days of yore. Of course, we must sentimentalize a bit about the good old days of collecting but for real living give us "the time, present."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—C. R. Fulmer, Boonville, N. Y., reports that communications sent to the Blue Grass Stamp Co., Winchester, Ky., remain unanswered.

—B. L. Drew, who recently disposed of his stamp business, has been seriously ill and is confined at the Chester Hospital, Cambridge, Mass. He writes us that he is on the mending hand but does not know when he will be able to leave the hospital.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Israel Prager, Carl W. Heinrici and Mrs. E. W. Oughtred.

—We desire two copies of Dec. 23, 1916, to complete files. Who of our readers will accommodate? We shall be glad to send in return some of our foreign exchanges.

—Mr. Brown of the Frank P. Brown Co. sends us a clipping from a Malden, Mass., paper, giving the particulars of a recent exhibiton of stamps at the Public Library. The stamps shown belong to Mr. Brown and a large number of people enjoyed the exhibit. It would be well if other dealers should follow the example of Mr. Brown and stimulate the public interest with stamp exhibitions.

—A meeting was held recently at the Melrose Y. M. C. A. to perfect plans for organizing a local stamp club. Collectors in the vicinity of Melrose are invited to communicate with J. W. Hyson, 62 Beech Ave. Collectors interested in forming local societies or clubs will usually find the local Y. M. C. A. not only willing but glad to co-operate.

—Three cent stamps a-plenty will be available when the new tax law increasing letter postage to three cents becomes effective November 2. For some days the Bureau has been producing 25,000,000 stamps daily of this denomination and it is expected most of the post offices throughout the country will have complete stocks on hand when the new law goes into effect.

—"Any dealer having had unsatisfactory relations with LeRoy Watson, 1456 Erie St., Toledo, O., is requested to write his father, Tom Watson, who will adjust all matters."—H. J. SCHMIDT.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

CONGO, FRENCH.—(See French Congo.)

CONGO, PORTUGUESE.—(See Portuguese Congo.)

CONGO STATE.—A large tract of territory in Central Africa having an area of 802,000 square miles and a population of between fourteen and fifteen millions. The natives consist of numerous tribes none of whom have yet attained a very high degree of civilisation while many still practice cannibalism. Of late years the terrible disease known as "sleeping sickness" has almost depopulated many large districts, especially in the lower Congo. When Stanley, the famous African explorer, returned from his great journey down the Congo in 1877 he succeeded in interesting Leopold, King of the Belgians, in this region and induced him to found the International Association of the Congo (Nov., 1878) with the object of exploring it and developing its commercial possibilities. In 1880, Stanley returned to the Congo and concluded commercial treaties with various chiefs and at the same time established over twenty stations on the Congo and its tributaries. From the beginning funds were supplied from King Leopold's private purse. After Stanley's return in 1874 the independence of these new territories was guaranteed by the Conference of Berlin and the country was known as the Congo Free States or Independent State of the Congo. In April, 1885, the Belgian Parliament recognised Leopold as the head of the new State, declaring at the same time the union with Belgium to be only a personal one. In 1889, King Leopold, by his will, bequeathed his sovereign rights over the Congo Free State to Belgium. The central government is at Brussels, under a secretary of state, while the local government centered at Boma, is administered by a governor-general who is responsible for civil and military affairs. Postage stamps were first issued for the use of this territory in 1885 and after the death of King Leopold in 1909 its name was changed to Belgian Congo.

CONGRESO DE LOS DIPUTADOS.—The inscription shown upon the special stamps issued for the use of the members of the Spanish Chamber of Deputies. These stamps were first issued in 1896, and were printed in rose, but in 1898 the color was changed to blue.

CONGRESSO PAN-AMERICANO.—An inscription shown upon the two special stamps issued in Brazil in 1906 to mark the third Pan-American Congress.

CONMEMORATIVA. — An inscription shown upon the "Carranza" stamp of Mexico meaning "to commemorate."

CONSIGNMENT LETTERS.—(See Control Numbers.)

CONSTANTINOPLE.—The capital of the Turkish Empire having a population of about 1,500,000 of whom 55% are Turks and the remainder Greeks, Armenians and Jews. It is a city of great antiquity having been erected in 330 by Constantine the Great on the site of the ancient Byzantium. It was originally called Konstantinopolis, and at the present time is known as Istambol to the Turks. For some years after 1873 the Turkish stamps used in this town bore a special overprint. In 1908, the Italian stamps used at the Consular Office maintained in Constantinople were overprinted with the name of the town and values in Turkish currency. In 1909, Russia followed suit by overprinting the Russian Levant stamps used at its Consular Office with "Constantinople."

CONSTANTINOPOLI.—The Italian form of "Constantinople" as shown upon the Italian stamps surcharged for use there.

CONSULAR POST OFFICES.—These are Post Offices maintained by certain European Powers in the Turkish Empire and China in connection with which special stamps are issued. As a rule the stamps of the country maintaining the office are used these being overprinted with the name of the town or country in which they are used or with values in currency similar to that in use locally.

CONTINENTAL BANK NOTE COMPANY.—A New York firm of printers and engravers who are perhaps best known as the printers of the 1873 stamps for the United States. These stamps are similar in design to those produced by the National Bank Note Co., in 1870-71, but may be distinguished by the paper and colors and in the case of the 1c to 15c values, by the so-called secret marks introduced into the design. In February, 1879, this company was consolidated with the American Bank Note Co. under the name of the latter.

CONTRACT LETTERS.—(See Account Letters.)

CONTRAMARCA.—An overprint found on some of the 1899-1901 stamps of Ecuador. At one time this was considered an official control surcharge, but specialists are now inclined to class it as a bogus variety or, at best, a cancellation. The word means "Countersigned".

CONTRA SELLO.—These words are shown on the control marks applied in 1874, to the then current stamps of Salvador. The words mean "Countersigned" and they were applied to the stamps by Government orders to prevent the use for postal purposes of a large quantity of stamps which had been stolen.

CONTRASENA — ESTAMPILLAS DE CORREO.—An overprint shown on the stamps of Venezuela used during the period 1874-80, meaning "Countersigned—Postage Stamp".

CONTRATOS.—An inscription shown upon the right hand side of the design of the stamps of the first type issued in Bolivia. The literal meaning of the word is "Contracts" and it indicates that the stamps were intended for both postal and revenue purposes.

CONTROL NUMBERS.—These are numbers stamped upon the margins of some sheets of stamps as a check or control on the number of stamps contained in a given supply. Sometimes the figures are preceded by a consignment letter thus:— "F 10975". In this case the group of figures refers to a particular sheet in the "F" or sixth consignment. Other numbers are found preceded by a value, thus "3d 23589". In this case the control numbers are impressed before the stamps are printed and they serve as a check on the number of sheets of watermarked paper intended for a particular value in stock at the printing office.

CONTROL SURCHARGES.—These are more or less meaningless devices applied to certain stamps either with the idea of preventing theft or, after a theft has taken place, of preventing the stolen stamps being brought into use. In the former category the weird devices stamped on some of the stamps of Persia, and the catharine wheels and shields of Salvador belong; while of marks applied to render stolen stamps useless Ecuador furnishes numerous examples.

COOK ISLANDS.—The Cook or Hervey Islands are a group of six islands and nine islets situated in the Pacific Ocean about 1500 miles north-east of New Zealand. They have a total area of 280 square miles and a population of about 12,000. The natives belong to the brown Polynesian race and their speech is closely allied to the Samoan. Fifty years ago they were all fierce cannibals, but at the present time they are in an advanced state of civilisation, dressing after the European fashion and living in stone houses grouped in small townships. Rarotonga is the largest island, and the others are Aitutaki, Atin, Mangeia, Mauki, Mitiero, and the Hervey Islands proper. Aitutaki now has stamps of its own. The group was discovered by Captain Cook in 1777; it was placed under British protection in 1888; and was annexed to the British Empire in 1900. In the following year the islands were included in the boundaries of the Dominion of New Zealand. The government is administered locally under the direction of New Zealand. The first postage stamps for the Cook Islands were issued on the 29th of February, 1892.

COOK'S DISPATCH.—A local post of Baltimore in connection with which a crude label was issued for collection of the fee charged for the delivery of local letters.

COOLGARDIE CYCLE EXPRESS COMPANY.—A cycle service established in Coolgardie, Western Australia, in 1893 for the purpose of conveying special messages to Southern Cross (120 miles distant) before the telegraph line was opened. The charge for a special message was $125, but letters were also carried at a much smaller charge. In 1894 the service was extended and in 1895 a regular cycle mail was maintained over a route of some 200 miles. In 1895 and 1896 special stamps were issued for the prepayment of the messages these ranging in value from 6d to 5s. In December, 1896, the cycle post was suppressed as the government had by then established a regular mail service over the different routes.

CORBOULD, EDWARD H.—An English artist, son of Henry Corbould, who was born in 1815 and died in 1905. He made the drawing for the New South Wales 5s stamp first issued in 1860, and the design of the 5d, 6d, 8d and 1s stamps of the 1854 issue for the same colony is attributed to his brush. He also made water color drawings of the portrait of Queen Victoria, from the original of Mr. A. E. Chalon, which were used on the first stamps of New Zealand, Ceylon, St. Helena, and Natal.

CORBOULD, HENRY.—An English artist born in London in 1787. He was commissioned to make the drawing of Queen Victoria's portrait from Wyon's medal which was produced on the first British stamps.

CORDOBA.—A province of the Argentine Republic ranking next to Buenos Aires in population and importance. It has an area of 62,160 square miles and a population of about 450,000. In October, 1858, this province issued its own distinctive 5c and 10c stamps.

II. The new standard of currency adopted in Nicaragua in 1914, the "cordoba" taking the place of the peso.

COREA.—This country, which was the bone of contention in the war between China and Japan (1894-95), and again in the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-5, is an empire consisting chiefly of a peninsula to the north-east of China between the Yellow and Japan Seas. It has an area of about 80,000 square miles and a population of between ten and twelve millions. Confucianism and a corrupt form of Buddhism, mingled with spirit and ancestor worship may be said to be the religion of the country. The people are, however, rather superstitious than religious. The Coreans are, for the most part, tall, robust and good-looking being a mixture of the Caucasian and Mongolian races. Their language is Turanian with a large admixture of Chinese words. They are idle, unprogressive, and uneducated, and the commerce and administration of the country is mainly in the hands of the Japanese. Corea owes its civilisation and arts, such as they are, to China, who introduced writing and Buddhism into the country early in the Christian era. In the Chinese Yuan dynasty, Corea was a vassal of China and took part in Kublai Khan's disastrous expedition to Japan at the end of the 13th century. In 1392, the present dynasty was founded and the country was called Cho-sen. In 1592-7 the Japanese invaded the country, but were driven out by the Chinese. In 1894 China's inaction led to her war with Japan and the latter's declaration of the independence of Corea. The king assumed the title of Emperor in 1899, and re-named the country Taihan. At the end of 1903, Russia was all-powerful in Corea, but as a result of the Russo-Japanese War, the country came under Japanese influence, and by the Portsmouth treaty it was formally made a suzerainty of Japan. The first postage stamps for use in Corea appeared in 1885. On April 1st, 1905, Corea signed an agreement with Japan giving the latter country control of its postal, telegraph, and telephone systems, and as a result of this agreement Corea's distinctive labels were discontinued in favor of the ordinary stamps of Japan.

COREA, JAPANESE P. O.—(See Japanese Corea.)

COREE.—The French rendering of Corea as shown upon the 1902 and 1903 stamps of that country which were manufactured in Paris.

CORISCO.—(See Elobey, Annobon and Corisco.)

CORNER LETTERS.—These were letters running in alphabetical sequence introduced into the lower angles of the first postage stamps issued in Great Britain as an extra safeguard against forgery. In 1858 letters were placed in all four corners, those in the upper angles being the same as those in the bottom corners, but in reverse order. This system of lettering the stamps was not entirely discontinued until the King Edward stamps made their appearance in 1902.

CORNWELL'S POST.—A local post of New York, established in 1850, with its office in Madison Square. Stamps were issued in connection with this post though these bore no indication of the value at which they were sold.

COROMINA, BARTOLEMEO.—A Spanish engraver who engraved the dies for the Spanish stamps issued in 1850, 1851, and 1852, as well as several of the later portrait stamps of the 1867-70 period.

"CORPS EXPEDITIONNAIRE FRANCO-ANGLAIS CAMEROUN."—A surcharge applied to certain stamps of Gabon in 1915, for use in the German territory of the Cameroons captured by the French and British. It means "French and British Cameroons Expeditionary Corps."

CORREIO.—An inscription shown upon most of the early stamps of Portugal meaning "Postage" or "Post Office".

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

THANKS.

The editor of this department wishes to express his many thanks to those who have contributed information for the benefit of the readers of the WEEKLY. This week's Chronicle is noticeably replete with interesting information contributed by subscribers, every one of whom have our sincere thanks. Our only regret is that space does not permit us to enlarge many of the features into lengthy discussions, it being necessary to shorten most of the information into as small a space as possible, without losing the sense of the data, in order to list every item that comes to our notice. This is your department and we want readers to use it to the advantage of all, but spare us the dotty varieties on account of the lack of space to properly take care of them here. Write up your discoveries, and your studies in connection with them, for special articles to be taken care of by the Managing Editor, who will look after your mss. if you send it to him. This is a New Issue Department and again we thank all who contribute to its completeness.

NEW U. S. REVENUE STAMPS.

The Managing Editor takes the liberty of inserting the following news matter in this department, believing it to be of more than ordinary interest and there being insufficient time to send the letter on to Philadelphia for dispositon. Allen S. Davenport, Yonkers, N. Y., submits a letter he has just received from the Treasury Department and we have only to quote from the same in order to furnish all the information available. The communication signed by Deputy Commissioner G. E. Fletcher reads as follows:

(1). Documentary stamps will be issued in the following denominations: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 10, 25, 40, 50, 80 cents; $1, $2, $3, $5, $10, $30, $60, $100, $500 and $1,000. These stamps will supersede all previous issues except occasionally for use in stamping some document which was executed under a previous law and should have been stamped at the time of execution.

(2). There will be no Proprietary stamps issued, nor any former issues used.

(3). A special stamp is being prepared for Playing Cards, in one denomination only, 7 cents.

(4). Wine stamps issued under the Act of 1916 will continue in use.

(5). A special stamp is being prepared for Parcel Post packages, in the denominations of 1, 2, 3 and 4 cents.

UNITED STATES.—(1398)—Re 30c unwatermarked perforated 10: The editor chronicled this stamp in the issue of September 15th, but doubt was cast upon it being a bona fide variety, not only by collectors but by the Post Office Department and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. It is only necessary to state here that the New Issue Editor will not make any mistake when he sees a stamp, but should he, he will be the first one to rectify an error of statement.

It gives us great pleasure to announce that we took the matter up with the Government officials, by visiting Washington, where United States stamps are ground out so fast that it is next to impossible to see everything that is produced. In the present case, the 30c unwatermarked perforated 10 stamps were regularly issued without the Postoffice Department and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing ever seeing them, therefore there was no record of them as being what they are, until we showed an entire sheet of them to the Assistant Director of the Bureau, and he in turn showing them to the various heads of the divisions and to Director Ralph.

Mr. Frank E. Ferguson, the Assistant Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, knew the sheet shown him was unwatermarked and perforated 10 the minute he saw it. He set the wheels of the Bureau in motion to find out how the variety occurred, but it can be stated that it is one of those unaccountable issues that once in a while will happen. Immediate action also was taken in notifying the Post Office Department that the Bureau acknowledged that they had produced the stamps; this was done by Mr. Ferguson, who called Mr. Fitch, Superintendent of the Division of Stamps, by telephone and explained to him that some 30c stamps existed unwatermarked and perforated 10, that the Bureau had produced them but had no record of the issue other than the fact that they were without doubt produced in a regular manner and issued along with regular stock. The telephone conversation was confirmed by letter.

This value completes the series unwatermarked perforated 10, which otherwise, until this time, had been excluded.

Adhesive.

Unwmkd. Perf. 10.

Mr. Webster C. Rich submits for our inspection a pair of 2c stamps, series of 1908, inscribed "TWO CENTS" without figures of value, double line U S P S watermark, perforated 11. After careful examination we have come to the conclusion that the perforating was done by the current perforating machines of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. We have submitted the pair of stamps to the Bureau, asking for information whether any old stock of imperforate stamps remaining in the Bureau had recently been perforated by the new 11 machines or whether a lot of imperforated stamps had been returned to the Bureau to be perforated. The results of our enquiries will be published in due season.

Mentioning perforations recalls to mind that a large lot of 1c stamps with compound perforation 10x12 was recently shown to us. These were all on parts of original covers. Although very well perforated, some in pairs and blocks of four, we were able to pronounce immediately, after an examination, that the perforations were applied by a private party or parties to imperforate stamps. The lot was quite a large one and the prices asked for them were also quite large, so we wish to warn collectors to beware of these fakes. The Editor is prepared to pass upon any of the compound perforations.

Mr. Eugene Tilleux, Jr., is using 1c stamps with a purple overprint "Germany". These are pasted to his mail in addition to the regular postage; but we fail to get the idea. There is nothing official about the overprint and like the 1c with overprint "WAR STAMP", they are in a category by themselves—a joke.

(1397)—Inquiries reach us as to how the imperforate errors were issued. We made enquiry at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and were informed that during the period of printing 2c stamps from plate number 7943 (containing the three 5c errors) some of this printing went into the imperforate stock and was regularly issued along with other imperforate stamps. So the error may turn up with Schermack perforation, as the imperforate sheets from the flat plates are primarily issued for making into coils for use in private affixing machines. There is nothing strange about the issue, other than the strange fact that the errors were actually but unknowingly produced. Some of the imperforate sheets with the errors have turned up in both the East and West, therefore the quantity of them must be a fair sized one and must be included in the total of 49,563 sheets of the errors printed. Deducting the imperforate from the total, it means that there are still less of the perforated than originally accounted for.

(1399)—Mr. T. J. Eppes and Mr. Eugene Tilleux, Jr., show us a number of the Liberty Bond advertising cancellations. We now have the Boston one in a rectangular frame, whereas the first Boston, listed on October 13th, was of flag formation. We have "Hudson Term. Sta." No. 1 and No. 2, the same as the other New York marks listed last week. Chicago's mark is similar to the New York ones, "BUY NOW," etc. Washington is using two different marks as used during the 1st Loan campaign, instead of one old one as previously announced, they differ as to setting although worded the same, and the new one. New York, Station P, is using one like the other New Yorks.

265 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

(1398)—In our Chronicle of October 13th, we mentioned that Dr. Twachtman had an envelope with the 1c die printed over the 2c, but we failed to mention that both were the oval stamps. Mr. Herbert W. Marston (before seeing our Chronicle of the above) submitted for our inspection a similar piece, but, in this instance, the 1c oval stamp is over the 2c circular stamp, and to the left. These items are most extraordinary and interesting and unaccountable, and both are probably unique. It is not unusual to see two impressions of the same die, either 1c or 2c, though even these are not plentiful, but to see the 1c over the 2c is weird. It may be that some (or perhaps only one at a time) 2c envelopes became mixed with plain envelopes and then went through the press to receive the 1c stamp. And, speaking of envelopes, we have never had any comment or information about the 1c oval die printed in red as chronicled in our issue of July 14th.

Mr. E. S. Jamieson shows us a 2c envelope with stamp in such a pale color that it was evidently produced by a die that was not re-inked after having made the preceding impression in full color. The stamp is of the oval type.

AITUTAKI.—Mr. Martin W. Hoose writes: "I have been quite interested in the discussion as to whether the 6d issue for Aitutaki, overprinted on the New Zealand King Edward issue, was necessary or speculative. Some have claimed that the stamps never reached Aitutaki. Now I have in my possession a cover from that island which was mailed and registered there and bears the postmark of intermediate offices. So the stamp has done legitimate postal duty. A few of the stamps, at least, must have been on sale in Aitutaki to the public and I, therefore, consider the issue a legitimate one."

ANTIGUA.—(1396)—The ½d stamp overprinted "WAR STAMP" in red, same type as the black overprint, has been issued, and a copy is shown us by Mr. J. A. Galbraith.

War Stamp.
Overprint in red.
½d green.

The paper is medium white wove with opaque watermark, the gum colorless.

BAHAMAS.—(1392)—Mr. Eugene Klein has shown us a copy of the 1st type Special Delivery stamp, used on cover, with double overprint, one inverted. The stamp is cancelled Nassau, June 19, 1917. The copy shows "SPECIAL DELIVERY" regularly overprinted, with the same words inverted beneath this, the inverted impression being not so heavily printed as the normal.

Mr. Harry E. Huber writes with regard to the 1st type Special Delivery stamps as follows:

You have mentioned twice in commenting on these stamps that the first printing of 600 and the second printing of 6000 were done at one time. (We can assure Mr. Huber that our mentions do not state emphatically that such was the case, as we worded our remarks so that they would be open to correction if the proof appeared. Mr. Huber's further words will straighten the matter out in the minds of the WEEKLY readers. —Editor.) This is not so—the setting is different. The type was evidently taken down and distributed after the first 600 stamps were run off—and then when the reprint was made of 6000, in January of this year, it was necessary to make it up again.

I make this statement for the reason that I have a block of ten (first two vertical rows, at the left of the sheet, showing plate 1 in the lower left corner —margins are attached on all three sides) from the first printing—which was done in 1915, December—though you take exception to this point also, but give no reason. (For the reason that plate 2 stamps were not supposed to have been used for the 1915 overprinting, as our contemporary's words would indicate.—Editor.)

I have also a pair of this same stamp, from the second printing (1917) taken from the lower left corner—margins are attached at left and bottom—this also shows plate 1. And the setting of the overprint on these two stamps differs from the complementary stamps of my block of ten.

I do not mean that the overprint difference is sufficient to make it appear as a separate number in the catalogue—for as you know almost every stamp of the 60 differs in the positioning of the letters of the two words.

The second printing pair shows the left stamp with the "V" between the "C" and "I" (underneath, of course, you understand), and the right stamp of the pair shows the same setting.

This, you will see, proves conclusively that the same setting was not used for the two printings, and while doubtless it would be impossible to tell single copies of the two prints apart (save with accompanying margins—the stamps would have to be from the same location), the material I have shows the facts to be as I have given them above.

(It would be interesting to our readers to hear from Mr. Huber regarding the way his block of ten stamps of the December, 1915, 600 printing came to him. We are perfectly willing to have these technicalities straightened out, and will willingly correct any errors of statements we may make. Mr. Huber has clearly stated that there are two settings of the type, which, naturally, indicate two printings.—Editor.)

CANADA.—(1396)—Mr. Wentworth F. Gantt, noting our chronicle of the 3c Confederation commemorative and the statement that the picture on it is taken from Harris E. Plinting's painting, writes: "I have at present a picture of this painting, which says that it is by Robert Harris. I have inquired at the City Library about it and they tell me that they find no trace of either man but are under the impression that Plinting is an engraver."

We are inclined to believe that Robert Harris is the artist who painted the "Fathers of Confederation", as the newspaper despatch from Ottawa, published in our issue of July 21st stated that the new stamp would have an engraved "reproduction of Harris' painting." And we believe the newspaper despatch reproduced in our issue of July 28th contained an error of transmission and printing. We copied the clipping faithfully, but it may be that the typesetter for the newspaper which printed the despatch had improper despatch copy to write the article from. The despatch from Ottawa may have been "Harris' painting 'Fathers of Confederation'" instead of "Harris E. Plinting's 'Fathers of Confederation'." We would be pleased to have our Canadian correspondents put the matter right.

Mr. Gerald Mongeon informs us that his inquiries brought the information from the authorities that the Confederation stamp would only be on sale for three or four months. Mr. Mongeon, also informs us that the stamps are printed in sheets of two hundred, which are then divided into panes of fifty stamps each, and that the plate number only occurs once in the plate, being under the stamps in the lower left pane of fifty.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—Mr. Harry E. Huber hears that there will probably be a regular 1½d stamp issued for the Caymans, which will eliminiate further surcharges for the war stamps. Mr. Huber informs us that this may or may not come to pass.

Advertising Chat

—The WEEKLY greets you with a special number that carries with it a strong witnessing to the virility of the stamp trade. This issue is a twelve-page number that will be perused with marked interest. We believe that the coming season will be a busy one for the trade, and those dealers who use our columns will not lack for patronage.

—Turning our pages this week one is reminded of the wide variety of offerings and there is little conflict between the several advertisements. The Phillips' page will be eagerly scanned. This firm uses 4,000 lines of space this year and if you want to duplicate the firm's contract, write us.

—There are two quarter pages, Sledd's and Richards', both with special lines and they are bound to attract attention.

—There is a quarter page in this issue that is cut up into small advertisments. George J. Carter is the user of this space. He is an old-time patron of the WEEKLY and is one of the dealers of whom we can say that no complaint has ever been entered against him. His contributions of a catalog and album to philatelic literature stamps him as a benefactor of our hobby.

—Quite frequently an auction advertisement appears in the WEEKLY. This time the Atlas Stamp Co. takes a quarter page and our readers are given the privilege of naming the prices they are willing to pay on the stamps offered. Mr. Percy C. Smith, the manager of the Company, has just been selected president of the Somerville Philatelic Society.

—If you have stamps to sell and are not using this paper write us and we shall send you the particulars of our "3-in-1" contract. Under it you secure a flexible rate, using the space you desire and paying for the same proportionately.

—There is one thing we insist upon in connection with this contract, viz.:—payment of bills regularly on presentation. Where a bill is not paid by the last Saturday in the month the advertising will be discontinued at least temporarily.

—Have advertising copy in Beverly Friday. This will help us in an early mailing of the WEEKLY. If you wish, keep a carbon copy of your advt.

—We now have a fresh supply of subscription blanks on hand. They are neat in shape and attractively printed. Use them in your correspondence, inserting your name and address in the space that is provided. On the reverse side is a list of premiums we give with new subscriptions. In return for securing the subscription you may have 8c cash rebate or one of the premiums listed. Send for a supply today.

—We are having bound volumes of the WEEKLY for 1913-14-15-16 and will accept orders for the same at $2 each. Each volume is indexed.

—Are you a member of a stamp club? If so, send for a copy of our leaflet "The Charm of Stamp Collecting." It is a splendid leaflet for publicity purposes and may be secured at cost price. On the second page we will print facts concerning your club, list of officers, nights of meeting, etc., etc. Follow this up and write us.

GABON.—(1372)—Mr. Gerald Mongeon shows us a variety of the Red Cross stamp chronicled on April 14th. In "EQUATORIALE" the "U" is so printed that it looks exactly like a "J" and the word reads: "EQJATORIALE." It would be interesting to know whether this variety occurs on the stamps regularly, in both the ordinary and red cross issues.

GREAT BRITAIN.—(1396)—We have now seen the so-called new die ½d as mentioned in our Chronicle of Sept. 29th. The large colorless space on the neck is a good test for locating the new variety.

HAYTI.—(1394)—Mr. A. W. Dunning writes: "Your readers may be interested to know that amongst other unlisted varieties I have used copies of Hayti Nos. 66 and 137 with the 'GL. O. Z.' overprint. Have any of your readers seen genuinely used copies of Nos. 219 to 234 and 242. I never have. A little light on this 1915 issue of Hayti would be of interest."

HONDURAS.—(1397)—Mr. C. Utermark writes: "Referring to chronicle of Honduras No. 127 printed on both sides. This cannot be a very recent discovery, for in 1913 an eastern dealer, I do not remember who, sold me a used copy of this stamp for 49 cents; perhaps it was a bargain or remnant sale. I believe the WEEKLY also mentioned such a stamp under their new issue heading about that time."

This is very likely. We can only hope that we will be editor of new issues for a long period, in order that we will be able to refer to our personal chronicle of any varieties that have and will be submitted.

INDIA.—(Bundi)—(1399)—Last week we stated on the authority of two contemporaries that a new series was being issued. Whitfield King & Co. in their Monthly List state that this seems to be incorrect, but that there have however been a number of new values added to the current set. They have received the following as shown in the list below. They also hear of the issue of 2½a, 10a and 12a, 2r, 3r, 4r and 5r stamps but have not as yet seen them. The design is the same as the 1915 issue. The 8a is coming in a new color, vermilion in place of the original orange.

SIERRA LEONE.—(1397)—We wish to admit that we made a mistake in producing our remarks about a duty plate in the issue of October 6th. Please delete the entire chronicle under Sierra Leone of that date. We were temporarily confused into thinking that the duty plate contained the figures of value only, forgetting for the instant that the duty plate also contains the name of the country. Mr. Huber kindly called our attention to the matter.

SINKIANG.—(1397)—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List states that the $2, $5 and $10 Chinese Republican stamps have been overprinted for use in this province and that the $20 stamp to be issued for China will also be added to the set when issued.

TRINIDAD.—Mr. F. H. Hurley writes: "I am submitting for your chronicle something I have never seen listed. The second stamp of the two seems to be printed from the same plate as the 1d carmine, No. 100. The characteristic difference seems to be in the lighting of sea and sky, which difference is obtained by the thinning and breaking of the horizontal lines. Other differences that may be noted do not obtain throughout all the duplicates I have seen."

Mr. Hurley refers to Scott's No. 86, type A8. In what he shows as variety I, the sea and sky is represented by lines which are strong throughout without a break in any of them. In his variety II, the lower lines representing the sky and the lower lines representing the sea are thin, broken and irregular. The difference may be accountable to worn plates, but we have some very finely printed copies of Mr. Hurley's variety II and the differences are as stated. In our personal reference collection we find both varieties I and II, but Mr. Hurley's variety II as submitted seems to be a sub-variety of this type; at the horizon at the right, between the first two lines representing the sea, we find three crosses in this position "X XX", and on the same stamp we note the shading on the right side of the spear point is incomplete, the lines of the sky running right into the spear point. The varieties II in our reference collection do not show these variations. The differences in the lines of the sky and sea are as much Die Varieties as the well known Victoria head Dies, but we have only mentioned the sub-variations for reference, and not with the idea of claiming catalogue rank for them.

UPPER SENEGAL & NIGER.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles the new 15c called into being on account of the raise of letter postage. It is of a type with the current series, Scott's type A4.

CHINA AND ITS STAMPS.

By C. A. HOWES, F. R. P. S., Ex-President American Philatelic Society.

CHAPTER XV.—The Surcharged Republican Issues.

We have already briefly detailed in Chapter III the main facts and occurrences in connection with the Revolution of 1911, which swept away the autocratic monarchs of the oldest empire on the earth and installed a republican form of government in their place. Such a change was not only a momentous one for China herself but for the rest of the world as well, as it presaged a greater influence in world affairs by this mighty nation which bands together practically one-fifth of the human race. It cannot be wondered at, then, that the Republican surcharges on the stamps of the Chinese Empire are considered by many as among the most interesting stamps in our albums, and certainly their historical importance is not to be overlooked.

If we recall that the height of the Revolution had been reached by November, 1911, that all the Southern Provinces were then in revolt against the Imperial Government and that fighting was going on in the Yang-tse valley, the great trade artery of China, we can realize why the Peking Government was terrorized, granted all sorts of reforms and appointed Yüan Shih-K'ai as Dictator on November 1, 1911. Yüan decided that it was best to strive for a constitutional monarchy with the Manchu Emperor as a figure-head. This plan was accepted by most of the Northern Provinces, but the more radical Southern Provinces, flushed with their successes, would have none of it and demanded the overthrow of the Manchus. On December 9, 1911, a truce of fifteen days was called to allow of a conference at Hankow, where Yüan hoped to convince the revolutionists of the advantages of a Constitutional Monarchy over a Republic. This truce was extended but Yüan's views did not prevail with the revolutionists, who convened a provisional Republican Assembly at Nanking and on December 29, 1911, unanimously elected Dr. Sun Yat Sen President of the Republic of China.

Meanwhile negotiations continued and pressure on the throne for abdication increased. Finally a settlement was reached whose provisions included the uniting of the Northern and Southern Provinces permanently into the Republic of China with the name Chung Hua Min Kuo ("Middle Flowery Peoples' State" or "Republic,") the abdication of the Emperor, the election of Yüan Shih-K'ai as President and the acceptance of a provisional Constitution as outlined by the Revolutionary Government of Nanking. In consequence, the little Emperor Hsüan T'ung, just six years old, abdicated on February 12, 1912, the edict of abdication being published on February 15th and Yüan Shih-K'ai being elected Provisional President of China on the same day, though he did not take the oath of office until March 10th.

It is necessary to bear in mind the above state of affairs in order to understand the reasons for the first Republican overprints on the Chinese Imperial stamps. The Post Office Department functioned in both North and South China during the Revolution and endeavored to serve both alike with impartiality. According to the Report of 1911 "temporary division of authority resulted in attempts being made to change the organisation of the Post Office and to exercise an effective control over its working system. The Post Office, however, stood its ground and, to the advantage of the Service and public alike, all parties shortly realized the inexpediency of interference and the Post Office preserved inviolate its independence." After the capture of Shanghai by the revolutionists and during the truce spoken of between the contending factions, the postal headquarters at Shanghai was of course in the Republican district. The question of the continued use of stamps bearing the legend of the Empire in the successful Republican Provinces naturally came in for attention. The result is summed up in the Report of the Post Office for 1911, as follows:—

"An important question at a time when North and South were not yet reunited was the superscription of stamps. Aiming at impartiality and at serving the public interest only, it was decided by the Ministry to surcharge the the stamps with a sign of neutrality, and the characters lin-shih chung-li [see illustration], meaning 'provisional neutrality', were impressed horizontally on certain denominations, and the stamps experimentally placed on sale at Foochow (January, 1912). Provincial objections were immediately raised, however, and the stamps were withdrawn."

The stamps thus placed on sale were the 3 cents (the inland letter rate) and the 1, 2 and 5 dollar stamps. Just why these high values were chosen is not apparent unless a requisition from Foochow was being filled at the time. The Post Office Report gives the numbers of each that were sold (it is evident from later developments that more were surcharged, as well as other values), the figures being 6000 of the 3 cents, 96 each of the 1 and 2 dollars, and 288 of the 5 dollars. The overprint of four horizontal characters (see illustration in which the four vertical characters are not to be considered for the moment) is in red on the 3 cent stamp and in black on the dollar values. It of course reads from right to left, the characters signifying literally "temporary middle-stand" or "provisional neutrality" in free translation.

In regard to the date, although the Post Office Report states that they were placed on sale in "January, 1912", yet reports from China at about that time stated that the stamps were on sale for three days only, viz., February 7th, 8th and 9th. Very likely the stamps were sent from Shanghai to Foochow the latter part of January, but it seems best to take the detailed statement from the city itself in this case.

Continuing, the Post Office Report for 1911 says:—"Upon the Governments of Peking and Nanking arriving at an agreement a few weeks later, the stock of unsurcharged stamps was vertically surcharged with the 'Chinese Republic' superscription (Chung-Hua Min-Kuo), and these have remained in issue since and will be used until the stock thus surcharged is exhausted. At the same time, to avoid waste, the stock already impressed 'provisional neutrality' was overcharged with the new superscription and issued with the rest. Their appearance at Nanking, Hankow, etc., however, was disapproved in certain quarters, and they were almost immediately withdrawn."

The four new characters were evenly spaced, of course, when overprinted alone on the Empire stamps, but were widely separated between the second and third characters when impressed on the stamps that had already received the horizontal surcharge. The combination on the latter made what is known as the "cruciform surcharge," and we find that four other values besides those sold at Foochow were evidently prepared with the "provisional neutrality" overprint, for the cruciform surcharge not only includes those but the 1, 7, 16 and 50 cent stamps as well. The 1, 3, 16 and 50 cent stamps have the entire overprint in red, and the 7 cent, 1, 2 and 5 dollars entirely in black. They were on sale at Hankow, Nanking and Changsha, and the total numbers sold amounted to 2289 of the 1 cent, 2818 of the 3 cents, 492 of the 7 cents, 200 of the 16 cents, 87 of the 50 cents, 156 of the 1 dollar, 93 of the 2 dollars and 52 of the 5 dollars. Changsha only sold 120 of the 1 cent stamps and Nanking did not have any 7 or 16 cent stamps.

The United States Consul at Nanking bought up a large portion of those sold at that city, according to a letter from Lt. Col. Norris-Newman, who writes: "Mr. T. Gracey practically cornered the market, getting 1379 out of the total of 1839 issued, and has left with them for the United States." The "total number issued" is slightly at variance with the official figures for the sales at Nanking which are: 1000 1 cent, 500 3 cents, 75 16 cents, 96 1 dollar, 61 2 dollars and 32 5 dollars, a total of 1765 stamps of a face value of $415 Mexican or say $200 American gold. Advices received by Gebrüder Senf stated that the cruciform surcharged stamps were received in Nanking on March 21st, and were distributed to the Pai Lou and Chung Ching Kai post offices at 4 p. m. the same day, being issued to the public at 9 a. m. the following day, March 22nd. In the evening a telegram from headquarters arrived forbidding their further sale.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

CORREO OFICIAL.—(Official Postage).—An inscription shown on the stamps of Spain and those of several of the Spanish-speaking countries of South America on the stamps intended for official use.

CORREOS.—This is the Spanish word for "Post Office" or "Postage" and, naturally, it occurs on a large number of the stamps emanating from those countries in which Spanish is spoken. As a rule the name of the country is also indicated, but in those cases where no name is given the value or some other word in conjunction with "Correos" will provide the clue to the identity of the specimen.

CORREOS CENTIMOS.—The only inscription shown upon the 1893 stamps of Venezuela intended for foreign postage.

CORREOS CENT. PO. FL.—The inscription shown upon the 1864 stamps of the Philippine Islands.

CORREOS CERTDO.—The second word is an abbreviation for Certificado (registered) and the inscription together with "1852", "1853", or "1854" appears upon some of the stamps of Spain issued in these years.

CORREOS CERTIFICADO. — This inscription appears upon some of the values of the 1850 issue of Spain.

CORREOS CERTIFO.—An inscription engraved upon some of the values of the 1851 issue for Spain the second word being a contraction for "Certificado".

CORREOS CMOS. — The second word is an abbreviation for "centimos" and the inscription, with the date "1866" appears upon the 20c stamp of Spain and the 5c, 10c, 20c, and 40c stamps of Cuba. The 20c stamps may be identified by the color, the Spanish one being printed in lilac and the one for Cuba in green. The same inscription in conjunction wth the date "1867" is only found on the stamps of Cuba.

CORREOS CTOS.—The second word is an abbreviation for "centimos" and the inscription appears on the Spanish stamps issued in 1864.

CORREOS CUARTOS. — This is shown upon many of the stamps of Spain "cuartos" of course, referring to the facial value.

CORREOS DAVID.—A mark found upon certain Panama stamps. At one time it was considered a special provisional for stamps issued in the town of David, but it is now believed to be merely a postmark.

CORREOS DE ESPANA. — An inscription frequently met with on the stamps of Spain and simply meaning "Spanish Post Office".

CORREOS E. U. M.—A watermark found on some of the stamps of Mexico. The last three letters stand for "Estados Unidos Mexicanos". (United States of Mexico.)

CORREOS FRANCO.—An inscription shown upon the Spanish stamps of the issues of 1850 to 1854, on which the date is also shown. The word "Franco" means free.

CORREOS GUIRA.—A control mark stamped on several of the provisional labels issued in the district of Marino, Venezuela, in 1903.

CORREOS INTERIOR.—An inscription shown upon the stamps of the Philippine Islands issued between 1859 and 1863.

CORREOS MATURIN.—A control mark applied to many of the provisional type-set labels issued in the province of Maturin, Venezuela, in 1903.

CORREOS NACIONALES.—(National Post Office).—This inscription appears on most of the stamps of Colombia issued prior to the constitution of the Republic proper. These words also form part of the overprint on some of the provisional stamps of Guatemala.

CORREOS NALES. — The second word is an abbreviation for "Nacionales" and the inscription appears on some of the early stamps of Colombia.

CORREOS PORTE FRANCO.—This inscription, meaning "Post Office; carriage free", is found upon most of the stamps of Chili and also upon many of the early issues of Peru.

CORREOS REAL.—(or Reales).—The only inscription shown on some of the stamps of Spain, the second word referring to the facial value.

CORREOS-RL.—The two last letters are an abbreviation for "real", and the inscription appears upon the 1 real stamp of the 1864 issue for Spain. On the 2 reales value of the same set "Correos-rs" is shown.

BALZAC'S ANALYSIS.

TO THE EDITOR:—

The following in regard to the collecting of stamps and other things is from "Cousin Pons", a novel by Honore De Balzac (1799-1850), written before 1850 I think,—anyway when stamp collecting was very, very young.

"For many of his knicknacks Pons was indebted to those exchanges which are a source of unspeakable delight to the collector, for the pleasure of buying curiosities is, after all, merely a secondary pleasure; the prime, the prinicipal pleasure is to barter them. . . . . From all that precedes, the reader will gather that the object, which the old man was carrying with such paternal care, was one of those dazzling "finds" which we bear off—With how much rapture you, oh ye amateurs! understand full well. . . . . It is undoubtedly true that a mental counter-irritant, in the form of a mania, is a sovereign remedy for ennui and the spleen.

All ye who can no longer drink from that vessel which has in every age been termed "the cup of pleasure" apply yourselves to the task of collecting—no matter what! Even postage stamps have been collected—and you will find the solid ingot of happiness coined into small change. A mania, why 'tis pleasure idealized! etc., etc." . . . . . .

Balzac was right, though a little in advance of his times. How we would like some of those stamps collected in those days!

C. H. FOWLE.

AN APPEAL.

TO THE EDITOR:—

You will recall that an account, with a picture, of the cripple, Buddy Lewis, was published in the WEEKLY some time about May, 1916. An appeal was made for collectors to send him some stamps to help bring cheer to his place of affliction.

They did so, and he received quite a nice lot of stamps. After ten years of great suffering he has been released. I am writing that some mention of his death may be made in the WEEKLY so the friends who helped him will be made aware of it.

The mother is a very poor widow, but did all she could to care for Buddy. She wants his collection to be sold and the proceeds put in a suitable grave stone. The collection is not of very much value, but can probably be disposed of in some way to bring something. I believe there are many of those who were touched by his affliction who would be ready to help in the matter of getting the grave stone. If you could aid in getting this before them I am sure it would be a most worthy act.

I might add that Buddy developed great philatelic skill and knowledge for one so crippled and found the greatest delight in arranging and studying his stamps when he could.

Any aid or suggestions in this matter would be very greatly appreciated.

Yours very sincerely,
GEO. W. VORHIS.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Ready—We are informed from Washington that most of the post offices throughout the country will have an adequate supply of the new three cent stamps on hand for sale on November 2, 1917, when the new rate becomes effective. The bureau of engraving and printing has announced that for some time past it has been producing these stamps at the rate of twenty-five million a day. As the Providence Bulletin says: "To those of us who are old enough the 3-cent stamp will seem like an old friend when it comes back and the cent's worth of energy it will add to the national cause ought to make it welcome." We remember how the passing of the old three cent green stamp was deplored by the sentimental folks and they of course are true to their colors. As for the rest of us, we shall be in accord with the spirit of the clipping that we have quoted, even though the stamp business is essentially a mail-order proposition. The public is enjoined by the department not to be impatient in waiting for the new two cent postal cards and three cent stamped envelopes which are "a vast undertaking which will require some little time to accomplish."

Further—An additional yield of postal revenue will come through a modification of the postal treaty between Great Britain and the United States that has been made whereby a three cent tariff will stand "for practically all foreign letters now taking the two cent stamp." According to this arrangement "the 3-cent rate also will apply to the Bahamas, Canada, Cuba, Barbados, British Guiana, British Honduras, Dominican Republic, Dutch West Indies, England, Ireland, Wales, Scotland, Leeward Islands, Mexico, Newfoundland, New Zealand and Panama."

Memory—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who received stamp gifts from the boys of the neighborhood when he was recovering from the scarlet fever? Is this o. f. c. arguing over the Hayes-Tilden election somewhere with the old-fashioned dealer who would not give a customer one of the "little envelopes" for the stamps unless it was asked for?

Errors—Precanceled sheets of the error now may be added to the imperforate sheet which are being held at prices (so we are told) that do not emulate the modest violet. The cat. value of the perforated errors is now four dollars for the perforated 10 and three for the perforated 11, as you know.

Cuba—It is known that the 1914 issue of Cuba, map design, is known in imperforate condition and we understand that the set in pairs has exchanged hands at prices well up in the dollars. As pertinent to the subject, we quote from a letter just received from a special correspondent in Camaguey who intimates that Mr. L. A. Christy, American Vice-Consul at Havana and an ardent philatelist, repudiates the stamps. In fact, he gives them their congé in the words that no such stamps were ever issued by the postal authorities of Cuba and that any existing specimens of them were either printers' waste or worse. As Mr. Christy has a close connection with the Postmaster General of Cuba, he is in a position to speak authoritatively. Our correspondent adds: "The 1914 map design issue are in use again but as revenue stamps; they are surcharged 'Timbre Official' in black as on the specimens enclosed." The surcharge is in black and "Timbre" is curved downwards and "Nacional" is curved upwards.

Out—The supplement that is to take the place of the usual new edition of the standard catalogue is now out and is a satisfactory provisional issue. The new issues to date are listed and priced and a compilation of changes in the prices of many of the earlier issues is a feature. The manager of the Scott Stamp & Coin Company, Mr. Hugh M. Clark, says that the orders for this short catalogue are gratifyingly large but he does not rely upon that fact alone to predict a great season for stamps. He says that the volume of business for the past month or two is impressive and that he has noticed that there is a number larger than ever before of adult "beginners." Mr. Clark attributes this result in no small measure to the newsily interesting and technically correct contributions on philately that are being supplied to a score or more of the biggest newspapers from coast to coast by the philatelic publicity "syndicate." Mr. Clark will have the sympathy of all his friends in his recent bereavement, the death of his father in Chicago, where for many years the decedent was identified prominently with that city's commercial and civic growth. It will be remembered that Mr. Hugh M. Clark lived in Chicago before he went to New York with the Scott Stamp & Coin Company.

Changed—The simple declaration of Mr. Clark in the foregoing paragraph that a hopeful augury for the activity and prosperity of philately is the many adult recruits to philately, releases an observation that we intended to embellish for use editorially, later. Now that we are stampeded into action in this connection we say that the boy collector is a diminishing factor in philately. We think that this remark is a conservative one, even though it would be too sensational to say that the day of the young collector has passed. It is not true that the welcome to the boy is becoming less cordial from collectors but it is the changing conditions that do a bit to chill his reception. There are changes that come with the years in any pursuit and profession that develop with time that are as fixed in their courses as the stars and it is useless to try to alter the inflexible fact. No amount of encouragement would bring back the youthful phalanx of other days and while we adhere to the slogan to make it pleasant for the boy collectors, we know that it is only the scent of the roses that remains. It will never come to pass that the boy collector will not be an important and influential factor in philately but he no longer is the dominant one. Stamp collecting is not so easily grasped as a subject as it was once and a collection cannot be the simple affair now that it used to be. The attractions for the maturer mind are becoming more apparent and from now on, we expect to find an increasing ratio of older beginners allying themselves with philately.

Aside—A copy of the Chicago Tribune for January 4, 1862, contains a list of advertised letters, extending over five columns and at the end is the notice: "Persons wishing drop letters advertised must affix a three cent stamp. J. L. Scripps." In 1862 Chicago had become a city of no mean size but the tendency of many senders of local letters was to omit the street address. To obviate the inordinate demand for "directory service" the extra cent postage was ordered by the Chicago postmaster and he probably was within his rights in exacting this added charge for advertised letters, under some construction of the postal rules and regulations of the time.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Wm. E. Ault has removed to St. Louis, Mo., where he will be located in the future. His permanent home address will be furnished later.

—The Cincinnati Philatelic Society has decided to publish an official bulletin and No. 1 has appeared. It is an interesting four-page sheet filled with live matter and bound to be read by every member of the organization. The activity of this organization may well be emulated by our other societies. Send a stamped addressed envelope to A. D. Fennell, Sec'y, Second National Bank Building, for a specimen copy.

—Pauline, Townsend, Mont., reports substitution of stamps by F. Lee Dayton, Newport News, Va., who has been referred to several times in our columns. A registered letter sent him was returned unclaimed. Dealers should be cautious of their business relations with Newport News. Pauline also reports unsatisfactory dealings with Perry Y. Jackson, Wake Forest, N. C.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from W. F. Van Dusen, Mrs. E. W. Oughtred, Allen S. Davenport, and W. G. Swart.

—Robert E. Hopkins, Tarrytown, N. Y., has a considerable number of stamp papers which he will be glad to send anyone who will pay transportation charges.

—The philatelists of San Francisco and vicinity will hold their annual banquet Friday evening, Nov. 16, at the Bay State Restaurant, 275 O'Farrel St. All collectors and dealers are invited to be present.

—We have received from C. W. Hennan, M. D., the 1917 Year Book of the International Precancel Club. It contains constitution, list of members and officers for the current year, together with a considerable amount of advertising.

—In a recent Amateur Photographers' Weekly is a communication from Herman W. Boers recommending the forwarding of old magazines to the boys at the front. This suggestion is being brought prominently to the fore at the present time and deserves our cooperation.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

By BILL BLOSS.

Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Issue of 1894-1895.

The contract for the printing of United States stamps awarded to the American Bank Note Company expired early in 1894. At that time the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, established by the Treasury Department, was doing practically all of the work in the manufacture of revenue stamps, treasury certificates, government bonds, and other securities. At the time bids for the work were solicited, the Bureau, through the Secretary of the Treasury, decided to compete for the work, and the contract was awarded to it.

All of the stamps, plates, dies, and transfer rolls, being the property of the government, were transferred to the Bureau before the end of June, 1894, without interruption of the Postal service in any way. A sufficient quantity of all values were on hand to last until the new equipment needed could be installed, and further supplies printed.

In order to facilitate the work, it was decided not to alter the designs, but in order to distinguish the work of the Bureau from the previous manufacturers, a small double lined triangle was added to each of the upper corners.

These triangles were added to the dies, and new plates made. The writer saw a die proof showing the two cent value before the triangles were added, and on the same card a proof of the stamp after the addition of the triangles.

Three varieties of the triangles were made, which cause considerable difficulty for collectors. They are as follows:

Type 1: The horizontal lines of the groundwork run across the triangle and are the same thickness within it as without.

Type 2: The lines cross the triangle, but are thinner within than without.

Type 3: The lines do not cross the triangle, leaving the space between the double lines blank, and are thin within the inner triangle.

The first type was used on all values, while Types 2 and 3 occur on the two cent value only. Both types 2 and 3 occur on Plate No. 170, and can be had in pairs.

Numerous shades of all values exist. The general color scheme of the 1890 issue was retained. The 2c value was printed in many distinct shades ranging from pink to carmine lake.

The use of the 30c and 90c stamps being practically unnecessary these values were dropped from the set, and new denominations of 50c and $1.00, $2.00 and $5.00 issued instead. The higher values were in some demand at the larger offices to prepay postage on large registered packages and bullion shipments made by the banks.

The same style of designs were retained on the new values. The portraits and colors used are as follows:

50c orange, Jefferson, similar to the previous 30c.

$1 black, Perry, similar to the previous 90c.

$2 dark blue, Madison, after portrait by Gilbert Stuart.

$5 dark green, Marshall, after portrait by Inman.

Two die varieties of the $1.00 value were discovered in 1915 and are as follows:

Type 1: The circles enclosing numerals "$1" are broken where they meet the curved lines below the label inscribed "one dollar", and do not cross the lines.

Type 2: The circles are complete, and cross the border line of the label.

Type one occurs perhaps on an average of four to one.

The paper used was soft, and porous, though not showing as course a "weave" as the paper used by the American Bank Note Co. The perforation remained the same gauge, and the gum practically the same.

In the summer of 1895, a dangerous counterfeit of the two cent stamp was made at Chicago, with intent to defraud the post office of revenue, and with no philatelic significance. This fraud was quickly detected and the perpetrators apprehended. The writer has seen several copies of it, and the work is so good that it would be hard for the novice to detect the difference. Copies of the counterfeit are not common.

In order to prevent further misuse of this nature, and to make counterfeiting more difficult, a watermark was added to the paper, for the first time in the history of United States stamps, excepting, of course, the stitch watermarks, which were not intentionally made.

The watermark used consisted of the letters "U. S. P. S." in double-lined Roman capitals measuring 16 mm. high in ten rows of nine horizontal letters to the pane of one hundred stamps.

This arrangement placed a portion or a whole letter on each stamp. It would have been far more satisfactory if a smaller watermark had been used, so that the entire mark fell on each stamp, as in the case of the British Colonial Crown and C. A. watermark. However, this watermark served its purpose.

Two errors in the watermarking are known. The 6c and 8c stamps are occasionally found on paper watermarked "U. S. I. R." for revenue use. These can only be determined when a portion of the letter R showing the tail, or the entire letters I and R appear on the stamp.

It might be interesting to note that the Bureau started numbering the plates for the printing of postage stamps from one upward, and are still using the same serial. Plate 1 was used for printing the 2c value. A complete list of plate numbers of the various issues is found in Mr. Luff's "Postage Stamps of the United States."

PRESS.

We are pleased to notice that Mr. C. A. Burner is proceeding valiantly with his Philatelic Index, in which the auction prices of different sales are recorded under the plan that we commended some weeks ago. Mr. Burner has been faithfully issuing his paper, and says that he is pleased with the support that is being accorded him. Moreover, he says, the auction folk are encouraging him by word and deed to firmly establish his enterprise, and while he realizes that the road to philatelic publishing prosperity is full of ruts and hollows, he is determined to surmount all obstacles. Mr. Burner's idea is original. In a compact, yet complete, form, he gives the compilation of prices, and by reference to the auction catalogue, the price of any or all lots is easily found. Further, there is news of other philatelic kind in the pages of this distinctive paper. Mr. Burner has established a time- and money-saving device for the benefit of the auction buyer who wishes to keep abreast of the auction market. By his work on the Worthington sales, Mr. Burner has proved that he can cope with the most pretentious sales.

The Illinois Philatelist, which recently purchased the Philatelic Sun, is published by a Chicago company which is headed by the live and likeable Mr. Eisendrath, who is surcharged with the true philatelic publishing spirit; and we expect to see his paper come regularly for long time to come and to improve at the rate that it has for some time past.

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. UNITED STATES.—(1400)—Some rather startling items have recently appeared to claim the attention of collectors of United States stamps. Last week we mentioned the receipt of a pair of 2c stamps Series of 1908, double line watermark, with the current perforation 11. Our surmise that they were perforated by the Bureau is correct. In addition to the pair submitted by Mr. Webster C. Rich, Mr. Rich has a copy regularly used on cover as well as a block of eight with margin and plate number 4848 and he was kind enough to let us have a block of four, which he had in addition to the other eleven copies. A visit to New York disclosed that there were also a few copies in the hands of Mr. Bartels. As we stated last week, we wrote to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and we have now received a reply, as follows:

"Sir:

I am in receipt of your letter of the 18th instant enclosing a pair of two-cent stamps, series of 1908, which you state have apparently the current perforations, eleven holes to the two centimeters, and submitting three questions relative thereto. I give your questions below, and the answers thereto, as follows:

1. Q. Were these stamps perforated by the Bureau? A. Yes.

2. Q. Were any imperforate stamps of this series (1908) remaining in the stock at the Bureau perforated with the current perforation machines which perforate 11? A. No.

3. Q. Or were some of the imperforate stamps of this series (1908) recently returned to the Bureau to be perforated? A. Yes; Recently a number of sheets of two-cent stamps, Series of 1908, unperforated, 400 subject, were returned to this Bureau to be perforated.

I return you herewith the pair of two-cent stamps enclosed by you.

(Signed) F. E. FERGUSON,
Acting Director."

Mr. J. Murray Bartels received similar answers to questions he asked the Bureau, so it transpires that some unperforated sheets of 400 subjects were recently returned to the Bureau to be perforated and were run through the current perforating machines and were perforated 11.

Mr. Adam Gruenig also submitted a copy used on cover and we traced the use of them to the Encyclopedia Britannica in New York, but although over 10,000 stamps were purchased and used at this particular mailing, not a single stamp remained of this purchase. What portion of the "over 10,000" stamps were of the 1908 type, re-issued perf. 11, there is no way to find out. We will, however, address a letter to the Post Office Department and endeavor to find out how many imperforate stamps were recently returned to the Bureau to be perforated.

Other startling news is the discovery by Mr. P. H. Ward, Jr., of three coils of five hundred each of the Rotary printed 2c stamps, watermarked, in imperforate coils. These were issued sometime in 1914, and 21,000 stamps were thus prepared to the order of the postmaster at New York, in fourteen coils of 1,000 each and fourteen coils of 500 each. Mr. Ward traced these stamps, and it appears that all were used in the regular course of business, with the exception of three coils amounting to 1,500 stamps, which Mr. Ward purchased from the postmaster at Washington, D. C. Some of the coils were distributed to Baltimore, Md., and to Sanford, Me. It is certainly odd that no imperforate Rotary printed stamps have been noted during the past three years, used on ordinary mail matter. Collectors will probably be on a hunt for them now. No imperforated stamps from the Rotary press have been made before this printing of imperforate coils on unwatermarked paper and none have since been made. If any more imperforate Rotary coils are made, they would be on unwatermarked paper.

Mr. John F. Sensow calls attention to the fact that the current Wines stamps are on "split" paper. This split paper is different than double paper and it occurs in the 1879 issue of U. S. postage stamps. In "double paper" the two layers of paper float apart when soaked in water, while in the "split paper" it is necessary to rub one layer off. A great many papers can be split and done so in such a way that they appear to be double papers, but they are not the double paper known to philately in connection with the 1873 issue of U. S. stamps. In the present instance, Mr. Sensow endeavored to remove one of the large Wines stamps from a barrel, but it was pasted so tight with a strong "stickum" that layers of paper came from the stamp, that is, the glue was stronger than the paper. We call this "split" paper, but we would be pleased to have any further information about it.

Mr. J. Arthur Wainwright writes as follows: "In looking over a bunch of common U. S., I came across a strip of three 2c 1890, the left hand stamp and the middle stamp having the left '2' capped, while the right hand stamp has both '2' capped. I have a strip of five with both '2' capped and a pair with left '2' capped, but this is the first I have heard of the two cap varieties being on the same plate."

(1380).—Mr. T. J. Eppes and Mr. Adam Gruenig show us copies of the Officially Sealed in black on white paper. The new Seals were chronicled and noted in our issues of June 2nd and 9th. We understand that the Seals are issued in booklet form in sheets of ten, 5x2, the same as the pink paper Seals were issued. Under these conditions, it will be a rather difficult matter to secure one of the black on white Seals with perforations all round! We believe, however, that some of the pink paper Seals, earlier printings, were in larger sheets, and it would therefore be possible to secure a copy perforated all round.

Mr. J. Murray Bartels shows us the 2c envelope on "extra quality" paper. It has the watermark "U S 1915" with "1915" at top. New style type is used for the return card, but is disappointing in appearance.

(1400).—Mr. Eugene Tilleux, Jr., advises us of the use of 2nd Liberty Loan cancellations in Philadelphia and St. Louis; of the same design as used in Chicago and Washington.

The same correspondent advises us of the use of a "National Memorial Reunion Oct. 16-17-18 & 19 1917" cancellation at Vicksburg, Miss.

Latest U. S. Information:—Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr., informs us that the unwatermarked 3c stamps were issued imperforate on October 13th, and that he has seen a sample of the new 3c envelope; it being in dark violet. The 2c, 1908, imperf. were returned by the N. Y. postoffice to be perforated; they were all perf. 11, and returned to N. Y. Statement of quantity will be given as soon as possible.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—(1375).—Mr. Hermann Focke shows us the 1c, with overprinted date "1917." It is in a much lighter green than the 1916 issue; the latter we have noted in two shades, pale green and light blue-green; the new 1917 being pale yellow-green. The overprint is in a lighter red than the 1916. The paper is white coated-surface wove, while the perforation is the same, 11½. The 1917 series now consists of two values.

GUATEMALA.—(1399).—Submitting a block of thirty-five unused "Dos Centavos" provisionals, chronicled in our issue for August 8th, Mr. A. W. Dunning writes in part as follows: "The argument that the 1c value is obsolete and therefore would not be used for surcharging purposely except fraudulently, and in used condition, is not well taken. Being obsolete, and a large stock of remainders doubtless on hand, would offer an inducement to use it. I have complete sheets of 100 of this stamp, received directly from a postmaster of a Guatemalan city. I enclose a block of these stamps in support of the theory that they were printed on unused stamps." We believe our remarks in the Chronicle of October 20th cover this.

With regard to the same matter, Mr. Edwin W. Fuss writes as follows: "I explained how sheets were not to be sold over the counter, but stamps to be —How about that issue of October 27?

—Stealthy Steve says Salvador "S" surcharges should soon sell swiftly.

—You will admit that we had a handsome front page last week. How could it be otherwise with such a fine picture of such a fine philatelist as J. W. Scott?

—A subscriber sends us a letter received from Brodstone and asks us to translate it. Suggestion:—when you get one of Brody's letters, grapple with the text by jerks and you will come out O. K.

—If you must remit in stamps, send denominations from 3c to 30c. 3c, 6c and 12c are especially desired now that the 2c postage rate is obsolete.

—Wm. E. Dowser has sold his stamp business to Leon Barri, Jr., of the same city, El Paso, Tex. Mr. Barri takes space this week over his own name.

—When you renew your subscription, be sure and order some books. Our list is growing and the patronage of this branch of our business will tend to increase our efforts in this direction.

—The Jordan Stamp Co. of Kingston, N. Y., and Chas. Wilson of Hutchinson, Kans., have taken adlet space under contract. 20c per line is a low rate, considering what stamp dealers pay for space in the boys' publications. G. W. Longwell takes our three-in-one contract and several recent issues have seen his advertising.

—Advertising copy should reach Beverly on Friday. The early receipt of copy will help us materially in going to press, thus insuring the early mailing of the paper.

—We must insist that bills for advertising be paid promptly. They are payable on presentation and where not paid by the last Saturday in the month advertising will be at least temporarily discontinued.

—If you are writing a person asking for information, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. This is no more than ordinary courtesy where a personal reply is desired.

—See Linn's striking advertisement in this number. Anyone interested will find the proposition he offers a good one.

—If you want to subscribe to a fine English stamp paper, send us $1.60 for a year's sub. to "Stamp Collecting."

—We now have a fresh supply of subscription blanks on hand. They are neat in shape and attractively printed. Use them in your correspondence, inserting your name and address in the space that is provided. On the reverse side is a list of premiums we give with new subscriptions. In return for securing the subscription you may have 8c cash rebate or one of the premiums listed. Send for a supply today.

—If you want a bound volume of the WEEKLY for any recent year let us know at once, as we are having several recent years bound up. The price per volume is $2.00, which is very reasonable, considering the present high cost of materials and labor. The books will have cloth backs and corner pieces.

—Are you a member of a stamp club? If so, send for a copy of our leaflet, "The Charm of Stamp Collecting." It is a splendid leaflet for publicity purposes and may be secured at cost price. On the second page we will print facts concerning your club, list of officers, nights of meeting, etc., etc. Follow this up and write us.

attached by clerks, etc. When Scott's Circular came out and Knocked the stamps, I wrote to Mr. Luff that the 2c value was authorized, as it was needed for postage on printed matter of 15gr. or less and for city delivery. This is the rate given on 'Nueva Tarifa Postal' sheet issued by the Guatemalan P. O. Dept.—(Two 2c stamps must be used for postal cards for city delivery and as no 4c stamp is available, persons who do not purchase the printed card, naturally have to use two 2c stamps.) My correspondent did not send any inverts or cancelled to order stuff, but sent me only two sheets of the 'Dos' unused, one for collection and one to be broken up and distributed. He had to tip the clerk, I imagine, to get them. I wanted twenty-five sheets, but only secured the two, so they are holding good their orders not to sell sheets."

With regard to the 1916 "Seis" surcharge on the 1c green and claret stamp, Mr. Fuss writes: "I received at the time they were issued, twenty-five sheets of 'Seis Centavos', Scott's No. 154, (see Addenda), and one was partly double; that is, the first surcharge showed plainly at top, but grew weaker till it was indistinct at bottom. The second or top surcharge just a trifle to the right of the first is clear from top to bottom. Not a deliberate error, I am sure. Those deliberate errors, I am sure, are made outside the postoffice."

We had conversation with Mr. John N. Luff, the Scott expert, and he told us that he had heard from Mr. Fuss, and now intended to formally catalogue the "Dos Centavos" on 1c, but that the firm had received a very large quantity of these stamps used and that almost half of them were with inverted surcharge on many shades of the stamps (therefore, many printings), and that he would not list this for the time being. The firm did not purchase the inverts, but returned them with the entire lot.

NORTH BORNEO.—(1380)—Mr. Edwin W. Fuss shows us two covers from Sandakan, Borneo, franked with copies of the provisional stamps chronicled as long ago as February 24th, but which have come in for much discussion since, notably in our issues of March 31st, May 5th and June 9th. Mr. Fuss writes: "Notice the cover '6 JUL 16' mailed about the time the provisionals were issued (or soon afterward) and the other one used just lately. Fortunately my correspondent put aside some and is using them on mail to me without knowing their real value, although he gave me a record of the quantities issued, already mentioned in the Chronicle."

Mr. Fuss exhibits to us the 2c on 3c with inverted "S" in "CENTS" and states that he also has the 4c on 6c with this variation. Our personal records do not extend back beyond the first of the year, so all we can do is record the varieties here, stating that we have seen the inverted "S" as mentioned above. The normal varieties are listed in Scott's Catalogue.

1916 Provisionals.

2c on 3c lake and black.
a. inverted S in CENTS.
4c on 6c olive and black.
a. inverted S in CENTS.
10c on 12c blue and black.

Mr. Fuss also informs us that the issues overprinted "British Protectorate" as well as those of 1893, 1895, etc., are still available for postage.

SALVADOR.—(1399)—The discussion regarding the "S" stamps waxes wroth. We are swamped with pros and cons one way or another We haven't space to give up to the subject. If any one has absolute proof that the "S" labels are postage stamps and not an issue provided for speculative purposes, we will gladly give space to the clearing of the Salvadoran sky. It is curious to see them put out a very fine issue for legitimate purposes and yet provide unnecessary provisionals which are immediately withdrawn from use and sold in bulk to some one who in turn sells them to a stamp dealer. Mr. A. W. Dunning takes exception to Mr. Klein's statement to us that the "S" means "Sin valor" (without value). He says that the "S" could mean "Sin moth-balls" as well. Mr. Dunning very graciously submits the following story: "The explanation I had from a resident of San Salvador was that the P. M. G. had the stamps so surcharged stating that the 'S' stood for 'Salvador.' He intended to have a few actually used and the usual number was sent to U. P. U. headquarters at Berne. The balance were to be withdrawn and sold as a speculation for the P. M G.'s benefit. However, someone outside the P. M. G.'s 'inner circle' caused the report to become current that the P. M. G. (whose name has S' for its initial letter) was advertising himself at the expense of his country—a la Connell of New Brunswick. This report spoiled the P. M. G.'s plans and the entire lot of 'S' stamps were withdrawn from circulation and sold en bloc to a local purchaser. My correspondent is a merchant in San Salvador and has nothing to gain by this tale. In fact he was unable to obtain the 'S' stamps for me at the time of their issue, as he is not a member of the 'inner circle'."

sity of placing an "S" to mean "Salvador" on stamps which already have "Salvador" as part of their designs. We also heard the tale about the P. M. G., but the same thing is said about the President of Salvador, whose name begins with an S. It is also plainly to be seen that Mr. Dunning's correspondent was unable to purchase the "S" stamps in San Salvador at the time they were supposed to have been in use. We also hear that some of the 1915 issue of the same type but with "1915" overprinted on them are about with the letter "S" on them. What is, however, a sure bet is the fact that the Salvadoran Post Office Dept. must have had a big stock of stamps, both postage and official, of Scott's type A66, unoverprinted, in the 1915 colors, both perforated and unperforated, with which it could arrange to place any old overprint or surcharge it wanted to on them. The horizon is kind o' hazy, and what is needed is a good strong wind to clear the atmosphere which enshrouds these so-called stamps. If they are good and legitimate postage and official stamps we want the owners of them to reap their proper profit, but if they are fake stamps, speculative in other words, the sooner the philatelic public refuses to buy this kind of trash the sooner governments will discontinue preparing them for such purposes as sale to collectors. Salvador is not the only country.

Later.—The following letter, received just in time for this edition, establishes the standing of the "S" and "Corriente" stamps, all information to the contrary, and we are pleased to say that collectors can include these stamps in their collections and feel that they have genuine, legitimately issued postage stamps.

Post Office Department,
Office of the Chief Clerk,
WASHINGTON, October 25, 1917.

MR. PERCY MCG. MANN,
Philadelphia, Pa.

Sir:—In answer to your letter of October 22, which the Postmaster General has referred to me, you are informed that this Department has received from the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union certain stamps of Salvador overprinted respectively with "S" and the word "Corriente."

Very truly yours,
(Signed) RUSKIN MCARDLE,
Chief Clerk.

SWITZERLAND.—Mr. A. C. Roessler very kindly shows us the set of four postal cards issued for the 1917 "National Festival." Each year Switzerland commemorates its National Day, August 1st, with an issue of a postal card or a set of postal cards. These are generally of most beautiful designs, reproduced from paintings made for the purpose by eminent artists and art students who compete for the honor of having their paintings selected for these commemorative postal cards. The four cards this year are—or rather were—sold for the benefit of the Swiss Red Cross. The obverse of all four are alike, containing the 5c stamp, Tell boy design, in the upper right corner and a vignette of "Henri Dunant" in the upper left corner. Inscriptions on the obverse are in three languages, Italian, French and German, and read "CARD OF THE NATIONAL FESTIVAL—August 1st—For the Swiss Red Cross." One of the paintings shows the mother (Helvetia) sheltering her children who cling to her under her cloak. It is a beautiful subject, well executed and noble; painted by Eug. Burnand.

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO.—(1396)—The Rev. L. Meister writes as follows: "I notice a strange error of the 1d, Roman type war stamp, (3rd local issue). The last row of a whole sheet shows a very plain negative of the surcharge on the back of the stamp; it seems as if the print went right through the stamp. All other rows are perfectly white. There is no doubt that this misprint happened by some strange handling of the machine."

WELL BEGUN.

Philately already is flourishing in many parts of our broad land as never before at this time of year, and glowing reports come in from different points. The rise of Indianapolis as a philatelic center has been striking, and the renaissance of Cincinnati as a philatelic capital is gratifying. In Chicago, the good old local society is meeting temporarily in the office of Mr. Severn's workshop, but these cramped quarters will soon be left as a suitable meeting-place is about to be leased. Milwaukee's society is active and has started an interesting season. A recent visit to Indianapolis proved that the two societies there were off with flying colors. The meeting of the Lincoln-Harrison Stamp Club that we attended was an enthusiastic one, and a feature was the display of two seemingly unique metal-enclosed beer stamps, the property of Mr. C. W. Kissinger. The meetings of this organization are held in the commodious quarters of Mr. E. T. Wallis' stamp store, which is located in the heart of the city. The officers of the club are Dr. R. J. Kemper, President; B. F. Noble, Vice-President; B. F. Egan, Secretary-Treasurer, and George E. Fiscus, Sales and Auction Manager. It was a great pleasure to meet so many of Indianapolis' prominent collectors. The Cincinnati Philatelic Society is preparing for the philatelic event of the season on November 19, 1917, when collectors who have been invited from other cities will foregather under happy circumstances for a day of real stamp enjoyment. Plans are matured that we predict will make the occasion akin to a philatelic convention. The official bulletin of the Cincinnati society is a newsy and snappy little chronicle of interest to members in particular.

October 16, 1917.

The 390th (regular) meeting was called to order at 7.40 this evening by Pres. Brown. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were read and accepted. Mr. George R. Kimball was elected to non-resident membership and Richard J. Harrison to junior membership. It was voted to purchase at least one "Liberty Bond." The competition for Mr. Sawyer's medals was not a success. There were not enough entries to warrant the awarding of the prizes and it was decided to postpone the "War Stamp" competition to the November meeting so that there will be two competitive features on that evening, Scandinavia and "War Stamps." If you haven't but one of the Scandinavian countries, bring that one to the meeting, in order that the prizes may be awarded, and also out of courtesy to the member donating the medals. There were thirty-one members present and Mr. Clark W. Tuttle entertained them with an original paper on United States Cancellations which was well appreciated by those in attendance.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Series of 1898, Surcharged Stamps.

The 1c green postage stamp was first surcharged I. R. in block capitals 6½ mm. high and 314,980 were issued, all in June, 1898. After the overprinting had been going on for two days and one night the surcharge was changed to Roman capitals 9 mm. high. Both surcharges are in red and the latter one occurs inverted. The 2c carmine postage stamp was surcharged only with 9 mm. Roman type and occurs both normal and inverted. The surcharge is dark blue.

On both the 1c and the 2c with the larger surcharge a small period after the "I" occurs four times on each pane of 100 stamps. It is always the 41st, 46th, 91st and 96th stamp on the pane—that is, the first stamp in the bottom row of each quarter pane. It is thought that this is a secret or control mark placed there intentionally.

The Boston Book states that 63,300,000 of the 1c and 62,000,000 of the 2c, all with the 9 mm. surcharge, were issued, all in June, 1898. The Bureau reports differ somewhat from these figures, giving the total of 1c stamps with both surcharges delivered up to June 30, 1898, as 42,000,000 and 20,800,000 after June 30, 1898, or 62,800,000 of the 1c in all. Their record of the surcharged 2c stamps delivered is 38,000,000 up to June 30, 1898, and 23,600,000 thereafter, which totals 61,600,000. Obviously the Internal Revenue office did not deliver more surcharged stamps than were printed and delivered to them by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing.

The $5 Periodical stamp was overprinted in red and may read either upward or downward. It is on watermarked paper and always from plate No. 137. The Bureau surcharged 17,750 and delivered all of them before July 1, 1898. They were issued to the various stamp offices during June and July only.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

Series of 1898, Documentary.

1c light blue.	10c brown.
2c carmine.	25c purple brown.
3c dark blue.	50c slate.
4c pale rose.

In October, 1898, two other denominations of the same design were added, chiefly no doubt, for use on life insurance policies:—

40c lavender.

On account of its similarity to the orange ⅜c Proprietary the color of the ½c stamp was soon changed to a pure gray, lighter than the 50c stamp, which often shows a tinge of violet. The ½c orange is sometimes called an error of color but the writer is unable to discover any basis for this assertion.

The values from $1 to $50 are vertical rectangles measuring approximately 25x35 mm., the same size and shape as the dollar values of the periodical set then current, and the design is a close copy of the $50 Periodical stamp. The draped female figure holding a ship in her right hand typifies Commerce. At each side is found the word "DOCUMENTARY" in place of "NEWSPAPERS" or "PERIODICALS", and in each upper corner is a numeral of value preceded by a dollar sign. Between the latter, following the arched top of the central panel in two lines we read, "U. S. INTERNAL—REVENUE." The word "DOLLAR" or "DOLLARS" is at the bottom of the stamps and just above it is the denomination word. The legend "Series of 1898" is omitted. The original colors were as follows:

H. F. COLMAN,
SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

$1 green.
$3 dark brown.
$5 orange red.
$10 black.
$50 light brown.

In February, 1899, a $30 value in carmine was added to the set.

Just before the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, a further addition of three high value stamps was made to the documentary set. These have the frames in color and the portraits in black.

$100 yellow-brown and blk. (Marshall).
$500 carmine and black, (Hamilton).
$1,000 green and black, (Madison).

They are upright rectangles somewhat larger than the lower dollar values and measure about 28x41 mm. In design they differ from each other and from all previously issued U. S. revenues. The Marshall portrait on the $100 stamp and the Madison portrait on the $1,000 stamp are very similar to, or identical with, the portraits on the $2 and $5 postage stamps of 1895. The Hamilton portrait is a profile facing right and does not at all resemble the profile bust on the 30c postage stamps of 1870-88. At the base of each portrait in tiny white capital letters is the subject's name.

The oval portrait medallions measure only 13½x16½ mm. and the portraits are rather small for such large stamps. On the $100 the medallion is placed too high, on the $500 it isn't high enough and of the three the $1,000 is probably the most pleasing and effective. On this denomination the portrait appears larger and is more nearly in the center of the stamp. On each of the stamps the words "United States Internal Revenue" are spelled out in full. The word "DOCUMENTARY" and the legend "Series of 1898" are also there.

On the $100 stamp the numerals of value are found at each side near the center; on the $500 and $1,000 they are in the upper corners. The $100 has one small "C" just below the medallion, the $500 has a small "D" beneath the medallion and a large "D" at each end of the control panel, while the $1,000 has one small "M" at the top just over the panel for the control number. On the $100 and $500 the control number panels are in the lower part of the stamps. The control number is red on the $100 and $1,000 and blue on the $500.

This is the first time control numbers were placed on U. S. revenue stamps. In 1871-72 a record of the sales of the $500 stamp was kept, with names and addresses of the purchasers, and the $5,000 essay contained a panel on which to place the control number, but that is as near as the idea of placing control numbers on the stamps came to actual use before 1899.

These three high values were not issued in sheets, but came imperforate in small books, each page consisting of a vertical strip of four stamps with a ruled stub at the left of each stamp. The stub bore the same serial control number as was overprinted on the panel prepared for this purpose on the stamp to which it was attached, and as each stamp was cut from the book the record of its sale was made on its stub. These stamps therefore can be collected as singles or as vertical pairs, or vertical strips of three or four, but are not obtainable and never have been obtainable in blocks or horizontal pairs or strips. It is stated that each book contained four $1,000 stamps, (one page), eight $500 stamps, (two pages), and forty $100 stamps, (ten pages), making thirteen pages of 52 stamps, face value $12,000 in all.

NEW PARCEL POST CONVENTION BETWEEN THE U. S. AND SALVADOR.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18, 1917.

Under the new convention, the weight limit has been raised from 11 to 20 pounds; the sender of a registered parcel is entitled, in case of loss, damage or rifling thereof, to an indemnity equal to the amount of the actual loss incurred, but not exceeding the equivalent of 50 francs; and the graduated charges of 5 cents for the first pound and 1 cent per additional weight of 4 ounces collectible from the addressee, has been eliminated. The charges now to be collected will be the usual delivery fee of 5 cents per parcel, whatever its weight.

PARCEL POST WAR STAMP TAX.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27, 1917.

Upon every parcel or package transported from one point in the United States to another by parcel post on which the postage amounts to 25 cents or more, there shall be paid a tax of one cent for each 25 cents or fractional part thereof charged for such transportation, to be paid by the consignor. No such parcel or package shall be transported until a stamp or stamps representing the tax due shall have been affixed thereto.

The tax on fourth-class matter referred to in the preceding paragraph is not applicable to parcels on which the postage amounts to less than 25 cents. On a parcel subject to 25 cents postage the tax is one cent; on parcels on which the postage amounts to from 26 to 50 cents the tax is two cents each, and so on. Parcels shall not be accepted for mailing unless both the required postage and tax are fully prepaid. Special internal revenue stamps shall be used to pay the tax; postage stamps are not valid for this purpose.

A. S. BURLESON,
Postmaster General.

Postmasters are instructed to bring to the attention of their patrons the provisions of the War Revenue Act imposing a tax of one cent for each postage charge of 25 cents or fractional part of 25 cents on packages of fourth-class or parcel-post matter on which the postage amounts to not less than 25 cents each. The War Revenue Act makes no change in the postage rates applicable to such matter.

The internal revenue stamps affixed to parcels in payment of the tax must be canceled by the sender placing, or causing to be placed, thereon his written or stamped initials together with the date upon which the stamps are attached or used. In no case, however, should the sender cancel postage stamps affixed to parcels; such stamps must be canceled only by postal employees.

Care must be exercised to see that the

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

BELGIAN CANCELLATIONS.

On a narrow strip of lowland near Nieuport stands Albert, King of Belgium, and his faithful army, fighting at the last ditch for their native land. Two years and more they have held their line impenetrable.

Eighteen and one-half centuries ago Julius Caesar, bent on the conquest of Gaul (now France and Belgium) wrote of the tribes he met that "the fiercest of these are the Belgae," and well have they maintained the reputation he gave them, though previous to the war the modern world had not looked on the Belgian nation as a war-like one. As a matter of fact, Belgium saved Europe, although she could not save herself.

The stamp-issuing period of Belgium involves but two reigns, the long one of Leopold II and the present one of Albert. From the beginning of it, the methodical system was employed of giving each post-office a permanent number and embodying this number in the cancellation. The usual design during the early issues was a circle composed of close bars, in the center of which, in an otherwise blank oblong appeared the number. This cancellation just about covered the whole stamp, and more often than not, was well centered upon it.

A collection of these numbers forms a specialty of decided interest, particularly now, since the German invasion leaves in doubt how many of the post-offices may ever be reopened, for many of the towns were utterly wiped out in the fierce fighting and ruthlessness of the advance and many more may be doomed to revengeful destruction when the tide turns and the Germans are forced back and out of the country.

To collect these numbers of the first issue is now utterly out of the question. The most feasible method is to collect them on the issues of the second type, which can still be bought for two or three cents apiece, wholesale. We know of but one collection of this character (the writer's), even the famous Leavy collection, which was sold at auction last year, apparently having neglected this, if we may judge by the catalogue, though many stamps were detailed specifically as bearing this or that scarce cancellation number.

From long experience in hunting for certain numbers, we infer that an absolutely complete collection at this late date may be a matter of extreme difficulty, if not an impossibility, but a good showing may be made, and it is easily within anyone's bounds, in a field so little covered, to pick up rare specimens.

The list of the post-offices and their numbers in the first official list is given below. It will be noted that they were arranged alphabetically.

In this list are found most of the names that the last three years have written black on Belgium history, Liege, Namur, Ypres and many others. Cities famous for their art, their textile industries and their beautiful cathedrals. Cities famous for the reason that in them was signed the treaty of peace of great wars of the past. When the treaty of peace for the present war is signed, if it does not restore to Belgium the completest possible restitution, civilization will be seriously at fault.

Further post-offices were endowed with numbers until the list ran up to 424, which is the highest we have seen, though it is quite possible there are higher ones. The highest number we have found on the second issue type is 390. These cancellation numbers were continued through the 1866 issue but within a diamond of dots instead of a circle of bars, and some are occasionally seen on the 1869 issue, but they were apparently discontinued about 1870.—United Stamp Co. Herald.

EDITORIAL.

First—In our new issue chronicle in the number of October 27, 1917, we had the privilege of presenting a list of the new revenue stamp issues; and particulars were succinctly given by Deputy Commissioner G. E. Fletcher. Usually, information of this importance is made capital of in the editorial column and is given a somewhat wordy setting. We were pleased in having been enabled to give our readers this early notice of our impending issues and we are relieved to the extent of not having to dwell upon them here. It will not be long before the stamps will make their appearance and the indications are that we shall have perhaps all too long a time in which to get acquainted with them.

Unusual.—Among the war tax stamps that will come into use on December 1, 1917, are those on parcel post packages between points in the United States on which the postage amounts to twenty-five cents or more at the rate of one cent for each twenty-five cents or fractional part thereof charged, tax to be paid by the sender. These special stamps are to be in the following denominations: one, two, three and four cents. When we received notice of this tax for the first time, it was thought that the tax was to be rated by postage stamps. It will be seen from the prospectus of the law which we have received from Washington and which we publish elsewhere that the stamps are denominated as special internal revenue stamps. It is expressly decreed that postage stamps will not be accepted in payment of the tax and as it might be expected, the postage cannot be paid by the revenue stamps. A distinctive quality will be given these revenue stamps because they will be sold by postmasters to the public.

Savings—It is expected that about the first of the new year, an issue of two billion dollars' worth of savings stamps or certificates will be offered the public, the plan being to issue certificates that will cost $4.10 each or so, to mature January 1, 1923, when they will be equivalent to five dollars even, at the compound rate of four per cent. While the certificates are to be in the form of large stamps, in order to popularize the loan, twenty-five cent stamps will be prepared and a folder will be provided on which the first stamp will be pasted and after fifteen more likewise have been purchased and affixed, the folder, with a few cents for accrued interest, will be exchangeable for a certificate. The stamps will be transferable and non-interest bearing. The holder for the certificate will accommodate twenty certificates or one hundred dollars' worth. "This folder will contain the government contract and will resemble the appearance of a bond."

Looking—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who refuses to take any stamps for which there were no place in his printed album? Is this o. f. c. dwelling on the Moody and Sankey revivals with the old-fashioned dealer who swore by L. W. Durbin as the first dealer in the land?

Off—Some time ago, we received the following clipping from a reader who had ripped it from a story in a paper whose name we have forgotten: "Going to a neighboring post-office, he asked to see some postage stamps, and complained that he did not like their color. Suddenly pointing to one in the centre of the sheet, he said, 'I'll take that puce one.' It was a 2½ pence stamp for foreign transmission or parcel post, 'but no matter'." Of all the looney lads, this one's head is in the greatest whirl but we blame the writer more than him for revealing the "nobody home" sign. We should like to see a collector go to one of our post offices to see some postage stamps and then complain petulantly that he did not like the color. Then, if he added fuel to the flame by saying that he would "take that puce one!" Surely, it would have been a case of "no matter" for the collector of exquisite sensibilities.

Hazarded—"I'll wager," writes Ruth, "although I'm no wagering woman (though in a 'gainful occupation')"—she will have her near-joke—"that you will find the appendage, 'Return postage required' more popular in stamp ads than ever before now that the three cent rate is here." Prolonged applause.

Three—The public press certainly did its duty in informing the people of the increased cost of postage and seconded the efforts of the department to give the widest publicity to the change in royal style. Some of the editors became reminiscent in their remarks and essayed a plunge into stamp history and while we commend the course of these "feelers of the public pulse" we heaved a sigh to read that the date of 1885 was sometimes given as the year in which the postage rate was reduced to two cents. Is there some "compendium of useful facts" that mistakenly gives 1885 instead of 1883 as the date?

Again—A reader takes pen in hand to say: "Philatelic camouflage, is it? What's the matter with the repairman who can take half a stamp and make a whole one out of it. That's the real thing." Another reader pipes up: "My idea is the remarks, 'Rare,' 'Cheap,' 'Snap,' etc., written by the chap on his books in the sales or exchange department, with the idea of stampeding the buyers." Not unclever.

How—A reader of one of the big dailies writes in to his editor to say that he cannot understand how the government ever could accept the notion to raise the postage rate because (he says) there was an organization much in the public eye that had dedicated itself to the task of securing for the dear people the reduction to the one cent rate.

Express—One of the most interesting books that we have seen on a subject allied to philately is: "History of the Express Business, Including the Origin of the Railway System in America," by A. L. Stimson; and published by Baker and Goodwin, New York, 1881. There was one or more editions previous to this one and possibly a subsequent one. Many of the express carrying companies that did a mail business are mentioned in the work and the collector who is seriously interested in the local stamps and franked envelopes will find the volume, one valuable as a work of reference as well as worth while as a narrative.

Original—Here is a whimsy from B. L. T.'s column in the Chicago Tribune on the subject of original gum:

"Sometimes when postage stamps I lick,
And find the critters will not stick,
I wonder what on earth's the reason
(Such criticism isn't treason).
Then I surmise this may be true—
Our Uncle Samuel's short on glue.

Dear Uncle Sam, suppose you try, sir,
To nab his nibs, the cussed Kaiser.
When caught, I think you really oughter
Drop him into boiling water.
I'd try him out, if I were you,
And utilize the cuss for glue."

OUR ROLL OF HONOR.

We shall make much this year of our roll of honor and give it all the space it needs. We have a right to do so in view of the fact that it means co-operation that we need to extend the influence of philately. Beginning October 1 a new year's work was opened and already many of our subscribers and patrons of our advertising columns have manifested an interest in increasing the circulation of the WEEKLY. Even as last year, the Edgewood Stamp Co. takes the lead in the good work, and has sent in since the first of October no fewer than 21 subscriptions. What the Edgewood Stamp Co. is doing any dealer could do who is using the general press. The following list does not include those who have sent in single subscriptions. Are there not many of our readers who are willing to assist us in our effort at circulation building and thus win a place on this roll of honor? The standing November 5 was as follows:—

Edgewood Stamp Co., Milford, Ct.,	21
F. H. Vallancey, "Stamp Collecting,"	10

By B. W. H. POOLE.

CORREOS-RL PLATA F.—This inscription appears on the stamps issued for the combined use of Cuba and Porto Rico from 1855 until 1866.

CORREOS URBANOS MEDELLIN.—The local stamps issued for use in Medellin, Colombia, were inscribed in this manner. Literally translated it means "Local Post Office, Medellin".

CORREOS YRAPA.—A control mark stamped upon some of the type-set labels issued for provisional use in Marino, Venezuela, in 1903.

CORREOS Y TELEGFOS.—(Posts and Telegraphs).—The last word is an abbreviation of "Telegrafos" and the inscription appears upon the stamps issued in Spain in 1882.

CORREOS Y TELEGS.—The 1879 stamps of Spain were inscribed in this manner, the last word being a shortened form of "Telegrafos".

CORREO URBANO DE BOGOTA.—(Local Post Office of Bogota).—This inscription appears on the stamps issued for use within the precincts of the city of Bogota, Colombia.

CORRESPONDENCIA OFICIAL.—(Official Correspondence.) This inscription appears upon all the official stamps of Mexico.

CORRESPONDENCIA URGENTE.—(Urgent Correspondence).—The Express Letter stamps of Spain are inscribed in this manner.

CORRIENTES.—A province of the Argentine Republic, lying between the Parana and Uruguay rivers, having an area of 32,580 square miles and a population of nearly 300,000. A special stamp, of very rough design, was issued here in 1856—two years before the appearance of the stamps for Argentine proper—and at a later date other stamps were printed from the same plate. The labels were not discontinued until about 1875.

COS.—A Turkish island off the coast of Asia Minor. It measures 23 by 5 miles and has an area of 110 square miles. Its population of 10,000, are mostly Greeks. Cos was famous of old for its wine, its amphoræ, and its fine "Coan garments". It is the birthplace of Ptolemy Philadelphus, the painter Apelles and the physician Hippocrates. In 1913, it was occupied by Italian troops and some of the then current stamps of Italy were surcharged "Cos" for use there.

COSTA, C. M. MIRANDA DA.—A Portuguese artist who designed the Postage due stamps issued in Portugal in 1898.

COSTANTINOPOLI.—The Italian form for "Constantinople" as overprinted on the Italian stamps issued for use in the Consular post-office maintained in that town.

COSTA RICA.—The most southerly state of Central America, extending right across the isthmus. It has an area of 23,000 square miles and a population of about 340,000. It is the most flourishing republic in this region. The government is administered by a president and a single Chamber of Deputies with one member for every 8,000 inhabitants. Costa Rica threw off the Spanish yoke in 1821 and joined the Iturbide Empire of Mexico. It was one of the states of the Central American Republic from 1824 to 1839, but in the latter year it declared itself an independent republic. The first stamps for Costa Rica were issued in 1862.

COTE D'IVOIRE.—The French form of Ivory Coast as shown upon the postage stamps issued for that colony.

COTE DES SOMALIS.—(Somali Coast).—This inscription appears upon all the stamps of Djibouti—the capital of French Somali Coast.

COTE FRANCAISE DES SOMALIS.—The French form for "French Somali Coast" as shown upon all the stamps issued for use in that colony.

COUNANI.—In 1893 an enterprising clique manufactured some labels purporting to be postage stamps for the "Republic of Counani", and at the same time rumours were circulated regarding other series alleged to have been issued between 1887 and that date. Apparently stamp collectors were somewhat skeptical regarding the bona-fides of these labels, for very few seem to have been sold. However, nothing daunted, the creators of this nonexistent republic tried to float another issue of stamps in 1900. This also was unsuccessful, and in 1904 an even more impudent attempt to foist Counani "stamps" on philatelists was made. Various dealers in London and elsewhere received an imposing looking circular dated "Counani, Oct. 1st, ised, and from the 1st. an., 1905, there 1904" which stated that the "postal service of this State has been reorganised, and from the 1st Jan., 1905, there will be a regular service between Counani and Europe, via French Guiana". A set of ten different labels was mooted, and dealers were invited to send their orders which were to be generously executed at 10% below face value. No one was so foolish as to speculate in the rubbish and since then nothing more has been heard of the mythical State of Counani. The Republic is said to be situated in South America, between Brazil and French Guiana, but as these territories join at the point indicated there does not appear to be much room for this so-called land of "liberté et justice!"

COUNTERFEIT.—A term more generally and correctly applied to spurious coinage and paper money, but now-a-days frequently used as an alternative term to "forgery" in connection with postage stamps.

COUSINS, ALFRED ERNEST.—An engraver of Wellington, New Zealand, who engraved the dies for the Queen Makea and "Torea" stamps of the Cook Islands and also for the 1886 and 1892 issues for Tonga. Mr. Cousins also engraved the dies for the ½d, 2½ and 5d stamps of New Zealand issued in 1882 and in 1892 he re-cut some of the De La Rue dies of the 1882 set and from these new plates were made.

COWAN.—This word, in old English outlined letters, appears as a watermark once in each sheet of the Fiji 5s stamps issued in May, 1882. This paper was manufactured by the firm of A. Cowan and Sons, Ltd., referred to below.

COWAN PAPER.—Paper manufactured by Messrs. Cowan and Sons, Ltd., of St. Paul's Wharf, London, upon which all the postage stamps of New Zealand have been printed since January, 1902. At first a thin, hard, unwatermarked paper was supplied, but this was only in use for a few months. It was replaced by paper of similar quality but watermarked with single-lined N. Z. and star.

C. P.—An overprint found upon certain South Australian stamps used during the period 1868-74 on the correspondence from the department of the Commissioner of Police. In 1874, these stamps were superseded by the series overprinted "O. S." for the use of all government departments.

II. The letters "C. P." for "Colis Postaux" are shown upon several of the provisional parcels post stamps of French Ivory Coast issued in 1904.

CPGNJA.—The local rendering of Serbia as shown upon all the stamps of that country issued since 1881.

C. POSTE.—This inscription, followed by the numerals of value, appears upon all the stamps of Sardinia and the first issue for the kingdom of Italy. The letter "C" stands for "centesimi", referring to the facial value of the stamps.

C. R.—The initials of "Cakobau Rex" as shown upon the 1871 stamps of Fiji. King Cakobau was deposed in 1874 when the Fiji Islands were ceded to Great Britain.

CRAWFORD, T.—The postmaster of Athens, Georgia, in 1861, who issued special 5c stamps for local use until the arrival of the general issue for the Confederate States.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—(1400)—We will probably have some Revenue stamps to chronicle next week. They are probably on sale as we write this, but details will keep until next week.

(1401)—Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr., informs us that the New York Postoffice returned 1467 sheets of 400 each of the imperforate stamps to be perforated by the Bureau, and that these were returned to the same postoffice and placed on sale on October 9th. What portion, if not all, were the 1908 stamps, it is difficult to state, as no records of what issues were returned to be perforated were kept. It is presumed, however, that all were of the 1908 type and watermark. If of the 1912 type and watermark, Scott's No. 388 would be produced again.

(1401)—Mr. Benjamin Cadbury shows us "Buy Now" 2nd Liberty Loan cancellations used at Baltimore, Md., Cincinnati, O., Cleveland, O., Pittsburgh, Pa., Richmond, Va., and San Francisco, Cal. Mr. Eugene Tilleux, Jr., advises of the same used in Dallas and Fort Worth, Texas.

(1395)—The J. M. Bartels Co. kindly furnishes us with the following list on new envelopes:

AZORES.—See Portugal Chronicle.

BOLIVIA.—(1363)—Our last mention of this country was in the issue for February 10th, when we stated that the currency of the country was to be changed from Centavos to Centimos. Evidently, this change has not yet taken place, as we are in receipt of a new stamp, or rather a stamp of redrawn design, and the value is in Centavos. Mr. V. W. Rotnem sends us a copy of the 5c blue, similar to Scott's type A51 but differing in many minor details, which was recently issued. An attempt has been made to improve the design, but the new stamp is not any more attractive than the old. The numeral shields are now without the vertical lines of color, and the numerals are taller and not so squat. "CINCO CENTAVOS" is now smaller. There is a diagonal line joining the frame lines in the upper left corner. The triangles in the upper corners are not so large and they are shaded with solid color instead of crossed lines. The mountain is more deeply ridged and there is a strengthening of the sky background, lending a semblance of a view of mountains beyond, as would be seen through a haze. The new stamp is also a deeper blue color, quite different than the old, which is ultramarine. The stamps are produced by lithography and the perforation is the same as the former issue.

Adhesive.
5c blue.

BOSNIA.—(1395)—The Nordisk Filatelistisk Tidskrift gives us the colors of the commemorative stamps issued on June 28th and chronicled by us on Sept. 22nd.

Charity Stamps.
10h violet-black.
40h blue.

CANAL ZONE.—(1382)—Stamp Collecting publishes the following: "Pursuing the question of the Postage Due stamps to which we referred in our issue for August 18th," (Reprinted from our notes on this matter published in the Chronicle of June 23rd) "Mr. Fred Gregory writes: 'So far as I can judge, these were not surcharged singly, as suggested by one of your correspondents, but must have been done in sheets, because I have noticed the surcharge as set up is much too long for the stamp and nearly every copy I have has portions of the ends of one or two adjacent surcharges showing. I think the copy I sent you will bear this out. It follows that if the surcharging was done on sheets the issue must have been an official one, and that is why I am surprised that it has escaped the catalogue'."

If the stamps mentioned by Mr. Gregory have no other cancellation, we are still of the opinion that the "Postage Due" is a cancellation, and if cancelled (surcharged or overprinted) in the sheet, then they are what we call in America "Precancelled." We are still waiting to hear from any of our Canal Zone correspondents or specialists in the stamps of this country regarding the 10c black and violet of 1906-08 with the imprint "Postage Due" on it.

CEYLON.—The Philatelic Magazine reports new shades of three values.

Adhesives.
6c vermilion.
10c pale sage-green.
50c jet black and carmine.

CHINA.—(1385)—We have an interesting letter from our Chinese correspondent, Mr. Wang Chin Chai, and among other items of news, he states, that the local postal card rate is 1½c instead of the former 1c. In our Chronicle of July 14th we published news from Mr. Wang Chin Chai to the effect that a new postal card of 1½c was to be issued on July 1st. This issue did not take place, not because of the restoration of the Monarchy, or its subsequent fall, but because the stock of 1c cards was so large that the authorities did not want to issue the new 1½c until the old stock was disposed of. So, says Mr. Wang Chin Chai, the public is using the 1c card with a ½c stamp affixed thereto.

Continuing the information contained in our correspondent's letter: The return of the Monarchy and the subsequent restoration of the Republic was not the occasion for any surcharges with the exception of the Express Letter stamps, which, at a few postoffices in Peking, were surcharged "Tai-Ching-ti-Kou" over the "Chung hua yii Tsung" this being done by special authority. Our correspondent states that only a few of these remained after the 12th of July, not more than ten, but these may have been burnt, although there was no order issued by the authorities to have these few stamps destroyed, so Mr. Wang Chin Chai is hunting through the different postoffices for them. A collector in Peking has a stub with the surcharge "Tai-Ching-ti-Kou." This same collector also has one of the Express Letter stubs surcharged "Hung Shien", produced during Yuan Shi Kai's brief Imperialistic reign.

New cancelling devices were used during the short interval of the Monarchy, July 2nd-July 12th. Letters posted in Peking, during that period, were marked with, for example, "9th Year, 5th Moon, — Day" instead of with the Republican form, "6th Year, July, — Day". Mr. Wang Chin Chai cites for example: A letter addressed to Tientsin, posted in Peking in the 9th year of the Monarchy would reach its destination in the 6th year of the Republic, and this would be shown by the cancellations.

(1390)—Submitting some postage due stamps, our correspondent calls attention to the difference in height. We explained the differences in height in the Chronicle of July 7th, the taller being the London printing and the shorter being the Peking printing. In the lot submitted, the only differences we can see, that have not been mentioned in the Chronicle, are two shades of the 2c Peking printing, a newer shade being a very dark slate-blue.

Advertising Chat

—Our book on Great Britain will be issued next week. The price will be 12c. If not already ordered let us hear from you, and at the same time with a selection from our book list.

—A new advertiser using a 3-in-1 contract is the Globe Stamp Co., Los Angeles, Cal. A number of inquiries have come in for information in regard to this contract and we shall be glad to take the matter up with you if you are at all interested.

—Would you like a bound volume of the WEEKLY for any year since 1901? If so, remit $2.00 and we can accommodate you. The volumes are all bound uniformly with cloth backs and corner pieces, and the price is reasonable considering the present high cost of materials and labor.

—F. H. Vallancey, the publisher of "Stamp Collecting", has ordered five hundred copies of the Ward book. This is a record book order and is a splendid tribute to this branch of our business. If you want a live stamp paper remit $1.60 for a year's subscription to Mr. Vallancey's paper. It can come to this office.

—We don't want advertising copy Monday morning. Will advertisers please bear this in mind? It must reach Beverly Saturday at the very latest and Friday is the better day. Get the habit of mailing your copy early. You can do it just as well as to be a tail-ender.

—Linn's big advertisement in this number is bound to be read. The range of offerings and prices will command consideration. It is probable that the Linn stock is the most comprehensive of its kind of any in the country.

—We now have a fresh supply of subscription blanks on hand. They are neat in shape and attractively printed. Use them in your correspondence, inserting your name and address in the space that is provided. On the reverse side is a list of premiums we give with new subscriptions. In return for securing the subscription you may have 8c cash rebate or one of the premiums listed. Send for a supply today.

—Advertising copy should reach Beverly on Friday. The early receipt of copy will help us materially in going to press, thus insuring the early mailing of the paper.

—We must insist that bills for advertising be paid promptly. They are payable on presentation and where not paid by the last Saturday in the month advertising will be at least temporarily discontinued.

—If you are writing a person asking for information, enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. This is no more than ordinary courtesy where a personal reply is desired.

—After doing a stamp business for thirty years on Nassau St., New York, W. F. Gregory has moved his business to 17 W. 42 St., where he will be glad to see his old friends as well as new ones. Mr. Gregory's announcements have always been a feature in our advertising columns and the present time is no exception.

—If you must remit in stamps, send denominations from 3c to 30c. 3c, 6c and 12c are especially desired now that the 2c postage rate is obsolete.

—When you renew your subscription, be sure and order some books. Our list is growing and the patronage of this branch of our business will tend to increase our efforts in this direction.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EGYPT.—Le Timbre Poste announces the appearance of the Egyptian stamps, picture designs, in new colors:

Adhesives.

1m light brown.
2m yellow-green.
4m vermilion.
5m claret.
10m bright blue.
50m pale violet.
100m slate.
200m marone.

FRENCH INDIA.—A provisional 15c stamp has been issued, overprinted on the 1c stamp. The surcharge was set up to cover ten stamps, and there are three types of the "5" in "15".

Provisional Adhesive.

0.15 on 1c gray.

GERMAN EMPIRE.—The 15pf has undergone a change of color, a reply postal card has been issued (presumably on unwatermarked card) and the 15pf postal card has appeared in the same color as the new stamp, according to the Nordisk Filatelistisk Tidskrift.

Adhesive.

15pf black-violet.

Postal Cards.

15pf black-violet on buff.
10+10pf red on buff.

From the same source we learn of the new issue of a Rural Post Envelope of 35pf, ultramarine on rose.

GILBERT & ELLICE ISLANDS.—Stamp Collecting states that the Registration Label now in use for these islands is inscribed "Ocean Island G. and E. I. C." the last letter signifying Colony.

GREECE.—(1393)—Baron A. de Reuterskiold writing to Stamp Collecting states that the complete list of the postage stamps surcharged "K. P." and new value are as follows: 1 on 1l, 1 on 3l, 5 on 1l, 5 on 20l, 5 on 40l, 5 on 50l, 5 on 1dr, 10 on 30l, 30 on 30l, all on issue of 1901; and 5 on 40l of 1913. He also states that there are two types of the surcharge: 1) "K. P." in thick letters, with 2 mm. space between the lower limbs of the letters; 2) thinner letters, with 3 mm. space between the lower limbs of letters. He writes: "I do not know if all varieties exist in both types; I have seen in Type I: 1 on 3l, 5 on 1l, 5 on 20l, 10 on 30l, 30 on 30l; and in Type II: 1 on 3l, 5 on 40l, 5 on 1dr, of 1901; and 5 on 40l, of 1913." The correspondent goes on to state that there are numerous errors. In Type I, he has 1 on 3l "lepto" ("u" missing); 5 on 20l without period after "K"; 30 on 30l without period after "P". In Type II: 1 on 3l, with two periods between "K. . P.", without period after "K" with very large period after "K", and with very large period after "P".

The correspondent of our contemporary states that two fiscal stamps were surcharged at Volo. These have the surcharge in two lines, in red, the "K. P." being sloping capitals. The values are 5l on 10l blue fiscal and 10l on 50l lilac fiscal In addition to these he had just received yet another surcharged fiscal, consisting of "K. P." in ornamental capitals, and "1 LEPTON 1" in small sans serif capitals, in black on the 10l blue fiscal. His letter was written under date of September 23rd.

We will not give a formal list of the above at this time, but will attempt the listing of all varieties in a future check list.

HAYTI.—Mr. Robert A. Wilson advises us of the issue of a provisional 2c (gold) stamp, made by surcharging the 1 piastre claret stamp of 1906 with a rectangular frame containing a large "2" in the center and the letters "O P" in the upper corners respectively. This stamp is for foreign postage, and we believe the "O P" stands for "Or" (gold) "Piastre". The surcharge is in red.

Provisional Adhesive.

2c de p on 1p claret.

HUNGARY.—(1389)—The Nordisk Filatelisk Tidskrift chronicles a new value in the reaper type, also new cards and an envelope, presumably in the same type.

Adhesive.

2f brown.

Postal Cards.

8f dark green on white.
8f dark green on buff.
8+8f dark green on buff.

Charity Postal Card.

5f grn. on buff, with dates "1914-1916" in red.

Letter Cards.

10f red on blue.
15f violet on greenish-gray.

Envelope.

15f violet on white.

INDIA.—(Bundi)—(1400)—Stamp Collecting states that the new 1r stamp is a deeper shade of lilac, while the 6a. is now deep ultramarine in place of the former indigo, and gives the colors of some of the new values added to the set. On Oct. 27th, we chronicled the 6d as being "light blue"—there is quite a difference between this color and "deep ultramarine." On the authority of our contemporary we list the colors of the new values mentioned in our previous chronicle:

Adhesives.

2½a maize-yellow.
10a dull olive-gray.

ITALY.—The Revista Filatelica d'Italia chronicles a new Postal Packet stamp in same type as other values.

Postal Packet Stamp.

20c black.

NAURU.—Stamp Collecting has chronicled the ½d and 2d with double overprint, one albino. The ½d was thus chronicled by it on April 21st and the 2d is in its edition of October 13th. The albino impressions are strong and show quite distinctly.

NEW SOUTH WALES.—Mr. Ernest Huettig advises us that he has a copy of the 1d, Scott's No. 85, the value reading "ONC PENNY" instead of "ONE".

NEW ZEALAND.—The Philatelic Magazine gives The Australian Philatelist as their authority for chronicling the 6d stamp with new perforation, 14 all round, in place of the former 14x13½ and 14x14½.

Adhesive.

6d carmine, perforated 14.

NIUE.—Stamp Collecting chronicles the 1d New Zealand stamp overprinted "NIUE" in deep brown.

PANAMA.—(1394)—The new telegraph stamps were placed in use about the 15th of September (?). According to Mr. Frank E. Greene, in Philatelic Gossip, they are as follows: 2c 1906-7 surcharged diagonally (up) in black, "TELEGRAFOS"; ½c 1916 light claret map surcharged horizontally in two lines, in dark blue, "TELEGRAFOS 5cts."; 10c 1906-7 surcharged diagonally (up) in black, "TELEGRAFOS"; 25c 1906-7 with figures blocked out with squares, surcharged in two lines of red, "TELEGRAFOS 20cts."; 25c 1906-7 surcharged diagonally (up) in black, "TELEGRAFOS"; 50c 1906-7 surcharged diagonally (up) in red, "TELEGRAFOS".

PHILIPPINES.—(1397)—The Philatelic Gazette chronicles the 2c, deep yellow-green, without watermark perforated 11 and states: "This was the first denomination of the Philippines printed on no watermark paper to go to the perforating machines and it was not perforated until August 11 and shipped on August 27. As the perforating machines had all been changed from 10 to 11 by May 1, there will be no Philippines stamps on no watermark paper perforated 10."

Adhesive.

2c deep yellow-green.

PORTUGAL.—(1384)—Further changes in the colors of Portuguese stamps are announced by Whitfield King & Co.'s

FOR SALE AT BOTH OFFICES.

Monthly List. Our contemporary states that there is a new value, also, 3c to presumably, "take the place of the 2½c." We believe that the changes are occasioned by an increased postal schedule, although we have no information regarding this, in which case the 3c would take the place of the 2c. From the same source we learn that these new stamps will be overprinted for Azores, and that the colonial stamps will also have the colors changed. This seems to confirm our supposition that the postal rates have been changed, to conform to the current value of the escudo.

SALVADOR.—(1401)—Continuing the discussion about the "S" stamps, we have the following as part of a letter from the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co.: "We had information from the Postmaster General direct, that these stamps were issued provisionally and used during a short time pending the arrival of a new set by the American Bank Note Co., of New York. We were informed that the capital 'S' stood for Salvador. Full sets of these stamps were sent to Berne, Switzerland, and these stamps were absolutely good for universal postage. At the time that these stamps were in use, all our mail from Salvador both ordinary and registered came prepaid with these 'S' stamps. If the Government of Salvador had intended to demonetize this issue thru the application of some surcharge, they surely would not have done so by the application of a single 'S' and further more the letter could not have stood for Sin-Valor because these are two different and distinct words, and they very likely would have had to surcharge them 'S V'. We can prove . . . black on white what these issues really are. . ."

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—(1386)—The Red Cross stamps which have been in use since May 1st, have since July 31st been limited for use on correspondence to Federated Malay States, Johore, Kedah, Trengganu, British North Borneo, Brunei, Sarawak and within the Colony. Previous to July 1st they had also been available for use on mail to the United Kingdom, Ceylon, Hongkong and French Indo China. This information is from the Phil. Jour. of Gr. Brit. whose correspondent cannot supply the reasons for the limitation in the use of the Red Cross stamps, unless there is a shortage of the two values from which they are made. The same correspondent states, in our contemporary: "You may be interested to know that in some of the earliest sheets of our Red Cross stamps there was at least one of each value without a period after the 'C' of cents, but the error was quickly remedied."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Samuel Bennett, Millville, N. J., assistant librarian of the S. P. A., would like to receive any philatelic literature that may be donated to the Association.

—Cards are out announcing the observance Nov. 19 of the 50th wedding anniversary of Gen. and Mrs. Charles A. Coolidge. The card bears the inscriptions "Tallahassee, Fla. 1867" and "Detroit, Mich. 1917". The many friends of Gen. Coolidge will extend heartiest greetings in connection with this anniversary, and earnestly wish him more years of happiness and prosperity.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Geo. W. Unger, H. Henry Meyer, H. R. Hendricks, Herman W. Boers and D. D. Berolzheimer.

—E. W. Theimer, 211 Park Court, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, would like to know the advantages of membership in the various philatelic societies. With the printing of this item we feel quite sure that Mr. Theimer will be deluged with facts and figures from publicity officials. Mr. Theimer mentions his possession of a Great Britain A54 ½d in blue instead of green. This is an old friend and one of the easiest changelings that can be made.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The illustrations are excellent. Many changes in prices are also given and blank pages for memoranda are introduced in connection with the two divisions of the list. Published by the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., 127 Madison Ave., N. Y. City.

STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

By BILL BLOSS.

Trans-Mississippi, Issue of 1898.

Early in 1897 it was announced that a series of commemorative stamps would be issued for the Trans-Mississippi Exposition, held at Omaha. This exposition was not of national importance, and the proposed series caused considerable protest from collectors, as being unnecessary.

However, the stamps soon made their appearance, and were not taken to kindly by the general public, as the designs did not appeal to all people. It was the original intention to issue this series in two colors, printing the borders in color and the center vignette in black. Plate proofs are not uncommon in the two colors. Also it was the original intention to use the Mississippi Bridge scene on the 2c stamp instead of the $2.00, and to use the harvest scene on that stamp. However, the work connected with the Spanish War made it impossible to issue a series in two colors, and the idea was abandoned.

All of the designs picture various scenes of life and history in the Mississippi Valley. The stamps are similar in size to the Columbian issue, and the center designs are very handsome, though the heavy ornamentations of the border detract from the general appearance somewhat.

The following designs and colors are used:

1c dark green, Marquette on the Mississippi, from painting by Lamprecht.

2c copper red, Farming in the West, from a photograph.

4c orange, Indian Hunting Buffalo, from an engraving.

5c dull blue, Fremont on the Rocky Mountains, from an engraving.

8c violet brown, Troops guarding Train, from a drawing by Frederic Remington.

10c gray violet, Hardships of Emigration, from a painting by A. G. Heaton.

50c sage green, Western Mining Prospector, from a drawing by Frederic Remington.

$1 black, Western Cattle in a Storm, from engraving after J. MacWhirter.

$2 orange brown, Mississippi River Bridge, from an engraving.

It was the original intention to issue the $1.00 stamp in brown and the $2.00 stamp in sapphire blue.

The eight cent stamp exists imperforate horizontally. Aside from this, there are no varieties of importance in this issue. The paper, perforation and gum are practically the same as on the regular watermarked stamps.

Regular Issue of 1898.

A suggestion was made by the Universal Postal Union to standardize the colors on the stamps of the members of the Union, so that all stamps of the denomination of 5 centimes or equivalent (1 cent) be printed in green, all stamps of 10 centimes or equivalent (2 cents) be printed in red, and all stamps of 25 centimes or equivalent (5 cents) be printed in blue.

It was therefore advisable to change these values in the United States set to correspond with this rule, so in January, 1898, the color of the 1c stamp was changed from blue to deep green, and the color of the 5c stamp to dark blue instead of chocolate.

A few months later, to avoid the confusion of the similarity of colors, the 4c stamp was changed from dark brown to rose brown, the 6c from dull brown to lake, the 10c from green to orange brown, and the 15c from dark blue to olive green.

The colors of the new stamps offer an unusually large range of shades, some of which are scarce. Notably prominent in this series is the 2c in rose carmine, which is an exceptionally hard stamp to find.

Two die varieties of the ten cent stamp exist in this issue, they were discovered only in 1915.

Type 1: The tips of the foliate ornaments surrounding the numerals "10" at each lower corner do not encroach on the white curved line below the label bearing the inscription "ten cents."

Type 2: The tips of the foliate ornaments break the curved line below the "e" of "ten" and the "t" of "cents".

Both of these varieties are found in nearly equal ratio.

The New U. S. Album is complete at last. Sectional leaves all movable. Fine paper, good printing—the best Album going. Sample pages free with full descriptions. New pages for new issues from time to time.

Warning
My 1918 price-list will show many increases in prices. This is due first to the slight (?) increase in the cost of everything from postage to movie tickets and secondly to the great demand for the class of goods I sell and the very inadequate supply available. Plenty of "trash" is available but copies undamaged in every respect—and this is the only kind I serve from my price-list—are scarce and getting more so every day.
My 1917 price-list will be cancelled on Dec. 15th. Get your orders to my office before that day or you'll have to buy at the new prices. My 1918 list will come with the New Year, as usual.

H. F. COLMAN,
SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Pan-American Series of 1901.

The promoters of the Pan-American Exposition, held at Buffalo in 1901, asked the administration to issue a special series of postage stamps as was done at the Chicago and Omaha Expositions. In December, 1899, it was finally announced that a series would be issued. It was decided, however, to omit the high values of the set, and include only the 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c, 8c and 10c.

This series is without doubt one of the handsomest ever issued by the Bureau. The center vignettes are printed black, while the borders are printed in the colors corresponding to the ordinary varieties.

The stamps were placed on sale May 1, 1901, and bear the following designs. The colors given are for the frame only, the center being in black:

1c green, Fast Lake Navigation, from a painting of the "City of Altoona."

2c carmine, Fast Express, from an illustration of the Empire State Express.

4c chocolate, Automobile, from a photograph.

5c ultramarine, Steel arch bridge over Niagara Falls at Buffalo from an illustration.

8c brown violet, Canal Locks at Sault Ste. Marie, from a photograph.

10c yellow brown, Fast Ocean Navigation, from a painting.

The paper, perforation and gum are practically the same as on the ordinary stamps of that period.

This issue includes two of the rarest stamps of the United States, the 1c and 2c with inverted frames. These values were printed in this condition by accident, and were placed in circulation. The 2c value is by far the rarest, as only a very few copies were discovered. One sheet of four hundred of the 4c value was printed with inverted center, but this appears to have been done by favor, and was not regularly issued. Part of the sheet was imprinted "specimen" but all of the inverts of this value may be considered as coming from this sheet, whether so imprinted or not.

Numerous shades may be found of these stamps, and a collection of unused blocks of four presents one of the handsomest pages in the United States collection. Used blocks are not commonn, and even used singles of the odd values are seldom met with in fine condition, owing to the limited period of issue—from May 1, 1901, to October 31st, 1901.

OUR PHILATELIC BIT.

By H. H. Reeves.

The slogan now for one and all
Is, "Do your little bit,"
Which is the proper attitude
You surely will admit;
So while we do our little share
To help and win the fight,
Let us try and aid someone
To see philately's light.

If you've a bit of "stampy" news,
Just pass the word around,
The philatelic seed you sow
May fall on fertile ground;
A word may be enough, and then
Mayhap your book of franks
Might cause those who gaze therein
To join philately's ranks.

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON AND STAMP COLLECTING.

By T. Martin Wears.

The following appears in The Stamp Collector by W. J. Hardy and E. D. Bacon ("Collector" series, Redway, London, 1898) at pp. 75-76:—

"The late Mr. R. L. Stevenson has allowed Philately to figure in 'The Wreckers' (sic). Like all popular novelists, this gentleman possessed a somewhat superficial acquaintance with details, and refers to Russian stamps unlike any which it has been a collector's good fortune to meet. But what of that? Stevenson wrote, no doubt, from vague recollections of boyhood; and the fact that he introduces the subject at all is that which is really important."

I must confess I am no reader of novels, although as a patriotic Scot I have managed, in the course of a fairly busy career, to read the two dozen odd novels of Sir Walter Scott. Personally, I have no objection to the novel, but my plea is that it takes up a deal of time to get through them which, in my opinion, might be more profitably employed otherwise.

Well, I started to read Stevenson's nautical novel, "The Wreckers" (Cassell 1892) with the chief purpose of verifying the above quotation. I read on and on until I began to think that the authors had made a mistake in their reference. At page 298 my eye, all along on the alert for things philatelic, caught the word "postage stamp," and I read there: "He was one of those who might commit a murder rather than confess the theft of a postage stamp." After reading another score of pages, I at last came to what I was in search of. I now quote to the end of Chapter XX.

Extract from "The Wreckers," by Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Osbourne. (Cassell & Company, Ltd., London, Paris, and Melbourne, 1892). Page 320-3 to end of Chapter XX.

"Dinner was scarce done, the cloth was not yet removed, when Miss Agnes must needs climb into my lap with her stamp album, a relic of the generosity of Uncle William. There are few things I despise more than old stamps, unless perhaps it be crests; for cattle (from the Carthew Chillinghams down to the old gate-keeper's milk cow in the lane) contempt is far from being my first sentiment. But it seemed I was doomed to pass that day in viewing curiosities, and smothering a yarn, I devoted myself once more to tread the well-known round. I fancy Uncle William must have begun the collection himself and tired of it, for the book (to my surprise) was quite respectably filled. There were the varying shades of the English penny, Russians with the coloured heart, old undecipherable Thurn-and-Taxis, obsolete triangular Cape of Good Hopes, Swan Rivers with the Swan, and Guianas with the sailing ship. Upon all these I looked with the eye of a fish and the spirit of a sheep; I think indeed I was at times asleep; and it was probably in one of these moments that I capsized the album and there fell from the end of it, upon the floor, a considerable number of what I believe to be called "exchanges."

Here, against all probability, my chance had come to me; for as I gallantly picked them up, I was struck with the disproportionate amount of five-sous French stamps. Someone, I reasoned, must write very regularly from France to the neighborhood of Stallbridge-le-Carthew. Could it be Norris? On one stamp I made out an initial C; upon a second I got as far as C H; beyond which point, the postmark used was in every instance undecipherable. C H, when you consider that about a quarter of the towns in France begin with "chateau," was an insufficient clue; and I promptly annexed the plainest of the collection, in order to consult the Post office.

The wretched infant took me in the act.

"Naughty man, to 'teal my 'tamp!" she cried; and when I would have brazened it off with a denial, recovered and displayed the stolen article.

My position was now highly false; and I believe it was in mere pity that Mrs. Higgs came to my rescue with a welcome proposition. If the gentleman was really interested in stamps, she said, probably supposing me a monomaniac on the point, he should see Mr. Denman's album. Mr. Denman had been collecting forty years, and his collection was said to be worth a mint of money. "Agnes," she went on, "if you were a kind little girl, you would run over to the 'All, tell Mr. Denman there's a connoisseur in the 'ouse, and ask him if one of the young gentlemen might bring the album down."

"I should like to see his exchanges, too," I cried, rising to the occasion. "I may have some of mine in my pocket-book, and we might trade."

Half an hour later, Mr. Denman arrived himself with a most unconscionable volume under his arm.

"Ah, sir," he cried, "When I 'eard you was a collector, I dropped all. It's a saying of mine, Mr. Dodsley, that collecting stamps makes all collectors kin. It's a bond, sir; it creates a bond."

Upon the truth of this, I cannot say; but there is no doubt that the attempt to pass yourself off for a collector falsely creates a precarious situation.

"Ah, here's the second issue!" I would say, after consulting the legend at the side. "The pink—no, I mean the mauve—yes, that's the beauty of this lot. Though of course, as you say," I would hasten to add, "This yellow on thin paper is more rare."

Indeed I must certainly have been detected, had I not plied Mr. Denman in self-defence with his favourite liquor—a port so excellent that it could never have ripened in the cellar of the Carthew Arms, but must have been transported, under cloud of night, from the neighbouring vaults of the great house. At each threat of exposure, and in particular whenever I was directly challenged for an opinion, I made haste to fill the butler's glass, and by the time we had got to the exchanges, he was in a condition in which no stamp collector need be seriously feared. God forbid I should hint that he was drunk; he seemed incapable of the necessary liveliness; but the man's eyes were set, and so long as he was suffered to talk without interruption, he seemed careless of my heeding him.

In Mr. Denman's exchanges, as in those of little Agnes, the same peculiarity was to be remarked, an undue preponderance of that despicably common stamp, the French twenty-five centimes. And here joining them in stealthy review, I found the C and the CH; then something of an A just following; and then a terminal Y. Here was also the whole name spelt out to me; it seemed familiar too; and yet for some time I could not bridge the imperfection. Then I came upon another stamp, in which an L was legible before the Y, and in a moment the word leaped up complete, Chailly, that was the name; Chailly-en-Bière, the post town of Barbizon—ah, there was the very place for any man to hide himself—there was the very place for Mr. Norris, who had rambled over England making sketches, the very place for Goddedaal, who had left a palette-knife on board the Flying Scud. Singular, indeed, that while I was drifting over England with the shyster, the man we were in quest of awaited me at my own ultimate destination.

Whether Mr. Denman had shown his album to Bellairs, whether, indeed, Bellairs could have caught (as I did) this hint from an obliterated postmark, I shall never know, and it mattered not. We were equal now; my task at Stallbridge-le-Carthew was accomplished; my interest in postage stamps died shamelessly away; the astonished Denman was bowed out; and ordering the horse to be put in, I plunged into the study of the time-table."

I need hardly explain that Stevenson introduces the stamp album into the story with a true touch of genius. The hero was a sort of amateur detective who wanted to lay hands on an English gentleman, as to whose whereabouts he had no clue whatever. The incidents above quoted happened near the country house of that gentleman, and by examining the stamp album of Miss Agnes (the innkeeper's daughter) and that of Mr. Denman, with whom the gentleman wanted was in correspondence, the detective was able to find out, as explained above, that his man was at Chailly-en-Bière. Accordingly, he goes straightway there, and finds him!

It may be that Stevenson did not know much about stamps, and presumably "wrote from vague recollections of boyhood," but I think his "vague recollections" served him in good stead in that they enabled him to refer to some points of interest of the stamps of Britain, Russia, Cape of Good Hope, etc. It is quite apparent that his reference to the Russians "with the coloured heart" does not refer to a design of a heart, but generally to the centres of the Russian adhesives, which are of a different colour from the surrounding design. He used the word "heart" as meaning centre, quite a legitimate use of the word. Thus, the inner part of anything, the core.

"A goodly apple rotten at the heart."
—Shakesp. Merchant of Venice i. 3.

By so doing one is hardly justified in the inference Stevenson "refers to Russian stamps unlike any with which it has been a collector's good fortune to meet." Stevenson knew quite well what he was writing about, and had a reliable memory to fall back on, a memory which no doubt helped in no small measure towards his success as a novelist.—Stamp Collectors' Annual.

EDITORIAL.

Again—The issue of a thirteen cent stamp again has been decided upon, we are informed from Washington, as the need for a stamp of this denomination is obvious since the three cent rate has been effective. According to a despatch, the stamp will be of the general design of the stamps above seven cents and bear the bust of Franklin. The color has not been selected. Therefore, our present issue will soon present an unbroken front from one to thirteen cents, inclusive.

Wonder—While on the subject of news from Washington, we need not ignore the following "story", which takes the form of a "special" from the capital, in the Chicago Tribune: "Post office officials here discovered a 3 cent stamped envelope of the centennial series of 1876, to-day. It was honored as good postage, although issued at an altogether different period and for a different purpose. It was mailed by a Washington resident to Philadelphia and was permitted to go through after a careful scrutiny. The old stamp was a green and white shield design. At the top was '1776' and at the bottom '1876'. A horse and rider and a railway postal car were shown in relief. At the time it was issued and until 1883, the postal rate was 3 cents for a half ounce, twice as much as the present rate." The cryptic allusion to the "different purpose" for which the centennial issue was intended eludes us. We have a suspicion that there is a stamp collector in the case. We can antedate this wonderful stamp; Colonel Bandholtz once sent us the three cent red on blue letter-sheet of the 1861 issue, which came through unnoticed and which marked the deadline between forbidden and allowable use.

Possible—Perhaps the incident with the centennial envelope in the leading role, was studied by the anxious postal officers from many different angles. In fact, the analyst could find several problems in the case for the reason that the stamped envelopes, unlike the adhesive stamps issued before 1861, were never demonetized by official order, although inferentially the ban was placed on them as well as the stamps. We remember that in the old notices of new issues sent out by the postmaster general, a description of the "obsolete stamps" or the issues of "1847" and "1851" as known to the postal department, a description of the proscribed stamp usually was appended. So late as 1890, the postmaster general said that "many of the stamps of the latter issue are believed to be still outstanding; and they must not be accepted by postmasters in payment of postage." This warning had some foundation in fact, even, then, as we know that in that year, the complete sheet of one hundred unused three cent of the 1857-60 issue sold well under their face value in auction sales. What we intended to say before this is that stamped envelopes seemed to have been a neglected factor in the early annals of the postal department so far as advertising their penalization.

Call—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who took his stamp album with him when calling on the dealer, in order that he would buy no stamps that he "had"? Is this o. f. c. arguing over the Sullivan-Ryan prize-fight with the old-fashioned dealer who got angry if he found a customer waiting for him in the morning before he opened his shop?

Tax—The contribution in the issue of September 17th, 1917, on "tax paids," by Mr. Leslie Hart, attracted rather more attention than it was imagined it would. It evoked comment by readers and occasioned requests for information; and the following interesting reminiscences were forwarded by our friend, G. de Lachasse of Oakland, California: "When revenue stamp collectors were but very few in the '70's, I was wandering into the wilds of the first issues of the U. S. 'tax paids' for distilled spirits, beer, tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, snuff, etc., as well as licenses, renewed every year. I was greatly helped in my search for the rarest varieties by a list of all the known 'tax paids,' compiled by Mr. William Brown (whom the New York collectors in particular must remember) and published by him in 1876, in his Curiosity Cabinet. Mr. Leslie Hart speaks of the 13 cigars stamp as having given him plenty of trouble to find. Well, I may say the same of a distilled spirits tax paid stamp,—the 'stock on hand' cataloged by Brown as one of the rarest of all these stamps, and this, in 1876. For several years I hunted high and low in every large New York whiskey firm, but uselessly; and I was about to give up the hunt when, just before leaving for the coast in 1884, an old broker friend of mine discovered in some forgotten corner of a warehouse, two empty barrels bearing two splendid specimens of that stamp, and secured them for me. These were the only ones that I ever saw. One of them, together with that 1876 copy of the Curiosity Cabinet, was included in the fine collection of U. S. and state revenues and tax paids that I sold in April, 1896, to the esteemed great San Francisco banker, Mr. William H. Crocker. I kept the other as a souvenir of my U. S. revenue collecting and I always greatly prized it. These very rare stamps are inscribed: 'Stamp for Stock on Hand, prior to November 1st, 1868,' and are printed in black on that hard yellowish paper peculiar to that class of tax paid stamps; they were numbered in red and have in very small type, engraved across the top: 'Engraved and printed by the Treasury Department'."

Early—The correspondent whom we have quoted in the preceding paragraph says that for sixty years he has been devoted to stamps. This means that he collected so early as 1857 or before the day of anything in the way of stamp albums, lists or papers. This is an honorable mark of distinction, and we doubt if any other of our readers can compete with Mr. Lachasse. In this country, it is generally admitted that 1859 is the pioneer date of stamp collecting. Anyone who can claim allegiance to philately up to 1860 deserves a seat of honor in the councils of philately.

Seven—We notice that on a pack of cards of the United States Playing Card Company, the two cent ultramarine with the surcharge in three lines: 10-4-1917—7 cents—U. S. P. C. Co. We understand that the tax on playing cards became effective immediately on the passage of the war revenue law enacted October 3, 1917, and so this surcharge marks an early date. The law is that on every pack of playing cards of not more than 54 cards, manufactured or imported and sold, after the passage of this act, 7 cents a pack must be paid.

Host—Cincinnati entertained a great gathering of philatelists from various parts of the country on Saturday, November 10th, and among those present was the editor of the WEEKLY. It was a real philatelic convention without the politics.

—The first number of Stamp Trade under the management of the Edgewood Stamp Co., has just appeared. It is dated October and the publishers state that the delay in installing machinery accounts for the lateness of the issue. November will go to press at once and the Edgewood Co. proposes to spare no energies in making this publication a sterling representative of the stamp trade. J. E. Holloway is editor and Robert C. Hooghkirk managing editor.

—"The following information is for Miss Amy L. Swift with my philatelic compliments:—'FLATEY' not 'FLATY' is a village in Iceland. The cancellation Crown and posthorn was quite common at that period all over the Island. The present postmark is 'Flatey 64.' 'FLATEYRI' is a postal district situated in a different part of the Island, comprising three villages, each with its own postmark, viz: HOLT 111; MYRA 115; VEHRADA 122."—JAC MEYER.

EUGENE FIELD'S STAMP DITTY.

When 32 years ago the 3-cent letter stamp, which today mingles again with desk sponges and numerous tongues, passed from the scene, Eugene Field rhymed its departure in these lines that fit the exit of the 2-center:

Good bye, old stamp, it's nasty luck
That ends our friendship so.
When others failed you gamely stuck,
But now you've got to go.
So here's a flood of honest tears,
And here's an honest sigh—
Good bye, old friend of many years—
Good bye, old stamp, good bye.

Your life has been a varied one,
With curious phases fraught—
Sometimes a check, sometimes a dun,
Your daily coming brought;
Smiles to a waiting lover's face,
Tears to a mother's eye,
Or joy or pain to every place—
Good bye, old stamp, good bye!

What wonder, then, that at this time
When you and I must part,
I should aspire to speak in rhyme
The promptings of my heart.
Go, bide with all those mem'ries dear
That live when others die—
You've nobly served your purpose here—
Good bye, old stamp, good bye!

"Golden Treasure Collection"
J. D. Hubel, the Detroit dealer who sends out those justly famous "GET WISE" approvals writes that the "TREASURE" collection is not only wonderful value for the money but proved a big money maker for him. It Satisfies the Dealer and Delights the Collector and they both wonder HOW we do it.
—CONTAINS—
2000 different POSTAGE stamps from all parts of the world. All in good to very fine condition—none torn or damaged. The big majority are postally used and the balance are mint unused. No, this lot is not "loaded" with Seebecks and overcatalogued junk, but is loaded with really good items that catalog as high as $2.00 each.
A better "buy" than any "3000 variety packet" and contains more REAL VALUE than the average "4000 variety packet" altho but half the size. It's Quality and REAL VALUE that counts with us and not quantity.
Plenty of scarce old and recent kinds throughout—desirable British Colonials especially—High Values—so chuck full of good things that the enumerating of them would make the demand too heavy for us to take care of.
It does not matter how large your collection is, we encourage and solicit your order under the famous POWELL guarantee of money back if you want it. We mean exactly that and there are no "ifs", "ands" or "buts" to it.
After using hundreds for your collection, it don't take much of a salesman to sell those remaining for the price paid, especially if you can show them to your prospective customer.

WILLIAM WARD.

It is fitting that we introduce to our readers William Ward, who through his advertising in the WEEKLY has already become known to a considerable number. Mr. Ward's latest achievement is his history of the "Postage Stamps of Great Britain", which has appeared in the WEEKLY in serial form and has now been printed as a booklet.

Mr. Ward has been collecting since 1894, and has contributed much to the philatelic press not only in the United States, but England as well. His name is found frequently in British papers, notably Stamp Collecting, the leading English magazine.

Our philatelic friend has sent us a small photo, which we have endeavored to reproduce. He is in the uniform of the Seaforth Highlanders in which regiment, according to the Stamp Collectors' Quarterly, he served in France from the autumn of 1914, until he was wounded in September, 1915. With seventeen weeks in hospitals and three months in a camp convalescing, he returned home and has since been active in the interests of those who like himself, have been compelled to give up active service at the front.

We may add that Mr. Ward's book is now on sale at the modest price of 12 cents. It is finely printed and profusely illustrated, making a book that every collector should possess.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

(It has been decided to publish A and B of the Dictionary in booklet form instead of waiting for the entire work to be completed. Illustrations have been added and a very attractive and useful book is the result. When you do any business with this office add 12c for booklet and it will be mailed you when issued. —EDITOR.)

CRAWFORD, THOMAS.—An American sculptor, born in New York on March 22nd, 1814. His famous statue of "America" on the dome of the Capitol at Washington was reproduced on the 1c to 10c Periodical stamps of the United States. Crawford died in London on October 16th, 1857.

CRAZIA.—(Plural; Crazie).—The value in which many of the stamps of Tuscany were expressed. Twelve crazie were equal to a lira, which was worth about 16c in American money.

CRESCENT AND STAR.—I. A watermark shown in the stamps of Egypt and of the Sudan. In the former one device is apportioned to each stamp while in the case of the Sudan the watermark is multiple. The crescent is a symbol adopted by the Turks on taking Constantinople in 1453, and, in conjunction with a star, it is greatly revered by all good Mohammedans.

II. Some of the 2c brown stamps of the Straits Settlements, with "CC" watermark were overprinted with a star and crescent for use in Johore in 1878. A similar overprint with the letters "P" or "S" added was applied to the same Straits Settlements stamps for use in Perak and Selangor respectively, in 1878. In the same year, the then current ½ anna stamp of India and the 2c brown Straits Settlements stamps were overprinted with a star and crescent and the letters "S.U" for use in Sungei Ujong.

CRESSMAN & CO.'S POST.—A local "penny post" operating in Philadelphia in connection with which stamps were issued. These labels bear no indication of the value at which they were sold.

CRETE.—The principal island of the chain which divides the Greek Archipelago from the eastern basin of the Mediterranean Sea. It is often known by its Italian name of Candia, derived from the Arabic Khandah. The island has an area of 2,950 square miles and a population of over 300,000, nine-tenths being Christians. According to Greek tradition, Crete was the island of a hundred cities. The ancient legends of the "sea power of Minos" have been confirmed by modern discoveries at Knossus and elsewhere of the relics of an advanced civilisation, which culminated in the bronze age (1500-1300, B. C.), and collapsed soon afterwards at the period when iron was introduced. About 500 B. C., Crete became notorious for its internal quarrels, and in Hellenistic times (300-70 B. C.), it was a dangerous nest of pirates and adventurers and gave refuge to an important colony of Jews. It was annexed by Rome in 68 B. C., and during the life time of St. Paul, was the seat of a Christian community. In 823 A. D., it was conquered by the Saracens, but was retaken by Byzantium in 961. In 1183, it was granted to Boniface, Marquis of Montferrat, who sold it to the Republic of Venice in 1204. Frequent quarrels between the Greek and Latin Churches, combined with oppression of the Venetians, made a Turkish conquest easy in 1645. The town of Candia, however, offered a stubborn resistance and was in a state of intermittent siege for a period of no less than 24 years, and made an honorable surrender in 1669. Turkish dominion was never completely acknowledged and revolts were frequent down to 1899, when Prince George of Greece was established as High Commissioner under the joint protection of Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy. Administration of an European style was introduced with a National Assembly, popularly elected, the Sultan of Turkey retaining only nominal suzerainty. Shortly after the occupation of the island by the Powers in 1898, stamps were issued for use in the province of Candia administered by the British authorities. In 1899, stamps were issued for use in Rethymo, then governed by the Russians, but considerable doubt exists as to the status of these. The first stamps issued under the auspices of the Permanent Government appeared in 1900, and since Sept. 21st, 1908, all Cretan stamps have been overprinted with characters signifying "Greece". Turkey, however, still retains nominal, if precarious, suzerainty over the island.

Reference Collection
U. S. CARRIERS AND LOCALS.
Consisting of 1500 to 1600 reprints, counterfeits and pure, unadulterated fakes. Of course it will be sold only to a dealer of recognized standing or U. S. specialist. To such it should be worth much more than the quite nominal price, which is based on the time and labor of getting together such a large and representative assortment of reference and study material, nothing being charged for the stamps themselves.
Price $100, and if purchased before December 15th a liberal discount will be allowed for cash.

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—(1402).—Last week we stated that there would probably be some new Revenue stamps to chronicle this week, and there are. The new documentary stamps will be ready for distribution prior to the time their use becomes effective, December 1st. We have, however, word from Mr. Chas. S. Thompson, that the 2c ultramarine Playing Cards stamp is now sold at 7c, bearing the surcharge, applied by hand, with rubber stamp and magenta (acid fuchsine aniline) ink, "ACT OF OCT. 1917" in large Roman capitals, extending over three stamps. Mr. Thompson states that they come inverted and tete-beche. Tax paid stamps, including beer, fermented liquors, cigarette, cigar and tobacco stamps, now appear with the surcharge "Act of Oct. 3, 1917" in different types for the different stamps. We will not attempt to list them here, but if any of our readers can supply a list, we will be very glad to give space in this Department.

Mr. Wm. T. Kimball has submitted for our inspection what appears to be a provisional war revenue check stamp issued by the Boston & Maine Railroad. It is upright rectangular in shape and bears the inscription in four lines "Attach to Ticket—War Revenue—Paid as Punched—Below". A table of values follows in three-column form running from 1c to 10c, then multiples of 10c to $1 and multiples of $1 up to $10. The check is printed in black with the exception of the serial number in red, and the amount of the revenue paid is shown by the conductor's punch. Mr. Kimball states that these checks are used to attach to remainders of mileage, commutation and single tickets to validate them.

(1399).—The new postage rate on first class mail has produced a number of new things to go into the collectors' albums. Mr. T. J. Eppes sends us a bunch of 3c stamps which came on one morning's mail. These included the perforated 10 in three shades, the perforated 11 in six shades, notably blue-violet, deep violet, bright violet, lavender and pale red-lilac, the Schermack II perf. on a light violet stamp, and the Rotary printed horizontally coiled stamps in violet, pale violet and bright lavender.

Mr. Chas. H. McBride sends us the following clipping from a Washington newspaper:

"The Postoffice Department has requested the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to prepare a model for a new 13c postage stamp to be used in the payment of the registry fee and a single rate of postage on letters or for the special delivery fee and a single rate of postage. The stamp is to bear the head of Franklin and be of the size and border design of the current issues above 7c. The color will be selected later. This has been done to provide for the increased rates of postage on first class matter."

We hear, indirectly, that the 6c stamps will be issued in coils, probably provisionally prepared from flat plate sheet stamps, perforated vertically, and also that the 6c stamp will be issued imperforate for the purpose of allowing the private mailing machine concerns to apply their own special perforations. Rotary printed 6c stamps in coils will also probably be made.

(1401).—The 3c envelope stamp (same design as 2c) appeared about the 3rd of the month. Mr. Geo. C. Roberts showed us the 3c violet on buff, Mr. Benj. Cadbury showed us the 3c violet on amber, and Messrs. C. H. McBride and H. M. Drown submitted the 3c violet on white. We note two Dies of the 3c on white. Die A shows the "U" of "UNITED" and the "E" of "POSTAGE" close to the numeral circles, (this Die we also find on the buff and amber envelopes), while Die B shows the "U" and "E" at some distance from the numeral circles. In the latter, also, the final "S" in "STATES" extends above the "E" of the same word. There will probably be at least five Dies of this new value. The actual listing of the sizes, watermarks and knives, we will leave for Mr. Bartels to furnish, as he has so considerately done in the past.

(1389).—To accomodate the new rate for postal cards, a new 2c card has been issued (Nov. 1st). The design is similar to the superseded 1c, containing a profile portrait of Jefferson. This is in an ellipse on end, containing "U. S. POSTAL CARD", with "JEFFERSON" on a curved tablet below. The ellipse is on a fancy base containing "2 CENTS 2". The instruction inscription is the same as the preceding card. The plates for printing the new postal cards were made by The Maurice Joyce Engraving Co., after a design prepared, we believe, by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing. The card is cream colored and of good quality. It is probable that the inferior grade card will be provided for printing circulars in sheets, like was done for the 1c green Jefferson cards. We may also expect a 2c+2c reply card in the near future.

(1402).—Mr. Eugene Tilleux, Jr., advises us of the Atlanta, Ga., and Minneapolis, Minn., use of 2nd Liberty Loan cancellations.

BOSNIA.—Scott's Circular chronicles a new series of postage stamps with portrait of Emperor Charles; the krone values being slightly larger than the heller values. All have "BOSNIEN-HERCEGOVINA" across the top, and "K. u. K. MILITAR POST" in two lines below the portrait, the numerals of value being in each lower corner. The stamps are perforated 12½, and we presume that they are line-engraved.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—The Colonial Journal states that the 25c stamp has been supplied to the Colony on Multiple Crown & CA watermarked green paper printed from plate No. 2.

CANADA.—(1400).—Mr. Geo. N. Hargraft writes that he has a copy of the picture, "Fathers of Confederation", underneath which the words "After the painting by Robert Harris" appear. Mr. Hargraft also calls attention to a minor variety of the Confederation commemorative stamp, where a thin line runs vertically through the left arm of the "T" in "CENTS". This variety occurs on stamp No. 45 in the lower left pane, and also elsewhere on this pane or one of the other three panes of fifty, because the copy submitted by Mr. Hargraft is perforated all round, while the No. 45 referred to has a straight edge at right.

Mr. Hargraft sends us the enlightening information that our correspondent's statement, in the October 27th Chronicle, that the plate number appears under the lower left pane only, is incorrect. That he (Mr. Hargraft) has a lower right pane with plate number A4. We take it upon our own shoulders to state that the only plate number we had seen was A3. and this was the one Mr. Mongeon referred to in our Chronicle of the date given above. Whether plate No. A4 comes with more than the one plate number, elsewhere than under the right lower pane we cannot state. We would, however, also like to know, for the purpose of actually chronicling, whether the Confederation stamp comes with plates numbered A1 and A2 and higher numbers than A3 and A4.

The following article in Scott's Circular is of more than passing interest: "Mr. Wm. J. Forgie calls our attention to a retouch on the current 3c brown war tax stamp. When the stamp was printed in carmine and in the earliest printings in brown, there was a colored line between two white lines below the large letter 'T'. On later printings of the brown stamps we find the right half of the colored line has been replaced by two short diagonal lines and five small dots. On looking for other retouches we find one which was not mentioned by Mr. Forgie. There are four lines crossing the left side of the King's ear, which apparently represent a lock of hair. These lines are quite faint on the stamps from the original die, but have been much strengthened on the re-cut die. As all the stamps on a sheet show identical changes it is evident that the re-cutting was done on the die and not on the plate. Mr. Forgie writes: 'I cannot learn the date when the re-touched variety was first put in use. Was unable to obtain any originals after Dec. 20, 1916, when I first noticed the difference.' It is probable that all the carmine stamps are from the die before re-cutting. The brown stamps, both original and re-cut design,

Advertising Chat

—Chas. A. Dana told his reporters on the "Sun" that it wasn't news when a dog bit a man. That was an everyday occurrence, but "If a man should bite a dog, that would be news indeed." By that definition you will find news in our Chronicle this week.

—Ward's book now out. Price 12c.

—The Simplex Stamp Co. is a new "regular" in adlets. Rate 20c per line.

—If you want Vallancey's "Stamp Collecting" remit $1.60 for a year.

—Shall we send you some subscription blanks? Use one in every letter.

NOTICE.

Subscribers are requested to give their former address when they wish their paper sent to a new address, as with the large number of subscribers it is impossible for us to remember the different address of each subscriber.
—Enfield (N. H.) "Advocate."
Shake, brother. We sympathize.

—F. E. Prohaska, 82 Hutton St., Jersey City, N. J., wants to know if we can tell him anything about the Wyoming Stamp Exchange, Box 134, Laramie, Wyo. We cannot give the desired information and pass the question on to any interested parties. Write Mr. Prohaska.

—We do not usually accept advertisements of counterfeits but make an exception this week in the case of Elliott Perry. The collection of counterfeits that he offers, sold as a collection, should prove of value to any student of philately and serve a very useful purpose.

—C. B. MARX.—The party in question is O. K. and you should be able to get a settlement of your claim. He is in the service and compelled to suspend dealing operations for the time being.

—We welcome back this week E. T. Parker with three goodly advertisements. He is an old patron of the WEEKLY and we hope our subscribers will extend him the glad hand.

—What has become of the 1c Letter Postage Association of Cleveland, O.? Given a quietus?

—The Beaver Stamp Co. can get no reply to letters addressed to E. C. Burch, 336 Maryland Av., N. E. Washington, D. C., or Paul A. Kendall, Onehama, Mich.

—A subscriber wants to know where he can purchase a Bright's "Catalog of Entires." It can be bought from Bright & Son, 164 Strand, London. This firm advertised in the WEEKLY all last season but the war has crippled the business activities of the company to a severe extent.

—A. C. Roessler has had a bit of trouble and now passes the warning along the line. He cannot locate Fred A. Howard, formerly 1454 E. 50 St., Los Angeles, Cal., also T. J. Brown, Bound Brook, N. J.

—If you must remit in stamps, send denominations from 3c to 30c. 3c, 6c and 12c are especially desired now that the 2c postage rate is obsolete.

—When you renew your subscription, be sure and order some books. Our list is growing and the patronage of this branch of our business will tend to increase our efforts in this direction.

are found with perforation 12 and also in coils with perforation 8 vertically."

Our reference collection discloses the fact that the re-cut die brown stamps came on our earliest mail after the brown stamps were issued sometime in September, 1916, and did not disclose any of the brown stamps, perforated 12 all round, of the original design. Our earliest brown coil stamps, perf. 8 vertically, are all of the original design. We have not found any of the carmine stamps of the re-cut design.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—(1397)—The Colonial Journal gives us the information that the London printed 1½d War Stamps were produced by overprinting on the 2½d stamps from plate No. 5.

GRENADA.—The Colonial Journal states that the ½d and 1d stamps have been printed from plate No. 2 and supplied to the Colony.

HAYTI.—(1400)—In our Chronicle of October 27th we asked for a "little light" on the 1915 issue of Hayti, Scott's numbers 219 to 234 and 242. We have word from Major Giles Bishop, Jr., that throws a "little light" on the subject, and we gratefully thank our correspondent for the information he imparts as follows:

"These stamps have absolutely no business being listed in a stamp catalogue and it is safe to say that the dealers in these stamps knew of this. I have found personally from the Banque National d'Haiti at Port au Prince that these stamps were never placed on sale nor ever officially received in Hayti. Large quantities were stolen before their supposed delivery and as a consequence they will probably never be sold by the Haytian Government. The dealers received the stamps, however, and put them on sale, hence they must have been purchased from the thief or persons connected with them."

This is news of a grave character and we publish it because the question arose about the use of these stamps and the answer is, according to our correspondent, that the stamps were never issued.

Major Bishop also writes: "Speaking of unlisted varieties, I have one which I doubt can be duplicated. A block of four No. 181, but one stamp is unsurcharged. I looked over some two or three hundred thousands of these stamps and this was the only error I found of that nature. Another unlisted variety is No. 504 with the 'GL.O.Z.' surcharge. Also, I have seen no mention of the two types of this surcharge. I wrote about it once to one of the dealers, but they thanked me for the letter, saying the difference was too minor to call attention to it. However, I suppose in a few years the scarcer varieties will come up as a 'new find'. I will explain the difference. In type I the vertical arm of the 'L' in 'GL.' is longer than the horizontal line and the '1' of '1914' is below the period between 'O' and 'Z'. In type II the two arms of the 'L' are the same length and the '1' of '1914' is slightly to the right below the period. This gives many minor varieties, but both types are not found on all stamps."

We would be pleased to publish a list of these varieties if supplied by some student of these stamps.

HONG KONG.—"A supply of 1½ cent post-cards, a new duty, is in course of preparation."—The Colonial Journal.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—(1397)—The Colonial Journal is our authority for stating that the 2d stamps printed from plate No. 5 have been supplied to this Colony.

LIECHTENSTEIN.—(1391)—Scott's Circular gives a corrected chronicle of recently issued stamps for this country. The 3h and 15h stamps mentioned in our chronicles of May 26th and August 25th are of new designs, though the old formation is retained, instead of being like the first stamps issued for this country, the 3h showing the coat of arms of the principality and the 15h showing a portrait of Prince John, similar to the earlier stamps, but without the small escutcheon in the upper right corner of the stamp. New 5h, same type as the 3h, and new 10h and 25h, in the same design as the recently issued 15h, mentioned above, have also been issued according to the chronicle in our contemporary.

Adhesives.

5h yellow-green.
10h claret.
25h deep blue.

NIUE.—(1402)—Scott's Circular chronicles the 1d 1909 and the 3d 1916, of New Zealand overprinted "Niue" in black and blue, respectively, also listing varieties of both, without period after "Peni". These are chronicled in our contemporary under a heading of three different perforations, 14x13½, 14x14½, 14x15, but whether both values come with all three perforations we are not informed.

Adhesives.

1d carmine.

3d violet-brown.
a. No period after "Peni".

ST. LUCIA.—(1394)—The Colonial Journal states that the 1sh stamps have now been printed from plate No. 5.

SEYCHELLES.—(1398)—The Colonial Journal is our authority for stating that 2c, 3c and 15c stamps inscribed "Postage & Revenue" are now in course of printing. The 6c of the Postage & Revenue type was chronicled on Oct. 13th.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—The Colonial Journal publishes the following: "The 25 and 30 cents stamps have been printed from plate No. 5, and the 45 cents has been printed on C.A. green paper from plate No. 1.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—The Colonial Journal gives the information that the remainders of the 2d, 6d and 1sh stamps of the "Ship" issue on single Crown & CA paper, have been destroyed.

CARLTON RUSSELL, 38 Wellesley Park, Dorchester, Mass., Treas.; A. M. WRIGHT, Supt. of Auctions; S. G. BIXBY, 570 Rutherford Ave., Charlestown, Mass., Supt. of Sales and Bourse.

The next regular meeting will be held on Tuesday evening at 7.45. There will be the regular auction after the business meeting. The entertainment will consist of two competitions. One of these will be that which was postponed from the last regular meeting because of lack of entries. Postal issues surcharged War, War Stamp or War Tax are alone eligible for prizes. The stamps of Scandinavia, which includes Denmark, Sweden, Finland and Norway, will form the second competition. Even if you do not collect all these countries, bring those which you have in order that there may be enough entries to warrant the awarding of the medals. Bronze and silver medals are offered for the winners of each of these contests.

OUR BOOK PUBLISHING DEPT.

The Ward booklet on Gt. Britain is now ready for delivery. It is a handsome book and the price, 12c.

Letters "A" and "B" of the Dictionary will follow in booklet form. In paging up the matter, many illustrations are being used and with this first instalment a pretty cover will be included. We are having many calls for the Dictionary and letters "A" and "B" will be warmly welcomed. Price, 12c.

West's work on "U. S. Revenues" is about concluded and will follow in book form the two booklets already referred to. It is the work of an authority on the subject and we are pleased to add it to our list.

Mr. West will next treat the U. S. Match and Medicine stamps and will no doubt help in popularizing these somewhat neglected stamps. He will begin the serial immediately.

J. Delano Bartlett, who is well known for his interest in tax paids, will soon begin some articles on these sidelines in U. S. collecting.

Mr. Howe's "China" is coming along slowly but surely. Mr. Howes detests slipshod literary work and we have no other recourse than to let him take the time he needs. A new subscriber from Malay States writes "Send me all back numbers containing Mr. Howe's China." It will be some book.

the combined use of Cuba and Porto Rico.

CROSSES AND CIRCLES.—A watermark shown in the stamps of the Dominican Republic issued since 1907, and in the Municipal and Official stamps of Wurtemberg issued since 1906. This paper was used by the German Imperial Printing Office where the before mentioned stamps were produced.

CROSS, MALTESE.—(See Maltese Cross.)

CROWN.—The device of a crown has been used for a watermark in the stamps of many countries including Great Britain, Hungary, Denmark, and Italy. These crowns are naturally of various shapes, Great Britain alone providing three varieties distinguished as "small", "large", and "Imperial".

CROWN A.—Many of the recent stamps of the States included in the Commonwealth of Australia and those of the Commonwealth itself, are watermarked with a device consisting of a large "A" surmounted by a crown. The "A", of course, stands for "Australia".

CROWN B. T.—A device perforated through certain British stamps used on the official correspondence emanating from the Board of Trade. These stamps were used as early as 1892, and probably before that date. It is interesting to note that this important Government Department was never supplied with overprinted stamps.

CROWN C A.—A watermarked device shown in numerous British Colonial stamps issued since about 1882. The letters "C A" stand for "Crown Agents" and refer to the Crown Agents for the Colonies, who have charge of the arrangements for the production of most of the colonial postage stamps printed in London. There are three varieties of this watermark—(1) a single representation of the device intended for stamps of normal size; (2) a multiple pattern of the same suitable for stamps and sheets of any size; and (3) a widely spaced Crown and C A used for long stamps like the current 2s, 4s, 8s and 20s labels of Gibraltar. The multiple variety is the one now exclusively used.

CROWN C C.—Another watermarked device shown in numerous British Colonial stamps, the letters "C C" indicating "Crown Colonies". There are two varieties of this watermark, one for stamps of normal size and one for larger labels. The small "C C" variety was used from 1863 until 1882, when it was gradually superseded by the "C A" watermark. The large "C C" variety was in use until comparatively recently.

CROWN G. R.—Since 1912, all stamps of Great Britain have been watermarked with a device consisting of a small crown over the letters "GR" in script capitals. These latter, of course, stand for "Georgius Rex" (King George).

CROWN N S W.—The majority of the stamps of New South Wales stamps issued between 1871 and 1905, are watermarked with a crown over the letters "N S W" the latter being the initials of the name of the Colony.

CROWN Q.—The "Q" stands for "Queensland" and from 1868, until about 1906, most of the stamps of that Colony were watermarked with this device.

CROWN S A.—From 1868 until the "Commonwealth" watermark was introduced, the majority of the stamps of South Australia were watermarked with a device consisting of the letters "S A" surmounted by a Crown.

CROWN V.—(See V and Crown.)

CROWN W A.—(See W Crown A.)

THE PASSING OF LILIUOKALANI.

Ex-Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii, died November 11. Her death had been expected for several days.

Formal announcement of the queen's death was made by Curtis P. Laukea, secretary of the territory, and announcement was made to the people by the tolling of bells and the half-staffing of flags. Her old subjects among the natives, including chiefs of the old regime, immediately gathered to mourn.

The funeral is to take place Sunday. Meanwhile, the body will lie in state in the Kauaiahao church until Saturday, November 17, when it will be removed to the throne room of the palace, where the funeral services will be held. All the pomp of the old days will be revived and the ancient customs observed.

Queen Liliuokalani was the eighth and last monarch to hold sway over the entire Hawaiian insular group; she reigned for only two years before the revolution, more than 20 years ago, which led to the annexation of the islands to the United States.

She was born September 2, 1838, in Honolulu. She traced her ancestry back to the foundation of the Kamehameha dynasty.

The princess received her education in the old Royal school, all the pupils of which were children of the royal family, or of the high chiefs. While attending this school, Liliuokalani first met the boy who later became her husband, John O. Dominis, son of an American sea captain. She was married to him September 16, 1862. Her husband, Dominis, was for many years governor of Oahu, which position he held until his death in 1891.

Liliuokalani ascended the throne of Hawaii January 29, 1891, immediately following the receipt of news from San Francisco that her brother, King Kalakaua, had died there nine days previously.

Following Kalakaua's death, Liliuokalani began her reign with renewed determination to abolish restrictions on the power of the crown. Her first move was to appoint a new cabinet, with the members of which she made the condition that she should control all appointments.

A bold attempt by the queen to deprive the white residents of any voice in the affairs of government, led to prompt retaliatory measures.

As a result, on July 4, 1894, the Republic of Hawaii was proclaimed, with Sanford B. Dole as president.

On January 16, 1895, just two years after being deposed, Liliuokalani was arrested on the charge of being a participant in a plot to overthrow the existing government and resume her sovereignty. Eight days later she formally renounced all claim to the throne. After nine months' confinement in her former palace, she and forty-eight others were pardoned, and, when, on August 12, 1898, Hawaii became a territory of the United States, she declared her fealty to the country that had adopted her.

The later years of her life Liliuokalani remained quietly at home. She had ceased to reign as a sovereign monarch, but she still reigned as queen in the hearts of her people, the native Hawaiians, who venerated her and paid her court as though she still sat upon the throne. She was a composer of hundreds of Hawaiian songs, some of which became popular in the United States.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY

CHINA AND ITS STAMPS.

By C. A. HOWES, F. R. P. S., Ex-President American Philatelic Society.

On the same day that the "cruciform" surcharges were issued at Nanking, viz., March 22, 1912, the ½ cent stamp was issued at Shanghai with the normal Republican overprint, illustrated in the figure as type I. (The illustrations are double the size of the regular surcharges.) This reads from the top downwards Chung-Hua Min-kuo, literally "Middle Flowery People's Nation" or freely translated into English as "Chinese Republic." The 1, 3, 7 and 16 cent and 1, 2 and 5 dollar stamps are stated to have been issued at Nanking on March 24th, and shortly all values of the regular series were in use with the Republican overprint. The ½, 4, 7, 20, and 30 cents and 1, 2, and 5 dollar stamps have the surcharge impressed in black, while the 1, 2, 3, 5, 10, 16 and 50 cent stamps have it impressed in red.

It was soon found that a variation existed in the size of the bottom character of the surcharge on the 1 cent and 2 cent stamps, and it has been determined that this was due to the work of a second printing establishment. The entire series of stamps was surcharged with one "font" of Chinese type by the Statistical Department of the Inspectorate General of Customs at Shanghai, which does all the printing and publishing for the Customs. But to help out, a large quantity of 1 cent and 2 cent stamps were sent to the printing office of the Commercial Press, at Shanghai and there surcharged with the same four characters, but these were from a slightly different "font" of Chinese type. The height of the surcharge is just the same, viz., 14 mm., but the square character at the bottom is noticeably wider in the Commercial Press overprint. The difference is only about one hundredth of an inch, but it is readily apparent at a glance when once identified. The other characters are practically the same width as the Statistical Department surcharge, but the second one from the top has the horizontal stroke at the bottom much shorter than the Statistical Department character. In the Commercial Press "font" all the fine lines of the characters are in general much thinner than in the Statistical Department "font", and the color of the surcharge is a lighter red. Various statements have appeared that other values besides the 1 cent and 2 cents were surcharged at the Commercial Press, but these two at least were the only ones done under the Postal Department order.

The surcharges printed at the Statistical Department vary considerably in clearness, some being very fine and clearly printed—perhaps the earliest impressions—and others being heavy and blotted, the top and bottom characters especially sometimes being simply solid blotches of color, evidently having clogged up with ink during the progress of the work and not having been cleaned out. Concerning these differences, a letter from Mr. E. Widler of Shanghai says:—

"There are various thicknesses of impression surcharged by the Statistical Department. On the right side of some sheets the surcharge is all very clear and well impressed, whereas those on the left, or at the bottom, of a thicker, unclear and flat impression, or vice versa. If these stamps are examined individually, they give every reason to believe that they were printed from different types, which is really due to the difference of pressure exerted upon the types from the press."

Mr. Widler states that several sheets of the 10 cent stamp received the surcharge in a dark brown instead of the usual carmine, and that they were issued at several different offices, he having bought some at the Shanghai post office. He also says that at the time the stamps were overprinted "a sufficient quantity of printers' ink of one special kind was not to be had, so various kinds of ink in small quantities were used. The ultimate result naturally produced various shades of the overprint on several denominations, from a deep, dark red-brown to light red and crimson. Comparing a great number of the lower values, I can identify several minor shades, viz:—red-brown, vermilion and light red for the 1 cent; deep rose, carmine and crimson for the 2 cents and 3 cents; and chocolate, red-brown and crimson for the 10 cents."

There are a few inverted surcharges to record, of course, the ½ cent being the most common. Concerning them, Mr. Widler writes: "There are many of the ½ cent emanating from Wuchang; of the 3 cents from Hangchow, Hankow, Ningpo, Shaoshingfu, and prove that many sheets of these have been issued. Of the 1 cent inverted, there are very few. The surcharges of the above are all of the Statistical type. Of the 1 cent, there are some of the Commercial Press type as well." The ½ cent was also issued at Yunnanfu, and a sheet of the 2 dollar stamp was issued at Tientsin. The 1 cent occurs with double surcharge, "in all cases overlapping, never quite apart" in the genuine. Several shifted and missing character varieties will also be found noted in the reference list.

While the stock of Imperial stamps on hand at Shanghai had been transformed into Republican stamps by applying the new name locally, further supplies sent out by Messrs. Waterlow and Sons from London were ordered to have the new name overprinted during the process of manufacture until a new permanent Republican issue could be prepared. The result was a third type of the Republican surcharge quite unlike the two applied in Shanghai. The characters read the same, Chung-hua Min-kuo, but where the Shanghai characters were in the "square" or "book" form used in the printing office, the London characters were in the easy, slanting form of the written hand. The difference corresponds fairly well to what we call "Roman" and "Italic" type of letters. This is shown enlarged twice in the cut as Type III. It is about the same width as the other overprints, but is spaced more so as to be 19 mm. high. The first value to appear with the London print was the 1 cent in August, 1912, followed very closely by the ½ cent. Other values appeared as stocks of the locally surcharged stamps were used up and it was not until July, 1913, that the final five values, those least used ordinarily, were issued in the Waterlow type. These were the 7, 16, 30 and 50 cents, and 2 dollars. The colors of the surcharges were as before except on the lowest and highest values—the ½ cent being in dark blue instead of black, and the 5 dollars in red instead of black. Again Mr. Widler gives us some data on the shades of the surcharges. He says:—"When first issued they were light blue, then blue-black for the ½ cent; brown-red, then light red for the 1 cent; deep rose, then crimson for the 2 cents; dark red-brown then crimson for the 3 cents."

The 3 cent stamp is the only one so far reported with an inverted overprint.

Normal.

Retouch No. 12.

Retouch No. 20.

It has been discovered by Mr. P. L. Pemberton that the plate of the 1 cent stamp was damaged and then retouched by Messrs. Waterlow, and that all three of the types of Republican surcharge are found upon the retouched stamps. It will be recalled, from Chapter X, that these stamps are printed in small panes of twenty, five rows of four, and that twelve panes in three rows of four make a sheet. The damage apparently occurred at the middle of the left-hand margin of the plate (the right-hand margin of the sheet) and fell on the right upper corner of stamp number 12 in pane number 8 as printed. The normal Chinese character in this corner has at the top a short, heavy line crossed at the middle and at the bottom by two thinner lines. In the retouch these two lines are thicker and the bottom one is extended to join the white triangular blotch beneath it, while the top of the character has a third short line or "cap" upon it. The scroll beneath the character has also had the ball in which it ends somewhat enlarged. When once identified the variety is readily recognized, but it seems to be somewhat scarce, even though occurring once in every sheet of 240 stamps. It may be, however, that several undamaged plates of the 1 cent stamp were in concurrent use with the retouched one, and that the variety did not appear upon all the sheets printed.

The second stamp below number 12 in the same pane, being stamp number 20, in pane number 8, was also retouched in the right upper corner, but not so noticeably. It consists in the thickening of the top of the character at the right of the short heavy line, so that the colored "dent" usually appearing there, is almost obliterated, while the colored outer frame line of the stamp has been noticeably thickened just opposite this point. The illustrations of the normal "corner" and the two varieties show the differences quite plainly. Inasmuch as the varieties occur with both Shanghai overprints, it is evident that they were in stock in Shanghai in an unsurcharged state and it is quite possible that they were issued thus. They ought certainly to be good stamps to look for in this condition.

About the time of the issue of the surcharged Republican stamps two new postmarks were introduced, of which the illustration is a sample. In this type the name of the town appears in English in the upper section of the circle, though usually it is in a straight line. The corresponding Chinese characters appear in the bottom section of the circle. The date in the central "box" is wholly in Chinese, reading in the present instance, Yüan nien, that is, "beginning year" or "first year of the Republic (1912)", chêng yüeh or "first moon (month)", and "17" for the day of the month. As the Nanking Provisional Government adopted the Gregorian or Christian calendar at the beginning of 1912, and as it is now the official calendar of China, the months and days, of course, correspond with our own and "first month 17" would be January 17th. The year is that of the Republic, 1917 being "Chung-hua Min-kuo 6th year." The second variety of the postmark is similar but has two Chinese characters in the upper section of the circle, these being the name of the Province in which the town is situated. The sizes of both postmarks vary, and the small-sized postmark introduced about 1899 and illustrated in Chapter X is still frequently employed.

The reference list is as follows:—

EDITORIAL.

Day—On November 10th, 1917, the Cincinnati Philatelic Society entertained philatelic guests from different sections of Ohio and contiguous states in a right royal way. In fact, one could not conceive of completer enjoyment than that which prevailed during the busy hours of the memorable day. The occasion was a festive one, but the dominant note was deeply philatelic; and we are sure that not alone was each participant entertained, but also instructed. We are glad to pay a deserved tribute to the Cincinnati collectors, who were hosts ever considerate of the comfort and convenience of the visitors and we are sure that the gentlemen who gave so unstintedly of their time and effort will be borne in loving thought by those who came from a distance. The renaissance of Cincinnati as a philatelic center, or better, the entry of the Queen City into an active part in the philatelic affairs of the nation, was an unalloyed triumph.

Program—We shall sketch briefly the social features of the occasion before saying a few words as to the philatelic diversions. The dozen or more out-of-town visitors were met by the local members and made to feel at home at once. A morning automobile ride through the city and environs was the prelude to luncheon at a special table in the Metropole. The afternoon was given over to a stamp orgy at the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, where a strong exhibit of collections of local philatelists was made. In the evening, a beef-steak dinner was given under the happiest auspices, and in passing, we wish to observe that one of the best post-prandial philatelic addresses that we ever listened to was delivered by Mr. W. W. MacLaren, Cleveland, Ohio, who with real art, touched upon phases of his philatelic career in a way to keep his auditors alert with interest. His "Ik Marvel" recital brought out the sentiment of the postage stamp in a manner to make a profound impression. A lecture beautifully and adequately illustrated by large representations of the stamps was given with stereopticon views by Mr. Alvin Good. The types of the one and the ten cent of 1851-57, were exploited and served as a grand object lesson, which brought forth all the elusive details of these stamps. Sunday was spent quietly in the wonderful stamp wing of the residence of Mr. Stanley B. Ashbrook at Fort Mitchell, Kentucky, where his wealth of stamps was poured forth. The dinner at the country club in honor of the visitors, needless to say, was appreciated by them.

Cincinnati—Nearly forty years ago, Cincinnati was prominent in a philatelic sense, but though its philatelic heritage is a proud one, latterly the city has not lived up to its earlier promises. Philatelic progress moved with reluctant feet for years, but it has now begun to speed. Indeed, the city is now coming into its own; and with a society of the strength and influence carried by its present sponsors, Cincinnati must be reckoned with in the annals of the day in philately. There are substantial collectors in the city who would grace any circle and moreover, they are imbued with the modern spirit of studious application to the suggestions of the stamps as well as to the stamps themselves. The attention to the stamps of the United States and of the Confederate States was particularly noticeable, and not only is a commanding lot of these stamps held there, but the owners are students of the issues and give attention to the historical asides. U. S. locals and different cancellations, such as steamboat, etc., are held in esteem and we never saw a better aggregation of Mississippi River and other steamboat cancellations than that held in Cincinnati.

Ashbrook—Devoting himself to the stamps of the United States and the Confederate States and we may add, Canada, in particular, Mr. Stanley B. Ashbrook has given a very good account of his intelligence and energy, as his representation of his U. S. and Confederates is superb. He collects the early U. S. with all eye for detail and his albums are filled on a truly munificent scale. His Confederate States embrace some of the most interesting "asides" that one can conceive of and it would be almost sacrilegious to attempt to give any halting and incomplete enumeration of the distinctive pieces that dot his album pages. Suffice it to say, his collection is one of the great ones in the country in its special division and we expect it to grow mightier with the passing years.

Gone—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who sent a dilapidated twenty-five cent piece of fractional currency as a remittance for a quarter packet? Is this o. f. c. singing "Over the Garden Wall" with the old-fashioned dealer who wet his fore-finger the better to pick up the stamp?

* * *

Abroad—The latest letter that we have received from our soldier forces in France is a "Carte-Lettre," which is canceled "U. S. Army Postal Service No. 3," and a grid obliteration and without stamp. On the reverse are lines for "Nom et Adresse l'Expediteur."

Up—We are somewhat behind-hand in mentioning the following extract from the October Harpers' Magazine, which was sent in due season by Mr. Henry J. Howlett. In W. D. Steele's article, pp. 588-90, "At the Ocean Cross-roads," Steele's "boy" says: "He told me another thing dear to his heart. The last meagre issue of the Danish West Indies was nearly exhausted and my boy was devoting his pennies taken from such as I to purchasing as many as possible of those precious prints. He told me that one day after the Americans came, these stamps would be worth $100 apiece for each one. The Americans had come and the last of these island stamps had been disposed of to the avid collector for one dollar apiece for each one." Thus the difference between expectation and realization is quaintly illustrated by the author. Hats off to Mr. Howlett. He is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, Navy League of the U. S., American Red Cross and National Security League, not to mention his philatelic and other societies.

Careful—The stamp dealer was asked if he did not have a better specimen of the certain stamp by the shopper who did not look as though he was particular about centering, but who from his remark, seemed to be. A well-centered stamp was found finally and he placed the copy on the little pile of purchases that he had made. When he had bought his quota, he grabbed up the stamps and placed them in his vest pocket before the dealer could bring out the card in which to put them!

Closed—We have been notified of the death of Burt McCann, Minneapolis, a dealer and stamp lover who has occupied a unique place in the realms of commercial philately and we may add, in the affections of friends. Mr. McCann, be it said, by reason of severe physical afflictions has been bed-ridden for some years and latterly, practically helpless. However, so strongly were his philatelic desires implanted, that stamps may be said to have been the only interest that bound him to this material sphere and on them, his slight physical activities centered. We met Mr. McCann last August during the time of the convention at Minneapolis and we were touched at the faith and fortitude that he showed racked as he must have been by pain. We knew of Mr. McCann when he was a youth and in robust health, but affliction came and for six years he has been an invalid. Then it was that philately proved to be a staff for Mr. McCann. Stamps had long been his friend as a collector and now he put them to practical use. He began to deal in them and it was not long before he had an established business which, he informed us, through its profits met the extraordinary expenses of his case. At the age of forty-five years, Mr. McCann leaves philately which cheered and sustained him to the end which he faced unafraid and with the bravery that marked his later years. Mr. McCann was a member of the Twin City Philatelic Society and was a favorite of the members who served as pall-bearers at the funeral. We thank Mr. H. S. Swensen for his tribute to Mr. McCann, whom he had known for many years.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A. Atlas Leve reports the finding in ordinary mail of the 5c red error used. An exceedingly small number, possibly two or three, have found their way into the channels of stamp trade business.

—"I have all four blocks of the error, both double error in blocks-of-12 and the singles in blocks-of-nine, in perf. 10 and 11. I also have an extra block-of-nine single error, and this I am going to mount on a suitable card, with suitable lettered heading and description, and frame it to hang in our office. It may get someone interested whom you least expect, and may serve to introduce me to some traveling salesman or other visitor who is a 'bug' on stamps. Good idea?"—C. W. GODDARD.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

(It has been decided to publish A and B of the Dictionary in booklet form instead of waiting for the entire work to be completed. Illustrations have been added and a very attractive and useful book is the result. When you do any business with this office add 12c for booklet and it will be mailed you when issued. —EDITOR.)

CROWN E. T.—A watermarked device shown in most of the stamps of Greece issued since 1901.

C. S.—An overprint found on some of the stamps of South Australia used between 1868 and 1874. The letters signify "Chief Secretary" and these stamps were used for franking the official correspondence emanating from that official's department. These stamps were superseded in 1874 by the general official issue with "C S" overprint.

C. S. A.—These initials appear on some of the stamps issued by the Confederate States of America.

C. S. A. R.—These initials were overprinted on some of the King Edward stamps of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony used on the correspondence of the Central South African Railways. Whether they constitute an "official" surcharge or not, is a point on which philatelists agree to differ.

C. SGN.—An overprint found on certain early stamps of South Australia used on the correspondence of the Colonial Surgeon between 1868 and 1874. In the latter year these stamps were superseded by the series overprinted "OS" for general use on all departmental correspondence.

C. T.—An overprint found on a few of the early South Australian stamps used prior to 1874 for the department of the Commissioner of Titles.

CUARTO.—The value in which many of the older stamps of Spain and its Colonies were expressed. A cuarto was the eighth part of a real and had a value of about 1½c in United States currency.

CUBA.—The largest and most important island in the Greater Antilles, which separates the Gulf of Mexico from the Caribbean Sea. It has a total area of about 36,000 square miles and a population well in excess of 1½ millions. Cuba was discovered by Columbus on October 28th, 1492, and it was colonized by the Spaniards early in the 16th century. At this period Cuba was the seat of great maritime activity, from which the explorations to the mainland proceeded. The following century the island was constantly raided by English buccaneers and French and Dutch pirates, resulting in the primitive fortification of Havana, Matanzer, and other towns. Internal discord was rife for a considerable time until the United States interfered and, after a short war with Spain, took the island under its protection. (Jan. 1st, 1899). A Cuban congress met at the end of 1900 and on February 21st, 1901, a Constitution was agreed upon giving Cuba a republican form of government. It was under the control of the U. S. until May 20th, 1902, when it was granted its independence. Postage stamps for the combined use of Cuba and Porto Rico were first issued in 1855, and separate stamps for Cuba did not make their appearance until 1873.

CUBA AND PORTO RICO.—These two Spanish colonies were provided with a set of stamps for common use in 1855, and this arrangement continued until 1873, when each was supplied with distinctive stamps.

CUCUTA.—A town in the Department of Santander, Colombia, sometimes known as San José de Cucuta. It is the finest and busiest town in the Department and has a present population of over 10,000. Since 1900, this town has been accorded the privilege of issuing its own special stamps.

CUERNAVACA.—The capital of the State of Morelos, Mexico, having a population of about 10,000. Provisional stamps are alleged to have been issued in this town during the revolutionary period of 1867-8, but the best authorities now regard these varieties as doubtful, if not fraudulent.

CULEMAN, SENATOR.—The owner of a type foundry and printing works at Hanover, at which the special stamps used in this German State were manufactured.

CUMMING'S CITY POST.—A local post established in New York in 1846 for the delivery of local letters. A number of 2c stamps were issued in connection with this post.

CUNDINAMARCA.—A Department of the republic of Colombia having an area of 79,800 square miles and a population exceeding 600,000. This Department has issued its own postage stamps since 1876.

CURACAO.—A Dutch colony in the West Indies consisting of the islands of Curacao, Bonaire, Arube, St. Martin, St. Eustatius, and Saba. The total area of the group is only 405 square miles, while its population numbers about 52,000. The group has belonged to the Netherlands since 1632, and postage stamps for use there were first issued on May 23rd, 1873.

CURRENCY.—So far as philatelists are concerned this term relates to the values expressed upon the postage stamps of various countries.

CURRENT ISSUES.—This expression, of course, refers to the stamps of any particular country in use at the present moment.

CURRENT NUMBERS.—(See Control Numbers.)

CUT-SQUARES.—A term applied to embossed or printed envelope, postcard, wrapper, or letter-card stamps when cut from the entire piece of stationery. This is the most convenient and general way of collecting such stamps, though, according to some collectors, the practise of cutting them from the envelopes, etc., is sheer vandalism.

CUTTING'S DESPATCH POST.—A local post of the United States in connection with which 2c stamps were issued bearing the inscription quoted.

CUZCO.—A department in the south-eastern portion of Peru having an area of 156,725 square miles and a population of about half-a-million. Its chief town has the same name and was the ancient capital of the Incas of Peru. From 1881 to 1885, special overprints were applied to certain 5c and 10c stamps of Peru and Arequipa for use in this province

C. W.—These letters appear under the portrait on the 1866 stamps of Portugal. They are the initials of C. Wiener, of Brussels, who engraved the dies.

CYPRUS.—An island in the Levant or Eastern Mediterranean having an area of 3,584 square miles and a population of about 250,000. Cyprus was conquered by Egypt as early as 1450 B. C., was fully colonized by Greeks and Phœnicians in 1000-500 B. C., and then annexed by Assyria, Egypt, and Persia in turn. For two centuries it was a bone of contention between Persia and Greece, but fell to Egypt in 206, and to Rome in 57 B. C. Its long prosperity was wrecked by Saracen raids at intervals during 644-975 A. D., and later by Byzantine misrule. Richard Cœur de Lion occupied it in 1191, and after changing hands several times, it fell to Turkey in 1570. Under the convention of 1878, it was placed under British administration, and, though then still nominally a Turkish province and liable to an annual tribute of $464,000, it was occupied by Great Britain "until Russia shall restore to Turkey, Kars and other conquests". During the great European war it was annexed to the British Empire. It is administered like a Crown Colony of the British Empire under a High Commissioner. Postage stamps for use in Cyprus were first issued in 1880.

D.—A large uncolored "D" in a circle of solid color was applied to certain stamps of the Dutch Indies in 1911, to denote they were for use on official mail. The letter stands for "Dienst".

DAAGE, L. COLMET.—A French artist who engraved the designs for the 1910 stamps of Gabon and the 1908-9 stamps of Martinique.

Branch Office, Beverly, Mass.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—The re-introduction of a 3c letter postage rate has occasioned many oddities and novelties to pass the post and we expect many of these to be presented for chronicle. Chicago probably had a very large stock of 2c stamps, which it was desirable to have used up before the 3c rate became effective. In one instance that we know of booklet 2's were precancelled with a handstamp. This is the first time to our knowledge that booklet stamps have been precancelled. Mr. Frank Kocher shows us an entire leaflet of six stamps so precancelled, and they were used in mailing a catalogue sent out by The J. H. Smyth Co., of Chicago. After the 3c rate became effective a large number of 2c stamps were still on hand and instead of buying 3c stamps the Premier Packing Co., of Chicago, covered the rate by using 2c stamps cut into halves, using one 2c and a half of a 2c to make 3c postage. Mr. Geo. W. Bye shows us one of the envelopes so franked.

We hear of a good story that will bear telling here. A collector of plate numbers called at the New York Post Office where he had been accustomed to be waited upon by a postal clerk who permitted him to select what plate numbers he wanted. During the period of time in which the re-issued 1908 2c stamps were being disposed of by the P. O., the clerk drew the P. N. C.'s attention to them. This gentleman stated that he thought he had most of the plate numbers of the 1908 issue, but would take them anyway and look the matter up when he arrived home. So he selected a number of single copies from the sheets, each copy having the plate number attached, and went his way. Arriving home he found that he had all the plate numbers which he had just purchased and tossed the stamps into the postage box, later, at his office, and they were used up in the ordinary course of business. He afterward learned that the old type stamps had been made into perforated stamps from the imperforate sheets and that they were perforated 11! Curtain.

(1401).—Mr. Chas. A. Townsend and Mr. Eugene Tilleux, Jr., show us both the black Officially Sealed stamps on pink paper and on white paper, perforated all around, so both were issued in sheets of twenty (5x4) as well as in sheets of ten (5x2).

(1403).—Many correspondents have favored us with copies of the new 3c envelope stamp, and we express our thanks to all. Mr. J. M. Bartels sends us the following information telling of six dies for the new envelope stamp. This information was contained in a letter to Mr. Bartels from the 3rd Ass't Postmaster General, dated November 7th, 1917, as follows:

"Six 3c master dies were made—for the Huckins, Nos. 5 and 13 Kenny, Nos. 5 and 8 Schmidt, and the Hartford machines. The Hartford die is a flat one. These dies are now in use.

"Window envelopes will be furnished in the 3c denomination.

"All current sizes and colors of envelopes will be issued in the 3c denomination except the No. 6."

We understand that the dark violet envelope stamps will be superseded by much lighter violet impressions.

(1400).—Mr. F. B. McGown submits another interesting 1c+2c envelope, caused by some mix up of envelopes in the printing presses; this happens to be one of the most curious we know of. The 2c red impression is in the proper place at the upper right corner, while in the upper left corner is an impression of the 1c green stamp in reverse, the Franklin head facing towards the 2c stamp; Mr. McGown remarking that they appear to be within speaking distance. We can probably account for the freak in the following manner: An envelope unfolded passing through the press with an envelope on top of it received an albino impression which took up on the back ink from the backing, which had been left by the die's descent without any envelope being in place. This albino 1c (with color on the back) was then probably mixed with some unimpressed envelopes (unfolded) and went through, back up, the 2c press, receiving the 2c impression, and then folded and gummed.

Mr. McGown submits other freaks, misplaced impressions of the 2c, etc., but these are frequent occurrences and need not be listed here.

For the purpose of using up the 2c stamped envelopes, it can probably be suggested to the Post Office Dep't, that they have the 1c die impressed in addition to the 2c and sell the envelopes for 3c plus the regular charges for stamped envelopes. "Compound" envelopes have been issued by the United States before, and are still, we believe, made in England (with English stamps, of course).

(1389).—In our Chronicle for August 11th, we listed the 1c dark green on white card. Mr. Geo. W. Bye now shows us the 1c white card with modified color, of the same tone as the green on the cream card.

Postal Card.
1c green on white.

A collector rushed into our editorial office the other day and asked if we had seen the 6c stamp in brown. We replied we had not. We were informed of the existence of two of them in town. Without seeing the stamps we judged them to be changelings—oxidized. It seems, from later events, that some of these must have been recently used, as we have a copy submitted to us by Mr. V. W. Rotnem, and another copy, from a different source, still on the original cover, has been shown us by Mr. Chester Arthur Sittig. We can only state that the stamps we have seen are the orange ones oxidized to brown. Whether this oxidization took place before or after the use of the stamps, we do not know; and it is probable that the new postage rate has brought many 6c stamps into use, taking the former place of the 4c in mailing first class matter of double weight, and that 6's that have been in postoffice stores are being brought to light. For comparison, we beg to refer our readers to the 2c orange revenue stamps of the Civil War period, which, as you all know, come in all shades of brown, from oxidization.

(1401).—Referring to our mention of the 2c Rotary press printed imperforate coil stamps in the issue of November 3rd, Mr. C. Edward Wright draws our attention to the listing of this stamp in the Chronology of Issue of United States 20th Century Stamps, published in the WEEKLY on January 20th, last, which was compiled by Mr. Wright. The stamps were issued on June 30th, 1914, simultaneously with the perforated coils of the same printing. Mr. Ward informs us that it was this listing which caused him to trace the stamps and which resulted in his finding some of them. The moral is "Read the WEEKLY every week, thoroughly and carefully".

(1403).—Mr. Geo. W. Bye adds considerably to the listing of Liberty Loan cancellations and while we will refrain from producing any further lists of these cancellations in this department, we wish to state that a special list of the Liberty Loan cancellations will be compiled and published as a special article in the WEEKLY.

BARBADOS.—(1394)—Through the kindness of Mr. J. A. Galbraith we are enabled to chronicle the Barbados War Tax stamp. Scott's No. 118, 1d scarlet, has been utilized and the overprint is "WAR TAX" in sans-serif capitals, the same as the St. Kitts-Nevis War Tax overprint, presumably applied in London. The copy shown us by Mr. Galbraith has the plate No. 1 attached.

War Tax Stamp.
1d scarlet, black overprint.

Mr. A. C. Roessler also advises us of this issue and states that it was probably issued on October 19th.

CAMEROONS. — Champion's Bulletin chronicles the new 15c stamp of Middle Congo overprinted "CAMEROUN Occupation Francaise" in three lines for use in this occupied territory.

Adhesive.
15c violet and red.

CANADA.—Mr. F. B. McGown submits the 1c and 2c Canadian stamps, George head design, from coils, perforated 12 horizontally, with the remark that he has not seen them listed anywhere. Upon referring to Scott's catalogue, we find the 1c coil listed as No. 104a, but no mention is made of the 2c perforated 12 horizontally. We believe both the 1c and 2c also come in coil form, perforated 12 vertically, but we would like to have this confirmed by our Canadian correspondents.

It may be interesting to state at this time that two sets of the Canadian George head stamps may be made, one with white and the other with yellow gum, for all values. There are also many unlisted shades of these stamps.

(1400)—Mr. Geo. N. Hargraft shows us the "Help the Toronto Free Hospital for Consumptives" cancellation for 1917-1918, used in Toronto Nov. 2nd.

DENMARK. — Champion's Bulletin chronicles some new stamps for this country. The 4ö stamp, probably Scott's type A10, has been issued on paper with crown wmk., perforated 13½x14½. A 38ö value has been added to the Newspaper series, on Multiple Crosses wmk. paper, perforated 13½x14½. The adhesives of 1913-15, 5 ore and 10 ore have been overprinted "S F" in blue, and listed as Official Stamps by our contemporary.

GREECE.—(1402)—Further War Tax stamps are listed in our French contemporary, Champion's Bulletin. One of these was mentioned in the list given in our Nov. 10th issue. Stamps of 1912-14 surcharged "K.P Lepton" and value.

MIDDLE CONGO.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles the new 15c stamp for this colony, design same as Scott's type A1. Perforated 14x13½.

Adhesive.

15c violet and red.

RHODESIA.—A provisional ½d stamp has been provided by surcharging the 1d, Scott's No. 120, with the words "Half Penny" in two lines and covering the values in the corners with two short heavy bars each. Champion's Bulletin states that the provisionals were issued in Livingstone, North Rhodesia, there being a shortage of the value while awaiting a new supply from the Director General of Posts at Salisbury, South Rhodesia. It is stated that 48,000 is the quantity provided.

Provisional Adhesive.

½d on 1d rose.

SALVADOR.—(1402)—We have the following letter from Mr. Geo. J. Carter: "I note your comments on page 347, re the 'S' overprint on Salvador stamps . . . I happen to have a regular correspondent in San Salvador, who sends me stamps every month and quite recently I found a large percentage of the surcharged 'S' used, about the genuineness of which there can be no question. I also found a few with a double surcharge 'SS'."

SENEGAL.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles a new 15c stamp for this colony, design like Scott's type A28. Perforated 14x13½.

Adhesive.

15c vermilion and violet-brown.

SINKIANG. — (1400) — We have failed to mention that the $2 Chinese stamp overprinted with five Chinese characters for this province is overprinted in red. We are so informed by Mr. Wang Chin Chai. This correspondent also advises us that the $5 and $10 Chinese stamps have been likewise overprinted in red for Sinkiang. Our correspondent also states that the post offices in Sinkiang are issuing money orders. This may be the use to which the high values are put, but of this we have no knowledge.

Adhesives.

$5 scarlet and black.
$10 yellow-green and black.

SOMALI COAST.—Champion's Bulletin chronicles the new 15c stamp for this French Colony, design same type as Scott's A22. Perforated 13½x14.

Adhesive.

15c violet and red.

SWITZERLAND. — Champion's Bulletin formally chronicles the 3c adhesive in a change of color to orange. This was announced sometime in 1916, the 3c coming, in the meanwhile, in a lighter violet than the original dark violet, owing to the cancellation not showing up very well on the dark violet stamps, thus occasioning loss to the post office by re-use of canceled stamps. The perforation of the new stamp we presume is the same. It will probably come in tete-beche form, as the preceding 3c.

Adhesive.

3c dark orange.

UBANGI.—The new 15c for Middle Congo has been overprinted "OUBANGUI-CHARI-TCHAD" for use in this colony, according to Champion's Bulletin.

Adhesive.

15c violet and red.

U. S. POSTAGE

DEPARTMENTS AND REVENUES.

Here is a most unusual opportunity to obtain a collection containing many stamps dealers rarely have in stock. There is an unused 24c August, 1861, almost identical with the Worthington copy that sold for $125, and other good postage, including the 1869 set and a beautiful lot of re-issues, Columbian set complete unused, and many unused singles and blocks in the later issues.

Departments practically complete except State dollar values. The Agriculture, Executive and Justice are especially nice.

The revenues are a beautiful lot, many being in most unusual condition. They are perhaps the most desirable part of the collection.

Any collector who knows how difficult it is to secure fine copies of certain U. S. stamps will find much of interest in this collection which is priced attractively for quick sale. Catalog value $3,000 to $3,500.

DEATH OF BURT McCANN.

Burt McCann died November 14th, 1917, at Number 321 Newton Avenue North, Minneapolis, Minnesota, after a prolonged illness. He was born at Stark, New Hampshire, forty-five years ago. He came to Minneapolis in 1884, later became a graduate of the Manning School of Acting and Oratory. Before invalided he had been a professional actor of high histrionic talent. He took to juvenile leads and his character parts were always well interpreted. In the East he was especially well known and favored for his repertoire work. He has been associated with many of the well known stars of the theatrical world. He served in such well known titles as "Under the Red Robe" and "Enemy to The King". He was one of the strong aides of Sidney Drew, so well known in the realm of pictures.

Mr. McCann became seriously incapacitated about seven years ago, so seriously in fact, that he has been bedridden for a long time. Fortunately he had been a stamp collector since a mere child. Notwithstanding his condition, however, he was able to build up a successful business in dealing in stamps for collectors. On a number of occasions he told the writer that his life was made bearable and was prolonged because of the companionship and diversion he found in his stamps.

During the convention of the Southern Philatelic Association, many philatelists in attendance, including Charles E. Severn and C. W. Kissinger, visited Mr. McCann, and at said convention a resolution of well wishes for Mr. McCann was unanimously adopted. The writer and George A. Martin, the well known philatelist of Washington, D. C., were the last persons outside his immediate family, to see Mr. McCann. We found him recumbent and bed-ridden but surrounded by his stamp treasures and eager to discuss and exhibit his wares, and also to view our own specimens. We found him cheerful and mentally active. This was about ten days before his demise. The stamp collectors of the Twin Cities attended the obsequies in a body and constituted the pall bearers. He is survived by his three sisters.

IN MEMORIAM.

Why mourn at the shrouded bier!
Of him who is not here.
Who quietly has gone away
To know the Perfect Day.

As we scan his quiet face,
We know he's found a place
Where exists Celestial Peace,
Where friendships never cease.

HARRY S. SWENSEN.

He will not be forgotten!

His cheery personality, the optimism always shown in his advertising and his bravery in the face of death—these attributes Mr. McCann possessed to a marked degree. I knew him only in correspondence, but he was a great admirer of the WEEKLY and all it stands for. A letter from L. R. Sours just as we go to press conveys the sad intelligence. We quote:—

"You will no doubt regret to learn of the death November 14, of Burt McCann, 321 Newton Ave., Minneapolis, after an illness of nearly a year, during which time he was confined to his room most of the time. The funeral is this morning (Nov. 17,) and six of his stamp collecting friends are acting as pall bearers."

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

LOCAL PHILATELISTS ENTERTAIN PROMINENT "STAMPERS" OF COUNTRY.

The Cincinnati Philatelic Society entertained as its guests Saturday, many of the most prominent philatelists in this country, among them being Charles Severn, editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS and E. R. Jacobs of Chicago; Alvin Good, secretary to George Worthington, whose stamp collection was valued at $600,000 and was recently sold at auction for more than that amount; W. W. MacLaren of Cleveland, Ohio, who is associated with the Cleveland Press; George Linn of Columbus, O.; Dr. Kemper and E. T. Wallis of Indianapolis; Colonel Beach and Colonel Stokey of the United States army.

The visitors were tendered a luncheon at the Metropole after an automobile ride through the suburbs. An exhibition of stamps was held at the Chamber of Commerce. Many valuable and rare stamps were displayed, among them a copy of the famous "Brattleboro, Vermont," valued at $600, and valuable stamps used during the Civil War in the Confederate States. After the stamp exhibition, a steak fry was given at which an illustrated lecture on the early stamps of the United States was given by Mr. Alvin Good, who is said to be the leading authority in this country on the subject. The meeting was one of the most successful ever held by the stamp collectors and was well conducted under the auspices of the Cincinnati Philatelic Society.

Among the local collections shown was that of Stanley Ashbrook, which is one of the finest collections of United States stamps in the country. Fred Huntington and Gustave Mosler showed good general collections and George Kitzinger showed "Philatelic Zoo" made of stamps bearing animals, philatelic transportation or scenes or methods of travel, and stamps bearing views of scenery, or buildings, or statuary peculiar to a country.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

THE CHAMPION 1918 CATALOG.

Theodore Champion advises us that the first edition of the 1918 catalog has been sold out and a new edition will appear at once. The price of the catalog has been changed to $1.40. Mr. Champion writes:—

"The first edition of our new catalog is already sold out as the orders received were much larger than I expected; a second printing is therefore in course of preparation and is likely to be ready the last part of November. The advance in the price is due to a further enormous increase in the cost of the catalog. You would oblige me very much by explaining this to the readers of your journal."

WAR SAVINGS PLAN SUMMARIZED.

THRIFT STAMPS AND WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATE STAMPS TO BE ISSUED.

"Stamps known as United States War-Savings Certificate Stamps and as United States Government Thrift Stamps, furnished by the Secretary of the Treasury under authority of the Act referred to in the preceding paragraphs, shall be issued by the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Stamps, to postmasters at all accounting post offices. Postmasters at central-accounting offices shall supply such stamps to postmasters at district money-order offices accounting to such central-accounting offices. Central-accounting postmasters shall allow to district money-order postmasters a fixed credit for war-savings certificate stamps and thrift stamps. Postmasters at nonmoney-order offices shall obtain such stamps, as sold, from their respective central-accounting offices. Rural and city carriers shall sell the stamps and shall be supplied by postmasters on fixed credit.

Each purchaser of war-savings certificate stamps shall be furnished without cost a United States war-savings certificate to which such certificate stamps shall be affixed. The certificate is not transferrable and has no value unless one or more war-savings certificate stamps is affixed thereto. The name and address of the owner shall be placed on each war-savings certificate by the postmaster at the time it is issued.

War-savings certificate stamps shall be sold at the prices and under the terms and conditions shown on the war-savings certificate; i. e., during December, 1917, and January, 1918, the price shall be $4.12 each, and shall be increased 1 cent each month thereafter during the calendar year 1918.

Thrift stamps bearing no interest shall be sold for 25 cents each. The purchaser of thrift stamps shall be furnished without cost a thrift card to which such stamps shall be affixed. The card itself has no value. The name and address of the purchaser shall be placed on the card by the postmaster at the time of issue. Thrift stamps shall not be cashed, but when sixteen thrift stamps, representing a total of $4, are affixed to a thrift card, they may, with a cash payment of from 12 to 23 cents, be exchanged for a war-savings certificate stamp.

War-savings certificates may be registered at any post office of the first, second, or third class. Unless registered, the United States will not be liable for payment, if made to a person other than the lawful owner."

—Quoted from Order 878 of Postmaster General Burleson.

The war-savings plan provided for in the last bond act, of September 24, 1917, has been formulated and announced by the Treasury Department and goes into operation on Monday, December 3.

The plan puts it easily in reach of every American citizen to save money and at the same time aid the Government by supplying it with the sinews of war.

Stamps, which are the Government's certificates of indebtedness, are to be sold in two denominations — thrift stamps, which cost 25 cents each, and war-savings stamps, which cost from $4.12 to $4.23 each according to the month in which they are purchased.

With the first thrift stamp the purchaser is given a thrift card with spaces for 16 stamps. When 16 thrift stamps have been purchased and affixed the thrift card can be exchanged for a war-savings stamp by paying the difference between the $4 the thrift stamps represent and the current value of a war-savings stamp, which in December, 1917, and January, 1918, will be $4.12, and thereafter 1 cent for each succeeding month during the year 1918.

With the first war-savings stamp obtained by purchase or exchange the owner is given a war-savings certificate containing spaces for 20 war-savings stamps. If the 20 spaces are filled during December, 1917, or January, 1918, the cost to the purchaser will be $4.12 for each stamp, or $82.40 for the full certificate, and on the 1st day of January, 1923, the Government will redeem the certificate at $100, giving the holder a net profit of $17.60 for the use of his money.

Although these investments do not mature until January 1, 1923, provision is made whereby upon 10 days' written notice after January 1, 1918, such certificates will be redeemed by postmasters at their cost to the purchasers plus 1 cent a month on each war-savings stamp on the certificate.

The thrift stamps do not bear interest, but the war-savings stamps bear 4 per cent., compounded quarterly. The certificates will be dated January 2, 1918, and mature January 1, 1923.

Under the plan an amount as small as 25 cents can be invested in a Government security, and as soon as $4 has been thus invested an interest-bearing certificate of the United States Government can be secured.

The stamps and certificates can be obtained from post offices, banks, or trust companies, at most railroad stations, stores, factories, and many other public places.

Having the entire wealth of the United States back of them, and being redeemable as above stated, there is no danger of any depreciation in value of the certificates.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Our old dealer-friend C. F. Rothfuchs writes us an interesting letter from Los Angeles. While it is a personal communication, we take the liberty of quoting an interesting paragraph. Having known Mr. Rothfuchs for a score of years, we feel that the sentiments are only what could be expected from him:—"I have been interested in soldiering since my boyhood days. I served three years in the 7th Regiment M. V. M., 1869-73. I am not pro-German, but I am pro-American to the backbone, and the Stars and Stripes have always been and are now my flag, and the red, white and blue my colors. No born American feels prouder and is more loyal to the U. S. A. than I am."

—Someone inquired recently for a Bright's catalog of entires. Maitland Milliken, Foster Bldg., Denver, Colo., has two copies. Interested parties should write him. Mr. Milliken gives us some information concerning the Wyoming Stamp Exchange and any collector requesting the same should enclose stamped addressed envelope for reply.

—A. D. Schoch, 1707 Estes Ave., Chicago, would like to hear from collectors who have been unable to secure replies to letters sent Frank Freidersdorf, 1157 Lill Ave., Chicago, Ill.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from A. Atlas Leve, Globe Stamp Co., G. de Lachasse, and Gambs Co.

—There is an interesting department:—"With the Stamp Collectors" in the Baltimore Sunday American. It is edited by C. Lat. Wilhelm and the issue of Nov. 18 had a half-tone and sketch of Geo. W. Taylor of Catonsville, Md. Mr. Wilhelm makes generous use of the WEEKLY and gives us full credit for matter taken.

—At the meeting of the Philadelphia Stamp Club, Nov. 20, it was voted to hold a contribution auction Jan. 15, the entire proceeds to be turned over to the Soldiers' Tobacco Fund. Send donations to the president, E. L. Green, 1415 Vine Street, Philadelphia, who will make proper acknowledgement. Only recently the Club invested its entire reserve fund in Liberty Bonds. This opportunity of giving some little comfort to our boys "over there" is offered to our readers and we feel sure many will take advantage of it.

—The Junior Museum Stamp Club of Newark, N. J., will hold an exhibit of their collections and the collections of any of their friends who care to participate, during the week of Dec. 3-8. The stamps will be shown in one of the Museum rooms in the Free Public Library Building.

—A. V. D.—You ask "Is it a fair paper?" It certainly is. The rate advertised in Stamp Collecting was an error and would not have appeared a second time if communication with England had been more speedy. "Contract your space through the English representative" and you will get the three-in-one contract.

—We have received from Herman Toaspern, secretary of the Collectors' Club, an interesting booklet giving in detail particulars of the exhibitions and meetings of the Club to be held the coming season. Special attention is called to the "Monograph Competition" with the several awards in connection therewith. Mr. Toaspern, (135 Cedar St., N. Y. City), will no doubt be willing to mail copies of the booklet to interested parties. Enclose postage. We shall publish a list of the exhibitions, etc., in an early issue.

PHILATELY IN CURRENT LITERATURE.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

It is not uncommon nowadays to find mention made of postage stamps, and those who collect them, in stories of the day. One week's reading, recently, disclosed two instances.

In Harper's Magazine for October, 1917, in "At the Ocean Cross-roads," W. D. Steele writes:—

" * * * * He told me of another thing near to his heart. The last meagre issue of the Danisland island stamps was nearly exhausted, and my 'boy' had been devoting the pennies taken from such as I to purchasing as many as possible of these precious prints. He told me that one day, after the Americans had come, these stamps would be worth 'a hundred dollars apiece for each one.' I hoped he was right. I began to understand what the brown lady behind the Post Office wicket had meant by telling me they were 'very good.' At the moment I had imagined she was defending the absence of 'stickum' on the back."

E. Nesbit in "The Incredible Honeymoon" doubtless is sufficiently well informed on the subject to know that in the gathering together of a collection of stamps, finance also plays its part.

" * * * * Katherine, that man's ciphers are wonderful. And what a gift of the gods—to possess an interest that can never fail and that costs nothing for its indulgence, not like postage stamps or orchids or politics or racing!"

UNITED STATES

2 FOR 1.

Last week we advertised to trade two 5c errors perf. 11 for one perf. 10. This did not mean that we were selling them at a reduced price or offering them at wholesale. We simply desire to balance our stock and will still trade a few more sheets as advertised. We have considerable miscellaneous wholesale stock to offer in our coming auction sales. If you do not receive our auction sale catalogs, send us a request and "GET ON OUR MAILING LIST."

WAR TAX REVENUE STAMPS.

ORDER No. 884. November 17, 1917.

The Postal Laws and Regulations are amended by the addition of the following as Section 132½:

Sec. 132½. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall furnish to the Postmaster General without prepayment a suitable quantity of adhesive stamps to be distributed to and kept on sale by the various postmasters in the United States. The Postmaster General may require each such postmaster to give additional or increased bond as postmaster for the value of the stamps so furnished, and each such postmaster shall deposit the receipts from the sale of such stamps to the credit of and render accounts to the Postmaster General at such times and in such form as he may by regulations prescribe. The Postmaster General shall at least once monthly transfer all collections from this source to the Treasury as internal-revenue collections. (Sec. 806, Act of Oct. 3, 1917.)

2. Parcel-post packages: That on and after the first day of December, 1917, there shall be levied, collected and paid upon every parcel or package transported from one point in the United States to another by parcel post on which the postage amounts to 25 cents or more, a tax of 1 cent for each 25 cents or fractional part thereof charged for such transportation, to be paid by the consignor. No such parcel or package shall be transported until a stamp or stamps representing the tax due shall have been affixed thereto. (Sec. 800 and paragraph 14, Sec. 807, Act of Oct. 3, 1917.)

3. War-tax adhesive stamps shall be kept for sale at all post offices.

4. The stamps shall be issued to postmasters at all direct-accounting and central-accounting offices.

5. Postmasters at central-accounting offices shall supply war-tax stamps to postmasters at district post offices in their respective counties.

6. A fixed credit shall be allowed by central-accounting postmasters to district postmasters for war-tax stamps sufficient to meet the public demand.

7. District postmasters shall remit to their central-accounting postmasters the entire proceeds of sales of war-tax stamps promptly at the close of each month, or whenever during the month the same amount to $25. Central-accounting postmasters shall furnish new supplies of war-tax stamps to district postmasters to the amount of the remittances unless new supplies are not needed.

8. Accounting postmasters shall keep accounts of their transactions in war-tax stamps. Promptly at the close of each month they shall render to the Third Assistant Postmaster General (Division of Stamps) an account of sales thereof. Such accounts shall be given an administrative examination by the Third Assistant Postmaster General, and shall then be transmitted to the Auditor for the Post Office Department for audit.

9. Accounting postmasters shall remit to their designated postmasters for postal funds the entire proceeds of sales of war-tax stamps promptly at the close of each month, or whenever during the month the same amount to $100. The depository postmaster shall issue a certificate of deposit, which shall be a voucher to the monthly account of the accounting postmaster.

10. Depository postmasters shall deposit daily the entire cash proceeds of sales of war-tax stamps in local active United States depositories to the credit of the United States Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the depository post office is located. Depository postmasters shall also deposit daily the entire amount of funds remitted to them to the credit of the United States Collectors of Internal Revenue for the districts in which the remitting post offices are located. Certificates of deposit shall be obtained therefor.

11. A monthly statement of transactions in war-revenue stamps and of the funds derived from the sale thereof will be rendered to the Treasury Department (Commissioner of Internal Revenue) by the Auditor for the Post Office Department.

12. The Third Assistant Postmaster General shall issue detailed instructions to carry out the purposes of this regulation.

A. S. BURLESON,
Postmaster General.

EDITORIAL.

Envelope—The following description of the "new three-cent stamp on stamped envelopes" has been sent forth by third assistant postmaster general Dockery:

"The embossed stamp on the new 3-cent stamped envelope is printed in purple ink and is in the form of a circle about 1 1/16 inches in diameter. In the center is embossed the head of Washington in profile looking to the left. The sides and upper portion of the border carry the words "United States Postage" in white capital letters and within the border beneath the head is the word "cents" with the numeral "3" on each side inclosed in a small white circle."

In the same notice, the new two cent domestic postal card is officially described:

"The size of the No. 9 card is 3¼ by 5½ inches (the same as the present No. 8 card). The paper is cream in color and is printed in red ink. The subject of the stamp is a profile portrait of Thomas Jefferson looking to the left. The background of the portrait is open and is surrounded with an elliptical border bearing in capital letters the words "U. S. Postal Card." This border is broken at the bottom with a curved ribbon in which appears the name "Jefferson," and rests upon a base containing the word "cents" with the numeral "2" on either side. To the left of the stamp in a horizontal line of Gothic capital letters is the inscription "This side of card is for address" within a frame of plain lines having concave corners."

Addition—Elsewhere we publish the new section, 132½, of the Postal Laws and Regulations made necessary by the issue of the new war tax revenue stamps. Under its provisions, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue will furnish to the Postmaster General "without prepayment a suitable quantity of adhesive stamps to be distributed to and kept on sale by the various postmasters in the United States." Naturally, the parcel post tax stamps would qualify for sale at the post office, but the convenience of being enabled to obtain the general documentary stamps at the post office is a decided one and our alert and efficient post office department is entitled to the gratitude of all, particularly stamp collectors, for its progressive measure. The formality that heretofore has attended the purchase of a revenue stamp is to be banished, it seems.

SERVICE 1110 Milwaukee St., Denver, Colo. SATISFACTION

Confederate—While on the subject of taxes, occasion is taken to refer to the Confederate war taxes in 1863. It has been observed by collectors and commented upon by writers on the Confederacy that no revenue stamps were issued by the South, although we read somewhere that at one time the issue of revenue stamps was under advisement by the Confederate authorities. One reason why the lead of the North was not followed was because of the different character of the taxation levied by the Confederacy. The following extracts from the schedules approved April 24th, 1863, are submitted to illustrate this remark and because there is an historical side to them as well:

"On the value of all naval stores, salt, wine, spirituous liquors, tobacco, manufactured and unmanufactured cotton, flour, sugar, molasses, syrup, rice, and other agricultural products held or owned on the 1st of July, 1863, and not necessary for family consumption for the unexpired portion of the year 1863, and of the growth or production of any year preceding the year 1863, a tax of eight per centum is levied; and on all moneys, bank notes, or other currency on hand or on deposit; the value of all credits on which the interest has not been paid, held or owned on the 1st day of July, 1863, and not employed in a business, the income of which is taxed under said act, and all moneys held, owned or deposited beyond the limits of the Confederate States, are to be valued at the current rate of exchange in Confederate Treasury notes.

On all profits made by any person, partnership or corporation, during the year 1862, by the purchase within the Confederate States and sale, during said year, of any flour, corn, bacon, pork, oats, hay, rice, salt, iron, or the manufacture of iron, sugar, molasses, made of cane, leather, woolen clothes, shoes, boots, blankets and cotton clothes, but not to apply to purchases and sales made in the due course of the retail business, a tax of ten per centum is to be levied and collected on the 1st day of July, 1863, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable."

Hero—We follow the movements of that great and good philatelic genius, Ellis Parker Butler, with admiring eyes and for that reason we chronicle the fact that he has a boys' story, "An Amateur Censor," in the November number of St. Nicholas, in which the triumph of philately is recorded. As reviewer in the Providence Journal says: "The story of how a little Belgian stamp collector aided his father in exposing a clever correspondence between German spies through his knowledge of stamps, will make every boy turn to his own collection with renewed vigor."

Where—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who wrote to President Rutherford B. Hayes for some Executive Department stamps for his collection. Is this o. f. c. comparing notes about Billy Sunday when he was "tenth man" with the Chicago National League club with the old-fashioned dealer who would not have chairs in his shop because he said that customers would stay too long, if he did?

Mayhap—Said a saucy correspondent: "If some chaps who know so much about stamps had a few of them, the picture would be framed prettily enough." Yea, and if some of the lads who have twenty-five dollar albums filled with stamps knew more about them, the banners would snap more proudly in the wind.

Corrected—Our kindly mentor, the Rev. Joseph Dreyer, Westerly, Rhode Island, writes: "On p. 311, col. 2, art. 'Belgian Cancellations,' the following text appears: 'The stamp issuing period of Belgium involves but two reigns, the long one of Leopold II and the present one of Albert.' What about Leopold I who reigned from 1831 to 1865, and who sanctioned the issue of Belgium's first stamps in 1849?" The article was one that was clipped from a contemporary, but at that there was no excuse for overlooking the palpable mis-statement. We could almost from memory recall that Leopold II succeeded to the Belgian throne in 1865, vide the historical preamble in the old International album. Worse is yet to come. In the issue of November 17th, on the editorial page, it is said that it was thirty-two years ago that the old three cent green passed from the scene. This is a double mistake. The rate was reduced in 1883 and the three cent vermilion was issued in 1887. The intention was to say that the stamp passed in 1883. These mistakes are of the pestiferous kind and usually are due to carelessness or rather to the necessity to hurry too fast, at times.

Slight—A reader, Mr. J. Rausch, has taken the trouble to send us a number of minor varieties, one of which stirs us to a mild display of interest and this is saying something when it is known that we view these things with great calmness, as a rule. Mr. Rausch has found a cunning little cap on the "9" of 1492 on the eight cent Columbian issue in both a used and an unused specimen and he compares them in importance with the capped two cent, 1890 varieties.

Asked—Mr. C. W. Goddard, Kalkaska, Michigan, asks a question, which we shall answer before giving the question. Once would a variety of the kind be received with enthusiasm. A second episode would find half of the audience leaving and a third would have the people hooting. "Once is enough."

"Question: Regarding some sheets of the 1902 issue of the 2c imperforate, which have just been sent to Washington to be perforated, and are now on the market perf. 11—Is this a legitimate variety? Of course it is all government work, but it doesn't look right. I have just sent for a copy, and will have one. This seems to be an opportunity for someone with a few sheets of some older stamps, imperforate, to send them in and have them perforated with a late perforation, and then unload them for a great many times the value of the original value as imperforate stamps. I'll buy this time, but it looks to me as though this had opened up a field that is not really legitimate."

MOSS GROWN.

As to the side-splitting jape about selecting the stamp in the middle of the sheet, a contrib with an undecipherable sig wishes to know whether the novelty lies in applying it to the new stamp or in ascribing the inquiry to a Swede. Answer: Yes. There are no new wheezes. All one can do is to bring the old ones up to date.—Chicago Tribune.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

(It has been decided to publish A and B of the Dictionary in booklet form instead of waiting for the entire work to be completed. Illustrations have been added and a very attractive and useful book is the result. When you do any business with this office add 12c for booklet and it will be mailed you when issued. —EDITOR.)

DAHOMEY.—A French colony on the Guinea coast of Africa between Lagos and German Togoland. It has an area of about 60,000 square miles, with a coast line of some 70 miles. Its population numbers a little over a million, most of the natives being negroes belonging to the Fou branch of the Ewe family. This colony represents the former native kingdom of Dahomey, which for nearly 200 years was one of the chief centres of the grossest fetish idolatry, involving an enormous number of human sacrifices every year. These abominations were put an end to when the French subdued the country in 1892. The first postage stamps were issued for use in Dahomey in 1899.

DALA.—This word appears on the $1 stamps of the Hawiian Islands and is a literal interpretation of the native pronunciation of "dollar".

DAMMAN, BENJAMIN LOUIS AUGUSTE.—A French engraver who engraved the dies for the 1900-4 stamps of French Congo and the 1902 stamps for French Somali Coast. He also engraved the dies for the King Christian stamps of Denmark issued in 1904-5.

DAMUS PETIMUS QUE VICISSIM.—A motto appearing on most of the stamps of British Guiana. It means "We give and we seek in turn", and evidently has reference to the interchange of products between the Colony and other countries.

DANIELSEN, CH.—A Danish engraver who engraved the dies for the 1, 2, 3, 4, and 15 öre stamps of Denmark issued in 1905.

DANISH WEST INDIES.—Three of the West Indian Islands, St. Croix, St. Thomas and St. John, formed a colony of Denmark under this general title. Their combined area is 142 square miles and they have a population of about 33,000. The first postage stamps for this colony were issued in November, 1855.

DANMARK.—The native name for Denmark as shown upon all the stamps of that country.

DANSK VESTINDISKE.—The Danish rendering of "Danish West Indies" as shown upon the postage stamps of this possession.

DANVILLE.—A city in the State of Virginia having a population of over 18,000. It is philatelically interesting from the fact that in 1861, the then Postmaster issued special 5c stamps for local use until the regular Confederate States stamps were ready.

DARDANELLES. — Geographically speaking, this is a narrow channel which separates Europe from Asia and united the Sea of Marmora with the Archipelago, but it is also understood to refer to the territory on each side of this channel. Since 1909, Russia has maintained consular post-offices here at which stamps overprinted "Dardanelles" have been used.

DARDENNE, MR.—A printer of Mauritius who, in December, 1859, produced a supply of 1d and 2d stamps for that colony by a lithographic process.

DARGENT.—An Antwerp engraver who engraved the dies for the 1c, 2c, and 5c stamps of Belgium issued in 1865.

DATIA.—The modern name for the Indian Native State of Duttia as shown upon the postage stamps issued there since 1898.

DAVIS, H. E.—The Postmaster of Pleasant Shade, Virginia, in 1861, who issued special 5c stamps for local use pending the arrival of the regular labels for use throughout the Confederate States.

DAVIS, P. & SON.—A firm of printers in Pietermaritzburg, Natal, who produced the first stamps for that colony by embossing various designs on different colored papers. They also printed and perforated a supply of stamps for the South African Republic in 1874.

DAVIS'S PENNY POST.—A local post of Baltimore in connection with which special 1c stamps were issued.

D. B.—An overprint found on certain early South Australian stamps used during the period 1868-74 on the departmental correspondence of the "Destitute Board". These stamps were superseded in 1874 by the series overprinted "OS" for the use of all the government departments.

DE.—An overprint found on the stamps of Ecuador used in the province of Tunguragua in 1902-3. During a disastrous fire which devastated Guayaquil in July, 1902, a large quantity of postage stamps stored in the Government building there were either destroyed or stolen. Presuming the stamps might have been stolen and to prevent their use the governors of the various provinces were instructed to apply a control mark to their stocks on hand before issue. The word "DE" was adopted for this purpose by the governor of the province of Tunguragua and this exists in at least four distinct types.

DEARBORN. — An engraver who engraved the dies for the 5c and 13c stamps of the Hawaiian Islands issued in 1853. These stamps were printed in Boston, U. S. A.

DEATH MASK STAMPS. — The name by which the para values of the 1904 stamps of Serbia are popularly known. The name arose owing to the fact that if the stamps are placed upside down a third face can be distinctly traced out of the features of the two portraits shown. It is, of course, nothing but a freak of engraving though at the time the stamps were issued a legend was circulated to the effect that this face is a reproduction of the "death-mask" of the murdered King Alexander and that it was introduced into the design on purpose.

DECCAN.—(See Hyderabad).

DEDEAGH.—The French rendering of Dede-Agaeh, a seaport of Turkey-in-Europe having a population of over 3,000. The French government has maintained a Consular office at this port which undertakes the transaction of postal business for a considerable period and since 1893 special stamps have been issued for the use of this office.

DEDEAGATZ.—One of the towns occupied by the Greeks during the war of 1912-13 at which certain Bulgarian stamps were overprinted with a Greek inscription in three lines, for use there.

DEFECTIVE.—Philatelists use this adjective in referring to overprints, lithographic transfers, etc., which differ in some ways from the normal varieties. Thus a "defective surcharge" may be one in which part of the lettering fails to print properly; a "defective transfer" is one that has been carelessly or accidentally damaged in being applied to the lithographic stone, and a "defective impression" may apply to any badly printed stamp.

DEFICIENTE.—An inscription shown upon the postage due stamps of Ecuador and Nicaragua. It means "deficient" and refers to the deficient postage to be collected on the delivery of insufficiently stamped postal packages.

DEFICIT.—This word meaning "deficit" or "deficiency" appears on the postage due stamps of Peru.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—(1403)—Quite a number of provisional Tax Paid stamps have appeared and we are greatly indebted to Mr. W. H. McCart and Mr. Albert C. Reukauff for lists from which we have compiled the following:

Cigarettes.—8 Cigarettes, Series of 1910, rubber stamp surcharged "Act of 1917" in three lines of purple ink. Also inverted.

Cigars.—50 Cigars, Series of 1916, printed surcharged "Act of 1917—Class B" in caps and small type, two lines, in red; same, "Class B" only, caps and a large cap in red; same, "B" only, large Italic cap in red; same, rubber stamp surcharge "Act of 1917—Class B" in caps 5 mm. high, in red.

Tobacco.—2 oz. Tobacco, Series of 1910, printed surcharge "1⅝ ounces Tobacco" in caps in top line, "Act of Oct. 3rd, 1917" mixed type in second line, in red.

Beer.—Quarter Barrel, Series of 1914, rubber stamp surcharge "Act of 1917" reading up in purple; same, reading down; Sixth Barrel, Series of 1914, rubber stamp surcharge "Act of 1917" in red; same, inverted surcharge; same, double surcharge; same, black surcharge; One Barrel, Series of 1914, rubber stamp surcharge "Act of 1917" in red.

Fermented Liquor.—Quarter Barrel, Series of 1916, rubber stamp surcharge "Act of 1917" reading up in purple; same, reading down; same, red surcharge; same, black surcharge; Half Barrel, Series of 1916, rubber stamp surcharge "Act of 1917" (in caps) in purple; same, surcharged "Act of 1917" in red; same, black surcharge; same, black surcharge inverted.

Mr. McCart has also shown us a new Cigarette stamp similar to the Class "$1.25 per M," which it supersedes:

Cigarettes.—16 Cigarettes, inscribed "Class A" at top, "Act of 1917—Series of 1917" in two lines at bottom, blue on blue watermarked paper.

Mr. Chas. S. Thompson writes as follows: "The revenue people have gone back to using some of the low values of 1914 Wines & Cordials, as the 1916 issue is entirely too large, and also lacks gum. I have not had a chance to examine any of the re-issue yet, so I don't know whether they are on the unwatermarked paper, perf. 11, or just merely remainders of the former issue. However, I suspect the latter alternative to be the correct one."

(1404)—Mr. W. O. Thiede writes two letters as follows: (1) "I have before me two of the new 3c envelopes and it may be of interest to your readers to know that one of them, size 13 white, has the letterings of die E of the 2c, that the left 3 is perpendicular, whereas the right 3 inclines forward. That I have another 3c envelope, size 5, which has the letterings of die F, that the both 3's incline forward. I have also had for some time a 1c envelope, green on amber, size 5, and 1c green on white, size 8. The two dies are entirely different and are not like any dies of the 2c." (2) "I wish to supplement my letter of yesterday with the addition of a new variety of 3c envelopes which came to me shortly after I had written you. I failed to state that the heads of the two varieties mentioned in my earlier letter were of the small type, whereas this one I have before me is a large head and the 3's do not incline in either direction but are in perfect alignment. The lettering of this latest envelope is die A as the readers of the WEEKLY know the dies, but die B according to the new arrangement in the latest Philatelic Gazette. The envelope I have before me is size 5 white. The watermark on the previous varieties is the latest type with the 1915 running directly across the top, whereas this envelope has it running from the top to the opposite corner at the bottom."

Mr. H. M. Drown shows us the 3c envelope stamp on blue paper.

Envelopes.
1c green on amber, Die B.
3c violet on blue, Die A.
3c violet on white, Die C.

The dies are given in the order in which they appear, and in this regard, we believe, the order of the 2c dies should not be changed, the doing of it necessitating the renumbering of collections and stocks, which is a costly operation.

(1400)—In the Philatelic Gazette for November an attempt is made, by Mr. Joseph B. Leavy, its editor of new issues, to discredit the existence of the 30c unwatermarked perf. 10. At this time, our only reply thereto is: The publishers of the Philatelic Gazette were loaned the entire sheet of the 30c unwatermarked perf. 10 stamps, which are in our possession, and which Mr. Burgess Smith, technical expert of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, pronounced could not be anything else but unwatermarked paper. A photograph was taken of this sheet and the publishers of the Philatelic Gazette, backed by Mr. A. E. Owen and Mr. John N. Luff, so we are informed, located two spots in the entire sheet which they claim appear to be the letters "S." We had the pleasure of examining the photograph and wish to inform our readers that we could not see any watermark whatsoever, excepting by a fanciful flight of the imagination.

We intend to prove conclusively that the entire sheet of 30c stamps, unwatermarked perf. 10 in our possession, as well as forty-three other stamps from another sheet, all that we have had of these stamps, are exactly what we have stated them to be. Until our "case" is entirely "drawn up" we trust our readers will forbear passing judgment.

By an unfortunate circumstance, we did pass upon same 30c stamps as being unwatermarked. There were fifty of them, supposed to have come from the same sheet as the forty-three copies mentioned above, but upon benzining them we at once admitted that they were watermarked, and then by comparison we discovered that they were not from the same sheet as the forty-three copies of unwatermarked stamps.

Complete details and information regarding these stamps will be set forth at a later writing.

BARBADOS.—(1404)—Mr. Charles S. Thompson, submitting a copy of the War Tax stamp chronicled in our issue of November 24th, states that it was received from a correspondent, who gave October 15th as the date of issue.

CANADA.—(1403)—The discovery of varieties in the dies of stamps always leads to further discoveries. It is a strange thing that few examine their stamps minutely until someone has been studious enough to discover something, and then the entire philatelic world is set agog and the search begins and generally ends with the making of further discoveries. Mr. Forgie, a correspondent of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., discovered two dies of the 2c + 1Tc, and the Scott firm, through their Circular, announced the discovery. Mr. Forgie found the carmine stamp in what has been designated the original design, Die 1, with horizontal line under the "T" of "1Tc," and the brown stamp in both Die 1 and Die 2 with a short horizontal line, two diagonal lines and five dots under the "T." Mr. Norman Marshall advises us that he has found a copy of the carmine stamp Die 2, and Mr. Philip A. Livingston shows us a copy of this, so we now know that it exists, though it must be rare, as Mr. Forgie did not claim to know of it, although he had —The manager of the Beaver Stamp Co., J. C. Astwood, has been drafted for service and for the time being will be compelled to discontinue his stamp business. Mr. Astwood has been using adlet space for several months.

—"I beg to report that Peter Denker of 1836 Wallace Ave., New York City, is guilty of 'substitution' in its most aggravated form. Sheets and books sent to him at his request have been altered so as to be almost unrecognizable. Poor copies have been put in place of good ones, and cheap stamps where good ones have been removed. The report slip and remittance look correct, but further investigation shows the condition stated. The young man practically admits his guilt, but makes a restitution amounting to only a small fraction of his theft, and when further pushed takes refuge in impudence followed by silence.—HERBERT W. MASON.

—In past months B. H. Fehlig has advertised occasionally and this week he begins a contract for displayed space taking a top of column position on page 4. Mr. Fehlig has just removed to Denver from St. Louis and having established himself in business will be heard from regularly through our columns. He has had ten years' experience in the stamp business, has a large and varied stock, and will make "Service and Satisfaction" his slogan. He writes us that the firm will handle no remainders, reprints or other questionable stock and will publish monthly a house organ "Stamp Service" which will be different from the rest and free to all who request it. Orders will be filled the same day as received and no due bills will be sent out. This platform is a good one to stand on.

—If you want your advt. to be read make it lively! For instance, here is one from the Orlando, Fla., "Sentinel." Pernicious Penslip, pray excuse us, Parnassus Penflip will wager a cookie that every "Sentinel" subscriber read it:—

A CARD.

To Those Who Like to Know All:
Mrs. and Mr. C. W. Pulis of Concord Park are lawfully married, so kindly mind your own business and not talk about any one you don't know anything about.
MRS. C. W. PULIS.

—If you must remit in stamps, send denominations from 3c to 30c. 3c, 6c and 12c are especially desired now that the 2c postage rate is obsolete.

—When you renew your subscription, be sure and order some books. Our list is growing and the patronage of this branch of our business will tend to increase our efforts in this direction.

(1403)—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred sends us information regarding the plate numbers of the Confederation stamp which we asked for, and we extend our thanks to our kind correspondent. Mrs. Oughtred states that she has had Plates Nos. A3, A4, A5 and A6 from lower right and also from lower left panes, and Nos. A7 and A8 from lower right panes, that she believes Nos. A7 and A8 exist on the lower left panes as well, but that she has not found any of the Confederation stamps with Nos. A1 or A2. Mr. Norman Marshall sends us information, but it does not add to Mrs. Oughtred's list.

Mr. O. Kendall sends us the new King George stamped envelopes, 1c and 2c. The dies are similar to the King Edward, with head changed and with the value given as "1 CENT 1" or "2 CENTS 2" instead of "ONE CENT" or "TWO CENTS," respectively.

Envelopes.

1c light blue-green on white.
2c carmine on white.

(1404)—Mr. Benj. Cadbury shows us the "Alberta Winter Fair Calgary Dec. 11-14, 1917" cancellation, used at Calgary, Nov. 8.

CHINA.—Mr. Theodore Siddall sends us two booklets of stamps which were issued on October 10th. He states that the booklets are sold at the post offices for the exact face value of the stamps, which is $1 Mexican per book. (The U. S. value of $1 Mexican is now 65 cents.) One book is pink and yellow, floral design, and Mr. Siddall sends us a translation of the inscription, which is in Chinese: "Postage Stamp Book. This book contains 28 1-cent stamps, 24 3-cent stamps." The other book is pale green and yellow, also floral design, but differing from the pink and yellow one, and the translation of the inscription is as follows: "Postage Stamp Book. This book contains 4 10-cent stamps, 18 3-cent stamps, 6 1-cent stamps." The rates of postage are given on the backs, the same on both books, and are: Local letters, 1c for every 20 grams; Letters for China, 3c every 20 grams; Letters for Hong Kong, Wei-hai-wei, Macau, 4c every 20 grams; Letters for Japan, 3c every 15 grams; Letters for Union Countries, 10c for first 20 grams, 6c each additional 20 grams.

FRANCE.—This country is adding to the advertising cancellation emissions. Mr. Benjamin Cadbury shows us two new ones, but one is incomplete, only partly falling on the envelope, the other reading in three lines "Pour Paris Mettre le Numero de l'Arrondissement" (For Paris add the number of the district). Paris is laid out in districts, and postal addresses have for some time been accustomed to having "IX," "X," "XVI," etc., tacked onto them, these numbers assisting in the sorting and delivery of mail matter, each number referring to the district of like number. The request in the ad. cancellation is probably an endeavor to make the use of the district numbers more general.

HAYTI.—(1403)—We have a letter from Mr. Frank P. Brown in reference to matters put forth in our Chronicle of November 17th, 1917. Mr. Brown writes: "Referring to your new issue column, I see you state that your Hayti correspondent says certain stamps were not sold by the Hayti Post Office. I think he is very much in error on this, as I imported these direct from Porto Prince about two years ago, when they were current stamps. This applies to Nos. 219 to 234. No. 242 was not received from the Post Office there, nor do I remember having seen the stamp."

RUSSIA.—(Offices in China.)—(1389)—Mr. Theodore Siddall writes to us as follows: "The Russian China stamps with denomination surcharged are the only ones that are now available for postage in China, but the old issues that were until a short time past still current may be exchanged for the new issue at any time up to Sept. 15, 1918. These that may be exchanged include Scott's Nos. 3, 17, 18 and up to No. 41; the others were demonetized some time back."

SALVADOR.—(1404)—In connection with the "S" surcharges, the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. gives us permission to publish the following extract of letter addressed to Dr. V. M. Berthold by Mr. Florentin Souza, Postmaster General:—

"5th October, 1917.

of Berna, after which they were sold to the public. The circulation, however, lasted only eight or ten days, because it was found that the printed S could be imitated for fraudulent purposes.

Some imperforated specimens were found in use, and upon investigation we discovered them to be genuine, having come out of our stamp department, possibly through oversight of the printing office.

Eight values, 1-2-5-6-10-12-50 and 100 cents, were used ordinarily of this issue.

The 100 cents is the only value placed in circulation with surcharge "OFICIAL" of the issue Palace "S." Owing to the stated reason that the printed S might be imitated, this surcharge was substituted by "1915" engraved.

By act or decree of May 29, 1916, the sale was accorded at public auction in my office, of the unused issue S of the eight mentioned values, adding 589,250 specimens, including the imperforated stamps and also 23,100 of the surcharge 1915 which turned out to be errors in the engraving and printing. The sale was made to the highest bidder, Mr. Manuel de J. Tablas, with legal formalities.

Surcharge in red Palace Stamps.—By act of April 30, 1917, this issue was decreed and placed in circulation, having complied with the regulation of the U. P. U. by forwarding 3 sets to each Administration through the International Bureau of Berna. This surcharge was made on of which, all are in circulation but the 1, 2 and 5 cents, which have all been sold.

Surcharge black line over OFICIAL Palace Stamps.—This was ordered by act of February 8, 1917, having issued 34,000 stamps value 2 cents, and 31,000 of 5 cents, which were placed in circulation after sending the corresponding sets as per U. P. U. regulations. This issue is, however, all exhausted.

With reference to the surcharges mentioned and also to a new one which we are making at present, I wish to explain that we find ourselves at times nearly out of some values, and this brings the necessity of the surcharges on some values of which we have large amounts. The principal causes of this condition are increase in our mails and delay in obtaining our orders from the American Bank Note Company, due to present war conditions.

I, Florentin Souza, Postmaster General of the Republic of El Salvador, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct extract of a letter dated October 5th, 1917, written by me and addressed to Dr. V. M. Berthold of New York City.

San Salvador, 2nd November, 1917.

Official communications of this kind are very valuable to the students of Philately, and we appreciatively thank the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. for their permission to publish the above. We will not add any comment, with the exception that we note the 100 centavos with "Oficial" in the design, as we understand from the above, was the only value with the overprint "S" which was placed in circulation, besides the eight values of regular adhesives with overprint "S," and the imperforate "errors" of these.

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO.—The Economist Stamp Co. shows us another new issue of War Tax stamps. The 1d scarlet is overprinted "WAR TAX" in smaller sans-serif capitals in two lines, the type known as condensed Gothic, the letters being well spaced. We do not know whether any varieties occur.

War Tax Stamp.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Mr. W. G. Watt writes as follows: "In looking over a batch of Union of South Africa, I came across a copy of the ½d which is perf. horizontally only and is evidently a coil stamp. This one is part of a paste-up pair, as the stub of the other stamp with control mark is attached at the back at the lower side. Have not noticed this variety listed and pass on the item as possibly being of interest."

Mr. Adam Gruenig writes as follows: "I am sending an envelope, which is rather an interesting souvenir of the War in Africa. When the English forces captured German South West Africa, they also captured the German stationery, and as they seem to be 'hooverizing' down there, too, they took the stuff over to Pretoria, and seem to be making good use of it. The three lines in the corner read: 'Kaiserl. Bakteriologisches Institut fur Deutsch Sudwestafrika Gamams bei Windhuk' (Imperial Bacteriologic Institute for German South West Africa)." The cover shows the three lines of return card barred out and "On His Majesty's Service" and other English information printed thereon.

G. BIXBY, 570 Rutherford Ave., Charlestown, Mass., Supt. of Sales and Bourse.

Nov. 20, 1917.

The 392nd (regular) meeting of the Society held this evening proved to be one of the best attended for a long time. There were 37 members and 7 visitors present and all seemed to enjoy looking over the collections submitted in the two competitions. The regular routine of the business meeting over, Mr. Kelly of Washington, D. C., made a few well-chosen remarks and was followed by one of our former members, the Rev. John L. Kilbon. Mr. Kilbon was a member from 1892 to 1899, his membership number being 68. He spoke of the old times in the club and of the difference in the stamps sold at auctions then and now. He was warmly applauded when he had finished. Mr. Batchelder solicited contributions for buying a second liberty bond. This was started in the Council meeting and met with instant success. In about twenty minutes he had been assured of about $35.00. If any of the members wish to help out they may send such contribution to the Secretary but the committee does not wish anyone to subscribe more than 1 dollar. The applications of Mr. Joseph Novello, Mr. Tilton S. Bell (a former member) and Mr. James W. Tyson for resident membership and of Mr. Albert Calvert for junior membership, were read and will be posted at the December meeting. It is intended to make the December meeting particularly interesting to the younger collectors around Boston. The committee, Mr. E. M. Carpenter, chairman, wishes every member to bring a sealed package to be given away. He will in return receive a package. The President hopes that the members will contribute one or more good stamps apiece to be sold for the benefit of the Entertainment Fund. The competitions each had six entries. Mr. F. S. Cook received first prize in the War Stamp contest and Mr. Brown second. In the contest for "Scandinavian" countries the Secretary was greatly surprised and pleased to win first, and Mr. Sawyer received the second.

Adjournment was made at 10.00 P. M., with many of the members still looking over the stamps, especially those of Mr. Oscar Hill, which were not entered in the competition, as he donated the medals. His collection would, of course, have easily taken the honors.

U. S. REVENUE STAMPS.
DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

CHAPTER XL.

1898 Roulettes and Perforates.

All the documentary stamps up to the $50, and also the proprietaries, were rouletted until they had been in use about eighteen months. The roulette measures about 5¾ and is apparently the same as was in use on the playing card stamps of the 1894 series and the proprietaries of 1880. About December 1, 1899, the 2c documentary appeared with what was called the "new" roulette. This is not a true roulette at all, but is a perforation, the holes being in the shape of slots or hyphens, hence the name hyphen hole perf. Single stamps with this perforation appear to be rouletted, but nearly always can be distinguished from the true roulettes by measuring the number of points. The hyphen perfs. measure 7 points in two centimeters (20 mm.).

The entire proprietary set and the documentaries up to the $50 printed after about December 31, 1899, were hyphen perfed and all of the proprietary set and the 1898 documentaries from 1c to $3 inclusive were issued and exist with this peculiar perforation. The orange ½c stamps were all printed in 1898 and therefore never existed with hyphen perf. The ½c gray did exist with this perf, but none appear to have been issued. The reason is that 38,724,000 of the ½c stamps—including the orange—were printed, but only 18,704,400 were issued. All except 8,208,000 that were printed in the fiscal year 1901 were printed before July 1, 1899, and as there were no ½c stamps issued after June 30, 1901, the balance of rouletted ½c on hand was so large that there was no need for those printed after June 30, 1900. It is rather difficult to understand why these eight million odd were printed at all since there were eleven million too many without them.

The quantities of the $5 orange, $10 black and $50 brown on hand December 1, 1899, were very large and in all probability none of these stamps were printed after that date. There were no $10 stamps delivered to the Internal Revenue office in the year ending June 30, 1900. The $30 red, of which there were 64,000 in all, was not printed after June 30, 1899. This stamp was first delivered to the Internal Revenue office December 2, 1898, was first issued in February, 1899, and last issued in November, 1900. The last issue was two sheets and none were issued in September or October, 1900. There were only 19,456 issued—less than one-third of those printed. The 3c, 4c and 40c documentary were last issued in May, 1901, and the 80c stamp followed them into retirement the next month.

Owing to the unfortunate fact that the reports of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and of the Bureau of Internal revenue, (here called the Internal Revenue office to avoid confusion), disregard changes in color, design and perforation and deal only with denominations, it is rarely possible to separate the varieties of the 1898 series as a philatelist would classify them. The writer regrets that in most cases he is able to give only the total quantity of each denomination issued and that the reader must make his own estimates of the proportions of rouletted and hyphen perfed stamps. The same applies to changes in colors and designs. Not the slightest hint as to the number of the ½c orange printed or issued is available.

On page 41 of the 1917 edition of the Standard catalog is stated—"There are two styles of rouletting for the proprietary and documentary stamps of the 1898 series, an ordinary rouletting and one by which small rectangles of the paper are cut out, usually called hyphen-hole perforation. With the exception of Nos. 3025, 3026 and 3039 to 3042 inclusive, all the stamps of the two series exist with both roulettes and are worth about the same prices with either variety."

This innocent looking paragraph carries its stinger in the tail. The portion which is here italicised for emphasis is not illogical—quite the contrary. Since any stamp is worth what can be obtained for it and one can readily get just as much for a scarce hyphen as for a common roulette, of course one is worth just as much as the other. However, lest the reader conclude there is no greater difficulty in securing a complete set of the hyphen perfs. than of the rouletted stamps because of what the catalog says he is invited to consider an incident that perhaps is pertinent to the subject.

H. F. COLMAN. SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

The present writer cannot vouch for the literal truth of what he is about to relate and yet he feels that the anecdote can hardly mislead the reader, certainly not to the extent that many diligent readers of the Standard catalog have been mislead by the last clause of the paragraph quoted.

The story is that some years ago, while a distinguished citizen of Hartford, Connecticut, was still alive, there occurred more than the usual amount of criticism directed at the Standard catalog and the short-comings thereof. Just at that time the power behind the catalog throne chanced to be looking up a date or an event in American history and among other standard works consulted Bill Nye's "History of the United States." Reading along as far as the part about Daniel Webster's speech and the remarks regarding a rather well-known book written by another noted American named Webster, he was struck with the force of Nye's criticism. Nye said Noah Webster's book was wordy and lacking in plot. "By Jove!" exclaimed the catalog man, "maybe that's what's the matter with our catalog." Losing no time, he went to Hartford and was successful in securing Mr. C's consent to having C. touch up the catalog here and there and put a little life in it wherever, as appeared to C., a little life might make an improvement. Mr. C. sort of demurred at first and said that although perhaps he'd had some experience of one kind or another in writing books, he really didn't know much about stamps, but the catalog man wouldn't listen to any objections and told C. he didn't have to know anything about stamps, all he had to do was to liven up the catalog and fix it so a human being of ordinary intelligence could understand it, and let it go at that.

The story certainly sounds plausible, and it has never been denied. The writer of this article feels that in justice to the departed, as well as to the stamp collectors of the present and of the years to come, it would be no more than fitting if those who now edit and publish the Standard catalog would arrange to print Mark Twain's name after the clause quoted above and any others from which his quaint and genial humor is reflected. Regarding the quotations on certain match, medicine and other stamps that may have been adjusted by America's most famous humorist it would not be practicable to use even his pen name in full, but "M. T." in small letters placed beside those prices would ensure the eternal gratitude of American philately.

CHAPTER XLI.

Series of 1898, Color Changes.

As had been the case during the Civil War, the government in 1898-1902, suffered considerable trouble and loss of revenue from the re-use of washed stamps, and about the time of the appearance of the hyphen-hole perforation, there was a ruling making it obligatory to cancel all denominations from the 10c up, by three parallel cuts in each stamp. From December 1899, the great majority of the documentaries down to the 10c, have cut or punched cancellations, and this is one reason why the earlier hyphen-perfed stamps are relatively so scarce "uncut". Still, there were many of the higher value documentaries used uncut and the story of these stamps after 1899, to the end of the tax in 1902, is just one failure after another—every method used by the Bureau to produce stamps that could not be washed and used again, except, perhaps, the last attempt, was unsuccessful.

In January, 1900, it was planned to change the colors of the four lower dollar values, presumably to render them less easy to wash. The new colors were to be $1 red, $3 red brown, (lake?), $5 blue, $10 purple. In June, 1900, the $1 appeared in red and although the writer finds no record of the appearance of the $3 lake until about December 1, 1900, it was probably issued in August of that year. The issue of $3 stamps in the latter part of 1900, was:—

June	23,808	October	10,624
July	9,088	November	5,888
August	84,608	December	80,000
September	2,944

The unusually large quantity issued in August is rather significant, and as we know the issue of $3 grays began in November, perhaps we can approximate the maximum number of the $3 stamps issued in lake by assuming that those issued in August, September and October were all lake. This gives a total of 98,176, but it is doubtful if these were all sold to the public. The stamp is too scarce, especially uncut, for so many to have been used.

The Washington Notes in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY of October 25, 1900, state "The $1, $3, $5, and $10 Documentary in new colors were delivered to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue sometime previously, but only the $1 red has been seen." There is no other evidence that the new $5 or $10 stamps were ever printed, or if printed, in what colors. Certainly none were ever issued. The Washington Notes of November 29, 1900, in MEKEEL'S state there were believed to have been delivered by the Bureau 16,000 sheets of the $1 red, (2,048,000 stamps), and 2,500 sheets of the $3 lake, (320,000 stamps).

DOCUMENTARY AND PARCEL POST.

Wm. T. Kimball submits for our inspection a specimen of the new 1c documentary. The color is red and it is oblong rectangular in shape. The numeral in the center is uncolored and has an engine turned background. The only lettering is "U. S. I. R." in the corners and "Documentary—Cent" in the circle. We quote from the Monthly Circular:—

"There will be two classes of adhesive stamps printed, Documentary and Parcel Post. The Documentary denominations are: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 10, 25, 40, 50, 80 cents, $1, $2, $3, $5, $10, $30, $60, $100, $500, $1,000. The design of the stamps from 1c to 80c is oblong rectangular in shape, with the denomination in large figures in the center. The $1 and $2 stamps have a Liberty head in the center, with the denomination at the bottom of the stamps. The Parcel Post stamps will be from 1c to 4c."

TO THE CURRENT 3c.

(Following the illustrious example of Eugene Field with his lines to the 3c green, Walt Mason breaks into poetry with the 3c stamp now so popular as his inspiration. We have received this "poem" from several subscribers, but the first at hand came from Mr. Wolsieffer, who found it in the Philadelphia Bulletin.—Ed.)

The three cent stamp is lavender; my aunt admires the hue, although it nearly spavined her, surrendering the two. Its back has costly mucilage, and that will make it stick! I find it, in this crucial age, a tasty thing to lick. I'm tired of licking travelers who'd sell me books and lamps, and darners, knitters, ravellers—I'd rather lick some stamps. The three cent stamp is beautiful, much smoother than the two; I feel I'm acting dutiful when I buy up a few. I send my junk to editors with stamps that please the eye, and stand-off notes to creditors which make them shed a sigh. The two cent stamp was hideous, it broke the highbrow's heart; it had effect insidious upon our native art. From vandals and barbarians its hue was handed down; for red is for vulgarians who like to paint the town. But lavender's luxurious, a tint for the elect, and it will make us furious to quit it, I expect.

WALT MASON.

A WORD FROM THE FRONT.

U. S. EXPEDITIONARY FORCES,
FRANCE, Nov. 12, 1917.

TO THE EDITOR:

MEKEEL'S had been coming to me regularly for over ten years until the present "mess" started and I slipped into a uniform. I have been in the Army over half a year now, and on this side over three months, and as I am settling down to my work here, I miss MEKEEL'S.

We have few facilities for forwarding money, but herewith I enclose 3 frs. in French postage stamps, trusting that you may be able to use them in such a way as to give me credit for another year, for I know my old subscription must have expired by this time. You will note that the 1 and 5 centimes are on the newest lot of G. C. (Grand Consommation) paper, with particles of blue silk thread. Possibly you have noted these before.

When I came over I left a collection, mounted in eight loose leaf Scott albums and numbering into the thousands—brought nary a stamp with me—and now I am starting all over again. A few days ago I achieved 600 varieties—and I have some forty U. S. where I had many times that number.

NEW HIGH VALUES FOR BERMUDA.

Our Agent has kindly sent us a copy of the Bermuda Colonist, of September 20th, in which the following announcement appears:—

"At the House of Assembly, yesterday afternoon, the Stamp Duties Act, 1917, passed its third reading without further comment. For the purpose of carrying out the measures provided for under the Act, Mr. A. W. Bluck moved that a message be sent to His Excellency the Governor, requesting him to take the steps necessary to have printed stamps of new values, viz., 2sh 6d, 5sh, 10sh and £1. It is also suggested that the new stamps shall bear the effigy of King George on the face instead of that now in use, as, it is stated in the message, Bermuda is almost the only Colony not bearing that distinction at the present time."

It is uncertain whether these new values will be for postage or only for revenue purposes, but we are making further enquiries. At any rate it will be a long time before they are ready for use.—Whitfield King's List.

EDITORIAL.

Here—The new revenue stamps arrived concurrently with December first, when the law requiring the payment of taxes by stamps became effective. We understand that the denominations from one cent well up into the dollar values are generally on sale. We have seen different of the values, but shall leave their description to Mr. Mann. The similarity of the dollar values with those of the series of 1914 is a surprise. The distinctive stamps which we understand will be used in payment of the parcel post tax are not available at this writing and the regular documentary stamps are being used instead. It is something of a novelty to buy the revenue stamps over the counter at the post office. We thank Mr. John E. Lord for showing us the first of the revenue stamps.

Seals—The post office department has issued its customary order that the requirement that adhesive seals or stickers when on the address side of the envelope render the matter unmailable, be suspended from December 1st to January 1st, 1918. It is preferred, however, that seals be not placed on the address side of mail matter.

Russia—A reader says that a registered letter received recently from Russia, was not censored and bore a twenty kopec, 1909-12; the place of origin of the letter was Perm in Northeastern Russia.

* * *

Service—It is with great satisfaction that we again record the activities of that prince of philatelists, Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack, in his various activities in the campaign for conservation. In his work as chief of the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, Mr. Pack "has made a food-raising noise that has reverberated in the back yards from Maine to California." Too, we are proud that the ranks of philatelists have been drawn upon so largely for government work of different kinds during our national emergency, while the proportion of our readers who are engaged in the field is very high.

Joke—Here is a newspaper joke that is gaining wide currency that we noticed first in the Chicago Tribune:

Fair customer at stamp window, ten persons waiting: "Have you a three-cent stamp?" [Business of displaying a sheet.] "Thank you so much. I just wanted to see one."

We want every reader of MEKEEL'S to send at once for a

B. H. FEHLIG CO.

SERVICE 1110 Milwaukee St., Denver, Colo. SATISFACTION

Missed—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who gave the name of his Sunday-school teacher as reference in applying for a sheet of foreign stamps on approval? Is this o. f. c. playing Lotto somewhere with the old-fashioned dealer who brought his lunch to the office every day wrapped in brown paper?

Addendum—"What has become of the old-fashioned dealer who charged five cents for a small four-paged price list?" asks Mr. King Thurber, who continues: "He flourished before the day of the dealer who advertised his 'price list for three cent stamp' who, then kowtowed to in this manner, sent his scrimpy list unsealed, under one cent postage. You could not get ahead of the old stamp dealer who, moreover, was apt to be cold, crusty and suspicious (with a number of glorious exceptions) and could not compare in urbanity with the dealer of to-day, although he could in honesty."

Questioned—In the preceding paragraph, we do not know whether Mr. Thurber intended to give his estimate of the honesty of the old-time dealer in comparison with that of the modern dealer any significance. If he did, we take issue with Mr. Thurber as if we had to choose between the dealer of the past and the dealer of the present, we should select him of to-day. We do not need to go into the details of this sordid subject as it is almost certain that Mr. Thurber did not mean to impugn the motives of the modern dealer. Of course, it is without warrant to say that commercial philately now is flawlessly sound. Many of us know that there are weak spots in the dealing fabric, but the average of morality is higher this year of grace than ever before. How are the dealers who are on the fringe of trade to be chastened? Let the dealers' associations and the national philatelic societies purge them from the membership rolls and brand them; and then it would be found that no reputable philatelic publication would give them harbor.

Suspended—From the issue of Everybody's Philatelist dated October, 1917, but just received, it is learned that this "oldest monthly devoted exclusively to stamps" as the publisher puts it, will cease to exist for the time being. The war is assigned as the cause of the suspension, the editor, Dr. John M. Holt, being on temporary duty in the U. S. Army. We deplore the quenching of this brave spirit which for so long a time has inspired readers to a more elevated philatelic outlook, but we know very well what difficulties confront the producer of philatelic print nowadays. We were in hopes that in some way the endowment feature of Everybody's Philatelist would tide over the publication during the present complicated period, even during the absence of the proprietor, but these expectations have gone by the board. We shall applaud the reentry of Dr. Holt's paper in the philatelic arena.

Books—The publication of Mr. Ward's "Stamps of Great Britain," by the Severn-Wylie-Jewett Company at twelve cents is in line with our policy of offering works of the kind at popular prices. Our list of handbooks has grown to be an extensive one and we feel that we have all justification in soliciting support for our endeavor to provide at cost, or less, books of instructive character. It is our desire to inculcate in the mind of the average collector the desirability of fortifying his collection with printed records of the issues that it includes. When the light begins to dawn on the mass of collectors, the sale of helpful treatises of the kind will greatly multiply. In overcoming this reluctance, we shall have our reward; and all philately will benefit through the stabilizing influence of a working literature on stamps. In his valedictory, Dr. Holt said: "If there is any one thing which we would concentrate all our emphasis upon, it is that every serious collector assume a greater personal responsibility in fostering philatelic journalism."

* * *

Evasion—Camouflage, is it? Well, how about the man who drops in at the auction sale all out of breath just too late for the big number which realized a record price and disturbs everybody by his fussing over his ill-luck in getting there just after the only lot which he said he was determined to buy had been sold? He is the imposing looking fellow whose verbal philatelic triumphs would fill a book, but whose stamps, if ever one can manage to see them, emphatically do not fill one.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We are in receipt of a letter from Robert B. Smith, Hackensack, N. J., calling attention to the delay in receiving the November issues of the WEEKLY. Each number was from five to six days in transit from Portland, Maine, to Hackensack, N. J. This is certainly inefficient service, but what can be done by publishers? Mr. Smith writes, "My local postoffice claims that the New York postoffice holds up second and third class matter. I thought you ought to know of this very poor service, but if it be caused by the needs of the government it is of course all right. If not, someone should be prodded." Will subscribers who feel disposed to find fault with the slow handling of newspaper mail realize that by being patient they may contribute their bit to the tremendous work of transportation which the government now has upon its hands and which the public knows but little about?

—At the November meeting of the Somerville Stamp Society, three new members were admitted. Various late issues of war stamps were distributed at face value to the members. W. A. Rowell of Melrose, exhibited his collection of English penny reds and King George stamps. This society is strong and active and its success is assured.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Albert H. Hall, R. P. H. VanKirk and J. F. Thiefels.

—E. G. A.—The reprints in question have no pecuniary value. Please enclose self-addressed stamped envelope whenever information is desired by mail.

—A subscriber in the state of Washington is very much dissatisfied with Uncle Sam's slowness in the delivery of the WEEKLY. We are dissatisfied too, but we do not know how to remedy the difficulty. In these troublous times we are no doubt fortunate in receiving mail, even though it be much delayed. Our correspondent adds, "Please send me my paper for Nov. 24 so as to arrive on the 24th." In view of the fact that the paper is not published before the date of issue it will be impossible to comply with the request.

ADVERTISEMENTS ON NEW ZEALAND STAMPS.

We take the following valuable information from a comprehensive article published in the June Australian Stamp Journal, with which an illustration of the advertisements on the back of a complete sheet of the 4d green, perf. 10, 1882 issue, was presented as a supplement:—

"In 1893 a contract was made with a business firm in Wellington for the right to advertise on the backs of postage stamps. The contract, which was for three years, was terminable by the contractors at the end of twelve months. The venture not proving a satisfactory one, the contractors exercised their right to determine the agreement.

"The stamps on which the advertisements appear are the 1882-97 issue, side-face Queen. The advertisements are to be found on the following denominations, viz.: 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 8d, and 1s. Nearly all are perf. 10, but they are known perf. 12x11½ and 12½x10 (vide the 'History of New Zealand Stamps,' page 31).

"A good deal of uncertainty has heretofore existed with regard to these advertisements on the backs of the stamps. Many collectors wonder what they are. A few collect them, but not on any definite plan, their idea seeming to be to get a specimen of each advertisement.

"Quite recently there came into our possession a complete sheet of 240 of the 4d stamps, perf. 10, which contains all the advertisements on the back. The back of the sheet with the advertisements is illustrated and published as a supplement to this month's number, quarter size, and we append hereunder a list of the different advertisements, together with the order in which they appear, taking the numbers from the top left-hand corner. 'U,' in brackets, signifies that the advertisement appears upright; 'S,' sideways; 'D,' diagonal; 'in frame,' also in brackets, signifies that the advertisement has a line all round it.

"It will now be possible to reconstruct, or plate, the sheet. Obviously 240 stamps could not be put on the page of any ordinary album, but the sheet could be divided into four panes of sixty stamps each, and each pane put on a separate page.

"We understand that the same advertisements appear on all denominations, so the matter of plating could be simplified if collectors were to ignore the denomination altogether and merely try to get the particular advertisement to fill the space, for, as the stamps would be face downwards, their denomination or colour would not be seen.

"Heretofore these stamps have not created any general interest, very little extra has been charged for them by those who wish to sell them, and doubtless many collectors will have specimens in their collection; so the task of reconstructing the pane or sheet might not be a very difficult one. At any rate, assuming that a collector did not think of plating these at the start, he could easily affix the number above it in his album, and he could then find out as time rolled on how many different varieties he had acquired."

As will be seen from our contemporary's list, there are ninety-four different advertisements, some of which have been repeated several times on the sheet. The particulars have been carefully compiled and checked, and it is believed that they are absolutely correct.—Stamp Collecting.

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

New U. S. Documentaries.

We have seen the new 1c and 2c Documentary Revenue stamps and a description of them is as follows: The size is the same, over all, as the postage stamps, but the designs are somewhat smaller, allowing more space between the stamps, both horizontally and vertically. They are oblong like the 1914 Proprietary stamps; a large colorless numeral is in the center of an engine-turned background of oval form surrounded by a band containing "DOCUMENTARY" around the top and "CENT" or "CENTS" as the case may be, at the bottom in colorless letters on colored ground. A line of color surrounds the design and the corners have the background of horizontal lines, each spandrel containing a solid color triangle containing the colorless letters, each flanked by a colorless dot, "U S I R" in the upper left, upper right, lower left and lower right corners, respectively. The design is nothing exceptional either in drawing or finished product, but it is far better than the 1914 design.

The stamps are produced on the Harris Automatic Presses, by the method known as "offset", the same as the Tax Paid stamps. The paper of the new stamps is white wove, watermarked multiple outline Roman capitals "U S I R" (double line letters so-called), and the perforation is the same as for the current postage stamps, perforated 11.

The color of the stamps is rose, but it will probably run the full length of the color chart from pale rose to deep carmine, like the 1914 series. The 1c we have seen is deep rose, while the 2c is dull light rose.

Documentary Revenues.

2c rose.

If a separate series of War Tax stamps is to be issued for the parcel post service, they will not be on sale in Philadelphia for the opening day of the tax, because the postal clerk from whom we secured the Documentary stamps described above, said he had instructions to use the Documentary stamps for the parcel post tax.

UNITED STATES.—Here is a variety for collectors of stamp booklets. Mr. Robert G. Montgomery advises of the purchase of the 73c booklets with twenty-four 1-cent and twenty-four 2-cent stamps, the 1-cent being perf. 10 unwatermarked and the 2-cent being perf. 10 watermarked.

(1400)—Under date of November 17, the Post Office Department has issued instructions regarding the sale of the Parcel Post War Tax stamps and the other War Tax stamps, all of which are to be sold by the post offices throughout the country. The stamps are supposed to be on sale by December 1, when the War Tax stamp law becomes operative. We will endeavor to give the colors of at least some of the stamps in this week's Chronicle.

(1405)—Mr. W. H. McCart supplements last week's list of Tax Paids:

Cigars.—Series of 1916, two line hand-stamp overprint "Class B Act of 1917" in violet, 25 Cigars; ditto, red printed overprint large "C", 50 Cigars; ditto, violet hand-stamp overprint in large letters "CLASS B", 50 Cigars.

Beer.—Eighth Barrel, Series of 1914, rubber stamp surcharge "Act of 1917" reading up, in violet.

Fermented Liquors.—Quarter Barrel, Series of 1916, large type overprint in black "Act of 1917"; Half Barrel, same. Half Barrel, Series of 1916, small type overprint in violet "Act of 1917", reading up; ditto, reading down.

Two new classes of stamps are created by the Act of Sept. 24, 1917: War Savings Certificate Stamps and United States Thrift Stamps. As far as their collecting is concerned, these new stamps will be upon a par with the Postal Savings Stamps, but their purpose, while somewhat the same, is for a more serious and patriotic reason.

BAHAMAS.—(1400)—We have the following letter from Mr. Harry E. Huber:

"Referring to my letter of October 10, in regard to the local printings of the Special Delivery, Bahamas, and also the portions which were reprinted in the issue of the WEEKLY, No. 1400, of October 27.

On referring to my notes covering these two printings, it seems that in some unaccountable manner, in writing my letter to you of October 10, I transposed these: i, e., the block of ten which I wrote as being the first printing, is really the second; and those which I wrote as being from the second, are the first.

Therefore the characteristics of the two printings are just the reverse of those I previously wrote you. I don't see how I could have made this mistake, but must put it down to the fact that I was considerably rushed at the time of writing. I note your comment on the fact that the first printing of these stamps was made in December, 1915. I must be rather dense, for I can't just gather what you mean.

As I recall, you previously stated that instead of the Special Delivery stamps being printed in 1915, they were done in 1916. Then in the WEEKLY of October 27th, you mentioned that you made your previous statement based on the fact that plate 2 stamps were not supposed to be used for the 1915 overprinting. They weren't either, but I can't see what this has to do with the first printing, which was done on plate 1 stamps.

Plate 1 and 2 stamps were used for the second printing, which was done in 1917; however, the former seem to be in the majority on this side, though supplies to London seem to have been mostly of plate 2 stamps."

We are very pleased to see Mr. Huber correct his mistake, as we had begun to doubt that he had such a large block of the first printing. The correction shows that he has a pair of the first printing, which took place on plate 1 stamps, only, we believe. Ewen's Weekly made the statement that the first printing took place on both plates 1 and 2, and this we drew attention to and corrected, and this is what seems to confuse Mr. Huber.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—(1403)—Mr. J. A. Galbraith shows us the 25c stamp mentioned in the Chronicle of November 17. We note that Scott's list the 25c, 1913, as gray and black on green. The new stamp shown us by Mr. Galbraith is from plate No. 2, and we find that it is black throughout on chalk surface paper. Regarding the paper, it has the multiple watermark somewhat opaque, and at the back, the yellowish gum causes the otherwise milky-blue paper to appear green—but we could never call the surface of the paper green. This is not a discussion regarding Scott's listing, because they are within their rights calling the paper green to distinguish it from blue paper used for the British Colonial stamps, as all the authorities call the paper green, but the surface of the new 25c British Honduras stamps is not green, it is milky-blue.

current 10c stamp. A list of the current stamps was given in the Chronicle for September 29th. Of the low values, four are typographed and one is engraved throughout, while the bi-colored stamps are with typographed frames and engraved centers, although the new supplement to Scott's Catalogue does not give the information that the centers of the bi-colored stamps are engraved, heading the list as "Typographed" only. Mr. Jones has made a discovery and shows the resulting stamp to us. It consists of the 10c blue and black stamp with the center as well as the frame typographed. This is something new and we take pleasure in chronicling it.

Mr. Jones also shows us a pair of the 10c stamps, typographed frame and engraved center, one of which has the center double, caused by a doubling of the transfer in laying down the designs on the plate. The doubling shows very distinctly, and causes the lines of shading in the face to appear zigzaged.

The new 10c stamp typographed throughout can readily be told upon examination by looking at the back; on the typographed with engraved center, the lines of the engraving can be seen at the back, while on the typographed throughout, the center is opaque like the rest of the stamp. There are a few differences between the engraved head and the typographed one, but these are so minute that it would be difficult to describe them for casual observance, as the two heads are almost identical. However, to be consistent, it might be said that on the engraved face the lines of shading under the right eye (as one looks at the face) are composed of curved lines in a horizontal position, while on the typographed face the diagonal lines of shading in the cheek extend right up through the curved lines of shading under the eye. It will be seen that the differences are so minute, that it would be useless to describe them further here, the one point of difference being enough to identify—but it takes careful examination and a good glass to even see the difference described. The back of the stamp will be test enough for reasonable purposes.

10c dark blue and black.

MEXICO. — (1390) — Mr. Horace E. Jones shows us a double transfer of the current 10c, consisting of a slight downward shift of the design.

PHILIPPINES.—(1397)—Mr. Otto F. Henker shows us the 4c rose-red, chronicled in our issue for October 6th, with "O. B." overprint in violet, Yvert & Tellier's type "a". The stamp is the new watermarked perforated 10.

PORTUGAL.—(1402)—The change in the value of the escudo has been made, just as we surmised in the issue of November 10th, the equivalent of 20 escudos has been changed to 30 escudos. The postal rates have been changed to conform with the new monetary system, and they are set forth in a copy of "The Postage Rates" in the Madrid Filatelico. We will not give this in its entirety, but append extracts therefrom:

The value of the escudo was changed on September 15th.

The postal rates are changed to conform with the money change, for letters, parcels, registration, and all international mail, post cards, etc., but excepts the rates on manuscripts and periodical publications.

Provides for a new 3c stamp.

Provides for a new 3c postal card to take the place of the 2c used for international service.

Provides for a new 7½c envelope to take the place of the 5c used for international service.

The postal cards of 2c and 2c+2c (reply card) and the envelope of 5c are continued in use simultaneously with the new, provided that additional stamps are affixed to make up the proper tariff.

The change in the value of the escudo has made necessary other changes in the postage stamps, and a list of the new stamps was given in our chronicle for November 10th.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

(It has been decided to publish A and B of the Dictionary in booklet form instead of waiting for the entire work to be completed. Illustrations have been added and a very attractive and useful book is the result. When you do any business with this office add 12c for booklet and it will be mailed you when issued. —EDITOR.)

DE LA RUE & CO.—A well-known firm of printers and engravers of Bunhill Row, London, who produced all the surface printed stamps of Great Britain until about June, 1911, and also the majority of the stamps printed for the various British Colonies. No name is more widely known in connection with the manufacture of postage stamps.

DE LAS VASCONGADOS.—This means literally "for the Basque Provinces". A special type of the "Habilitado por la Nacion" overprint was applied to the stamps used in these provinces in 1868. The Basque country is that part of Spain traversed by the Pyrenees.

DE LEON.—An overprint found on certain stamps of Ecuador used in the Province of Leon in 1902. The object of this control overprint was to prevent the use of a large quantity of stamps it was presumed had been stolen from the Government stores at Guayaquil during a serious fire which destroyed a large part of that town in July, 1902.

DELPIERRE, M.—A Belgian artist who designed the 1c, 2c, and 5c stamps of the 1865 issue for Belgium.

DEMIRDJIAN, M.—A Turkish artist who supplied the design for the 1901-5 stamps of Turkey.

DEMING'S PENNY POST.—A local post of the United States in connection with which stamps were issued but at what date and in what town the post was established I can give no information.

DEMONETISED.—A term applied to stamps that, on becoming obsolete, may no longer be used for postal purposes. Usually stamps are only demonetised after they have been obsolete for a number of years, but in some cases, Persia, Salvador, and Nicaragua, for instance, where the remainders are disposed of for the merest fraction of their facial value, the stamps are demonetised directly they become obsolete.

DENMARK.—A kingdom of Northern Europe, and the smallest of the Northern States, with a Constitution dating from July 28th, 1866. Its present contracted dimensions are due to the Dano-German war of 1864, which stripped it of the duchies of Schleswig-Holstein and Lauenburg. Denmark now has an area of 14,844 square miles and a population of about 2,500,000, nearly one-half of which live exclusively by agriculture. Danish history merges from the mythical with the establishment of the Norwegian dynasty of the Ynlinger in Jutland at the end of the 8th century. The Ynlinger were finally exterpated by Gorm the Old, whose great-grandson, Canute the Great, conquered England in 1014. Canute's nephew, Sweyn, founded a Danish dynasty which lasted for four hundred years. In 1665 a period of monarchial absolution began in Denmark, but from 1814 demands for constitutional reform became more and more pronounced. In 1849 this resulted in abolishment of the absolute monarchy, and Frederick VII shared his power with a Rigsdag or Parliament. The language of the Danes represents a division of the ancient Norse speech and is said to be the softest of the Scandinavian tongues. The first Danish postage stamps were issued in March, 1851.

DE OFICIO.—I. An overprint found on some of the Ecuador stamps of 1899-1901. At one time it was considered a control mark applied by one of the provinces in 1902 but specialists are now inclined to the belief that it is either a bogus variety or merely a cancellation.

II. The words "De Oficio" (literally "For Official letters") forms part of a hand-stamped overprint applied to the 1896 stamps of Salvador to convert them into labels for official use.

DEPARTMENTAL STAMPS.—Stamps of special design or bearing a special overprint intended for use on Official correspondence, etc. They are perhaps more generally known as official stamps.

DEPARTMENTO.—The Spanish word for "Department" shown upon the stamps of Antioquia, Bolivar, etc., which are departments or states of the republic of Colombia.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE.—The inscription shown upon the dollar values of the special series of stamps issued in the United States in 1873 for use on the correspondence of this executive department.

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE.—In 1873 the United States department dealing with agricultural matters was supplied with special stamps inscribed in this manner for use on its correspondence.

DEPT. OF JUSTICE.—An inscription shown on another series of United States official stamps issued in 1873 for franking the correspondence emanating from the department dealing with judicial matters.

DEPT. OF STATE.—The inscription shown on the cents values of the special Department of State stamps of the United States.

DEPT. OF THE INTERIOR.—This inscription appears on the United States stamps issued in 1873 for the use of the executive department dealing with internal affairs.

DERECHO JUDICIAL.—An inscription meaning "Judicature Fee," found on certain revenue stamps of the Philippine Islands which, suitably overprinted, served as provisional postage stamps in 1880-90.

DERECHOS DE FIRMA.—These are the Spanish words for "Tax (or Fee) upon Documents" and certain Philippine Is. revenue stamps so inscribed were overprinted for use as postage stamps in 1880-90.

DESIGN.—So far as a postage stamp is concerned the design is, obviously, its most necessary and important feature. In speaking of "design" one usually infers the general features of the drawing that composes the stamp —thus stamps bearing different values but having the same general features are said to be of the same design.

DESMADRYL, N.—A printer of Santiago, Chili, who printed a supply of 5c stamps for that country in January, 1854, from the plates supplied by Perkins, Bacon & Co., of London.

DEUTSCHE REICHS POST.—The inscription shown upon all the stamps of the German Empire issued between 1872 and 1889. It means "German Imperial Post".

DEUTSCHES REICH.—An inscription appearing upon all the current stamps of Germany. It may be translated literally as "German Empire".

DEUTSCH NEU GUINEA.—The Teutonic equivalent for German New Guinea as shown upon all the stamps of that colony.

DEUTSCH OESTR. POSTVEREIN.—An inscription appearing upon the early stamps of Baden, Thurn and Taxis, and Wurtemberg, meaning "German-Austrian Postal Union". This had reference to a Postal Convention concluded between Austria and various German States in 1850 for the interchange of mail matter at certain fixed rates. One of the Articles of this Convention provided that postal matter circulating between the various countries comprised in the Union should, as a general rule, be prepaid and that the prepayment should be effected by means of postage stamps as soon as practicable. None of the other signatories to the Convention, however, had inscriptions on their stamps having any direct reference to this postal arrangement.

DEUTSCH OSTAFRIKA.—The German rendering of "German East Africa" as shown upon the stamps issued for the use of that colony.

DEUTSCH SUDWESTAFRIKA.—The inscription shown upon the stamps of German South-west Africa.

DEVANAGARI.—A general name, descriptive of the characters of the Sanskrit alphabet, which are shown on most of the postage stamps issued by the Native States of India.

Illustrations have been added and a very attractive and useful book is the result. When you do any business with this office add 12c for booklet and it will be mailed you when issued. —EDITOR.)

D. F. B. CITY EXPRESS.—A local post of the United States in connection with which special 1c stamps were issued.

DEXTRINE.—The adhesive matter employed in the manufacture of the early stamps of Great Britain. It was known as "British gum" and was composed of potato-starch heated to a temperature of 400 degrees. It was applied to the sheets of stamps while hot and cheapness seems to have been its chief merit. The public did not take kindly to what the authorities termed "the cement", for it was described as an "evil-tasting" mucilage and its most remarkable feature seems to have been its consistent lack of adhesiveness. (See also GUM.)

DHAR.—A feudatory State in Central India having an area of 1,740 square miles and a population of about 20,000. Postage stamps for use in this State were first issued in 1897 but four years later (March 31st, 1901) their use was discontinued.

DIADEM.—This is the crown, or other symbol of royalty, shown upon the heads of the various Kings and Queens whose portraits appear on postage stamps.

DIAMOND WMK.—(See Lozenge watermark).

DICKINSON PAPER.—A silk-thread paper invented by John Dickinson in 1839 and used for printing the Mulready envelopes, the embossed 6d, 10d and 1s stamps of Great Britain and also the early embossed envelopes of that country. The silk threads were introduced into the paper while in a state of pulp and its inventor claimed that it was an absolute safeguard against forgery. Paper of a similar character was also used in the production of some of the early stamps of Bavaria, Switzerland, etc.

DIE.—The original engraved piece of metal or other material from which reproductions are taken to form the plate or stone for printing stamps.

DIE-PROOF.—A printed impression taken direct from a stamp die. Any impression taken from a die either before it is finished or when complete is known as a die-proof.

DIEGO SUAREZ.—A small island in the Indian Ocean belonging to France. From 1890 to 1896 a series of special stamps were used here but in the latter year the island was included in Madagascar and Dependencies for postal purposes and the separate stamps were discontinued.

DIENST.—An overprint on certain stamps of the Dutch Indies in 1911 to denote that they were for use on official correspondence.

DILIGENCIA.—The only inscription, apart from the value, shown upon the three stamps which formed the first issue for Uruguay. The word means "stage-coach" and of course refers to the conveyances used at that early period for the conveyance of the mails.

DIEU ET MON DROIT.—This motto appears on the scroll below the shield on the centre of the current stamps of Antigua. It forms part of the British Royal coat-of-arms, and is said to have been first used by Richard Coeur de Lion, in whose time the Royal Arms consisted only of the three lions now shown in the first quarter of the shield. The motto is in French and means "God and my Right."

DINAR.—The value in which many of the stamps of Serbia are expressed. A dinar consists of 100 paras and has a nominal value of 20c in U. S. currency.

DINERO.—The value shown upon most of the early stamps of Peru. A dinero was equivalent to 5c in American money.

PRIVATE PERFORATIONS

We are in the market to buy certain rarer varieties of the Schermack, Brinkerhoff, Mailometer and U. S. Auto Vending perforations. Line Pairs are particularly wanted also the 5c of 1902 varieties. Kindly submit your stamps marked at net prices which must be very, very reasonable.

H. F. COLMAN. SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

DIOS, PATRIA, LIBERTAD.—This motto appears upon many of the stamps of the Dominican Republic and means "God, Fatherland, Liberty."

DIOS, PATRIA, REY.—(God, Fatherland, King). The motto engraved upon the special stamp issued by the Carlists in 1874 for use in the province of Catalania, Spain.

DIOS, UNION Y LIBERTAD.—This motto, meaning "God, Union and Liberty", is shown upon the first postage stamps issued by the Republic of Honduras.

DIOS Y FEDERACION.—The motto shown below the Arms on the Venezuelan stamps of 1866-67. It means "God and Federation" and refers to the union of the various states of the republic into one Confederation.

DISTRITO MARINO.—The Spanish equivalent for "District of Marino" as shown upon the provisional stamps issued in that Venezuelan district in 1903.

D. J.—An overprint applied to the 5c stamps of the 1892 issue for Obock indicating their appropriation for the use of the town of Djibouti.

DJIBOUTI.—The chief port and town in French Somali Coast. Special stamps were issued for use here from 1894 to 1902, when they were discontinued in favor of the general issue for the whole of the protectorate.

DOLLAR.—At the present time there are three principal dollars, all divided into 100c, but of different values. First, there is the "American" dollar, the unit of value in the United States, British North America, British Guiana, British Honduras, and Liberia. This has a fixed value of $1 U. S. currency. Next there is the "Hong Kong" dollar, which takes the place of the old "Mexican" dollar (at one time in general use in the Far East). The value of this fluctuates from about 30c U. S. to about 54c U. S., according to the price of silver. This dollar is now practically confined to Hong Kong and China. The third dollar is the "Straits" one, the value of which is fixed at 56c U. S., and this is the unit of value in the Straits Settlements, Federated Malay States, Labuan, North Borneo, Brunei and Sarawak.

DOMINICA.—A British Colony in the West Indies, being the largest island in the Leeward Islands group. It is situated 95 miles south of Antigua, between the French islands of Martinique and Guadelope. It has an area of 291 square miles and a population of about 30,000. The island is of volcanic origin, very mountainous and picturesque. The highest point, Diablotin, reaches a height of 5,314 feet. The island was discovered by Columbus in 1493 and as he sighted it on a Sunday, he named it Dominica—the Spanish word for Sunday. The island is governed by a Legislative Council, consisting of the Administrator, who sits as President, and six official and six non-official members nominated by the Governor of the Leeward Islands. The first postage stamps for this Colony were issued on May 4th, 1874, and in 1890, the distinctive stamps were superseded by the general set for use in the whole of the Leeward Islands. In 1903, however, Dominica, in common with the other individual members of this group, again issued its own stamps and these are now in concurrent use with the set inscribed "Leeward Islands".

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—Santo Domingo, now more generally known as the Dominican Republic, was formerly the Spanish portion of the island of Hayti. It is the oldest settlement of European origin in the American continent, having been founded in 1494, by Bartolomeo Columbus, a brother of the more famous Christopher Columbus, who had discovered the island two years previously and named it Hispaniola. The total area of the Republic is 20,596 square miles, and its population, mostly mulattoes, numbers about half a million. The chief town and port, Santo Domingo, is perhaps the most perfect specimen of a 16th century Spanish town in America. In the old Cathedral are buried many of the notable characters of early American history, including members of the family of Christopher Columbus. The government is more moderate and enlightened than that obtaining in the neighboring negro republic of Hayti. Postage stamps for the use of this republic were first issued in 1865.

DOMS, A.—An engraver at the Belgian State Printing Establishment at Malines, who engraved the dies for the Belgian stamps of 1869-70, and 1875-81. On all these stamps his initials "A D" are shown in microscopic letters at the right hand side of the base of the designs. He also engraved the frame for the 35c value of the 1891 series and the postage due stamps of Belgium, as well as the first issue for Belgian Congo and the Hendrickx type for Greece, which first appeared in 1886.

THE GRAPE-JUICE STAMP.

Effeminate, ignoble stamp,
Thou pallid, grape-juice three!
To our brave two what bond has thou
Of consanguinity?

That, carried red blood in its veins
Like Washington of old,
Who put his face on lavender—
A boudoir stamp that's sold

To vacuous schoolgirls in their teens,
To match their envelopes?
Away with such Josephus stuff!
'Tis death to virile hopes.

Woodrow, demand whene'er you will
Our gladly proffered three;
But spare our country's proper pride;
Washington made us free.

Take back the school-miss lavender!
Restore the stamp of red.
While our brave boys to battle march,
Shall postage hang its head?

SIMPLIFIED.

The article on "Simplified United States" by Hubert Lyman Clark in your issue of August 11th, certainly appealed to me.

I apply this simplified collecting not only to the United States, but to all countries, in some cases omitting even surcharges. For instance, the first issues of some British colonies are simply stamps of Great Britain surcharged. These I omit, although I plead guilty to being inconsistent in that I do not omit United States stamps surcharged Porto Rico, Guam, etc.

I mount my collection in blank page albums, but in arranging it do not follow the numerical order of Scott's catalog, but arrange it in sets of a certain type. This may not be chronologically correct, but it certainly presents a better appearing page.

The spaces are ruled off in blue ink, allowing ample margin around each stamp and of arranging a page so that it does not look monotonous in layout or overcrowded in appearance. Over each set or issue is marked the proper date of issue.

In connection with the collection I use a card system of cataloging, listing only those stamps for which I have a space in my albums. In this catalog I specify Scott's number, date, type number, color and price, used and unused. In the columns for used or unused I mark the price with lead pencil, correcting prices on the appearance of a new catalog or monthly list.

A blue dot over the price in the proper column designates that the corresponding space in the album has been filled.

On the obverse of each card are mounted illustrations of the types listed on the face, these illustrations being cut from back number catalogs. On the index card of each country I place the coinage and other information.

Making up a catalog like this may seem a good sized job, but in specifying color and value I abbreviate as per example—b, r, br, bk, bh, b-BH, ct. being blue, red, brown, black, bluish, blue on bluish, cent or centavo, respectively. Once made up, it is an easy matter to keep it up to date.

A WORD FROM HALIFAX.

Just one letter has reached us from Halifax, the stricken city, as we go to press. It is from Donald A. King and it is brief:

"Family and I are safe and that's about all.—KING." We have numereous subscribers in the city and await further tidings with deep concern.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have received the report of Director Ralph of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917. It contains a mass of statistics in regard to the number of stamps issued in the various classes, and a copy of the report can no doubt be obtained upon application. We do not think it advisable to take the space necessary to publish the figures in detail.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Arthur W. Line, A. H. Gleason, Herman W. Boers.

—Ashley C. LeDuc, Danvers, Mass., would like to hear from collectors who have had dealings with Frank Fayers, 1635 Victoria St., Regina, Can. He answers no letters.

—H. S.—The dealer most likely to supply you with the stamps you want is the Marks Stamp Co., Toronto, Canada.

—We are indebted to our subscribers for the numerous clippings that are sent us from time to time. Many of these clippings are only indirectly associated with stamp collecting and we do not use them. We sincerely trust that our subscribers will not feel offended at any apparent remissness upon our part, but take it for granted that we do our best with the limited space at our command.

—The Marks Stamp Co., Toronto, Canada, would like to hear from other dealers who have been unable to obtain replies to letters from the following:—Hugo P. Thieme, Ann Arbor, Mich.; John J. Twaddle, Amherst, N. S.; Theo. Kaupp, Nevada, Mo.; and Thomas Andrews, Bergenfield, N. J.

—Some three weeks ago we announced the death of Burt McCann. The business formerly conducted by him will be continued under the name of the Burt McCann Co.

—We are constantly receiving orders for the first instalment of the Dictionary. It will be three or four weeks before this book appears, and all orders will be filled promptly on the day of publication.

—The stricter rules of the United States Post Office Department are not always lived up to punctiliously by employees of the smaller and more remote post offices. Thus when a window clerk in a western city was instructed by his superior to write and hang a notice concerning a certain war advance, this is what he produced: "Don't kick on Postage! Better pay a Little More than have the Kaiser's Picture on Your Stamp!"—Chr. Science Monitor.

—Bill Bloss has enlisted in the signal corps of the U. S. regular army and is leaving for "somewhere" on December 10, 1917.

—A stamp society has been formed at Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y. The club is called the Colgate Philatelic Society. It consists of five members, but it is expected that others in Colgate, of a philatelic turn of mind will join the society, and thus make it a feature of the University. The club is formed along the usual lines of such an organization.—LLOYD M. COE, Sec.-Treas.

EDITORIAL.

Class—We have just had the pleasure of examining a strip of ten of the five cent, 1847 issue, United States, with the sheet margins at either side. The full row of ten stamps extends well across the top of an envelope, legal size, that was sent from New York City, June 5, 1851, to the Clerk of Circuit Court for Lake County, Waukegan, Ill., and on the reverse of the envelope is the notation: "Depositions from Henry E. Brown and Joseph W. Canf taken and sealed up by me. John Livingston, Com." A green seal of the commissioner is officially attached. Across the face of the envelope is the notice: "Filed June 9, 1851, and opened by leave of court. A. B. Coty, Clerk." The cancellation is the red gridiron of New York City which was almost smeared across the wide expanse of ten stamps. It is needless to say that a cover with a horizontal strip of ten of these popular stamps is an imposing spectacle and we should not hesitate to call it unique. The cover was not a recent find exactly; it was held for many years by a collector who disposed of it to the present owner, who we assume, is acting as the agent for one of the big collectors of United States stamps.

Continued—What has become of the old-fashioned collector who with his boy chum, bummed from school in order to go down town to spend a few cents at the stamp dealer's? Is this o. f. c. trying to borrow the New York Ledger from the old-fashioned dealer who sternly demanded that certain suspected youths take off their pulse-warmers or wristlets when buying stamps, so that they could not slip a purloined specimen or two up the convenient coverings.

Huron—A cover to reach our hands shows that its letter was written on Lake Huron, June 16, 1856; it was addressed to Washington City, D. C., and bears the three cent, 1851. Impressed across the upper part of the envelope, the end of the inscription just touching the stamp, are the words: "Canada 10 Cts." At the left is the postmark, "Toronto, Jun. 17, C. W." The letter was really posted at Toronto, where the ten cent rate to the U. S. was in force and either ten or seven cents were collected under some exchange agreement between the U. S. and Canada or some other method employed to adjust the postage charge.

Reflections—Some time ago, Mr. C. W. Henrici, Eureka, California, called our attention to recent references to philately in the periodical press in particular; and we summarize his findings as it is interesting to learn of the different conceptions of philately in the minds of the outsiders. We have become callous to censorious comment or slighting allusions and now we receive fulminations against our pursuit with a feeling of pity for the dulled perceptions of the authors of the libels. After calling attention to the enterprise of the press agent of Beerbohm Tree, in revamping one of the standard wheezes of philately and beguiling the editor of a newspaper into printing it, Mr. Henrici says: "There was a rather unappreciative mention of philately in a recent 'Bulletin of Pharmacy', a druggists' magazine, which is running a series of articles by druggists, telling how they induced their sons to remain in the drug business. The narrator in question said that he had a sympathetic interest in his son's aims and ambitions, to good effect. He says: 'When he reached the collecting age and took up postage stamps . . . . . I did not treat his fad with ridicule, but sympathized with him and gradually led his boyish tastes into the collecting of colored pictures of the birds, animals and plants employed in pharmacy.' This indeed is a naive confession of a heartless perversion. Postage stamps have invaded the movies and an anachronism was noticed in their treatment in the films. Perhaps you read "The Girl Philippa," by Chambers. It will be recalled that the story takes place in France in 1914, during the German invasion. When Philippa opens her guardian's safe to try to discover how she came to be in his care, she takes out (in the picturization) bundles of letters, relating to her history, all legal size and bearing two cent U. S. envelope stamps of the issue of 1907! Had the picture been taken a bit later, the present issue of envelopes would have been used. The stage director was too up to date.

Yesterday—The curtain of the past has been pushed aside by an act of Mr. W. F. Goerner, Arlington, Rhode Island, who graciously sends us with his compliments the constitution and by-laws of the Chicago Philatelic Society, published in 1889, just after we had joined the organization, by-the-way, and our first philatelic appointment is recorded on the back page of the book, where we are listed as a member of the Exhibition Committee. The officers and executive committee of the Chicago Philatelic Society, year of 1889, were: President, A. L. Holman; Vice-President, Geo. Nelson; Secretary, P. M. Wolseiffer; Treasurer, L. A. Haskell; Librarian, W. F. Jillson, Executive Committee, C. R. Gadsden, W. C. Kurzweg and Jas. R. Chapman. We remember these eight men well and they represented to our sixteen years all that was worthy of emulation in philately. They were men of standing and true philatelists and it may be pardonable to view them down the vista of nearly thirty years. Mr. Holman was one of the greatest students of stamps that we have ever known. His Sydney Views and United States match and medicine stamps were superb. Now, Mr. Holman is somewhat along in years and has a latent interest in philately only. We saw him last in 1911 at the American Philtelic Society exhibit at the Art Institute. Mr. Nelson died within the year or so on the links while playing golf. He was one of the oldest employees of Marshall Field & Co., where his position was a responsible one. Mr. Wolseiffer, whom we all know, started in the stamp business several years after this time; in 1889, he was a factor in Chicago's musical business. Mr. Haskell is one of Chicago's big insurance men and Mr. Jillson was drowned many years ago in one of the West Indies where he was the agent of a phonograph company. Mr. Gadsden, once librarian of the American Philatelic Society, is proprietor of a prosperous insurance agency, but has forsworn stamps, he says. Mr. Kurzweg, one of the keenest students of entire United States envelopes, died about 1900, and Mr. Chapman has just resigned as a director of the Chicago Continental and Commercial National Bank after a tenure of a great many years, to remove to California. We should say that philately must amount to something because so many philatelists do.

Kiddish—A reader fondly whispers: "If it isn't camouflage when a boy dealer who is known to be almost sixteen years old and who has invested at least five dollars in stock, has some elaborate letter-heads printed with stamp pictures on them and among other addresses, his cable address, what is it?" We suppose that it is nerve. At that, we have seen some big dealers grow from mighty small acorns, right under our eyes; we should never have selected them as "future greats."

A. S. D. A. CONVENTION.

The annual Convention of the American Stamp Dealers' Association was held December 4 at the Venetian Room, Park Place Restaurant, New York. The results of the election of officers was announced as follows: President, Eugene Klein; Vice-President, J. M. Bartels; Treasurer, B. W. H. Poole; Secretary, J. E. Guest, 320 McKnight Building, Minneapolis, Minnesota; Directors, W. P. Colman, Fred S. Martin, F. S. Parmelee, Frank J. Pope and C. F. Richards; Trustees, H. W. Doscher, A. L. Stern and C. S. Thompson; Sales Manager, Maitland Milliken; Auction Manager, M. Ohlman; Librarian, Mrs. L. W. Kellogg; Attorney, H. A. Whipple. The Secretary reported ninety members and three applications.

SALE OF WAR REVENUE STAMPS FOR USE ON PARCEL-POST PACKAGES AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES.

The attention of postmasters is especially invited to the following instruction:

Internal-revenue stamps are furnished postmasters for the purpose of providing a convenient place where users of small quantities may purchase them and not for the purpose of distributing such stamps in large quantities. Persons desiring large quantities of such stamps should be referred by postmasters to the nearest place where they may be procured from the Internal Revenue Service. Postmasters should restrict their sales to the individual user of limited quantities. Postmasters may, however, sell sufficient stamps to large users for immediate needs pending the filling of their orders by the Internal Revenue Service, provided such sales will not so deplete the post office stock as to deprive individual purchasers of needed stamps.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

UNITED STATES.—(1405)—Mr. W. O. Thiede writes as follows: "I have another variety of the 3c on amber size 13 in which the lettering is as die F on the 2c, but the 3's incline forward. I also have size 13 white of die A of which I reported size 5."

(1404)—A new patriotic cancellation was placed in use in Washington, D. C., on December 3rd, and we are gratefully indebted to Mr. C. H. McBride and Mr. Israel Prager for sending us a sample together with information relating thereto. The obliterator contains "food will win the war don't waste it" in four lines at the left. with the usual cancelling bars at the right end. A clipping from a Washington newspaper tells us that the cancellations will be used at New York, Boston, San Francisco, Chicago and St. Louis, and "The food plea cancellation, giving one of the most forceful of the food administration's slogans, probably will be continued in use until the next liberty loan." Why not have a cancellation advertising the War Savings Certificates as used in Canada?

(1406)—Mr. C. H. McBride submits one of the new Documentary Revenues and states that he applied at the Washington Post Office for Parcel Post Revenues and was sold the Documentaries. Further values have been seen, which we add to last week's list:

Documentary Revenues.

5c rose.
10c rose.

(1400-1404)—Mr. E. D. Shove writes as follows: "Noting reports in regard to the envelope stamps, wish to say that I have: a 2c white, size 8, wmk. 18, old knife, with a 4c black over the 2c red, both perfect impressions, the 4c overlapping the 2c about one-half at the right." We are certainly pleased to record these interesting and probably unique freaks, as we have now recorded three varieties of envelopes on which there were two different denominations of stamps on each, one stamp partly overlapping the other.

(1384)—Scott's Circular chronicles the 3c postage due perforated 11, of course, on unwatermarked paper. Our contemporary gives the color as deep claret, but we cannot deviate from our earlier statement regarding the colors of the postage dues, so we have to call it carmine.

Postage Due.

3c carmine.

The Collectors' Journal (U. S.) publishes the following: "On plate No. 5389, 2c Hudson Fulton, the bottom marginal strips show the remains of a misplaced plate number. At first the plate number was placed below the center of a stamp, and this was changed so that the position of the number is beneath two stamps", or below the space between two stamps, we add for clearness.

The same publication calls attention to a 2c Hudson Fulton with a line in the clouds about 10 mm. long, stating that it is either a scratch on the plate or a crack in it. Also to a triple transfer of the 2c Hudson Fulton, which shows very plainly, in a shift toward the lower left and another towards the top.

Mr. John W. Grim shows us a most extraordinary "plate number" consisting of two different plate numbers on the same sheet at the top of the upper right pane (of 100) from plate No. 6065. This is the first time we have seen such an example of printing from the U. S. plates and we had to think pretty hard before we could account for the variation. The plate numbers of the plate (6065) are both normal on the sheet we have seen, while below the top number, and extending half way across the numerals into the top of the stamp below the normal plate number, there is an additional plate number, 6059. Mr. Grim submitting the sheet writes: "I am unable to explain or understand this double (?) plate number." It would be interesting to make a puzzle out of the matter and see what guesses as to how such a thing occurred would be presented, wouldn't it? Before you read further, make a guess—then read.

The extra plate number is not an offset, as it is just as strongly impressed as the normal number, and the top of the stamp below falls half way across the numerals. One would think that the sheet had probably been printed twice, but why wouldn't it show part of the stamp below 6059 as well as the stamp below 6065? It was printed twice; at least that is how we account for it. The only explanation that we are able to give is: Two sheets, one extending beyond the other, must have been laid on the plate, the upper sheet being imprinted with the plate number and the other sheet getting the impression of the stamps without the plate number, the upper sheet then being laid on another plate (four plates are in the same press at once, you know) received a proper impression of stamps and plate number, and thus it would have two plate numbers. There may be another way to account for this curio, but our guessing abilities are non-plussed.

ABYSSINIA.—(1398)—Champion's Bulletin chronicles the 2g of 1909, Scott's No. 90, overprinted with three line commemorative overprint, Scott's variety "i", in black. We failed to state that the overprint on the stamp of the same value listed in our August 25th issue was in red; this latter only has four characters in the top line as illustrated by Scott's type "i". Our French contemporary also gives the quantities issued, as noted by their correspondent at Addis-Abeba. We give the list herewith, using Scott's numbers: 101,—14,000; 102,—20,000; 104,—12,000; 105,—6,000; 106,—4,000; 107,—3,000; 108,—864,000; 109,—440,000; 110,—150,000; 111,—2,250; 112,—308,000; 113,—175,000; 114,—130,000; 115,—20,000; 116,—20,000; 117,—20,000; 118,—20,000; and the one we chronicle below, 300,000.

Adhesive.

2g blue, black overprint.

ALBANIA.—(1372-1386)—Stamp Collecting chronicles on the authority of a French contemporary three further values of the Northern Epirus issues surcharged with an Albanian eagle and new value. One of these provisionals was chronicled by us back in April, the 25c on 3 lepta, to which we now add 10c on 2 lepta, 25c on 25 lepta and 25c on 50 lepta, Scott's types A29 and A30 with the 1915 overprint for Northern Epirus.

The list of these is therefore as follows:

Provisional Adhesives.

10c on 2l red (No. 1050).
25c on 3l orange (No. 1052).
25c on 25l blue (No. 1056).
25c on 50l dark blue (No. 1059).

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—(1399)—With reference to Scott's Nos. 205 and 206, about which we published a reprint from the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain in our issue of October 20th, we note the following in the November Scott Circular: "Like the P. J. G. B. we chronicled this stamp, also the 24c, on statements in other journals, and added the stamps to our catalogue. On the strength of our contemporary's discovery we shall delete the stamps from the catalogue." The stamps were described as "watermarked arrow heads" which were supposed to appear in each corner, but it has been proven that the "arrow heads" were the rays of the Sun Wmk.

BAHAMAS.—Mr. O. Kendall advises us that a new Special Delivery stamp is being prepared for this Colony. It is proposed to overprint "Special Delivery"

BARBADOS. — (1404) — The following culled from the Collectors' Journal is interesting to those who are interested in the new War Tax stamp which we chronicled on November 24th:

"On and from Monday, the 15th of October, 1917, all letters posted for places abroad to which the rate of one penny per ounce applies, shall be subject to an additional rate of one penny per letter, which must be paid by means of a special War Tax stamp affixed to the letter, besides the usual postage stamp.

"Any such letter which is posted without the additional War Tax stamp thereon, will be taxed the amount of the unpaid duty.

"War Tax stamps cannot be used to pay the postage on correspondence, and letters will be taxed if posted without the usual postage stamp, even should there be two or more War Tax stamps affixed thereon.

"W. H. BAILEY, Colonial Postmaster, General Post Office, 3rd October, 1917."

BOLIVIA. — (1402) — The Collectors' Journal (U. S.) has information from a correspondent that the new 5c stamp was issued on September 28th. We chronicled the stamp in our issue of November 10th.

Mr. Morgan W. Taylor sends us copies of a new 2-centavo stamp, which, according to his correspondent, was issued on November 8th at La Paz, and we thank Mr. Taylor for his courtesy.

The new stamp is bi-colored, having a carmine frame and the center vignette in black. The center contains a picture of Lake Titicaca, upon which a native sailing canoe guided by a native is under full sail, and in the distance, across the lake, is a snow clad mountain—the first impression the picture makes upon one is that it represents a scene at the North Pole instead of an Equatorial view. Under the vignette, as part of the frame, is the name of the lake and "Dos Centavos" under this; across the top in a curved line is "Correos de Bolivia," and numerals of value appear in all four corners, those at the top being smaller than those at the bottom.

Mr. Taylor also shows us Scott's No. 111 in a pair, imperf. vertically between, and states that his correspondent only knows of one sheet of the error, which, probably, means only ten pairs.

CANADA.—(1405)—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred advises us that she has secured the Confederation stamps with plate Nos. A9 and A10, lower left panes.

(1388)—We are indebted to Mrs. E. W. Oughtred for a copy of the Commemoration Post Card with bi-lingual instructions and with the "Jubilee" data also in two languages. The card is like the one described in the issue of August 4th, but has the information thereon in French as well as in English.

Commemorative Postal Card.
2c rose and black on cream, bi-lingual.

(1405)—Mr. A. V. Richardson writes as follows: "I was very interested in the paragraph in No. 1403, concerning the retouch of the King George 3c brown (1Tc). On reference to my collection and duplicates, I find I have the retouched die used early in September, 1916, and the old die in a block of four which I purchased at the P. O. here in November, 1916. The first printings received here were retouched. I also have the 3c red (perf. 12) in the retouched die, used at Saskatoon, October 7th, 1916."

FRANCE. — (1400) — Mr. Franz Reichenheim informs the London Philatelist that the 15c+10c and 25c+15c Charity Stamps were issued respectively on August 13th and September 7th.

Two new values of the Charity stamps have been issued and are chronicled in Stamp Collecting, the 2c+3c shows a somewhat sombre representation of a widow carrying an infant, and the 35c+25c showing the grave of a dead hero, with the tricolor flying at its head, states our contemporary, and the backgrounds of both views are appropriately funereal, and the higher value (oblong in format) has branches of laurel in the upper spandrels and the words "Honeur" and "Patrie" in the respective upper corners.

Charity Stamps.
35c+25c lavender and gray.

FRENCH MOROCCO.—(1400)—It seems that the colors of the new picture series are not quite the same as given in our Chronicle of October 20th, quoted from a contemporary, but as the Standard Catalogue publishers in their Circular have established the colors as they will be known to American philately, we will only give the radical differences, and not add our own judgment until we see a set, when we will, if deemed necessary, give a list of the colors as we see them. Referring to the list in the issue of October 20th and the Circular list, we find the 3c is brown-orange instead of brick, and the 2fr is black-brown instead of ochre.

GREAT BRITAIN.—(1400)—Stamp Collecting publishes the following: ". . . we have a new penny die, for drawing attention to which we are indebted to Messrs. Watson & Butters. The main differences are in the shading on the forehead and base of the neck. In the new die, the unshaded portions of the forehead and base of the neck are considerably wider, giving a much brighter effect to the portrait. In addition, the spandrels are more heavily shaded, almost closing up the lined background and deeper color, thus adding contrast to the light and shade."

We have seen these new die 1d also the ½d mentioned in our issue for October 27th, but they do not seem to be coming on much of the mail from England, as we have had hundreds of the ½d stamp since September, but only one single copy of the new die. We would be pleased to learn from our English contemporaries whether all the latest plates show the differences referred to, thus establishing the fact that a new die is in use generally and not only for a plate or two which are now obsolete.

(Offices in Morocco)—The postage to England is now 1d instead of 10 centimos and to meet the alteration a supply of the current 1d King George of Great Britain has been overprinted "Morocco Agencies" in two lines across the top of the stamp and have been issued, according to Ewen's Weekly Stamp News.

GREECE. — (1404) — Scott's Circular chronicles some of the War Tax stamps, but the only one that we find we have not mentioned in this department, is the 50l on 90l blue fiscal stamp. Fiscal stamp of 1914 surcharged "K.P. Lepton" and value:

War Tax Stamp.
50l on 90l blue.

GUATEMALA.—(1401)—Continuing the discussion regarding the "Dos Centavos" surcharge, chronicled in our issue of August 18th, Mr. Edwin W. Fuss, who, by-the-way, has been called to the National Army, submits copies of the stamp in question, used on original covers. It seems that they are used for paying the postage on cards, circulars and other printed matter, whether enclosed in envelopes unsealed, or unenclosed, the 2c being the "local" rate on printed matter as set forth in the "Nueva Tarifa Postal" issued on April 15th, 1916, and published in the "Guia Oficial de la America Central" published in February, 1917, a copy of which has been shown us by Mr. Fuss.

The Scott Circular for November chronicles the stamp, but states that they are not certain of the inverts they have seen, so omit that variety for the present.

This contemporary also publishes an interesting letter from Mr. R. H. Millward, who, it states, is well acquainted the value and the shield, on both the 4 reales and 1 peso; this has been only too frequently tinted out and the specimens fraudulently cancelled. These facsimiles are also found unused with or without gum. I believe most of them are of European origin.

"The green centres of the 1882 issues, Nos. 21 to 25 (1, 2, 5, 10 and 20 centavos) have been treated with acid and turned into a beautiful shade of blue. These are found both used and unused, and are sold in sets at prices ranging from four to ten dollars.

"Of the 1897 issue, Nos. 63, 67 and 69 (18, 75 and 150 centavos) surcharged 'Telegraphos—25 centavos', in red, have been put through the acid treatment and the surcharge easily removed. The specimens are then retinted to the proper shade and regummed. They are also frequently found fraudulently cancelled.

"Of the surcharged varieties and their attending errors, numberless fakes have been found in all issues, from 1886 to the present, and this enterprising charlatan takes particular delight in producing varieties of surcharges and errors not found in catalogues. It is quite impossible to enumerate them."

(1389)—Mr. Edwin W. Fuss shows us some of the recent importations of the current type stamps, several color changes of which we mentioned in the Chronicle for August 11th, 1917. As stated then, the impressions of the centers seem to be heavier, or filling the spaces in a fuller manner. We ascribed this to new plates being in use, and the frames of the stamps submitted by Mr. Fuss seem to show that this is a fact, as the designs seem to be deeper cut.

In the lot, the 2 pesos is the only one which we have not noted the color change. The frame is now red-orange instead of the bright orange-red, while the center is full black instead of bluish-black.

Adhesive.

2p red-orange and lamp-black.

HEDJAZ.—(1399)—We regret that we failed to give the measurements of the perforations and roulettes in the list of the stamps of this country given in our issue of October 20th. The 10 and 20 pa come perforated 12 and the 1pi perforated 10; the 5, 10, 20 pa and 1pi come rouletted 20; the 1pa, 20pa, and 2pi come with zigzag (serrate) roulette 14 if you count the number of cuts, or 13 if you count the number of indentations after the stamps are torn apart, while the Postage Dues are zigzag roulette like the latter.

We draw attention to these variations because we note in Stamp Collecting for June 16th, the 20pa and 1pi perf. 12½ and in the same contemporary for November 10th, the 1pi perf. 13. We would be pleased to examine any copies about which our readers are in doubt, or would be pleased to have further authoritative information about the subject.

ICELAND.—Scott's Circular chronicles two new values with watermark of multiple crosses. These stamps are of the bi-portrait type of 1907-08, and the 5a was issued in 1915 along with the Jan Sigurdsson type 3a with multiple cross wmk. The stamps are perforated 12½ and to keep the list in order we give:

Adhesives.

1e yellow-green and red.
4a gray and carmine.
5a green.

INDIA.—(Cochin)—(1384) — Scott's Circular lists the 4p stamp with new rajah's head without overprint as noted in our Chronicle for July 7th last, at which time it had only appeared overprinted for official use.

Adhesive.

4p green.

(Charkari)—The London Philatelist quotes the Philatelic Journal of India as follows:—"This Indian State, apparently owing to the stress of the times, has been compelled to issue a locally made quarter anna or one pice stamp in violet color. The design is very similar to the lithographed issue of 1910, and it seems to be an impression, from the heaviness of the ink, from a rubber stamp. It is said the stamps are not sold to the public."

Serious Stamp Buyer

(not bargain hunters) should let us know their wants. We can submit most requirements and our stock covers all countries, including out of the way varieties. We send at best prices, but do not profess to be cheaper than others. 80-page price list free. [eow1

MESOPOTAMIA.—(1387)—Stamp Collecting for November 3rd contained the following: "As we go to press Mr. Lewis May shows us a very interesting set of nine different Turkish stamps overprinted with various values and the words 'Baghdad in British Occupation'. We understand the issue is a small one." And in the issue of the same contemporary for November 10th, we see the following:

"In extension of our brief chronicle of last week of the new and unannounced Baghdad provisionals, we now append a list of the values already received or reported. The majority of these belong to the stock which had already been surcharged (by the Turks, of course) with the Red Crescent in aid of some Ottoman War Fund. Messrs. Lewis May & Co., who have shown us an example of the 2 annas on 1 piastre of 1901, inform us that the number overprinted was very limited and that only one set was sold to each officer applying for copies, the purchaser having to sign for same."

Our contemporary lists the stamps as follows: "1917. October. Postage stamps of Turkey (of the issues noted below) overprinted 'BAGHDAD' (at top) 'IN BRITISH' (at left, reading upwards) 'OCCUPATION' (at right, reading downwards) in rough, serif capitals, and

PERSIA.—The following information has been supplied to The London Philatelist by Lieut.-Col. G. S. F. Napier:

1915. Issues of 1909, overprinted 1333.

Values so overprinted were 1, 2, 3, 6, 9, 10 shahis, 1, 2 krans. The krans does not exist overprinted 1333. Probably a copy overprinted 1334 was mistaken for it.

1916. Issue of 1909, overprinted 1334.

1, 10, 20 and 30 krans.

February, 1917.

Local provisional issue at Hamadan on evacuation by the Turks.

1 kran of current type overprinted 12 and 34 shahis.

In use February to end of April. I believe that no more than 1000 of the 12 or 200 of the 24 shahis were issued.

June 21st, 1917.

1 shahi of 1909, overprinted 1335 (5000, all remaining on hand, overprinted).

9 shahis of 1909, overprinted 1 shahi 1335 (45,000, all remaining on hand, overprinted).

9 shahis of 1909, overprinted 3 shahis 1335 (45,000, all remaining on hand, overprinted).

August, 1917.

13 shahis of 1909, overprinted 5 shahis (60,000. Die used for 5 shahis on 1 kran in 1915 to be used).

10 shahis of 1909, overprinted 1 shahi (65,000 of each. Same die as used for overprints of July, 1917).

10 shahis of 1909, overprinted 3 shahis (65,000 of each. Same die as used for overprints of July, 1917).

N. B.—I have not yet seen the last three. The Director of Posts tells me he has issued the order for them.

SALVADOR.—(1405)—We have the following as part of a letter from the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co.: "We are perfectly convinced that the Salvador 'S' issue was intended to be used and for the reason stated, was withdrawn and the surcharge substituted by '1915'. We were, however, under the impression that these stamps were in use in 1916 instead of 1915, however, the postmaster states in his letter that they were used in August, 1915."

The letter refers to the letter from the Postmaster General of Salvador, kindly supplied by the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co., and published by us with their permission in the Chronicle of December 1st. The postage stamps with the "S" overprint were distributed by the U. P. U. in October, 1916, and were chronicled in Scott's Circular in November of the same year. The letter of the Postmaster General of Salvador clearly states that the stamps were only in use for a few days from August 25, 1915, the corresponding sets having been sent out for distribution by the U. P. U.; that owing to a possible imitation of the letter "S", the stamps were withdrawn and the surcharge substituted by "1915".

It seems a little out of the ordinary for stamps issued for a few days in 1915 to be circulated by the U. P. U. over a year afterward, in 1916, but this was probably on account of delays occasioned by the war and would be excusable under the circumstances. It would be interesting to know, however, under what date the Postmaster General of Salvador sent the stamps to Berne to be distributed, and when the International Bureau of the U. P. U. received them, as fourteen months is a long time and, as we say above, it seems a little out of the ordinary for stamps issued on August 25, 1915, to be circulated by the U. P. U. on October 16, 1916, fourteen months all but a few days from the time the stamps were, as it is claimed, in actual use.

The Postmaster General's letter also discloses the fact that the "S" stamps were sold at auction on May 29, 1916, to the lot of which were added 589,250 specimens including imperforates and also 23,100 of the "1915" overprints which were errors in the engraving and printing!

We have accorded full honors to the regular postage stamps with "S" overprint, and the collector will, of course, have to have the set to be complete according to the Catalogue, which, by the way, lists them as of 1916, but there is one sure thing, you won't have to collect the imperfs., nor the "errors" of the "1915" overprint series, unless you have a hankering for such things.

SENEGAL.—Mr. Edwin W. Fuss shows us the red-cross stamp, Scott's No. 151, with the center bar of the "F" in "AFRIQUE" missing. This variety must also occur on the ordinary 10c, No. 83.

SIAM.—(1389)—The Scott Circular publishes the following: "We have seen copies of the 1, 2 and 3 bahts of the new series now being printed in London. As in the case of the lower values, the design and colors have been reproduced remarkably well, but careful examination shows points by which the two printings may be distinguished. The Vienna stamps are 37½ to 38 mm. high, while the London stamps measure 39 mm. In the latter, the king's features are more distinct, especially the mouth, eyelids and eyebrows. The details of the uniform and the medals and orders are more clearly brought out. There are many small differences in the letters of 'Siam', the crown, the ornamental border, etc."

TRINIDAD & TOBAGO.—We note that we have not mentioned the ½d Official stamp since last May (May 12th issue). So far there have been four types of the overprint "OFFICIAL" since 1913, and Scott's Circular now lists a new type overprint. The original issue was in small Gothic type; the second in 1914, was of tall Roman capitals fairly well spaced; the third in 1916, was of condensed Roman capitals with a period after the word; the fourth was like the third, but without the period, 1917; and lastly (not finally, we feel sure) the overprint has appeared in tall condensed Gothic (sans-serif), also without period:

Official Stamp.

URUGUAY.—According to Champion's Bulletin, the Post Office Department has decided to issue a commemorative series of postage stamps upon the occasion of the transfer of the mortal remains of the celebrated Uruguayan publicist, Jose Henrique Rodo, who died recently in Italy. The series is to consist of four values, 2, 4, 5 and 8 centesimos, and 200,000 of each are to be issued. The information appeared in the September 25th edition of our French contemporary, but we neglected to mention it before this. We have not as yet seen the series and cannot say whether they have been issued. Even if such an occasion be sufficient to Uruguay to produce a commemorative issue, we do not think any collector will object, if the quantity to be produced is as stated, because almost an entire year has passed since we have had any philatelic news from our South American sister republic, not a single mention of the country having been in these columns during 1917.

DOCUMENTARY AND PROPRIETARY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

CHAPTER XLII.

1898, Dollar Documentaries.

The issue of $1 stamps in the latter part of 1900, was:—

May	655,600	September	168,320
June	237,440	October	656,000
July	384,000	November	128,256
August	114,816	December	385,280

The total from June to October inclusive, is 1,560,576, which may approximate the number of $1 red issued. The quantity sold to the public may well have been considerably less. If MEKEEL'S Washington correspondent did did not state so definitely in the WEEKLY of November 29, 1900, that the first shipment of the gray stamps, including all values from $1 to $50, was made on November 13, the present writer would be apt to assign October as the more probable month of first issue of the $1 gray. Used copies of the $1 gray were offered as early as December 1, 1900, that is, barely two weeks after they were first delivered by the Bureau, and nearly two months before the first advertised offering of the $3 lake, which the writer has noted.

The $1, $3, $5, $10. $50 and a $2 stamp in the same design were printed in dull olive gray in October, 1900. The designs do not differ from the previous issues, except that each stamp is overprinted with a large outline numeral corresponding to the denomination. The "1", "2", "3" and "5" are 20 mm. high and the "10" and "50" are 12 mm. high. The numeral is printed in a soluble black and the gray ink is also far from being a permanent color. It was believed and hoped no chemical treatment which would remove a cancellation, could fail also to remove the overprint, or to disfigure the stamp and thereby make re-use without detection impossible.

Nevertheless, three months had hardly elapsed before the newspapers and philatelic press contained reports of extensive stamp washing and again the Bureau set to work to overcome the difficulty. In June, 1901, it was reported that the Bureau was experimenting with glycerine in the ink for the overprint on the dollar value documentaries and the experiments apparently continued for several months, as not until January, 1902, were the green stamps with overprint reported on sale.

Again the design remained unchanged, but as the $3 denomination had been discontinued June 30, 1901, there are only five stamps of this set—$1, $2, $5, $10, $50. The color selected was a blue-green. Each sheet required three impressions. First—the green ink of the stamp itself. Second—a colorless overprint about 14 mm. square in the center of each stamp. Third—a large black numeral on each stamp, corresponding to the denomination, part of which numeral always falls on the colorless overprint. The overprinted numerals measure 24 mm. tall on the $1, $2 and $5, and 19½ mm. tall on the $10 and $50, and instead of being in simple outline, are filled in with a net work pattern. These stamps were in use barely six months and seem not to have been successfully washed. They turn blue readily and even careful soaking in pure cold water is liable to remove part of the overprint numeral.

The printing of the documentaries ceased about May 10th, 1902, and the stamp taxes were abolished the June 30th, following. It is rather curious to note that the only contemporary mention of the $50 green and black in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, is in the issue of June 21, 1902. A used copy was shown, thereby establishing proof that this denomination in green really had been issued! Even today, when fifteen years have elapsed, and dealers have had opportunities to obtain specimens, the stamp is only occasionally seen.

CHAPTER XLIII.

Quantities Issued.

The numbers of the overprinted gray stamps and green stamps that were issued can be estimated with a fair degree of accuracy by assuming the total of monthly issues from November, 1900, to December, 1901, inclusive, were all grays and that those issued after De-

Headquarters for the Stamps of the United States and Its Colonies

I am breaking up a fine collection of U. S. and Colonial Stamps. It contains the 1c and 2c Pan American, inverted, O. G., very fine. Departments complete including the high value States. Many rare cut square envelopes, and a fine lot of Revenue Stamps. The U. S. Colonial issues are nearly complete. Mr. Collector, send me a Want List.

H. F. COLMAN,
2ND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C.

cember 31, 1901, comprised only green stamps. These totals so obtained are:—

Gray		Green
4,139,150	$1	570,240
2,751,104	$2	612,184
211,456	$3	None
297,728	$5	55,424
155,840	$10	19,328
5,758	$50	1,664

It does not seem likely, either, that many overprinted gray stamps were issued after December 31, 1901, or that many — if any — overprinted greeen stamps were issued before that date, but such comparatively small quantities of dollar values, except the $5, were issued in November, 1901, and such large quantities of some dollar denominations were issued in December, 1901, that perhaps part of the December issues should be subtracted from the totals of gray stamps and added to the totals of those printed in green. The quantities issued in December, 1901, were:—

$1	165,248	$10	11,008
$2	272,640	$50	256
$5	20,480

The quantities of all the documentaries of the 1898 series issued from June, 1898, to June, 1902, inclusive, including the 1c, 2c and $5 surcharged stamps, were:—

½c	18,704,400	10c	62,866,696
1c	1,173,026,520	25c	29,485,000
2c	942,066,800	40c	2,885,976
3c	11,305,480	50c	20,965,400
4c	20,830,000	80c	2,971,728
5c	41,332,800

The total ½c to 80c was 2,326,440,800 stamps.

$1	19,964,544	$30	19,456
$2	3,363,968	$50	90,112
$3	1,336,832	$100	17,360
$5	1,316,382	$500	2,600
$10	729,984	$1,000	3,800

The total $1 to $1,000 was 26,845,038 and the total ½c to 80c was 2,326,440,800, making a grand total ½c to $1,000 of 2,353,285,838.

By subtracting the estimated issue of overprinted gray and green dollar values and the estimated $1 red and $3 lake from the total of the respective denominations issued from 1898 to 1902, we may ascertain approximately how many $1, $3, $5, $10 and $50 stamps were issued in the first colors. The figures so obtained are:—

$1 green	13,694,898
$3 brown	1,027,200
$5 orange	945,536
$10 black	594,816
$50 brown	82,688

There were issued from January to May, 1900, inclusive, 2,756,018 one dollar stamps. This number probably includes all the hyphen-perfed $1 green and establishes a maximum for that stamp. The minimum can only be guessed at. From January to July, 1900, inclusive, there were issued 200,832 three dollar stamps. This number probably includes all the hypen-perfed $3 brown and also establishes a maximum. How many hypen-perfs were actually issued cannot be determined from the figures available, but it is obvious regarding both of these stamps that those hypen-perfed were less than one quarter of the total numbers issued.

Of the 40c and 80c stamps more than two thirds were issued before January, 1900, and the proportion of rouletted stamps printed was so great that those hypen-perfed may not have been in use more than six months, if so long. Used copies were difficult to find in 1901.

In the year ending June 30, 1903, the Treasury Department redeemed $1,031,975.26 face value of stamps of the 1898 series and there were returned by collectors of internal revenue $37,522,144.81. The writer does not know what denominations and issues were included, but some were the stamps printed on checks and of the others comparatively few were higher than the $2 denomination. Only 40 of the $500 and 180 of the $1,000 stamp were issued after December 31, 1901.

CHAPTER XLIV.

Proprietary Series of 1898.

The proprietary set consisted of twelve stamps, the same size and design as the cent value documentaries, but with "PROPRIETARY" in place of "DOCUMENTARY" at the bottom of each stamp. All were first delivered in the latter part of June, or the early part of July, 1898, except the 1⅞c and 3¾c, which were not delivered until early in October. The colors were:—

⅛c	yellow green.	1⅞c	dull blue.
⅜c	orange.	2½c	lake.
⅝c	blue.	3¾c	olive gray.
1c	green.	4c	purple.
1¼c	deep violet.	5c	br. orange.

With most of these stamps the original colors were maintained throughout the life of the series, but a few of them, particularly the ¼c, vary so widely in tint and hue as almost to merit being classified as distinct colors. There are, perhaps, a dozen marked variations of color in this value. Those showing reddish hues were among the earlier printings and come rouletted only, while those with hypen-perf range through yellow brown and orange brown. The rouletted ¼c occurs in a hue very close to a reddish hue of the 2c proprietary rouletted, and the lightest tint of the ¼c hypen-perf is identical with the hyphen-perfed 80c documentary. Possibly in each case the same ink was employed for both stamps, either intentionally or by error.

The 1¼c stamp also occurs in several variations of shade and hue, but does not extend so far away from what may be considered the normal. Some collectors have thought that this stamp in gray is an error of color, printed with ink intended for the ½c documentary. Violet, however, is so subject to fading and other changes that this contention lacks satisfactory substantiation. The brown-violet hue is a distinct color phase from one of the earlier printings and is found only with the old roulette.

The proprietaries printed after December, 1899, were hypen-perfed, and often can be distinguished from those of the previous rouletted printings by differences in tint. This also holds true of some values of the documentaries, in particular the 2c and 3c, and indicates that slight changes were made in the inks for these revenues at the same time as the change from roulette to hyphen-perf. As a rule the hyphen-perfs are decidedly scarcer than the roulettes—especially the values of which fewest were issued. The primary reason for the relative scarcity of the hyphen-perfs is that on account of the low face value of the set, collectors and dealers bought the stamps unused in quantities during the first year of the tax, but did not purchase again when the hyphen-perfs appeared. Pairs and blocks show the difference between the two modes of separation much more clearly than single copies, but at that time few philatelists collected revenue stamps in pairs or blocks and many collectors did not care to have two sets of singles that looked so much alike.

COLLECTORS' CLUB ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Collectors' Club was held December 13, at its club rooms 120 West 49 St., New York, with an attendance of 35 members and visitors. President Theodore E. Steinway in a brief address summed up the work of the year and made recommendations for the future. The following letter was read from the honorary joint secretary of the Royal Philatelic Society, London:—

"I am instructed to communicate to you the following Resolution which was passed at the last meeting of the Council of our Society held on the 19th instant and which was subsequently sanctioned by the Fellows in general meeting assembled.

"The Council of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, with the sanction of the Fellows in general Meeting assembled, recognizing the magnanimous part played by the United States of America by their entry into the great struggle for the rights of Humanity, send their greetings through the Collectors' Club of New York, to the Philatelists of the United States.

"They welcome the new bond between the two Nations and trust that the principles which have led the United States of America to place themselves side by side with the British race will ever tend to unite the British speaking people in the cause of freedom and justice and will maintain between them a lasting friendship and a cordial understanding.

Yours faithfully,
HERBERT R. OLDFIELD."

The competition of the evening was "Any British Colony except British North America." This was one of the finest competitions ever held by the Club. Henry J. Duveen with his superb collection of Mauritius won first prize, a silver gilt medal. Second place was won by Alfred F. Lichtenstein, with his almost equally fine Mauritius. Both had the famous Post Offices, and there were covers, blocks and plates as well. Third prize was won by Theodore E. Steinway with his New South Wales. This collection was one to delight the heart of any specialist as the issues are carefully worked out and a great deal of original research work has been done. A truly fine and complete collection of Gambia owned by Henry B. Newman won Special Honorable Mention.

The Twentieth Century Section "War Issues" was won by Robert P. Levis with an almost complete collection including all the rare German Colonies overprinted. Joseph T. Lozier won second prize.

The election of officers resulted in the unanimous re-election of Theodore E. Steinway, president; Alfred F. Lichtenstein, vice-president; J. W. Scott, treasurer, librarian; Herman Toaspern, secretary. The year book of the club may be obtained from the Secretary at 233 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

OUT AGAIN.

One million used postage stamps for $100.

This is a new type of war work—this selling of old stamps. Women of the Plymouth Congregational church have started to collect them and when they are sold, the money will be used for soldiers' benefit. The stamps will be purchased by manufacturers of paper mache. Mrs. Eltinge Elmore, heading the committee collecting the stamps at Plymouth church, said she had no definite market in view, but she knew one existed. The Plymouth collection is now 10,000 stamps.—Milwaukee Newspaper.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Fred S. Martin of Greene, N. Y., in sending us his latest pricelist includes several of his recent lists from which we can well understand Mr. Martin's popularity in the matter of supplying at a very reasonable figure many varieties of stamps. The careful buyer will do well to consult these lists.

—C. M. B.—You are quite right. The Collectors' Club is in N. Y. City and Somerville is in Mass. We anticipate that all our readers will say the same, anyway we will make matters plainer next time.

—The Canadian Philatelic Association was organized at a meeting held at Toronto, December 6. The following officers were elected temporarily. Pres., W. R. Brown; 1st Vice-Pres., Frank S. Porter; Sec., L. A. G. Winter, 134 Stibbard Ave., Toronto. It is the aim of the society to get all Canadian Collectors into its ranks.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from E. J. Gregg and A. O. Osborne.

—L. V. Lindsey, Norwich, N. Y., is unable to secure replies to letters sent R. Koons, 3939 Euclid Ave., Kansas City, Mo.; C. W. McKelvey, Water Gap, Pa., and I. G. Wolf, Fremont, Ohio.

—The stamp club of the Junior Museum of the Newark (N. J.) Museum Association is having a stamp exhibit on the third floor of the Free Public Library, and parties interested are urged to attend. The exhibition will last until January 15.

—The 1918 convention of the M. P. A. will be held at Toronto, Canada, the day preceding or the day after that of the S. P. A. at Niagara Falls. Those attending both conventions will have an opportunity of enjoying the delightful trip across Lake Ontario.

OUR ROLL OF HONOR.

Since our last list was published a goodly number of new subscriptions has been received, but a larger number would be welcome. As will be seen, the Edgewood Stamp Co. leads with 31 subscriptions, while the honors of second place go to the publishers of Stamp Collecting. It speaks well for our publication that Mr. Vallancey is so willing to cooperate with us in securing new subscribers. It is possible for any dealer to duplicate the work of the leaders in our subscription contest. We furnish the subscription forms and all that remains to be done is to circulate them in correspondence. The form is neatly printed and will be supplied free of charge. Are there not many of our subscribers who will be willing to assist us in our efforts at circulation building? The standing Dec. 15 was as follows:—

EDITORIAL.

Puzzle—We find some "puzzlement" in the new revenue stamps, which, however, very likely will be explained away by the time this notice is in print, so swiftly does the train of philatelic events travel at times. The distinctive revenue stamps for parcel post packages still elude us and are not on sale anywhere, we understand. They are promised for early delivery and in the meantime, the regular revenue stamps are being used to rate the tax. In looking over the tax schedule covering parcel post packages, we find that parcels requiring twenty-five cents postage are taxed one cent and those requiring 26 to 50 cents are charged two cents extra, and so on. As packages requiring twenty-four cents postage are not taxed, the one cent stamp may be used only on those packages that require twenty-five cents, —no more, no less. This is a rather delicately balanced proposition, we should say. We have seen some of the higher denominations of revenues, five to thirty dollars, and for the life of us, we could not discover any difference between their design and that of the retired stamps of the same values. The "series of 1914" inscription is not blocked out in these denominations as in the one and two dollar.

Unique—We feel that we are not abusing the term to any extent in saying that a cover, the property of Dr. Harry G. Oakland, Milwaukee, is unique. The envelope originally was the Lynchburg provisional envelope, 5 cents black on amber, but it was employed in February, 1862, as the cover for a letter sent from an office in Virginia, postmark indistinct, to the Hon. Ballard Preston, a member of the Confederate senate. This procedure accounts for one five cent adhesive, first design, in the upper right hand corner, but there is a second specimen of the stamp in the upper middle part of the envelope with the Richmond postmark. We read: "From the endorsation on this letter it is very clear that the same was delivered to Mr. Ballard Preston in Richmond and by him readdressed to his son, Colonel Robert G. Preston of the Confederate army and the letter re-mailed at the Richmond post office. This necessitated new postage as evidenced by the stamp in the center of the envelope, with the Richmond postmark. Mr. Ballard Preston owned several large estates near his home at Blacksburg, Montgomery Co., Virginia." Here we have a Lynchburg provisional envelope used in an emergency, but not provisionally, if one cares for verbal twists. The Lynchburg provisional envelopes are rare birds and a cover used in the manner indicated would accentuate the interest in it, so far as some collectors are concerned. The cover literally is in a class by itself. We forgot to say that the numeral 5 and "Paid" of the provisional envelope are ink-crossed.

Sails—Our philatelic nautical expert, Mr. R. G. Montgomery, Philadelphia, who won our admiration last year, by correcting with the aid of official data direct from naval headquarters, the generally accepted statement that a United States battleship was pictured on one of the stamps of Uruguay, naturally was much interested in a paragraph in the Collectors' Journal telling of a collection of stamps bearing ship portraiture. Mr. Montgomery, before his present business connection was made, was with the Cramp Shipbuilding Company of Philadelphia; hence, his penchant for a collection of ships. To him ships are familiar friends, and they reveal their secrets at once before his calculating eye. Mr. Montgomery observes that a recent observation to the effect that the battleship on the 1898 U. S. revenues was perhaps the Maine, is all too halting, as he says: "It is the ill-fated ship beyond a doubt. See the construction of the Maine in a photograph and then compare the engraving with the picture and surmise gives way to fact." He continues: "Ships are easy compared with locomotives. You can discover the names of the ships in different ways and the harbor in which they may be shown is sometimes a clue, but locomotives are beyond me and I broke up my specialized collection of them and placed the stamps in my regular album. There are about one hundred stamps in which the ship forms the principal, or, better, the prominent part of the design. Battleships are rather scarce, the U. S., 1898 revenues, the gunboat Lark of Liberia, the Austrian battleship, the Uruguayan examples and that of the German colonials about complete the list. Commercial ships are well represented; the U. S., 1869, twelve cent, Pan-American and parcel post contributions may be mentioned. The ship shown by Peru is the same as that on the 12 cent of 1869. On the Salvador stamp the man on the ship's bridge is out of all proportion. Native craft of all types interest me."

Critics—We should not be surprised if some collector would arise from his work in the Baldwin Locomotive works and qualifying as an expert on engine construction, classify the locomotives on postage stamps from first to last. In fact, so extensive is the field of stamp design that there is room for many classes of scrutineers. We remember how impressed we were as a boy to hear a philatelic sage dwell on the inconsistency found in a bee-hive design on a certain postage stamp. The bees or the hive were all wrong. He knew; and paraphrasing David B. Hill, he said: "I am an apiarist."

Memories—What has become of the old-fashioned collector whose mother would not allow him to look at his stamps Saturday morning until he had practiced an hour on the fiddle? Is this o. f. c. cutting out peach-stone baskets in the presence of the old-fashioned dealer who locked the office on a quiet afternoon and played checkers with a crony?

Short—"I'll be brief, but your camouflage series will not be incomplete without the photograph of the father who runs a stamp business at home under the name of his son (aged eight) so that the folks at the office where he is employed will not catch on."

Again—Now the Conscientious Objector makes his appearance and he is a protestant against the following prestidigitation in an auction catalogue: "From a current auction catalogue, referring to No. 21, United States: '1862-66, 24c, 78c, a shade almost that of the August issue, but we prefer to call it steel blue, well centered, black cancellation, fine, $12.50.' We wonder if the cataloguer ever saw the August stamp? Or is he only trying to fool himself? None of the August copies that we have ever seen could even suggest the steel blue of the later issue."

Then—From Mr. Charles Bailey, West Toronto, Canada, we received some time ago, a number of old philatelic prints and among them was a picture of the "first annual convention of the P. S. of A." at Niagara Falls, in August, 1894. John K. Tiffany, the philatelic immortal, was in the picture and there is a sprinkling of other celebrities. J. F. Beard, most popular as a dealer before his death; Alvah Davison, in his prime; L. W. Mott, now Congressman; R. W. Ashcroft, friend and secretary to Mark Twain; H. F. Ketcheson, publisher of the old Dominion Philatelist; P. M. Wolseiffer, Fred Michael, Alfred Fritz, L. M. Lang, Fred Fox, Kissinger, Severn, and others.

THE HALIFAX CATASTROPHE.

We have heard from both of our advertising patrons, Wm. W. Walsh and Emily King, and are glad to say that both firms are able to do business at their old stands, though considerably the worse off for the terrible affliction that visited the city.

Mr. Walsh writes:—"Please notify my customers that I am still in the land of the living, albeit I had a very narrow escape from serious injury". At the time of the explosion Mr. Walsh was in the bathroom of his home shaving. He was stripped to the waist with the tub nearby ready for a cold plunge. When the explosion came two large double sashes of glass tumbled in, with showers of glass fragments. Luckily, he escaped with a few small cuts.

Mr. Walsh adds:—"We shall never forget the kindness of our American friends. Help of all sorts is arriving, but especially are we fortunate that so many competent oculists have come, as the injuries to eyes are very numerous."

The manager of the Emily King Co. writes us as follows:—"Will you ask our customers to be patient with us for a few weeks? We are all safe though members of the family were injured by flying glass. The house is wrecked. The roof and walls are sound, but doors, windows, etc., gone and we are living in artificial light with everything closed with roofing paper. Relief is pouring in."

By B. W. H. POOLE.

(It has been decided to publish A and B of the Dictionary in booklet form instead of waiting for the entire work to be completed. Illustrations have been added and a very attractive and useful book is the result. When you do any business with this office add 12c for booklet and it will be mailed you when issued. —EDITOR.)

DONALD, JOHN M.—An engraver who engraved the dies for the 1895-98 stamps of Mexico.

DON QUIXOTE ISSUE.—A set of stamps issued in Spain in May, 1905, in connection with the Tercentenary celebration of Don Quixote, which was held at that time in Madrid. This immortal novel of the famous Spanish writer, Cervantes, was first published in 1605, and the scenes shown on the commemorative stamps all depict incidents in the life of that imaginary "hero", Don Quixote.

DOUBLE CORNER LETTERS.—A term sometimes met with in connection with early British stamps. The variety is only found in the line-engraved stamps of 1840-41, and occurs most frequently in the 1d. As is well known, these stamps were lettered in the lower angles from AA to TL, each stamp on the sheet having a different combination of letters. These letters did not form a part of the die, but were punched on the plates by hand. Occasionally a wrong letter was inserted and when this occurred the correct letter was punched over it. As this did not always result in the entire obliteration of the wrong letter, the variety known as "double corner letter" resulted. It must be confessed, however, that some of the double letters recognised by enthusiastic specialists are difficult to identify without the assistance of a fairly lively imagination.

DOUBLE EMBOSSING.—This is self explanatory and refers to two impressions of embossed stamps on the same piece of paper. Some of the early Gambia and Portuguese are known twice embossed, one impression being colorless.

DOUBLE IMPRESSION.—A double impression is a stamp having the same design printed twice on the same side of the paper, one impression generally overlapping the other to some extent. The error is not a common one and most doubly printed stamps are scarce.

DOUBLE LINED LETTERS.—A term usually used in descriptions of watermarks to distinguish them from similar ones in which the letters are "single-lined". The Crown A watermarks of the Commonwealth of Australia will serve as instances, some of these having the "A" formed of single and others of double lines.

DOUBLE LINED NUMERALS.—A term descriptive of certain varieties of numeral watermarks in contradistinction to those having single lines.

DOUBLE PAPER.—A patent paper invented by Mr. Charles F. Steel, who is better known as the inventor of the "grille" embossing applied to certain United States stamps between 1867 and 1873. This paper consisted of two layers, a thin surface paper and a thick backing paper. This paper was supposed to be an absolute safeguard against cleaning, for any attempt to remove the cancellation would, it was averred, result in the removal of the top layer of paper on which the design was printed. A number of the stamps of the United States printed by the Continental Bank Note Co., were printed on this paper experimentally, but the plan met with little favor and was abandoned.

DOUBLE PERFORATION.—A term applied to stamps accidentally perforated twice on one or more sides. Sometimes the perforations overlap and produce the effect of a fine roulette and sometimes they are some distance apart.

DOUBLE PRINTING.—(See Double Impression.)

DOUBLE STRIKE.—A double impression of the whole or a portion of the die on the plate. These varieties are caused by the die being applied out of alignment in the first instance and then partially covered and obliterated by another impression in the correct position.

DOUBLE SURCHARGE.—Two surcharges applied to the same stamp.

DOUGLAS CITY DISPATCH.—A local post of the United States established in New York in 1879 and in connection with which special stamps were issued.

DOUGLAS PATENT PAPER.—This was a double paper consisting of a thin surface paper adhering to a thicker and harder paper. The surface paper was punctured by small holes so arranged that eight, in the form of a circle, appeared on each stamp, and part of the printing ink thus passed through the holes and was applied to the backing paper. Any attempt at cleaning was, therefore, certain to result in the tearing and removal of the thin surface paper. Some of the 2c and 3c United States stamps were experimentally printed on this paper in 1882 or 1883, and these were placed on sale at the city post office at Washington. It was ultimately decided not to permanently adopt this paper.

DOWNEY, W. & D.—A well known firm of London photographers who were responsible for the portraits of their Britannic Majesties used on the Rhodesian stamps of 1910.

DPTO. ZELAYA.—An overprint found upon certain Nicaraguan stamps in conjunction with a capital "B". The first word is a contraction for "Departamento" (Department) and the necessity of the overprint has already been described under "B".

D. R.—An overprint found upon certain South Australian stamps used between 1868 and 1874, upon the correspondence of the government department concerned with "Deeds and Registration". These special labels were superseded in 1874, by the general official issue overprinted "O. S."

DRACHMA.—(Plural "Drachmai") —The unit of value in Greece and Crete and the value in which many of the stamps of those countries are expressed. A drachma is divided into 100 lepta and has a nominal value of 20c in U. S. currency.

DRAFT.—An inscription shown on one of the 1d fiscal stamps of Great Britain, which was authorised for postal use in 1881.

DRAFT PAYABLE ON DEMAND OR RECEIPT.—This somewhat lengthy inscription appears on several British fiscal stamps of the series of 1855-60, which were allowed to be used for postal purposes in 1881.

DRAGONS.—These, with a few Oriental characters, form the chief portion of the design of the early stamps of Japan.

DRESSLER.—A typefounder of Frankfurt, who manufactured the electrotypes from which the stamps of the 1859 issue of Luxemburg were printed.

DRIE ZEHNTEL SILBERGROSCHEN.—An inscription shown upon the 3pf stamp of the 1863-4 issue of Hanover meaning "three tenths of a silber-groschen".

DRYDEN BROS.—A firm of Lambeth (London) manufacturers, who supplied the embossing presses to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue at Somerset House, for the production of the embossed 6d, 10d and 1s stamps of Great Britain.

DTO. ZELAYA.—(See Dpto. Zelaya.)

DUBOIS, ALPHEE.—A French engraver born in Paris in 1831. He was chiefly famed as an engraver of medals, but in 1881 he designed and engraved the "Commerce" type adopted for French colonial stamps. Dubois died in 1905.

MERRY XMAS

The season's greetings are extended to all my customers and to all the readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY. I trust the Yuletide will be a philatelically merry one for all stamp collectors.

The year that is passing has been a very lively one—especially in U. S. issues—and I have had my hands full of work and orders; so I am glad that Xmas is here, because I will take a holiday by not offering any stamps in this ad and next week will permit me to arrange some stock, as I will not be receiving any orders.

My office will be open as usual, however, and I will be pleased to entertain all visitors. (Closed Xmas day.)

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. UNITED STATES.—(1407)—Mr. Edgar Lee Green has shown us the rest of the set of new Documentary stamps up to and including the 80c, so we add the following to our previous chronicles:

Documentary Revenues.

3c rose.	25c rose.
4c rose.	40c rose.
8c rose.	80c rose.

Mr. W. S. F. Pierce shows us a plate variety of the 2c 1908 issue, but plate number is unknown. It would be interesting to know whether the same variety occurred in the lot of re-issued, perforated 11, stamps of this type. The variety consists of two lines of color, crossing the oval surrounding Washington's head, oppposite the first berry on the laurel wreath at the left. Mr. Pierce shows us several blocks showing a single specimen in each block with the variety. We have a faint recollection that this variety was known during the period of use of the stamps of this type.

(1403)—Mr. T. J. Eppes sends us a large number of 3c stamps varying in shade considerably from those mentioned, as submitted by him, in the Chronicle of November 17th. This 3c stamp is likely to produce as many different shade variations as the 2c watermarked perforated 10, whose shades are legion. It is difficult to list them, so we won't attempt it. And the imperforate and coil stamps show as much difference as the ordinary. We have seen, however, a shade that is entirely different than any others so far shown us, consisting of an entire sheet in red-violet, a deep rich color, similar to the 2c Columbian color, but brighter. This has been shown to us by Mr. W. S. F. Pierce.

(1404)—Mr. T. J. Eppes shows us several shades of the new 3c envelope stamps, ranging from dark to light violet, the latter probably being the lighter violet in accordance with the Department's order for a change from dark to lighter violet. We have seen all six dies of the 3c envelope stamps, Mr. Chew showing us Die F.

Mr. Frank Reeder, Jr., writes as follows, under date of December 11th: "I yesterday bought from the post office a sheet of current 3c unwatermarked, unperforated stamps, plate No. 8131. I find in going over them that in the upper right hand pane stamps Nos. 26, 27, and 28 all show downward shifts. No. 26 shows a very clear triple shift. All of these shifts are most apparent at the bottom frame line."

The perforated stamps from the same plate would show the shifts.

Mr. Reeder also writes: "The background in the medallion (on the sheet I have) and on the right hand row of upper and lower panes, shows a very decided vertical striping—striped about 1½ mm. apart. Probably blanket? Would be glad to know if this striping appears in other sheets of the same number. I am trying to get another sheet to compare."

For many years we have noted the striping of some of the U. S. stamps and the cause thereof has been explained in many ways. It is reasonable to suppose that the stripes—either "laid" or "ribbed"—are caused by different circumstances which arise in the manufacture of the stamps, as sometimes the "laid" appearance shows at the back, in the case of the rotary coil stamps, and sometimes as "ribbed" on the face of the stamps, like those explained by Mr. Reeder above. Our readers are referred to our Chronicle of July 7th, 1917, for an explanation of the laid lines showing on the backs of rotary coil stamps, which are probably caused by a press blanket. We venture to suggest a different cause for the appearance of ribbed lines on the face of the stamps from flat plates. Before printing from flat plates the paper is moistened by laying it between wet cloths; if the paper lies between these cloths overtime or is subjected to too heavy a pressure during the moistening process, the condition of the paper in this state of moisture is such that it is very likely to be impressed with the weave of the cloth—either "watermarking" it or ribbing it, and if the paper is printed upon while it is in this condition, that part of the paper which is wettest (in relief) takes more ink from the plate than that part which is not so wet (in recess) which takes less ink, this producing a finished stamp which shows stripes alternately dark and light in the form of a ribbing.

Sometimes these ribs are on the face of the paper with the above result, and sometimes on the back of the paper, in which case the design on the face is not always effected. "Ribbing" has also been accounted for by the "straw boards" between which the stamps are placed after printing and gumming.

The above explanations will also answer queries propounded in a letter we received from Prof. Robert W. Gay, who submits a 3c stamp from a flat plate and points out the ribbed effect at the back.

(1407)—Mr. Benj. Cadbury shows us two different "Food Will Win the War" cancellations from Boston; one is the divided oblong with lines at the right, while the other is a flag formation. We will soon give a list of the Liberty Loan cancellations, supplied in most part by Mr. Geo. W. Bye. It takes, however, some time to write up these lists, and delays occur for the reason that there are enough stamps to keep track of, let alone cancellations. We are, however, trying to serve all branches of the hobby, because what may interest one man doesn't interest the other, and we want to interest all.

BOLIVIA.—(1407)—Last week we chronicled the current ½c in a pair imperf. between. The Economist Bulletin mentions imperf. pairs of the 1c, 5c, and 10c, designs of the 1916 issue, and the new 2c carmine and black imperforate. But it does not state whether the 5c is of the old or new design, and we are wondering whether the 1c and 10c are imperforate all around or only pairs imperf. between. Bolivia is probably taking an example from Salvador, believing that if stamps are issued both perforated and imperforate they will double their income from the production, as collectors will surely want them both ways!

CANADA.—(1407)—The so-called retouched die of the 2c+1Tc is not a "retouch" at all, but an entirely new engraving of the original die, so we are informed by Mr. Wikoff Smith of the American Bank Note Co., the parent firm of the British American Bank Note Co., which made the stamps. The original die for these stamps, which is now termed Die I, gave very unsatisfactory results in the making of the plates, and the manufacturers of the stamps were greatly dissatisfied with the results of its use but, owing to the urgent need for the stamps, plates were made and printed from, while a new die was being made to take the place of the unsatisfactory one. The change has added several varieties for collectors to look for, and the subject has proved to be very interesting, as testified to by the number of communications we have received.

One letter in particular is of considerable interest, as it gives valuable information regarding the plates, while another letter answers the first, pointing out that the stamps in brown perforated 12 all around do exist. The list in our Chronicle of December 1st, was compiled from stamps in the reference collection of the editor (the writer) and is absolutely correct, the varieties existing as stated.

The following letter is from a responsible correspondent and throws much light on which plates were of Die I and which of Die II:

"Referring to your number of Dec. 1st (1405) on the subject of discovery of varieties as exemplified in the lately found second die of the Canadian 2c+1Tc, I may say that the study of the Georgian issue of Canada has been given my close attention since they first appeared in 1912.

"Respecting the stamp in question, Type I or Die I, as you wish, was used for plates 1 to 14, printed in a large number of shades, pink to vermilion. It was also used for the special plates made for printing the coil stamp in carmine. The use of these is not very great, so that when the color of the stamp was changed to brown the same plate was used.

"About two months before this change in color, plate 15 was put in use with Die II, this being the first plate of that type. A month later, plate 16 appeared, this was the last plate to appear in the old color, and on the stamp being made it was used for printing the brown stamps.

"Under these circumstances it is peculiar that an earlier plate would be revived to use in printing practically a new stamp.

"My opportunities for procuring these stamps are somewhat exceptional, and I have examined blocks from every plate so far issued in the brown, from No. 16 to the Confederation 3c and not one is

Advertising Chat

—Silas Weatherby of Medina, Ohio, has placed upon the market a loose-leaf approval book that is well worth patronage. Collectors who have been desirous of removing soiled and torn pages from their approval books will find the "In-a-jiffy" Loose Leaf Approval Book just the right thing. Mr. Weatherby asks us what we think of it and we are glad to express an opinion. Better write Mr. Weatherby and he will show you.

—Two notable advertisements appeared in the WEEKLY in the past fortnight. They were quarter page advertisements of Eugene Klein, Philadelphia, Pa. Without doubt the offerings of Mr. Klein were studied by our readers and well patronized. It has been some time since such a fine lot of U. S. stamps has been quoted in our columns. If you failed to note these two quarter pages it will pay you to look up the advertisements and you will find our comment justified.

—We have received from the Co-operative Exchange a copy of the firm's wholesale list for 1918 consisting of 32 pages. In addition to quoting prices on single stamps and sets by the ten and hundred, it also gives prices on entire dealers' stocks. Any retailer will find it to his advantage to procure a copy of this list.

—The stamp trade will note with interest the fact that our two Halifax stamp firms are still in the stamp business. The story as told elsewhere in this issue shows that they did not escape unscathed. We have heard from both firms and the communications received speak in the highest terms of appreciation of the aid extended by the U. S.

—The Universal Stamp Co. of Mt. Clemens, Mich., returns to our columns after a brief vacation. We welcome the firm and trust it may get a goodly share of business.

—Letters A and B of the Dictionary are being paged up and the book will soon be ready for mailing. If you are doing any business with this office either in renewing subcription or purchasing books, add 12c for this booklet and it will be mailed on the day of publication. Cuts have been used to brighten up the text as printed in the WEEKLY and a very attractive booklet is promised.

—The WEEKLY intends to publish a Mid-Winter Special on Saturday, January 26, and it will be an issue of great strength. We solicit your patronage of the same, with the assurance that it will be an excellent number to use.

—Our three-in-one contract gives you a rate based on space used. The space may be varied week by week and billed at the end of the month at proportionate rates. A half-inch costs $1.25, an inch $2.00, and two inches or more $1.80 per inch. We are now in the very heart of the stamp season, the three months of January, February and March being the best of the year.

FRANCE.—(1405)—Mr. Kenneth McKenzie supplies the cancellation which we referred to in our issue of December 1st. It reads, in four lines: "PORTEZ VOTRE COURRIER A LA POSTE DES QU'IL EST PRET: LE DEPART EN SERA MIEUX ASSURE". Translated by Mr. McKenzie this means: "Carry your mail to the post-office as soon as it is ready: its departure will be more certain."

The cancellation "COLLER LE TIMBRE EN HAUT & A DROITE DE L'ENVELOPPE", several copies of which have been submitted recently by our readers, was duly mentioned in the WEEKLY last year. This means, literally, "Place the stamp at the top and to the left of the envelope".

GREECE. — The Economist Bulletin states that a new regular issue lithographed has been placed in use, values 11 to 25dr, but no details are given.

SWEDEN.—The subject of the 1910 stamps with watermarks of letters is cropping up again. This is periodical as new students enter the philatelic field, and it would be well if all catalogues would note the existence of such stamps, whether they list them or not.

Mr. E. T. Nelson writes: "I have discovered while going through a lot of Sweden 1910 issue 10 ore stamps, three bearing the watermark of 'Landstormen'. I have as yet seen no chronicle in your Chronicle of New Issues and thought you would like to know this. Neither does Scott show this in his circular."

Prof. Robert W. Gay writes: "I have just been examining a few Swedish stamps of the 1910 issue, supposedly unwatermarked. Some of these stamps show letters as a watermark, evidently letters of a word or words extending over more than one stamp. The letters 'K', 'E', 'R' have been noted, sometimes two on a stamp. Have you information as to the nature of this watermark?"

The watermark consists of the words "KUNGL. POSTVERKET" and these are supposed to fall on the margins of the sheets, but through misplacement they sometimes fall on that part of the paper where the stamps are printed.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—(1405)—Referring to the coil stamps Mr. H. W. Wolseley writes: "Referring to your item in the WEEKLY of December 1st, 1917, entitled 'Union of South Africa', I write to say that in 1916, the ½d and 1d were issued in coils perf. 14 horizontally. I have strips of both. Whilst they are not catalogued by Scott, they are catalogued by Gibbons in the 1917 catalogue as Nos. 14 and 15. I am not sure of the date of issue, but I received my copies in June, 1916, as a new issue item."

Mr. Benj. Cadbury informs us that he received the ½d coil stamp in February, 1916.

A REAL GRASP ON THINGS.

Sending in some advertising copy this week, a certain dealer comments forcibly on the trade situation and we feel like passing on his observations. We quote from his letter as follows:—

"Who is doing all the raving about business being bad? What can be expected in war-time? The croakers should begin to realize what the country is up against in the present war. For my own part, I find business better than I expected, taking all things into consideration. One thing is certain, if a dealer is going to be a dealer he must have the stamps and he must have the stamps the collector hasn't got, or there will be no sale."

Here is a bit of philosophy, and if perchance your adv. lacks in pulling power, turn the searchlight on your offerings and especially the prices and see whether they can be improved upon.

"GOOD BYE, OLD STAMP, GOODBYE."

(The passing of the old-time three-cent stamp, as remembered by M. T. W.)

Good bye, old stamp, 'tis human luck
That changes friendships so;
When others failed you always stuck,
But now you have to go;
So here's a flow of honest tears
And here's a parting sigh.
Good bye, old friend of many years,
Good bye, old stamp, good bye.

Good bye, old stamp, the tried and true.
Your worth we'd not decry;
The two-cent stamp, we welcome you—
Good bye, old stamp, good bye.

You've oft been stood upon your head,
And had a blackened eye,
Into waste baskets thrown pell mell,
Without a tear or sigh;
Although we miss Great George, in green,
Who could not tell a lie,
In rosy hue again he's seen—
Good bye, old stamp, good bye.
—Chicago Tribune.

THE FATE OF MESOPOTAMIA.

(This article is quite timely and appeared in a recent issue of Stamp Collecting. Our Chronicle of New Issues has already given us some particulars of happenings of a stampic nature.—Ed.)

There is perhaps no other hobby known in the world which spreads a knowledge of geography among so many millions of the human race, and at the same time assists in the raising of the public revenues of a country without raising taxation on the poorest classes who can least afford to pay, as stamp collecting and the making of new postage stamps. We by no means advocate a system of uncalled for or useless surcharging, such as was at times adopted by Ceylon and some other British oversea possessions, and which is not altogether obsolete now in some of the smaller countries of the world.

Mesopotamia, a country with an area of over 55,000 square miles, has, through the valour of British soldiers, been recently freed from the blighting domination of the Turk and been brought under British administration. Its capital, Bagdad, was in ancient times under its Caliphs, a seat of rich intellectual development and knowledge, of which little trace remains. But its inhabitants are even now to be found more quick withal and, through their commercial intercourse with various nations, more progressive than any other part of Asiatic Turkey. Civil and criminal courts of a rough and ready kind have been established since the British occupation, whilst the revenue is also being carefully looked after, and will probably astonish the world now that it is freed from the peculations of Constantinople and the Turkish underlings on the spot. Surely Mesopotamia should have stamps of its own, even if those for temporary purposes were only surcharges on Indian stamps, with the date of the capture of Bagdad. This may seem a comparatively small matter and hardly worthy of notice to people in England, but it must be remembered that there are tens of thousands of Indian soldiers and labourers from every part and corner of the Indian Empire serving in Bagdad and surrounding districts. These men will be writing to their homes as often as opportunity is afforded. So will our British soldiers, and it is highly desirable, more especially in the case of Eastern races, that covers from distant Mesopotamia should bear distinguishing postage stamps as proofs of the reality of their achievements in far-off lands, rather than the ordinary Indian stamps which are seen every day and are used in India as English stamps are here, to save the cost of messengers over an area of a few miles, and often in the area of the same towns. The cost of engraving such new stamps would be a comparative trifle, and would be reimbursed to the Post Office Department in the sales probably of the first week. They should be of a distinctive nature, and if possible we would suggest that red, white and blue—distinctive colours in the national flags of the chief allies—England, France, and America—should be prominent among them.

No one can tell the ultimate fate of Mesopotamia: that remains to be decided by the Peace Congress which will sit after Germany is defeated and victory crowns, as it most certainly must, the arms of the Allies. In the meanwhile Mesopotamia is under British dominion, and we may be certain that whatever happens, it will never again be restored to the blighting rule of the Turks. They have shown that, after their possession of over thirty years, they can neither gain the sympathies of the governed or benefit the people in one single respect. They have been quite as great a curse to Mesopotamia as the Germans proved to the unfortunate Hereros in Africa, and quite as unfit to govern alien races. The world is still largely governed by sentiment, and this is especially the case with our Indian subjects. The visit of King George and Queen Mary to India, and the interest they always show in anything that concerns Indian princes and peoples, has probably done more than most people think to ensure the loyalty of the Indian Empire to our cause.

A new and striking issue of Mesopotamia postage stamps may seem to be a very unimportant matter to prosaic Britishers. It would be viewed otherwise by millions of our humble Indian subjects in the East, and would appeal to their simple imagination in a way that nothing else would, whilst perhaps a million stamp collectors all over the world would desire to add this new issue to their collections, and would thus add to the postal revenues of our recently acquired territory, proving the end of the German dream of establishing her influence in these lands adjoining our Indian Empire, where she would at any time be able to stir up trouble so long as she remained under the power of the degenerate family to whom Germans have been foolish enough to submit their destinies for so many years.

HOW ARE CATALOG PRICES FIXED?

A valued reader in the Consular service writes that it would be interesting if we could find space for some remarks as to the bases on which catalogue prices are fixed. As regards the more valuable stamps, he says, auction results seem to show that these are in some cases underpriced, while from our advertisement columns one would gather that in most cases the cheaper stamps are overpriced.

After all, as we are reminded in the Introduction to Gibbons' ubiquitous Red compendium, in the priced catalogue, which is accepted more or less as the standard of value throughout the world, the prices quoted are based upon the stock of stamps actually in the possession of the compilers. Moreover, catalogue prices are for good average copies "such as the general collector would be glad to put in his collection," i. e., stamps well centred and lightly cancelled, of good colour, and not thinned. The quarter-catalogue quotations are usually for stamps off centre, heavily obliterated, thinned, or otherwise defective.

The average collector has to make the catalogue his guide, both for buying and arranging his collection; but it is only after a vast amount of experience and careful study of stamps that one is enabled to judge of the value of unpriced varieties, and know of the existence of many unlisted errors and varieties. Then there are divers other reasons for varying prices of apparently identical stamps.

For example, the 1d imperf. Bahamas, is often advertised at a certain figure without further qualification, notwithstanding the vital importance of a proper description of this issue. The unused copies on thin paper, which one may purchase at 10s each, are from the "remainder" stock, the actual originals on thick paper—not priced in this catalogue—being unattainable for less than £10.

Collectors had a fine opportunity when Gibbons listed the Barbados imperf. 6d vermilion, 1873 used, at 60s. Only two used copies of this stamp have been discovered; they are not now quoted for in the catalogue! This colony, by the way, shows many increases in Gibbons' valuations, as do also most of the early examples of British Guiana, Canada, Cape of Good Hope, Jamaica, Lagos, New Zealand, Queensland, St. Vincent, Sierra Leone, &c.

However, to hark back to our Consular friend's epistle, what is looked for is not only a definition of the bases on which catalogue prices are fixed, but an explanation as to why certain stamps are invariably to be found at rates much below catalogue quotation. Our friend cites, as examples, the high values of Transvaal K. E. Multiples, and of the Union of South Africa. In these instances, the reason will probably suggest itself to our readers, most of whom appreciate that these high values have been used extensively on parcels and for telegraphic purposes, with the ordinary postal cancellation. While dealers have been willing to dispose of these at rates considerably below catalogue, Gibbons still keeps the quotation at the level which would only be justified were there no special circumstances connected with the use of these stamps.—Stamp Collecting.

GRENADA COLLECTORS TROUBLED.

A collector in this Colony, who has been a valued customer of ours for some years, writes requesting us not to send him any more approval books of stamps, for the reason that he has to pay an import duty of 10% on the total value of each consignment, notwithstanding the fact that probably not more than 20% of the stamps would be purchased, no drawback or rebate being allowed on the 80% returned. Supposing the total value of the book to be £100, before our customer can obtain possession of it he has to pay £10 duty and a penny for the entry form. If, therefore, his purchases amount to £20, which is a liberal estimate, he would be paying a duty of not 10% but 50% on the value of his "imports." Surely a most unjust and iniquitous tax, which has not its equal, as far as our knowledge goes, anywhere else in the world, whether British Colony or Foreign Country. Such a tax cannot yield any substantial revenue and only acts in restraint of trade. Grenada shares with Gibraltar and Trinidad the unenviable distinction of being the only British Colonies where the Postal Administrations have for decades past adopted a hostile and disobliging attitude towards philatelists in general and stamp dealers in particular. Why this should be so it is difficult to understand, as the contributions of stamp dealers to the Colonial revenues by the purchase of stamps which will never be called upon to do postal duty and cannot be redeemed must amount to a considerable annual sum, compared with which the amount realized by an import duty on stamps is insignificant.—Whitfield King's List.

A PHILATELIC DICTIONARY.

By B. W. H. POOLE.

(It has been decided to publish A and B of the Dictionary in booklet form instead of waiting for the entire work to be completed. Illustrations have been added and a very attractive and useful book is the result. When you do any business with this office add 12c for booklet and it will be mailed you when issued. —EDITOR.)

DUC. DI PARMA, PIAC. ECC.—The inscription engraved at the top of the stamps of the 1857 issue of Parma, being an abbreviated form of "Ducati di Parma, Piacenza, eccetera". It means "Duchy of Parma, Piacenza, etc.," and refers to the two main provinces, which with certain annexed states, formed the old Italian Duchy of Parma.

DULOZ, M.—A Parisian engraver who made the clichés for the 1865 stamps of Turkey. They are said to have been made "by a new process, by which cliches in relief were made from dies engraved in recess".

DUMOULIN, LOUIS-JULES.—A French artist born in Paris in 1860. He was responsible for the designs adopted for the stamps of Tunis in 1906.

DUMONT.—A Parisian engraver who engraved the dies for the 1881 stamps of Serbia.

DUPUIS, D.—This name, in microscopic capitals, is shown at the base of the design, on the left, of the stamps issued in 1885 in the Principaliity of Monaco. M. Dupuis was responsible for the design of these stamps, the die for which was engraved in Paris, by M. E. Mouchon.

DURO, A. F.—Senor A. F. Duro was the author of a work entitled "Resena Historico Descriptiva de los sellos de Correo de Espana" (Historical Descriptive review of the Spanish Post Office), a work which was considered of such general utility that the postal authorities allowed Senor Duro to issue a special stamp for the purpose of franking it.

DUPUY & SCHENCK.—The proprietors of a "penny post" operating in the United States in 1846, in connection with which special stamps were issued.

DURAZZO.—A seaport and vilayet of Scutari on the west coast of Turkey. It is a town of considerable antiquity, having been founded in 621 B. C. by the Corinthians and Corcyræans under the name of Epidamnos. The quarrelsome nature of its colonists was the occasion of the Peloponnesian war, and it was the scene of the long struggle between Cæsar and Pompey (48 B. C.). In the 4th century, the Romans changed its name to Dyrrhachium and this town and Brundusium, on the opposite coast of Italy, were the Dover and Calais in the communication between Rome and the Orient. In 1273, it was totally destroyed by an earthquake. Since 1501, it has belonged to Turkey. It has a present population of about 5,000. Since 1909, the stamps used at the Italian Consular post-office established at this port have been overprinted with the name "Durazzo" and values in Turkish currency.

DURHEIM.—A printer of Berne, Switzerland, who lithographed the 1850-52 stamps issued under the Federal Administration.

DUTCH INDIES.—The general name given to the Dutch possessions in the East Indies. These are of considerable extent and comprise the whole of the Sunda Islands, with the exception of a small portion of Borneo and Eastern Timor, together with western New Guinea. They have a total area of 738,000 square miles and a population of about 35½ millions. Since the dissolution of the Dutch East India Company in 1798, these possessions have been administered from Holland by a Governor-General and Council of five (nominated by the Queen) according to the regulations for the government of Netherlands India adopted in 1854. Some of the "outlying" islands are governed by their own Princes, subject to the direction of a Dutch Resident. Postage stamps for the Dutch Indies were first issued in 1864.

LOOK OUT!

For years I have promised collectors some day to print an exhaustive history of Twentieth Century U. S. concerning which I am supposed to have a superficial knowledge. That time has come and I am at work upon it. When it will be finished I do not know, perhaps in 4 or 5 weeks. In any case any collector wishing to be led through the maze that confronts him can be so conducted for the sum of Kindly be patient for the book, I am doing my best to get it finished but send your order early as after printing 1000 copies I intend to smash the type and take a vacation.

Headquarters for the Stamps of the United States and Its Colonies

I am breaking up a fine collection of U. S. and Colonial Stamps. It contains the 1c and 2c Pan American, inverted, O. G., very fine. Departments complete including the high value States. Many rare cut square envelopes, and a fine lot of Revenue Stamps. The U. S. Colonial issues are nearly complete. Mr. Collector, send me a Want List.

H. F. COLMAN,
2ND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C.

DUTTIA.—A State in Bundelkund, Central India, having a population of about 190,000 and an area of 820 square miles. It is now more usually known by its modern name, Datia. Postage stamps for use in this State were first issued in 1893.

DUTY-PLATE.—The plate used in the production of bi-colored stamps upon which the particulars of denomination are engraved. Thus in the case of the current Nyasaland stamps the frame portion is printed from the "duty-plate," while in the case of the stamps of the Cayman Islands the details shown in the name and value tablets are printed from the "duty-plate".

E.—An overprint found upon certain of the early stamps of South Australia used upon the correspondence from the department of the Engineer-in-chief. These special stamps were superseded in 1874 by the general official series upon which the letters "O. S." were overprinted.

II. In 1908 some of the then current stamps of Bavaria appeared with an overprint consisting of a large "E" signifying "Eisenbahn" (Railway). These stamps were intended for the use of railway officials.

EAGLE.—A double-headed eagle with numerals in the upper or lower corners, and without any inscriptions, forms the design of all the stamps of Bosnia issued prior to 1906.

EARLY IMPRESSION.—A philatelic expression having reference to the first printings of stamps—such as the early Mauritius— in which great variations are found owing to the rapidity with which the plates showed signs of wear.

EAST AFRICA AND UGANDA.—Since 1903 the British protectorates of East Africa and Uganda have been amalgamated for postal purposes and the stamps issued from that time are inscribed "EAST AFRICA & UGANDA" and take the place of the separate series formerly in vogue. (See also "British East Africa" and "Uganda".)

EASTERN ROUMELIA.—The province of Eastern Roumelia, or Southern Bulgaria as it is more generally called nowadays, is a portion of the Principality of Bulgaria, having an area of 13,862 square miles, and a population of about one million. It was created by the Treaty of Berlin and was intended to be an autonomous province under the suzerainty of Turkey. Since the successful revolution at the capital, Philippolis, on September 18th, 1885, however, it has been incorporated with the principality under the name of Southern Bulgaria. This arrangement was recognized by the Turks in 1886, when the present Czar (then Prince) of Bulgaria was also appointed "Governor-General of Eastern Roumelia". The first stamps appeared on January 19th, 1881, and consisted of various Turkish stamps overprinted "R O". Later a special set was issued and on September 22nd, 1885, these were superseded by the stamps for Southern Bulgaria, which in turn (1886) gave place to the general issue for the whole of united Bulgaria.

E. B.—An overprint applied to those stamps of South Australia with which the correspondence of the Education Board was franked prior to 1874. After that date the ordinary "O S" stamps were used in this as well as the other Government departments.

EBART BROTHERS.—This was a German firm of paper manufacturers which made the special watermarked paper upon which the Prussian stamps of 1850 were printed.

E. C.—A handstamped surcharge applied to certain locally produced stamps in Mexico about 1915 for use in Guaymas. The letters are an abbreviation for "Ejercito Constitucionalista" meaning Constitutional Army.

E. C. de M.—Another handstamped surcharge of the recent unsettled period of Mexican history issued from San Luis Potosi. The "M" is, of course, for Mexico.

E. C. M.—Another style of Mexican overprint generally ascribed to Matehuala, a small town in the State of San Luis Potosi.

E. C. TRANSITORIO.—An inscription applied as an overprint or forming part of the design of certain recent Mexican stamps. It means "Constitutional Army in Transit".

ECUADOR.—A republic of South America, on the western side of the continent, being that portion of the original republic of Colombia which lies on each side of the equator, and from this geographical situation it received its name. Its total area is about 120,000 square miles, and it has a population of nearly one and a half millions, mostly composed of the descendants of the Spaniards, aboriginal Indians, and Mestizos. Ecuador is divided into fifteen provinces and one territory, while it is governed by a President, Vice-President, a Senate, and a Chamber of Deputies. The history of the republic is briefly as follows: Huoyna Copac, of the chiefs of the Incas, defeated the last Shiro of Quito in 1475, and annexed the kingdom. In 1534, the Spanish generals, Diego d'Almagro and Sebastion de Benalcazar, conquered the territory and it was held by Spain until 1820, when Guayaquil won its independence. In 1822, the Venezuelan general, Sucre, gained the decisive battle of Pichincha, and thus released the country from the last vestige of Spanish authority. Through the influence of Simon Bolivar, the country was incorporated with Colombia, and it was not until 1830 it was constituted a separate republic. Postage stamps were first issued in 1865.

EDWARDUS VII D. G. BRITT. OMN. REX F. D. IND. IMP.—An abbreviated Latin inscription shown around the top of the central portion of the design of all the current stamps of Antigua with the exception of the 5s denomination. Translated literally it means "Edward VII. By the Grace of God King of Greater Britain, Defender of the Faith, and Emperor of India."

EENDRAGT MAAKT MAGT.—This motto appears under the arms of all the postage stamps of the now defunct South African Republic and means "Union is Strength".

EGYPT.—A country of extreme antiquity which enjoyed a high degree of civilisation at the time when the inhabitants of the British Isles were but barbarous savages. Space prevents even the briefest survey of the chief events that marked its ancient greatness and a resumé of the more important facts bearing on its modern history must suffice. The country, which occupies the northeast corner of the African continent, was made part of the Turkish Empire in the latter part of the 12th century, but its history did not become intermingled with that of Europe until 1801 when Napoleon the Great took possession of it. The British succeeded in driving out the invaders and themselves evacuated the country in 1803, after attempting to restore the control of the Sultan of Turkey. Soon afterwards a great struggle for supremacy took place between two rival Turkish parties—the Albanians and the Ghuyz—the former, under the leadership of Mehemet Ali, being victorious. Ali obtained supreme power in 1811, in spite of the attempted intervention of Great Britain, and as ruler he agreed to pay an annual tribute to Turkey of $3,410,460. His successor, Ismail, largely extended the Egyptian dominions so that by 1875, the territory covered an area of nearly one and a half million square miles and Ismail governed nearly sixteen million souls. But, on the heels of conquest, financial embarrassment and general mismanagement followed until matters became so acute that the governments of Great Britain and France intervened. Ismail was forced to abdicate and his son Mohamed Tewfik was appointed as his successor. The Dual Control was abolished by the Khedive in 1883, and since then British influence has increased to such an extent that Egypt is now virtually a part of the British Empire. The present area of Egypt proper is about 200,000 square miles and the population numbers about eight millions. The first postage stamps were issued in 1866.

EGYPTIENNES.—The local name for Egypt or Egyptian as shown upon all the postage stamps of that country issued from 1879 until 1914.

EICHENS, HERR.—A Berlin Engraver who engraved the die for the Prussian stamps issued in November, 1850.

EIN DRITTEL SILBERGROSCHEN.—The inscription shown upon the 3pf stamps of Hanover in use prior to 1863. It means "one-third of a silbergroschen", and was intended to indicate that the stamp could be used for payment of the ⅓ silbergroschen rate as well as for that of 3 pfennig.

EIN REICH. EIN VOLK. EIN GOTT.—The motto shown upon the 5 marks stamps of Germany meaning "One empire, one people, one God".

EJERCITO CONSTITUCIONALISTA.—An inscription shown upon a series of stamps issued in Mexico in 1913 meaning "Constitutional Army". Although the stamps were intended for revenue purposes they were provisionally issued for postal use pending the manufacture of a special series of postage stamps.

ELEPHANT'S HEAD WMK.—Most of the stamps of India issued between 1860 and 1882 are watermarked with a device in the shape of an elephant's head.

ELECTROTYPED.—One of the processes of surface printing by which some stamps are manufactured. An impression from the original engraved die is taken in wax, gutta-percha, or lead, and upon this a thin film of copper or steel is deposited by means of a galvanic battery. The film is then backed with type metal and mounted upon a block and thus forms an exact replica of the original die and is ready for printing from. The printing plate may consist of a number of these electrotypes clamped together or several impressions from the original die may be arranged in a group and one electrotype taken of the whole. This method is the one more usually followed nowadays and electrotypes of this character may be of the size of a pane or even of an entire sheet of stamps.

NOTES ON STAMPS.

By SENEX.

Some of the "long" stamps of South Australia 1906-1913, have gone up marvelously, but doubtless the difficulty of meeting with really fine copies has influenced the pricing, and any of these stamps in perfect used condition should be regarded as exceptionally good things to possess.

The 5s Kangaroo is another stamp not easy to get, with a light postmark—so far as my own experience goes: I have only seen perhaps 18 copies. A fairy-like and spidery postmark on this stamp enhances its value a good deal. Copies of this stamp, together with the 9d and the 2s values, with the earlier watermarks, should be worth attention. These earlier watermarks gradually slip out of ken, the majority that now arrive possessing watermarks of a later type.

I should think the 2d New Zealand official, 1907, although cheaper, is scarcer than the 3d. The 3d is more frequently listed than the 2d.

I observe that, in one list, the 4d New Zealand, 1910, yellow or orange, is dearer in quantity than the 8d. The 8d seems to be coming down, perhaps only temporarily, but the 4d is apparently going up. I think, however, I should prefer the 8d in the long run.

The 1 dollar, U. S. A., 1912, is slightly cheaper in its market price; probably there has been some accumulation.

It is difficult to fix on a price for the 4c British Guiana, 1905, since for two editions the catalogue has been silent. Silence sometimes precedes a rise, and the future price of this stamp may prove to be a surprise.

The 2s 6d current Nigeria with a violet cancellation seems easy to get, but such stamps of this colony as bear a black cancellation seem most in favour.

The current 2s Gold Coast sells at sight, almost, but is not plentiful; the current 2s Sierra Leone seems much more in evidence. Collectors everywhere seem to be on the lookout for these higher value Georgians, and such minor items as the current 2½d Turks' Islands, 2½d St. Vincent, and 4d Gambia, are quickly snapped up.

Of Northern Nigeria, 1912, the 5d, 6d, and 9d stamps do not seem so plentiful as the shilling value. In previous issues the 5d has always been one of the slowest values to arrive.

Shilling values of some of the smaller Colonies seem to accumulate more rapidly than some of the 2½d, 4d, and 5d values; doubtless, blank spaces, in many albums, witness to the absence of the various 2½d Nigerian stamps the 5d Trinidad, 5d and 7d Sierra Leone, and similar elusive sorts.

Of Zanzibar, 1908, the 10c is scarce; the 15c, which has gone up to 9d, is a much easier stamp to meet with, and the 10c should be worth all the seller cares to ask for it—in reason. Perhaps the same remark applies to the 10c, B. E. Africa, 1907, an item which is quickly disappearing. This latter stamp can be got in sets, but the number of sets available seems much more limited than was the case a year ago.

The 20-on-30c Hong Kong, 1891, has been for a long time a familiar article of commerce at a certain price, but the figure for such few stamps as now remain will soon have to be doubled.

The current 4d black Malta, is a new stamp for approval sheets, but cannot be sold cheaply, neither can the current 5d; and the 4½d yellow, also commands its price. The current 6d and 1s Malta (and the 6d and 1s Gibraltar) are also stamps that fetch a good price. Another group of stamps that are generally dear to buy are the piastre values of Cyprus, 1904 or 1912.

Sometimes local collectors will buy Colonial surcharges, in mint condition, on the chance of their becoming rare; if high prices, however, do not obtain within the first few years they part with the stamps. A remark dropped by a correspondent leads me to think that this may happen, in the case of the various 1d-on-2d surcharges on recent issues of Victoria, Tasmania, and Western Australia.

Penny blacks are in much greater demand than they were a few years ago.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

EDITORIAL.

End—Now comes the season for a recapitulatory view of the closing year and the inevitable forecast for the next twelve months. In our salad-days, we always welcomed the opportunity to enlarge upon the "retrospect" and "anticipation" themes, but we do not yield to these promptings so freely nowadays. A few words may take the place of many paragraphs and it is sufficient to say that notwithstanding distractions of gravest kind and unprecedented world conditions, philately emerges triumphantly on all counts. We confidently believe that stamp collecting has proved itself a real benefactor to many during the trying days of the closing year. It has been a soothing agency to resort to for a change of the current of thought and it has brightened many hours that otherwise would have been depressing, indeed. As a mental palliative, philately has revealed a strength that places it in the front rank of easing pursuits. What the future has to reveal none may say with certainty. Those who are in a position to appreciate how deeply the affection for stamps is rooted in the breasts of thousands, know that no strain imposed by stress and strife can eradicate the thought of stamps from the minds of true philatelists.

Certain—Philatelists may face the future unafraid. The attractions of collecting are not ephemeral to a large percentage of present-day enthusiasts. We speak advisedly and our information is based upon a mass of detail which when correlated carries the case. A gentleman of financial standing writes: "It is wonderful how stamps more than hold their own when my other securities are slashed mercilessly." In the Philatelic Gazette, Mr. Henry C. Needham is writing a history of the local posts and their stamps of the United States. For years, Mr. Needham has been gathering data for his great task which he is discharging in a manner to evoke warmest praise. The time he has spent (and money, too) in perfecting his records is a tribute to his belief in philately. We refer to this instance to show that there is sound substance in philately or else acute men of "world minds" would not waste their time on stamps. Some years ago the age of evanescence in philately gave way to a permanent condition.

Fastidious—The watermark has been the cause of much vexation, first and last, because of the difficulty at times of detecting it. A clear marking of the kind is regarded as an advantage in stamp appraisal and its easy visibility is rated as a virtue. We are all wrong, however, and a collector has thrown a monkey-wrench into the works. He was heard to complainingly reject one of the new British colonials because, he said, the watermark was so plainly and deeply impressed that it showed a dark outline on the face of the stamp. The thinner paper of the watermark gave a slightly darkened suggestion to that part of the face of the stamp.

Idea—When we are considering the unusual in collecting, we must file the chap whose collection was 5,000, years ago, 5,000, to-day, and will be 5,000, in years to come. "No more, no less," says he. Let him speak out: "When I began to collect, it was not long before I had a good many thousands of stamps and as my pleasure from my albums did not seem to be in ratio with the number of stamps that I acquired, I decided on an innovation. I scaled down my stamps until they numbered just five thousand. Naturally, I kept the stamps that were the most interesting to me for different reasons, in that number. I decided that I should limit my collecting range to five thousand stamps and now when I place new stamps in my book, I take out as many. I dispose of the rejected specimens in different ways and so far as choiceness and value of my stamps are concerned, they are becoming more apparent as my collection is cultivated. This notion suits me at least, but do not quote me as recommending it for others."

* * *

Strange—The chair is now given to Mr. F. L. Belanger, the Summit, Willoughby, Vermont, for he, too, has a curious tale to tell: "My little daughter happened to be in my railroad telegraph office when one of the freight conductors came in. He conducts a premium mail-order business as a side line and has quite a bit of foreign correspondence and I asked him to save the stamps for my little girl. He said that he had been giving them to a mission house and that after he had sent a number of packages he asked what good the stamps were to them. The reply was to the effect that they stuck all those not torn on a sheet, photographed them, had a half-tone made and printed wall-paper from the half-tone! They add that there is a great demand for this wall-paper and that the proceeds from its sale go to the mission. I have never happened to see any of this wonderful wall-paper and I want to know if any of your readers have. In fact, I never saw any wall-paper printed from half-tones. What kind of story would this mission fellow tell if he caught a fish, say six inches long?"

Candid—"I have a confession to make" says a subscriber, "and when I unburden myself I shall feel relieved. I have been collecting stamps on original covers for some years and the earlier issues of the United States are my especial prey. Most of these stamps are on the folded letter itself as they were used before the time of envelopes. One of the reasons and a dominating one for my interest in covers is that I like to read the old letters. In fact, I have a lot of pre-stamp letters that I keep as much for the letters as for the old postal markings. Three-quarters of a century ago, letter-writing was something of an art and a task not to be engaged in lightly and some wonderful epistles have met my eye. My curiosity is not a morbid one, I know, but it is based upon a desire to feel the pulse of the 'thirty' and 'forty' decades of the last century as much as any appetite for sensationalism. One of my stampless covers, for instance, is postmarked, Covington, Ky., and addressed to Delaware, Ohio. It is dated 'Banks of the Licking,' and begins: 'Let me tell you I have broken bounds to-day, fairly escaped from my torments and their prison chamber for a ride to this old and lovely spot. I am about three miles south of 'La Belle Riviere' as the French poetically name the Ohio, on the west bank of the lovely Licking. Am seated on the corpse of an old fallen forest giant beneath the broad-spreading boughs of its living companion, with paper, ink-horn and feather.' The old writer speaks of Simon Kenton, the whistle of the steam-boat, 'how the railroad follows on the trail of the buffalo,' and other subjects that for me have a bit of romantic interest. A certainty it is that I sometimes pay the price as much for the letter as for the stamp, when it happens to be a stamped missive."

BOOK COVER DESIGN CONTEST

Some eight designs were received in connection with our revenue book cover design contest, but only two are considered deserving of special mention. First honors go to Howard and LeRoy Carroll of Fresno, Calif., and honorable mention is given P. T. Berker, Providence, R. I. The prize offered is therefore awarded as above indicated, and complimentary copies of the book in question will be sent the several contestants.

DO YOUR BIT.

By E. A. SOUTHWICK.

How can stamp collecting be made to help win the war?

The hobby is already doing its "bit" in the natural course of its pursuit, but there is one way in which it can be particularly helpful to the government.

Let every collector be particular to get a set of the current United States stamps In Unused Condition.

If this is done the total sum realized by the government will be a large one, and it will be practically all profit.

Those who can afford to do so should get the set in blocks of four, or, better still, make a specialized collection, including the various shades, plate numbers, etc.

Let dealers stock the stamps in specialized form and keep them before their customers, and send out as many as possible to collectors in foreign countries.

A collection of the current issue would be a very interesting one, for in addition to the regular adhesive letter postage, there are the envelopes, the parcel post tax stamps, the various revenues and the thrift stamps.

There is almost no limit to the amount that could be spent on such a collection, especially if the revenue stamps in unused condition are included, running as they do in values up to $1,000 for a single stamp.

A great many collectors, of course, are already doing this very thing, but there are many who collect only used stamps who perhaps have not thought of making an exception in the case of the present issue in order to help out in the crisis that now confronts the country. Others, who only collect single specimens, might be induced to specialize to some extent in this particular issue.

It is a good subject to bring up for discussion at the stamp club, and exhibitions might be held by the clubs and prizes offered for the best collections of these stamps.

The plan might also be used in propaganda work, for people who are not otherwise interested in philately might be induced to make such a collection through patriotic motives.

To go even farther, the stamps of the countries who are our allies in the war might also be included, in unused condition.

But if you do nothing else, at least get the current set of United States stamps in unused condition. You have nothing to lose through getting the letter postage stamps in this form, as they will always be worth their face value, at least.

A SONG OF SERVICE.

It was during that hour before dawn, when the spiritual quickens all material things with understanding, that I was awakened by a clamor of small voices.

They seemed to come from the pages of my old National Album, lying on a table beside my bed, and I became certain of it, when one voice, raised above the others, protested as follows:—

"Surely no one can claim a greater honor than to be an old Provisional Issue, as I am. My two brothers and I are the only ones of our kind in existence. We—"

"Oh! That's all very well," broke in five voices together, "but we think it more honorable to bear witness of the fact, that not so long ago, a struggling nation bought half a continent. We're proud to be members of the Louisiana Purchase set."

"But think what we represent," chorused the Columbians, "the discovery of a new world!"

"Yes, but whose lot is sweeter than mine? I who bring to your mind the picture of a 'Great Loving Heart'," inquired the Lincoln Memorial Stamp.

And so the medley continued. Each one proclaiming his greatness, the why and the wherefore of his creation.

My attention, however, was soon attracted by the persistency of a wee small voice, testifying:—

"I am nothing but a common used two-cent stamp, and there are millions of others just like me. Indeed, I'm very lucky to be here at all, because I've nothing to boast of. The only thing I can say for myself is that I've just fulfilled my mission in life, that's all."

The voices blended into silence, and as I dozed again, the truth of it all came to me. That the one great and rewardable theme of life, the "sesame" to Eternity, was simply to fulfill our mission in life.

THE 5 CENTS "CONNELL."

It was in December, 1858, that the Executive Council of New Brunswick directed the Postmaster-General to obtain postage stamps, with denominations expressed in the decimal currency of dollars and cents, then gradually superseding the older currency of shillings and pence in the British possessions at the other side of the "pond."

Mr. Charles Connell then had charge of the Post Office; and he, greatly daring, conceived the idea of portraying his own features on one of the stamps—the Five Cents.

So soon as authority was sought, in May, 1860, to issue the new stamps, the Council, noticing of course that one of them did not bear a portrait of Queen Victoria, raised strong objections to this particular stamp being circulated.

During May and June of 1860, a lengthy and interesting correspondence, by letter and telegram, took place between the Council and their P. M. G. with reference to the latter's action; and ultimately the offending stamp was withdrawn, its originator resigning office at the same time.

The "Gibbons'" catalogue lists the stamp without comment—incidentally pricing it at £35 unused—but some authorities consider that it was never issued, whilst others maintain that it was in use during a very few days. The late Mr. A. A. Bartlett asserted, on the authority of colleagues of Mr. Connell, that it was in use. So far as we are concerned, we have never seen or heard of a copy which has undoubtedly done postal service.

The plate consisted of one hundred impressions, arranged in ten rows of ten each, and 5,000 sheets were printed at a cost of £31 15s, the plate itself costing £25. Evidently, judging from the rarity of the stamp, practically the whole of the edition was destroyed.

The colour of the "Connell" is vandyke-brown, the paper being white and the perforation gauging 12.

Imperforate copies exist, and may be regarded as proofs in colour.

So early as 1865, collectors were warned against counterfeits produced by a photographic process, which reproduced almost the exact colour of the stamp; but these, in the unlikely event of any being offered, should be easily distinguishable by reason of their smoothness and flat appearance—the genuine article being printed from a recess-plate, and therefore shewing the design very slightly raised.

Beyond this old "weed", we have neither seen nor heard of any forgery of this rare stamp; but collectors should beware of colour-trials which, when possessing sufficient margins, have been fraudulently perforated.

It should not be difficult to detect these frauds. The genuine stamp is on paper similar to that used for the other values and the colour is, as we have stated, a vandyke-brown; but the colour trials are in varying shades and tones of brown, from a comparatively pale tint to a blackish brown, and none of them is, we believe, exactly similar in colour to the real stamp. The paper, also, of the colour-trials is thinner, sometimes very thin, and the print not infrequently shews through to the back.

The collector, bearing in mind these two tests—especially that of the paper, which is the easier one—should be able to avoid acquiring a perforated colour-trial, in the belief that it is a genuine "Connell."—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Branch Office, Beverly, Mass.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding varieties and new issues gratefully received. Address PERCY McG. MANN, 720 Liberty Bldg., Broad and Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. Numbers in parentheses indicate the previous issue of the WEEKLY in which information germane to the subject was published.

We notice that many of our chronicles are being reprinted in other, especially English, journals, without due credit being given to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, and subsequently printed by other journals, which give credit to the journal which lifted from our Chronicle. We expect our contemporaries to be more honorable after reading this, because we give full credit to every journal from which we lift our news, with the expectation that they will return the courtesy.

We must advise our readers that the Editor of the New Issue Chronicle is not conducting an information bureau. We cannot pass upon the genuineness of stamps, separate issues, tell what stamps are worth, give addresses of correspondents, and the like, as part of the business of editing and compiling this Chronicle. It is recommended that such questions be submitted to dealers, who give their time and services for a small fee, or if stamps are submitted to this department for opinion or classification, patrons should accompany their sendings with 5c for each stamp submitted, with a minimum fee of 25c. This does not refer to any new issue which has not been chronicled herein.

This Chronicle covers the new postage stamp issues, including envelopes and postal cards, of all countries; advertising cancellations and commemorative ditto of all countries; United States revenue stamps; including all varieties, postal information, quantities issued, plate numbers; where possible. We cannot undertake the chronicling of revenue stamps of other countries, nor the listing of telegraph stamps, excepting when they have some bearing on the postal issues. Please keep these facts in mind when writing to us.

UNITED STATES.—(1405)—Several inquiries have reached us as to the plate numbers of the 30c unwatermarked perforated 10. It seems to us that these inquiries are put for the purpose of assisting collectors in the locating of the stamps at the post offices throughout the country. The inquirers request that the information be presented in the WEEKLY. Plate number collectors should have no difficulty in locating the plate numbers in their lists, because it is evident that the original series of four plates for the 30c stamps, which were originally issued in 1914, watermarked perforated 12, were still current at the Bureau in March of 1917, no other plates of the 30c stamps having up to that time been used, therefore, one plate number as well as another will locate any of the recent watermarked, unwatermarked or changed perforation varieties.

Mr. Nathan Cobe has shown us a specimen of the current 2c envelope stamp in which the word "POSTAGE" is minus the letter "T". Mr. Clarence P. DeKay shows us a variety of the 1c oval envelope stamp in which the word "UNITED" is minus the letter "U". These are interesting varieties.

(Confederate States)—The Albermarle Stamp Collector states that a Confederate Provisional used at Hallettsville, Texas, August 21, 1863, has been discovered recently on a letter in the Land Office of the State of Texas at Austin. The stamp was used for 10c postage and was made from a handstamped impression of the Hallettsville postmark with "10—Paid" in the middle, instead of a date, on blue paper, cut to shape and used as an adhesive. The stamp is pencancelled on a folded letter dated August 11, 1863, and addressed to Stephen Crosby, Comp. of Gen'l Land Office, Austin, Texas.

BOLIVIA.—(1407)—The Harbor Stamp Co. advise of the receipt of a used copy of the new 2c stamp mailed at Oruro, October 12th. Our original chronicle of the stamp placed the date of issue at La Paz as November 8th.

CANADA.—(1408)—Mrs. E W. Oughtred sends us very valuable information regarding the 3c red and 3c brown (1Tc) plate numbers, and we certainly are grateful for the information and extend many thanks to our kind informant. Mrs. Oughtred writes:

"I have, I believe, 3cts red and 3cts brown (1Tc) plate numbers complete in my collection. Plates Nos. A1 to A14, inclusive, of the 2c+1Tc red are Die I. Plates Nos. A15 and A16 2c+1Tc red are Die II. Plates Nos. A1 and A2 2c+1Tc brown are Die I. Plates Nos. A15 to A46, inclusive, 2c+1Tc brown are Die II. I have both dies in the brown coils, but I think only Die I in red coils. The compound perf. (12x8) 2c+1Tc red was only from plates Nos. A1 and A2, I believe. If that is so, only Die I would occur with compound perf. I think I have not got any red coils Die II, unless among used copies and I haven't had time to look over them. I am afraid I'm rather late with this information."

To the last sentence we must remark it is never too late to supply reliable information.

COLOMBIA, REPUBLIC OF.—(1380)—We have seen the new stamps which are just beginning to arrive on mail from this country, and have also seen the entire series. The colors are as given in our Chronicle for June 9th. In submitting some of the new stamps Mr. Dunning points out that the list in the supplement to the Standard Catalogue is not quite correct as to the colors, the 4c postage being violet instead of orange and the 4c AR being brown instead of carmine. We note our own list, (June 9th), gives the 1c postage as yellow; we find this is yellow-bistre.

FRANCE.—(1407)—The 2c+3c and 35c+25c Charity stamps chronicled in our issue of December 15th, were issued on October 27th, according to Mr. Franz Reichenheim in the London Philatelist.

GOLD COAST.—According to the Postage Stamp, El Eco Postal reports, on the authority of a contemporary, the 6d King Edward (1908) with error "GOLD GOAST" in the duty plate.

GREAT BRITAIN.—(1407)—The West-End Philatelist publishes the following:

"There are many minor but interesting varieties now occurring in the current stamps of our own country and wide variations in shade of the penny denomination have been apparent to most. Differences in printing on both the half-penny and penny denominations are so noticeable as to give credence to the theory that two dies are now in use."

HAYTI.—(1400-1403)—We have an interesting letter from Mr. A. W. Dunning who informs us that he has several Haytian stamps with the "GL. O. Z." overprint which are not listed by the Standard Catalogue, in addition to those mentioned in our Chronicles of September 15th and October 27th, and also states that he has several of these 1914 Provisionals in pairs, one stamp without overprint, similar to the one we mentioned upon the word of Major Bishop in our Chronicle of November 17th (By the way, we mentioned No. 504 with this overprint as being unlisted, in the November 17th chronicle, and believe this should have been No. 501).

Under the circumstances, as Mr. Dunning writes that he has used copies of the unlisted stamps, we deem it to be necessary to give a revised list of the entire issue or issues, as the Standard Catalogue in the supplement to the 1917 edition deletes some of the varieties, while Mr. Dunning has the proof of their existence. In the following list, the numbers following the stamps refer to the Standard Catalogue numbers of the stamps which were overprinted, while an asterisk (*) indicates that the stamp or variety is not listed in the catalogue.

(1402)—In our Chronicle for November 10th, 1917, we listed a new provisional 2c (gold) stamp for this country, stating that it was made by surcharging a rectangular frame contianing a large "2" in the center and the letters "O P" in the upper corners on the 1pi stamp of 1906. We have never seen this stamp and do not know that it was issued. Mr. Bert E. Cobb, manager of the Harbor Stamp Co., advises us of the receipt of a provisional 2c stamp similar to the one listed on November 10th, 1917, but with the letters "S D" instead of "O P" in the upper corners of the surcharge; this being received on a letter from Port au Prince under date of November 3rd.

Advertising Chat

—The B. H. Fehlig Co. announces that the firm is somewhat delayed in issuing the first number of the contemplated house organ. The delay was unavoidable and all requests for sample copies will be honored as soon as possible.

—J. C. Astwood, manager of the Beaver Stamp Co., is in the service. At present he is in the barracks at Winnipeg, Man.

—The George W. Linn Co., Columbus, O., has taken a new office in the Huntington Bank Building, one of the largest and finest office buildings in the city, directly opposite the state capitol building.

—W. M. Lester, Berkeley, Cal., calls our attention to a matter that is deserving of some publicity. Nearly a year ago he sent two rare stamps with the money necessary for repairing the same to a Massachusetts dealer who makes a specialty of this work. Mr. Lester writes:—"So far I have been unable to get back either stamps or money and I even offered to let him keep the stamps if he would return the money advanced." This is shabby treatment, but the moral is plain, "Do your own repairing."

—A novel idea. A. J. Bickel of Goshen, Ind., has prepared a card upon which are listed five bargain offers, and these are sent out in connection with correspondence. There is a time limit on the offers and we can see wherein the idea is a good one. It is a kind of follow up on advertising that is bound to bring results.

ITALY.—(1381)—Dr. Emilio Diena sends copies of the 20c stamp printed on paper with a crown watermark to each stamp, to the Postage Stamp. The 20c chronicled by us on June 16th, 1917, was unwatermarked; this is Scott's No. 111.

ITALY.—The Albermarle Stamp Collector publishes the following:

"No. 75 of the same paper (Il Bollettino Filatelico) records a sensational discovery regarding a common Italian stamp. Heretofore it has been an axiom that all Italian stamps since the De la Rue prints of 1863 have been perforated solely and only 14, with the exception of certain special issues of unusual size and of the three 15 centesimi stamps printed by the Officina Calcografica Italiana. Comes now Signor L. S. Mazza and reports to an astounded world that among a large lot of Italian stamps sorted out by him, he finds a copy of the 20 centesimi orange-yellow of 1879, perforated 11½! He could hardly believe his eyes, but there was no getting away from it. The copy was perfect, clean and well-centered, with the dimensions and margins of the normal stamps, so that there could be no question of a re-perforation or any such trick; the cancellation reads 'Milano'. The proud discoverer, unwilling to trust the evidence of his eyes, submitted the specimen to all the expert friends he could muster; all had to admit, after examining it from all points of view, that it was indubitably genuine, in spite of the fact that nobody had ever even heard of such a perforation. So far no one has any explanation to offer except that possibly one row or an entire sheet might have remained imperforate accidently and been perforated privately to remedy the defect. It is quite certain that this stamp cannot be the only one of the kind; at least a row, if not a sheet, must have been perforated in this manner. Doubtless there will now be a grand perforation hunt in Italy and possibly other freaks may be forthcoming. It is apparent that even the most ordinary and commonplace stamps may bring forth surprises if one looks carefully."

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS
Portland, Me. Beverly, Mass.

ST. VINCENT.—(1382)—The Postage Stamp publishes the following: "Mr. Roessler says of the war stamp second printing, withdrawn October 9, 1916, that 36,000 were printed, 9,000 of them being overprinted at the Government Printing Office at Kingstown, but he has no information as to where the balance was overprinted."

Does Mr. Roessler mean that the Government Printing Office at Kingstown only acknowledges the overprinting of 9,000 of the entire issue, according to his figures, of 36,000? We rise to honorable enquire, as Matsumuro Musho would say!

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—(1398)—The West-End Philatelist publishes the following:

"Our publishers have shown us examples of the 1d and 3d 'WAR TAX' series both distinctly doubly overprinted. It would seem that only part of a sheet of the lower denomination exists thus, whilst a pane of 3d value was found. On the latter stamp the 'double' is most distinct."

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—(1408)—Mr. Geo. A. James writes:

"Both the ½d and 1d of 1913 were issued in coils perf. horizontally. I have both jointed and ordinary pairs purchased of . . . . . I think they were issued in 1914."

THE "TOBAGO GREEN."

By J. M. Jacobs.

"You can never tell what's in a man," my old tutor used to say, "until it comes out." I'm thinking of Turner.

Last Monday he took me mysteriously aside.

"Would you care to do me a great favor?" he asked.

"Only too delighted," I replied, with a sinking heart.

"The fact is," he began hesitatingly, "I want to raise some . . ."

"So do I," I interrupted.

He shook his head and smiled.

"I have some valuables of no use to me," he explained. "Would you mind helping me to dispose of them?"

I breathed more freely.

"With pleasure," said I, "if you need my aid."

He took out a green postage stamp! It was unused; bore Queen Victoria's head; was issued at Tobago; and of the face value of twopence-halfpenny.

I was annoyed at the joke.

"Take it to Cook's," I suggested.

He laughed, and handed me a cutting from the Philatelic Times. I read as follows:—"A 'Tobago Green' was sold at Christie's yesterday for £53. There are only three known specimens in existence."

"And this makes the fourth," he enlightened me. "My late father-in-law was a doctor in Trinidad, and I found it among some old papers of his."

Upon looking closer at it I discovered that "twopence" was mispelt "toopence." And there were men walking about in our midst, apparently, who were willing to pay £52 19s. 9½d. for the mistake!

"What I wanted to ask you," went on Turner coaxingly, "was whether you could possibly manage to take it to Jumbo's, in the Strand, at one o'clock tomorrow, and sell it for what he will give. Of course, I wouldn't trouble you, only I have to go to Manchester first thing in the morning."

I couldn't help laughing at the inadequacy of the excuse.

I was there. The sight of my tiny stock-in-trade caused something like a sensation. Old Jumbo himself came out with a microscope, and was quite friendly. He proposed that I should leave it in his charge for a day or two, when he would make me an offer. I thanked him for his kindness, which I told him I wouldn't forget to mention to Sharples & Marx over the way. The mention of his great rivals brought him to his knees. In the end I left the place, richer by some crisp Bank of England notes.

When I came down in the morning I was gratified to find that I had helped to make history, for in my "Daily Miracle" I came across the following interesting item:—

"Mr. Jumbo, the well-known stamp dealer, has just purchased a 'Tobago Green,' of which there are only three other copies known to be in existence."

But I was startled when in the provincial column of the same paper I lighted on:—

"A splendid copy of the rare 'Tobago Green' turned up in Manchester to-day."

And I began to feel fairly creepy when I read in a rival organ, which I picked up in the train:—

"Messrs. Sharples & Marx have just acquired a 'Tobago Green' in a fine state of preservation. It is believed to be the only one in London."

Was I dreaming, or was it raining "Tobago Greens"? That was the question I all but flung at Turner, as soon as ever I could set foot in his office.

He seemed the least bit embarrassed.

"The fact is, my dear fellow, I went to Manchester to sell a 'Tobago Green'."

"The deuce you did!"

"Mary went to Brighton to sell a 'Tobago Green'."

"What th—" I stammered.

"George went to Birmingham—to sell a 'Tobago Green'." He eyed me quizzingly. "In short," he beamed, "thanks to you and one or two others of our good friends, we sold ten 'Tobago Greens' yesterday."

"Have no fear," he smiled reassuringly, "they're genuine enough. Only I didn't find one 'Tobago Green' but a dozen."

A light began to dawn on me.

"But why all this mystery and bother? Why didn't you take them to a dealer in the ordinary way?"

"Well, you are dense," said he. "Don't you see?"

Then I saw.

"You can have the other two for ten pounds apiece, if you like," he added.

"No, thanks," I cried hastily.

"Well," he said, "we're getting up a little commemorative festival for tomorrow night. You'll make one?"

And I did.—London Opinion.

A SAMPLE

letter, such as we receive from sore-head dealers who haven't the goods we offer; being a dastardly attempt to slur us and interfere with our business:

"If you will take the advice of an old time dealer and care to receive the same in the friendly spirit that it is sent to you, I should like to go on record in saying that you are doing yourself a great deal of harm and also creating a considerable amount of adverse comment from others by your advertisements in MEKEEL'S, especially on page 347 which is in front of me.

"Take for instance the 2c imperf. vertical coil of which you offer a line strip of four for $2. You know perfectly well that this strip can easily be made from the unperforated sheet and also that the plate number paste-up could easilly be manufactured some way and could never be told and the same applies, of course, to the 4c of 1908. That you have the coils there is no doubt and also that they are of no use to stamp collectors, there is no doubt, as the same thing can be bought in unperforated sheets and I think it is up to you to say so in your ads.

"The 30c unwatermarked that you still continue to advertise, of course, has been exploded. I know considerable about your dealings with another party not far from Philadelphia, and I should think that the best thing to do if you wish to sell these stamps unwatermarked, is certainly not to advertise them after they have been pretty well condemned.

"I have nothing to say about the 2c, 1908, re-issue, perf. 11, except that we have sold many blocks of four here at $2 a block and many single copies at 50c.

"Do not think that I am trying to knock your business as I am not, only, being perhaps the largest specialist of Twentieth Century United States Stamps in the World, I hate to see Collectors led down the wrong path."

It will be seen that the "old time dealer" did not show the "friendly spirit" that he woofed of, while the only "adverse comment" that we know of comes from our contemporary dealers.

The 2c imperforate vertically coiled stamps were so issued by the United States Government, and we understand that collectors want all Government issues. We guarantee them accordingly, and our sales have been quite large and satisfactory. Collectors had better beware of the man who claims to be the "largest specialist of Twentieth Century United States Stamps in the World" if he suggests the collecting of the imperforate sheet stamps cut up to represent coils. Ours are coils and we advocate their collection as Government issues. The sore-head probably passed these by in years gone by, and now he excuses himself by saying, we suggest, "They're legitimate Government issues all right, but who wants them when they can be so easily imitated." But who wants the imitation? And we all want the real thing as long as they are representative of the Post Office issues.

As for the 30c unwatermarked perforated 10, the writer of the above quoted letter is ready to believe anything that is told him about these stamps, especially if he can, like the others who criticize them, thereby establish a fact that they were never issued. He speaks about them being "exploded" and "condemned" while the makers of the United States stamps have stated that they made them. A history of these stamps is soon to appear, and everybody can use his own judgment, without considering the opinions of would-be expertizers.

And as for the 2c, 1908, re-issue, perf. 11, we don't care what the dealers sold these for, our prices are based on our own supply, and we know that they are not being sold now at 50c each.

The dealer who indited the above quoted letter should have had better sense, if he is the "largest specialist" which he claims to be, than to show that he is trying to interfere with our smaller business, a business which has no cause to be envious of any large dealer.

The slur about our dealings with "another party" is a "bootleg" paragraph—it is not necessary for us to state that we know nothing about what the author of the paragraph attempts to infer.

We sell only Government issues and we guarantee them. We do not misrepresent any stamps we sell, nor do we urge anybody to buy anything they don't want. We sell what the collector wants. Our Guarantee is our bond, and our honor is in back of our goods. We trade under our own good name, and do not rely upon any other to fortify us. Our judgment is sound and collectors have come to rely upon it. Courtesy is our by-word, we extend it to all, whether one purchases 5c worth or $500 worth. We give fair treatment to everyone, and expect it in return. With these principles, our business is rapidly growing.

Can we help you in the growth of your collection? Our prices are right. You need the following to help complete your collection:
